MR. AND MRS. DAVID A. McNEAL

• • • • • •

Judith Kellermann, David McNeal spoke nuptial vows here Saturday

During a double-ring wedding ceremony, Miss Judith A. Kellermann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Kellermann of Bellevue, O., became the bride of David A. McNeal, son of Mrs. Dorothy McNeal and the late Clark McNeal. Rev. M. L. Jones read the marriage vows Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Methodist church before an altar decorated with two vases of white gladioli.

Mrs. R. W. Courson, aunt of the groom, played the organ for the nuptial music and as her son Tim sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length, empire-styled gown with a court train. The bodice and the train were of Alencon lace and the skirt of silk organza. Imported silk illusion veiling fell from a pillbox crown re-embroidered with pearls and Alencon lace to match the gown. She carried a colonial bouquet of orchids and sweetheart roses.

Mary Kellermann, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Kristin McNeal, sister of the groom, and Jane Studebaker, the latter of Washington, D. C., were the bridesmaids. Their floor-length, pale blue gowns were empired styled with white trim along the bodice lines. Their pillbox crowns were designed by the bride. They carried colonial bouquets of blue and white daisy poms.

Clark McNeal of Iowa Falls served his brother as best man. The groomsmen were Ron Courson of Des Moines, and Frank Jones of Detroit, Mich., cousins of the groom. Candle-lighters were John Radtke of Jefferson, Wis., and Sherman McNeal, brother of the groom. The men of the wedding party wore oxford grey strollers and white carnation boutonnieres.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served in the church parlors.

Both the newlyweds are 1967 graduates of Iowa State university, Ames, the groom with a B. S. degree in landscape architecture and the bride with a B. S. degree in child development and elementary education. Boh thave employment in their respective fields at Seattle, where they will make their home.

Western corn rootworm now HERE? Better believe it, FFA boys warn

Western corn rootworm HERE? In the Belmond farming area? Belmond High school's Future Farmers of America say, "You'd better believe it!"

This small, white villain with a black head and black dot on his tail, so you hardly know if he's coming or going, is clearly on his way into this territory, the FFA boys warn.

The pests were in evidence in the FFA demonstration plot near the A & W Drive-in last Thursday when an inspection for the larva was made by Larry Swenson, plot chairman, along with Irvin Meier, Eugene Pals and others.

This plot had been treated with Aldrin at planting time, but the buggers were there, all the same.

Keith Carlson, vo-ag instructor and FFA advisor, says the root worm cycle is rapidly approaching the pupa and beetle stages. Examples of both were located, but the pest was mainly present in the larva stage.

Mr. Carlson advises, "When corn is too high to cultivate, it is too late to control the rootworm. Then, you can only hope that the crop escapes wind — for the root systems are so weakened that the stalks go down with little encouragement."

He urges that farmers should keep a look-out for the next two or three weeks, inspecting for rootworm beetles as they attack the corn silks, which reduces pollination.

The Future Farmers have samples of the larva and mature insect at the vo-ag building to help with identification; or Mr. Carlson says he will be glad to lend assistance in identification, if a call is made to him.

THIS WAS THE GAY WAVE that "Gradma" Anna Gabrielson gave well-wishers (and the cameraman for the Mason City Globe-Gazette) as the plane taking her and five companions to Chicago for a hop-off to England departed from the Mason City airport a week ago Wednesday. Specific reports haven't been received as to Mrs. Gabrielson, Grandson Wilmer Gabrielson and his wife Dorothy, or Dorothy's sister, Susie Halfpop; but we heard that Wilmer's sons, Joel and Mickey, at their Norwegian destination believed they were getting pretty well lined up with a couple of girl friends. So things seem to be progressing acceptably.

Keiths touring the Isles—

Charlie writes of British visit

BY CHARLES KEITH

We are becoming more accustomed this British weather, which certainly is different from ours. When the temperature gets into the 70's (this is written July 15) they are reaching heat wave territory.

Probably one of the most interesting places to visit in Scotland is the town of Ayr, birthplace of the poet Robert Burns. The small cottage with its thatched roof is still intact. The 17th Century appurtenances inside would seem rather crude to us.

There was no central heating, no running water, none of conveniences we associate with home today. A Burns museum, which was built close to the house, contains most of his original writings and many pictures.

Gardens and flowers are a way of life over here, so no effort was spared to make the surroundings attractive.

Visit fishing coast

The nearby airport at Aresturik is a huge operation. We drove down the coast to Lendalfoot; fishing provides a livelihood for most of the people and at one place we saw something I haven't seen for a long time, an old fisherman taking care of fish nets which were hanging on drying racks.

They fish for salmon, mackerel, crabs, lobster, and probably much more. I've read about the salt and the sea and it was written all over the faces of the people who fish for a living.

The radio and television business is much different than ours. On some radios I have noticed two wave bands — one called medium wave, from 200 to 550, and one called long wave, from 1000 to 2000. The television has two channels, with one more coming if you have a special antenna.

Little TV advertising

Only one band has advertising and neither one on in the daytime unless for a sporting event. A person can even miss commercials after being away from home a month.

I watched two documentories on television, one was called, "The Long Hot Summer" and was filmed in the Negro district of Cleveland. It certainly held up a bad image of America.

The other was "The Empire of the Dollar" and showed in a good light the British appreciation of America.

The old fashioned British grocery store has vanished and has been replaced by a store which is as American as apple pie and ice cream. You name it, they have it. Anything from Kellogg's cornflakes, or Rice Krispies, which I had for breakfast this morning, Colgate, Gillette, Kemstrand, Multigraph, Ford, General Motors, and Chrysler are all here.

"Eat, sleep American"

I heard them say, "We sleep on an American mattress, put on an American skirt, eat an American breakfast, turn the key in a Yale lock and off to work we go in an American factory."

The American invasion has created 52,000 jobs in Great Britian, has brought up the workers' standards to where he can't be told in appearance from the boss. American business thinking is 10 years ahead of British and America spends four times as much on research as all of Europe put together.

Now there is that British Medicare, everybody is covered on everything except for a small payment towards eyeglasses and false teeth when one gets a little older. Your ticket of admission into it is a birth certificate, your exit from it is a death certificate.

Medicare used, abused

It is the most used and the most abused service offered by the government. I asked a boyhood friend of mine if there was any literature on Medicare and he said, "No, it covers everybody and everything."

Last Saturday we left Kilmarnock and went to Glasgow, where we saw the new Q4, which will replace the Queen Mary; then to Lock Lomond, Falkirk, Sterling, Dallander and home, quite a motor trip for Scotland.

Lock Lomond merits everything that has ever been written about it. It is a long narrow lake set among some hills. The bank on the side of the road away from the lake is covered by lovely ferns. Spruce and Scotch pine trees are in abundance and every now and then a friendly small cottage beckons the traveler with a sign saying "Bed and Breakfast".

Noticed the tax rates on radio and television. If you own a television you pay F5 ($14.00), a car or house radio F 1-5/-($2.85) each.

At home we always talked about Southern hospitality but Scotch hospitality doesn't take a back seat to anything. Everybody seems ready with a cup of tea and if you have a sweet tooth they have fancy pastry to delight your heart.

NORTH IOWA Peach OF THE WEEK!

These four "Peaches" were caught in the act as they were preparing for the annual Ridiculus Day Saturday in Lake Mills.

Each year Lake Mills merchants dress up in whacky attire and move merchandise out on the sidewalk for a crazy day of business. The day will be complete with a parade at 2:30 and free watermelon at 9 p.m. sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Get a closer look at these Peaches Saturday as Lake Mills celebrates another Ridiculus Day of shopping bargains.

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 48 NO. 45 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1967 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — 10 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

One thing about being editor, ad-man and printer all rolled into one which hadn't occured to me when I started the job was the undeniable fact that there's no one else to blame for the mistakes in the paper. Hopefully, there aren't many.

On the other hand there's little time to make mistakes outside of office hours, since office hours seem to be nearly 24 hours a day.

The help and co-operation I've been receiving from advertisers, subscribers and people with news stories is greatly appreciated. Thanks' Thanks to the Independent's staff for pitching in to get the job done, too.

The Duane Meinders' new son arrived Tuesday morning at 9:07. Needless to say Papa Meinders is pretty near bumping the ceiling as he floats around the Independent's back shop. Despite an item appearing in this column several week's ago, after D. M. had taken a well earned vacation, he was sorely missed for the several hours he kept wife Sheryl company at the hospital Tuesday a. m.

The Mainstreeters and the whole staff of the Independent offer congratulations to the new parents. Duane is a real asset to our organization and we're sure he and his wife are going to find real joy with young Chris. You'll no doubt get a cigar if you have occasion to stop in the Independent back shop some time soon.

Chamber Secretary Ellis Elliott had been getting very remarkable mileage out of the ceremonial "ribbon" used in the ribbon-cuttings that have initiated so many local business firms into resumed careers being loused up by the tornado. He made it under stood that the "cutting" was figurative, not literal, so the ribbon could be used over and over again. Lloyd Buterbaugh may be getting a boost in dues as a result of unthinkingly snipping the ribbon asunder last week when Lloyd's Hardware got the treatment. Ellis says he isn't going to sue; but he's seriously thinking of making Lloyd, himself, sew the thing together.

Mayor Bob Misner, Chamber President Erv Redder and the only Mainstreeter left, for the present, attended the annual Governor's Day stag at Clear Lake last Friday evening. Hobnobbing with the politicians was an interesting experience for all of us.

We had a brief visit with Gov. Harold Hughes and a quite lengthy one with Senator Jack Miller. Topic of conversation: the tornado and the remarkable strides taken on the road to recovery.

Initial invitations were issued for our appreciation days this fall and favorable, though not definite, response was the rule. The politicos know about Belmond and hopefully there may yet be some "good news" for this community from government sources.

The Kiwanis service organization is attempting to organize a chapter of that worthy group in this community. To date approximately 15 men have expressed interest. Twenty-five members are needed to receive a charter from the international organization.

A team of Kiwanians from Webster City has been doing an excellent job of explaining the good works of the Kiwanis to local men.

The local people and members from Webster City are meeting each Monday noon at the Town House. Any man in this community who feels he might be interested in such a service club is invited to attend.

Sometimes in the past things at the courthouse have gotten pretty "hot". At least the suggestion has been made that the collars of certain individuals were making their necks uncomfortably warm. All this has changed now and it is hoped that county personal and those persons finding it necessary to transact business at the courthouse will find it easier not to lose their "cool".

The treasurer's, auditor's, clerk's, sheriff's and recorders offices last week were air conditioned and the happy results noted above were in evidence when I made a visit to the county seat Friday.

The board of supervisors authorized the installations and are to be congratulated. Elected officials are only human and hot weather doesn't bring out the best in any of us. Efficiency and comfort go hand in hand. No complaints from us on this smart move.

Harold Erdmand, top salesman for McLaughlin Chevrolet, has often been known to play a practical joke on one of his co-workers but last Wednesday night the chickens came home to roost. It seems that Mrs. Bill Grimes was interested in ONE church pew at the Immanuel Reformed church auction last week and that Harold upon hearing the auctioneer knocking them down for $1 or less said "Give her three, I'll buy."

Mrs. Grimes wasn't too sure she had use for one pew let alone three. The gang at Chevrolet got together Wednesday evening, got Harold away from home on some pretence, and set up the pews on Harold's back lawn.

Then they called in the neighbors and other friends and held "church" services complete with minister, choir and congregation. Harold arrived home to find nearly 80 people in his new "flock." It developed into a fine neighborhood get-together with music, fun and pot-luck refreshments for all.

Church men tear it down—

Gone: 'church that nobody wanted'

"The church that nobody wanted" is gone. It took some doing, but it's gone.

When the Immanuel Reformed church members completed construction of their fine, new, brick edifice this past year the consistory was left with one more church on hand than was needed.

First the official body advertised the old church for sale on a removal basis. There was no response.

Then they tried to find someone who would pay a reasonable amount for the privilege of tearing it down and keeping the salvage. One poor bid was received on this basis; several others that entailed salvaging only particular items, with dismantlement of the church not included.

Two weeks ago Monday, the consistory members decided that only one solution was left. Men of the church would have to raze it, themselves, and put the salvage up for sale.

Anywhere from a dozen to two dozen or more men and boys at a time put in wearisome hours stripping the old structure of valuable items and material in preparation for an auction sale advertised for Monday of last week.

Some of the timbers from the original church were as many as 80 years old, so lumber salvage was limited to the new wing on the east, flooring, windows and doors — plus pews, stained glass windows and other salable items of equipment.

When the hammer had fallen for the last time at the auction, the church was $2,135.35 to the good — which the consistory considered quite satisfactory.

The stained glass windows brought $318, one round one selling for $105 individually. The pews didn't do so well. Many of them sold for only a dollar each; some in disrepair for only 50 cents.

But by and large, the sale was a good one. Nelson Gravel company was engaged to bring its demolition ball and reduce the remnants of the old church to rubble. When a good, quiet night comes along, neighboring fire companies have agreed to supervise while the remaining debris is burned.

One small problem produced by destruction of the church caused temporary concern. Pigeons that had longed lived in the belfry fluttered forlornly overhead; and there was some concern that they might try to find a substitute abode in the new church.

Young Dwight Slining reduced the dejected pigeon population to a very considerable extent with rifle fire. Getting the message, the rest now seem to have moved on to a neighboring farm.

Ten dollar games — Kyle Menenga, LeClair and Martha Ruiter, Goldfield; Mrs. Warren Thompson.

The seventy-five dollar cover-all game had no winner and next week's jackpot will increase to $100. Secretary Elliott notes that numbers will be called until a winner comes forth this Saturday so a big throng of players is anticipated.

Games are played at the City Park beginning at 9:15 and free cards are available at participating business places. Saturday night's games will be the last of the current series.

Hello, World

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Fekkers of Meservey are the parents of a baby boy born July 29. He weighed 7 lb. 12 oz. and has been named Todd Dean.

Christopher Alfred is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Duane Meinders for their baby son born August 1. He weighed 8 lb. 4 oz.

More than 30 interested persons attended a meeting concerned with establishment of a river park in the area south of the Main Street bridge last Friday evening at the library basement. Ten or more organizations were represented and enthusiasm for the project was great.

Paul Jensen from the staff of Wallace and Holland, engineering consultant for the city, was in attendance to answer questions and offer suggestions. He informed the group that first steps to be taken should probably be establishment of a master plan for the area and optioning of portions of land most likely to be developed first.

The concensus of the group was that these two steps should be implemented as quickly as possible and a committee to raise funds toward that end was named. Margret Thompson, Sally Lanphere and Mary Garvin are on the fund-raising group with Ethel Brunes acting as treasurer. Clair Christie volunteered to serve as co-ordinator with the planning and zoning commission and the city council.

It is announced that an anonymous $100 contribution has already been received and that further contributions from groups or individuals would be accepted by Miss Brunes at the First State bank.

Cost of the first steps toward the river park project was estimated at approximately $2,000. It was emphasized that these funds would be only for these specific uses and that it was necessary to accomplish the master plan before various federal, state and county funds could be applied for.

Further details concerning the fund and steps being taken toward Belmond's river park will be available next week.

Paymaster, Haapala included—

ACCO Seed new name for Tomco

Tuesday of this week marked the end of one era and the start of a new one in Belmond with announcement that Tomco Genetic Giant is being "phased out" as an operating division of Anderson, Clayton and Company and as of Aug. 1 became the ACCO Seed Division.

But as the name identified with the business developed here by R. B. Tompson — and a number of associates, in recent years — was relegated to the past, a promising future was outlined by visiting Anderson, Clayton officials for ACCO Seed Division and for Belmond as its headquarters.

Executives of the Houston-based industrial-agricultural complex that is Anderson, Clayton were: John L. Fichter, Houston, Tex., vice president in charge of the agricultural and industrial operations; Ben R. Barbee, president of the Agricultural Products Division; and Robert L. Horton, vice president of the same division. The latter two gentlemen are from Abilene, Tex. All were present Tuesday for the luncheon tendered Belmond business, professional and civic leaders.

With adoption of the new name, the ACCO Seed Division will transfer the division accounting department here from Plainview, Tex. Up to this time, Belmond has served as the divisional management headquarters and direction of research for both Tomco (now ACCO) Seeds and Paymaster Seeds, another Anderson, Clayton operation, has been under Dr. Harold G. Loden, who moved here in early June.

Vernon Dippel, former office manager for Nelson Gravel company, was recently added as an employee of the local accounting department. A cost accountant is also to be employed for the division office.

It was made known at Tuesday's luncheon that Anderson, Clayton has just acquired the assets of another hybrid corn company to be incorporated as a unit within the ACCO Seed Division. It is Levi Haapala and Sons, headquartered at Dassel, Minn.

Haapala has engaged in seed corn sales since 1930 and was one of the pioneering firms in hybrid corn development. It has specialized in early maturing varieties especially adapted to northern geographical areas, which will permit ACCO Seed to expand its marketing in those areas.

It is assumed that most of the Haapala personnel will be joining the ACCO Seed organization, but there are no immediate plans for moving any to Belmond.

While Belmond was a scene of Anderson, Clayton hospitality this noon, a large gathering of ACCO Seed district sales managers and plant managers was assembled at Mason City for a 4½-day meeting. The visiting Anderson, Clayton executives in the evening appeared on the program of a banquet given at Holiday Inn motel for this group.

They heard company specialists and others talk sorghum-Sudan grass hybrids, quality forage crops, cotton varieties (since the firm engages in extensive cotton activities in the South), sorghum varieties, corn hybrids, and work being done in the field of wheat hybridization and other new research. Charles Wilmarth, head of the division's corn research staff, spoke on his special field.

Plant managers at the Mason City meeting returned to their homes after the Tuesday program, while the sales personnel remained for additional briefing sessions — interspersed with entertainment — that will extend to Friday noon.

DR. AND MRS. HENRY LOATS VISIT HERE LAST THURSDAY

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Loats of Muncie, Ind., were overnight guests in the home of Jessie Loats last Thursday and also visited with other relatives.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Loats are teachers at Ball State University in Muncie and were enroute to Hawaii for a vacation.

He is the son of Mrs. Martha Loats and spent his childhood in Belmond and was a graduate of Belmond High School in the 30's.

At Eagle Grove, Aug. 13-16—

Fairgrounds dolled up—set to go

A "fresh" look will be in evidence this year at the Wright County District Junior Fair on Aug. 13 through 16 with at least some of the buildings sporting a new coat of paint and complete redecorating of the interior of the Commercial Display building.

Four sections of paneling have been installed on the walls of the Commercial building and the remaining portions have been painted in pastel colors to provide more pleasant surroundings for the displays in the booths. In addition, new lights have been installed, both spotlights and fluorescent, to further enhance the arrangements.

As far as finances have permitted, fresh paint has been applied to the exteriors of the fairground buildings. Along with the new white paint, the buildings painted have been trimmed in green.

A new stage for the grandstand shows was used for the first time in 1966 and in recent years the concrete block building has been put to use for displays for the girls' 4-H projects.

As always, the livestock shows and 4-H displays will highlight the activities for exhibitors and fairgoers. Entries by Wright county exhibitors have traditionally gone on to win or place high at the state fair and other major fairs in Iowa.

The grandstand shows have undergone a slight revision but remain basically the same as in past years. Nationally known stars from the Lawrence Welk troupe head the Tuesday program, along with other supporting acts. This year the dance team of Bobby Burgess and Cissy King will be the Welk performers.

Others on the program will include Nip Nelson, a comedian and mimic, Billy Raye, a juggler, and Brickle's Poodle Revue, a dog act.

Wednesday the emphasis will be on teenagers at the grandstand with dance and comedy acts. In addition there will be a teen hop following the grandstand program and one ticket is good for both.

Tractor-pull on Monday

The tractor-pull has been moved to the grandstand area and will be held Monday evening. Sunday afternoon and evening the horse and pony show will be held in front of the grandstand.

Entries in the fair are running about normal according to the County Extension Office with Tuesday, Aug 1, the last day for the entries.

Late Monday, July 31, livestock entries numbered 713 head according to Bill Sundell, extension assistant. Mrs. Geraldine Steele, county home economist, said 4-H girls from clubs throughout the county will have over 800 food and nutrition entries.

David Rouse, fair secretary, said Monday a few booths are still open in the newly remodeled Merchants' Building. Any merchant wishing to set up a display can reserve the space by contacting Rouse at the Eagle Grove State Bank.

Booster tickets go well

Rouse added that the sale of Booster Tickets for the Grandstand shows has seen good response. Tickets for the activities at the Grandstand are sold at discount prices prior to the opening of the fair and they also may be obtained by contacting Rouse.

Machinery exhibits are expected to exceed those of previous years with several more dealers planning to join the list of exhibitors. Rouse said an unusual new machine will be on display if the owner gets delivery on it in time for the fair. That is a "swamp buggy" type of machine which will be used to spread lime on soft ground.

Another addition to the farm displays will be hog farrowing and confinement raising equipment which is manufactured locally.

The fair will officially open on Sunday, Aug. 13 and run through Wednesday. Entries will start to come in on Saturday and all must be in by Monday morning.

Present, former 4-H'ers may obtain scholarships

Many agricultural and home economics scholarships are available to former and present 4-H members, says Extension Associate Bill Sundell. He explains that girls who have been 4-H members and are planning careers in home economics can get financial aid for college by applying for one of nine 4-H Home Economics scholarships offered by four private enterprises.

Two of them are $800 college scholarships provided by the Sunbeam corporation, The S & H Foundation, Inc., and the West Bend company. In addition, S & H will gives $300 educational grant to one girl in each of 17 states to be used by current 4-H'ers for short courses, tours and trips, camps and meetings.

Also for girls majoring in home economics are three college scholarships of $500 each offered by Pyrofax Gas corporation.

Among the many 4-H educational grants offered this year are six agricultural scholarships worth $8,000, continues Sundell. Two of these are for $800 each to be awarded to college sophomores or juniors majoring in agricultural courses that apply to crop production and protection. The donor is Chevron Chemical company, Ortho Division, San Francisco.

Four scholarships of $1,600 each are provided by Homelite, a Division of Textron Inc., Port Chester, N.Y. These are available to college freshmen who plan to major or minor in forestry.

Winners of the scholarships will be announced by the Cooperative Extension Service during the National 4-H Club Congress in November.

To be eligible for these scholarships, the candidate must have completed three years of 4-H work and submit a 4-H scholarship application form available from the state 4-H office. Scholastic standing, financial need and 4-H record are considered by the judges.

Applications are processed through the state 4-H office and forwarded to the National 4-H Service committee by Oct. 20. Sundell recommends that any college student wishing to apply should do so imedicately.

THE PICTURE ABOVE is one of many posed by Belmond Jaycees last week in preparation of a slide presentation supporting their bid to host the 1968 Iowa Outstanding Young Men banquet.

The presentation along with a taped narrative depicts, among other more serious things, the various modes of transportation by which fellow Jaycees can reach this city (note the skate board, roller skates and coaster wagon). A canoe, freight car and horse were illustrated in other slides.

This weekend a bid team of at least ten local Jaycees will make their pitch at the Jaycee summer board meeting at Burlington. A wealth of campaign literature, posters, ribbons and cards as well as a hospitality room will supplement the official bid.

Good neighbors harvest oats for Walt Schleifarth

A "Good Neighbor" deed last Thursday afternoon saw 20 neighbors harvest oats and bale the straw on the Walter Schleifarth farm. Mr. Schleifarth is hospitalized from a heart attack suffered a short time ago.

Five combines and two balers were put to use and the job was quickly and efficiently done.

Emory Thompson, Vernon Severson, Loren Bamford, Jack Davids, Don Trausch, Gilman Soma, Charles Soma, Hemmo Eekhoff, Cleo wilson, Harold Baker.

Several ladies sent refreshments, which were served by Mrs. Emory Thompson, Mrs. Loren Bamford, Mrs. Earl Hinman and Mrs. Vernon Swenson.

Bee Bateson ends four weeks' study

CEDAR FALLS (Special) — Sixteen elementary and secondary school teachers from Iowa, North Dakota, Nebraska and Illinois participated in the first University of Northern Iowa Spanish Summer Institute concluded recently. Doris Bee (Mrs. Owen) Bateson of Belmond was one of the group.

The four-week program focused on a new transformational approach to the teaching of Spanish. The new approach is being developed by members of the UNI department of foreign languages, according to Samuel Nodarse, director of the institute and UNI instructor of Spanish.

The transformational approach is a system by which the students are taught to speak sentences as if they were children.

Belmond's trees making comeback

Brave comebacks are being made by many of the trees that were lashed to near destruction in last fall's tornado. Some, like the aged giant at right were racked beyond recovery. Most in this condition (this one's on the Hanson property at 115 Third avenue NE, which Albert Olson occupied at the time of the storm) have been removed.

Next are two "topped" trees in the city park which, the tree specialist doing the trimming promised should regain a reasonably normal appearance in four or five years' time; to their left is one of the multitude of new saplings planted in the park to replace the large number of trees completely demolished by the twister.

At left is a huge elm just east of Howell's Car-Wash and Laundromat-to-be. While it falls far short of providing the shade it formerly did, it has — like so many of the pitiful arboreal victims of the tornado — acquired a certain beauty in its striving toward resurrection.

Can Accidents produce Disease?

The cause of many diseases can be traced to a previous accidental injury. Nerve force from the brain channelled over the spinal nerves is necessary to run the body. If nerve force is interrupted, the affected organs fail to perform their proper function. It might be the stomach which would be affected, the eyes, the heart, or any other organ of the body. Disrupted function can result in serious disease.

See Your Family Chiropractor

IF YOU HAVE HAD AN ACCIDENT LATELY, it will pay you to have a check-up by your family Chiropractor. DON'T PUT IT OFF. The longer you wait, the more damage you will suffer, and the harder it will be to correct the CAUSE of your trouble. Your Chiropractor is trained in detecting interference to transmission of nerve energy caused by misalignments or subluxations in the spine.

Schimp's 1-hitter stops Humboldt tournament bid

Belmond's softball team won its first-round game with Humboldt Monday night in the Clarion tournament. The victory was a hard-fought one and it was not until the sixth inning that the local nine scored the only run of the contest.

The winning blow was delivered by Mike Armour after Ken Langlitz was hit by a pitched ball and had advanced to second on a wild pitch. Armour connected with one of the Humboldt hurler's fast-balls and drove it far out into left for a triple.

Hurling for the winners was Larry Shimp. He allowed but a single hit and struck out 12 Humboldt batsmen. In addition he had one of Belmond's four safeties, a single. The other two two hits were doubles by Larry Kinseth and Dwight Mennenga.

There are ten teams entered in the Clarion tourney and Belmond was to meet Rowan Wednesday night in a semi-final contest. The tournament champions will be determined Saturday evening.

Bond sales lag badly in Wright

E. F. Bisbey, Clarion, volunteer county savings bonds chairman, reported today that June sales of Series E and H savings bonds in Wright county were $43,163. This makes total sales of $305,637 in Wright county during the first six months of 1967 for 37 per cent of the assigned sales goal.

Lyon county, in the northwest corner of the state, leads all the counties in per cent of quota achieved with 78 per cent. Two southern Iowa counties, Decatur and Van Buren, are close behind with 72 and 71 per cent, respectively.

Iowa's total sales of Series E and H savings bonds and the new Freedom Shares during June were $7,322,830, up 3.8 per cent from sales during May. Total six months sales for the state were $53,800,451 for 44 per cent of the sales goal.

Six-month sales and per cent of quota attained by nearby counties are: Franklin county, $263,764 for 53 per cent; Webster $788,424, 41 per cent; Humboldt, $239,554, 38 per cent; Cerro Gordo, $560,312, 38 per cent; Hamilton, $317,141, 36 per cent.

Dodgers T-Ball champs—

Cardinals, Panthers take rec. titles

The summer recreation baseball leagues wound up their seasons last week. The Cardinals and Dodgers in the Midget and T-Ball leagues, respectively, each won their title wtih 9-0 records. In the Pee-Wee league the Panthers nosed out the Mohawks winning eight and losing two as against the runner-up club's 7-3 finish.

Last Friday night the Midget Redlegs won over the Tigers in a game suspended because of darkness and a light failure two weeks earlier at the end of the fifth with the score tied eight-all. The Reds scored four runs to the Tigers one in the delayed sixth inning to end up on the long end of a 12-9 count.

The Midget Cardinals posted three wins last week to wind up their perfect season. On Monday night they whipped the Redlegs 13-3 in three innings. The ten run rule abbrieviated that contest. Tuesday evening they came back against the same club and found the going much more difficult. The Redlegs rallied strongly in the fifth inning scoring six runs to tie the game at 7-all. The cards scored two in their half of the sixth to the Reds one, however, and eeked out a 9-8 victory to keep their record free from losses.

Wednesday night the Cards beat the last-place Cubs by a 12-2 margin. This also was a ten-run rule, 3-inning contest.

In a PeeWee game Tuesday the Mohawks beat the Giants 13-3.

The Midget Tigers beat the Cubs Wednesday, 11-4. On Friday night the PeeWee finals was a slug-fest between the Panthers and the Giants. Panther power won out 20-13, but not until after the Giants had put-up a game battle. The winners went ahead on nine runs in the first as compared to the losers three, but in the second frame the story was reversed, 8-1, leaving the Giants with a 11-10 lead going into the third.

They were unable to keep pace, however, and scored but one run in the third, one in the fourth and none in the fifth, while the Panthers were pushing across 10 more for their final victory margin.

Broncos wind up their campaign with 10-4 mark

Belmond High school's baseball team wound up a successful season on Monday evening of last week at Forest City by taking the Indians into camp, 5 to 3. Terry Nelson pitched the full route for the Broncos, allowing just four hits and fanning five men. He also walked five men.

Tom Anderson started on the mound for Forest City, but had to have relief from Sheimo.

A good share of the game's excitement occurred in the second inning. Belmond scored three times when Dave Dirks was walked, Don Havens was safe on an error, Keith Boller doubled and Neil Kalkwarf came through with a single. Forest City retaliated with a couple of runs, produced by two walks and a single hit.

Tim Dirks tallied for the Broncs in the fifth inning when he gained base when hit by a pitch and made it the rest of the way on passed balls. The Indians stayed in contention with a matching run in the sixth when Heeren gained base on an error and finally scored on a passed ball.

Belmond got a clinching run in the top of the seventh when Wayne Smith singled and was later sacrificed home by Tim Roberts.

This victory gave Coach Ted Besch's outfit a 10-4 mark for the campaign, one of the best records for a Bronco nine in several years.

Girls softball concluded Friday

The girls softball season ended Friday afternoon with an all-star contest won by the National's 15 to 7 over the Americans. That evening an added attraction of the summer season saw a team of Belmond women soundly trounced by the girls 33 to 13.

Managers Jean Coulson and Lynette tomson were well pleased with the season's activity in which some forty girls participated. They express their thanks to those who assisted by coaching, umpiring and driving cars to out of town games. Spahn and Rose lumber company provided the girls with materials at no charge.

Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you! — Luke 6:26

If we want to say thanks—we need to start NOW

Since shortly after last October's disastrous tornado there has been much discussion concerning the method by which this community might best say "Thank You" to the thousands of people who came to our aid when we so desperately needed a helping hand.

In nearly every conversation in which we've been involved the idea of issuing an invitation to all who assisted in any way last October 14, and in the weeks following, to come back and see how we've progressed in our rebuilding program has been dominate.

All Belmond, in looking back on T-day, has two common emotions. First gratitude to the many who helped us; second pride in our own efforts and plans for a better and more prosperous community.

Every club, every church, every individual shares these emotions. Our city government, our school administration, our business and professional people, our industries and our workers want to be involved in the effort to say "Thanks" to all who helped in any way.

There is no question in our minds that Belmond wants to proceed with such a project. What is needed now is organization, planning and execution of those plans. We feel that no one club, no single group can manage it. A committee of a dozen or so representing every group desiring to participate seems to be the answer.

Perhaps a public meeting at which clubs and individuals could express their ideas would be of value. At any rate SOMEBODY must start the ball rolling and soon.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Jaycees and the Lions have in the months since the twister on several occasions demonstrated their ability to work together. Representatives of these three organizations plus the city and the school could be the nucleus of the T-Day Committee. We hope they will be.

This newspaper and the other communication media of this area will give their complete and whole-hearted assistance to the planners. We share the pride you all feel in Belmond. We want to say "Thanks," too.

If a start is made we feel sure this community will respond with enthusiastic support. How about it? Let's get going ! !

Belmond Jaycees Get Things Done—on state level, too

This weekend in Burlington Belmond's Jaycees will be seeking to bring the 1968 Iowa Outstanding young Men banquet to this community. Three other towns are also bidding for the privilege of hosting this annual state event.

In order to make the bid at Burlington, clubs must have previously met certain basic requirements of the state executive committee. They must demonstrate their ability to handle the large gathering of Jaycees from all over Iowa. It is significant, we believe, that Belmond's chapter easily received this approval.

The banquet, held in early March, honors the winners of local awards in the areas of agriculture, religion, education, community service and Jaycee activity. Six hundred Jaycees, wives and honored guests will be in attendance. In addition the state executive committee will meet at the chosen site the day before the event and will require overnite accomodations.

Only the vote of Iowa's Jaycee chapters reprsented at Burlington will determine whether or not the Belmond Jaycees are successful in bringing a state function to our community for the first time. But, if effort, desire and ability are given proper weight, we are convinced they will be chosen.

Since the Jaycees were chartered in Belmond nearly fifteen years ago their presence has been of tremendous value to all of us. Their service to this community has been and is one of our greatest assets.

The local club has won many state awards in the intervening years. In their first year they were named outstanding freshman club in the state and were third nationally. Just recently they were cited for best community welfare program and there have been many laurels in between.

Their value to this locality is a proven fact. We wish them well in their effort to broaden their activity to a state level.

A point to remember—most obey law

Any matter supercharged emotionally as this country's urban racial unrest is bound to generate a lot of presumptive thinking that often leads to unsupported conclusions.

In much of the public discussion is the inference that nothing of any consequence has been done in the past to improve the lot of the urban Negro. The inference is mischievous because it dismisses out of hand the great and continuing efforts of responsible Negro and white leaders alike.

UNCRITICAL ACCEPTANCE OF the idea that nothing much is being done leads often to the advocacy of vast new federal spending for the eradication of slums and other evils supposedly responsible for the Negro's grievances. Federal bureaucrats in particular lead to the evident belief that the urban Negro's every affliction will yield to a further outpouring of government billions.

WHAT NEEDS TO BE STRESSED above all is that the long, hot summers of racial violence aren't by any means typical of the Negro majority sentiment. Nobody can pinpoint the exact percentage of the Negro population that's involved in criminal mob action or is even remotely in sympathy with it.

But those responsible for the violence undoubtedly constitute a minority that would be criminally inclined even in the absence of racial grievances. Criminal dispositions have nothing to do with skin colorations. There are criminally disposed and embittered whites just as there are criminally disposed and embittered Negroes.

THE TRAGEDY IS THAT URBAN racial violence reflects on the law-abiding majority of Negroes who usually are its principal victims. Most of crimes Negroes commit are directed against other Negroes.

Since most Negroes are law-abiding and self-supporting, it follows that the opportunities open to them are by no means as restricted as some of the politicans and professional agitators would like to have them believe.

Urban Negroes are told repeatedly that they are the victims of "400 years of oppression." Thus it's hardly any wonder that some of them apparently are beginning to consider themselves oppressed.

BUT AS A MATTED OF FACT the Negroes didn't become urban dwellers in critical numbers until after World War II, and consequently couldn't have become victims of the supposed evils of cities until relatively recently. In their earlier rural environment, they characteristically were happy in disposition.

Their basic present problem is one of adjustment to an environment difficult for persons of limited education and few skills. This largely is a matter calling for individual effort and motivation. To their credit, Negroes in the overwhelming majority of cases are making successful transitions. — The Humboldt Republican

Unfunny

It was funny (funny-odd not funny-ha ha) when the postal department recently blamed delays on mails on the railroad strike.

For some time the postal department has pooh-poohed the trains and taken mail contracts away from the railroads. It recently happened in Iowa and resulted in cancellation of many trains over the state.

FOR THE POSTAL DEPARTMENT to blame the railroads is a bit on the ridiculous (sad) side after harpooning the trains for years.

The fact the postal service is getting worse and worse doesn't seem to bother the powers that be in Washington. The rules and regulations are overwhelming and mostly written in government gobbeltygook that can't be understood.

THE FAULT IS NOT AT ALL with the local postoffice employes who do their best under adverse conditions to get the mail through.

Instead of helping the situation the new so-call "sectional" centers seem to delay rather than expedite the mail. And the addition of "Zip" coding seems to mean more trouble for the mailer than help for the postal department.

THE POSTAL DEPARTMENT IS running in the red and is asking big boosts in rates. There is no guarantee of any relief if the rates are raised.

The fault is in the higher management which is named for political reasons rather than performance. The employees in the local postoffices often go out of their way to help but are hamstrung by rules and regulations of doubtful value.

The whole system should be revised by congress. However maybe if that happened it could be worse the way congress does some things. — Algona Advance

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT

Knowing when to clear the heck out," TJ packed up when Ye Ed did last week and is out with the Gallagher clan, playing with the deer and antelope. He has the utmost confidence in Andy's ability to get out a couple is issue's of the rag while the typewriter chauffeur is on vacation; but he told us, "There's no telling WHO may get drafted if a slug of job work comes in, along with everything else."

ORDERS
RING!

The thought was enough to make TJ fill up the tank and take off for the Big Sky Country right on the bumper of what YE Ed's son-in-law calls, 'The Blue Whimsy" (down at McLaughlin's, they called it a Caprice).

OFFERED A PLACE IN THE "Whimsy," TJ had asked, You taking Pup?" . . . we nodded; . . . "Not the family cat, too?" . . . again we signifed the affirmative. That was enough for TJ.

"Thanks a bunch," he said, "but if it's all the same to you, I'll chance it with the VW — and take my sittin'-room U-Haul along, so I can count on a bit of privacy. I don't mind mingling; but I 'm always concerned that Pup may sometime confuse me with the postman."

"If we both go," we inquired, "what happens to 'Conversation'. You not on speaking terms with Anderson? Maybe you should stay. Anyway, you just took a six-month holiday when the legislature was in session."

"CALL IT A HOLIDAY IF YOU want," TJ replied, "but it sure wasn't a VACATION. I was sweatin' and strainin' to the very last minute for fear they'd never get around to that tax bill. And that secret confab they held to whack it out . . . an experience like that DOES something to you!"

"You never told us before that you sat in on THAT," we reproved him. "If it was so all-fired secret, how did they happen to let a snoop like YOU in?"

"A mouse had gotten into the crackers in the governor's desk the night before," TJ explained. "Guess when Harold saw me, he only thought I was there on business."

He continued, "Anyway, not only do I need a change of scenery just as much as you do, but my golf game's gone to seed. Though I'd pack the sticks and get in a few whacks."

"Should be good mousing THERE!" the cat interrupted.

"Yer kiddin'!" TJ accused. "When you pant for 15 minutes every time you climb that No. 3 hill out at the country club, I can just see you tackling a mountain.

"Just one reason I'm reluctant to be away from the office the next two weeks." he stated." We'll sure as heck miss the arrival of Duane Meinders' blessed event. Mrs. M's already been indulging in false alarms.

"OFTEN HAPPENS WITH THE first ones," he explained — as if we didn't have reason to know. "Could be I'll have to whip back to cover the story. Andy'll probably be so busy, he'll let it go as a routine 'Hello, World" item. And that'd be a pity."

With that, he headed for the door, saying, "I better scare up a few quick-froze mice for the trip. Wouldn't want to be delayed en route by an empty stomach. . . . Should we get separated — see you in Montana."

Just at present Wright county is afflicted with a "slang whanging" Deacon as editoir of the Monitor, published at Clarion, but if the good people of the county will have patience it will come out all right. Waterloo has been feeding several hundred tramps. And so it goes.

Old files of Herald reveal—

Verbal vendettas spiced early editors lives

One of the many pleasures Ye Ed derives from perusing the files to record the week's winnowings of 'way back when items is delving into the Belmond Heralds of 90 years back when Frank A. Gates was the editor-publisher. At the time, one of Mr. Gates' greatest pleasures — very obviously — was verbally skewering one James Hathaway, Esq., who guided the fortunes of the Clarion Monitor of that day.

In the summer of 1877, Editor Gates fell critically ill and almost went to meet his Maker. But it's hard to kill off an ornery editor, and our predecessor at length recovered. His diatribes aimed at the County seat nincompoop rather lost their sting for a spell. But by the start of the next year, he had regained his form and was in fine fettle.

We know that TJ's friend, O. H. Leary, will appreciate the blunderbuss finesse with which Brother Gates attacked his Clarion counterpart. Maybe some other readers will, too.

Adversary accused of greed

There was, for example, the affair of County Auditor Weber.

"Auditor Weber," explains Bre'r Gates, "kindly furnishes a table for this issue giving the expenses of the county for the past year. The total outlay is $17,602.66. For printing, the county paid $1,634.64, including what the law allowed for the publication of the proclamations of the special railroad elections held in '77.

"Of this sum, the HERALD received $539.57, and that 'reform' organ, the Monitor, the balance of $1,095.07. Thus is will be seen that the little fellow who runs the 'Reformer' pocketed more than two-thirds of the county's printing bill — yet his constipated innards ache and twist themselves together, that the sum paid the HERALD for its work did not also go down into his breeches.

Poop-deck shots fell short

"This $539.57 is the 'worm' that stirred him up to attack Auditor Weber. Mr. Weber has dared to give us a part of his official printing, and thereat the sweet scented 'reformer' is mad. So far as Mr. Weber is known, the shots from the Monitor's poop-deck have fallen far short of where the little cannonader intended they should land. . . . Hathaway knows, if he knows anything at all, that right the reverse of what he alleges is the truth."

"The Board of Supervisors are another set of jackanapes, too, if we may believe the flings of this scion of the State of Massachusetts has thrown from time to time.

Own code of business

Whenever he is not satisfied with the doings of that body, he flings himself out of the court house, rushes to his den, and tilting that 'silk plug' back on his bump of self esteem, proceeds to relieve himself through his paper, cutting and slashing promiscuously and more than ever proving himself the ass that he is.

"Mr. Hathaway has a code of business mapped out for these officers and when a deviation is made from what his little sack of brains tells him is the way matters should be conducted, then the 'brickbats' fly.

"Sometime, we predict, our dear brother of the Monitor will discover that he is not the originator of the world, neither does he run Wright county and her corps of officers to any great extent. . . . When you succeed in injuring these officers in the estimation of those who know you, please drop us a postal, or send us a lock of your hair."

The "Swamp Land Case"

Then there was a happening contemporarily known as the "Swamp Land Case," which Wright county won in a court suit. Wrote Hathaway's Belmond adversary:

"And now it's the sub. ed. of the sub. org. who is frantic at Auditor Weber (apparently Hathaway had a subordinate on his staff who had learned his lessons well). Verily, this little, irresponsible pencil pusher exhibits the identical fangs of the Deacon, his master. Oh, but he has it bad! Has it all over!

"The Auditor neglected to at once inform him of the swamp land case that Wright county won. The sub. ed. froths at the mouth and the saliva runs down his shirt front. He also lashes at D. D. Miracle, the county's attorney, because the Webster City papers got the item first.

Back to the slums, bum!

"But pshaw, Jim! Don't you know that the good deeds and valiant acts of these men will remain green in the memory of the people long after you have passed your checks to 'Old Clotie'? You should have stayed in your natural sphere in the slums where you grew up, rather than to have come west to work off the effects of your indigestion.

"You are dyspeptic, Jim; and there is nothing so good for you as a little common sense mixed with Winslow's soothing syrup. It's a hard dose, we know, dear Jim; but there is nothing like it in your case; and we presume you would grumble if you got your just deserts and were hung. Some folks are never satisfied."

That it was a give-and-take proposition between Gates and Hathaway is evident from the following:

"That poor, miserable fool, Deason Hathaway, makes us out a terrible coward in the last Monitor.

"DEACON, DO YOU REMEMBER the time we helped to screen you from an outraged Belmonder by placing you in the coal house, and putting McKay over you as guard, with a brace of revolvers and knives?

"Have you forgotten the time you came to Belmond and disguised yourself by appearing in an old lady's attire, for fear some of our people whom you had so vilely slandered would mob you, and on being detected how you got out through the back door of the hotel and hid yourself in Jim Brooks' hen coop?

"There you remained for thr days, subsisting on the filth of th fowls. And if it had not been fo your corpulent old friend from Clarion, you'd have been there yet.

Monkey-headed idiot

"We are perfectly willing to admit our cowardice, but when we crawl our of anything, we try to use all the honor of a coward. We don't tell a lie, and then tell a bigger one to crawl out of it. You poor monkey-headed idoit; you are not responsible for what you do and say."

So it went, 'twixt Hathaway and Gates. It may be safely assumed that the public exchange of frank opinions didn't harm the circulation of either the Herald or the Monitor.

SENATE FILE 373

AN ACT

RELATING TO RESTORATION AND COMPENSATION TO COUNTIES FOR SECONDARY ROADS, AND TO CITIES AND TOWNS FOR MUNICIPAL STREETS USED AS PRIMARY ROAD DETOURS

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

Section 1. Section three hundred thirteen point four (313.4), Code 1966, is hereby amended by inserting in line eighteen (18) after the figure "307.5" the following:

", for restoration of secondary roads used as primary road detours and for compensation of counties for such use, for restoration of municipal streets so used and for compensation of cities and towns for such use.".

Sec. 2. Chapter three hundred thirteen (313), Code 1966, is hereby amended by adding thereto the following new section:

"When the state highway commission, for the purpose of establishing, constructing or maintaining any primary road, determines that any secondary road or portion thereof is necessary for a detour or haul road, the commission, after consultation with the county board of supervisors having jurisdiction of the route, shall by order temporarily designate the secondary road or portion thereof as a temporary primary road detour or as a temporary primary road haul road, and the commission shall maintain the same as a primary road until it shall revoke the temporary designation order. Prior to use of a secondary road as a primary haul road or detour, the commission shall designate a representative to inspect the secondary road with the county engineer to determine and note the condition of the road.

"Prior to revoking the designation, the commission shall:

"1. Restore the secondary road or portion thereof to as good condition as it was prior to its designation as a temporary primary road, or

"2. Determine such amount as will adequately compensate the county exercising exclusive or concurrent jurisdiction over the secondary road or portion thereof for excessive traffic upon the secondary road or portion thereof during the period of its designation as a temporary primary road. The commission shall certify the amount determined to the state comptroller. The comptroller shall credit the amount to the secondary road fund of the county.

"3. If on examination of the route, it is determined that the road can be restored to its original condition only by reconstruction, the commission shall cause plans to be drawn, award the necessary contracts for work and proceed to reconstruct and make payments for in the same manner as is prescribed for primary construction projects."

Sec. 3. Chapter three hundred thirteen (313), Code 1966, is hereby amended by adding thereto the following new section:

"When the temporary primary road detour or temporary primary road haul road, or any portion thereof, is located within the corporate limits of a city or town, then as to such portion so located, the provisions of section two (2) of this Act as to consultation, designation, restoration and payment by the state highway commission shall apply in like manner to the benefit of such city or town, and credits thereunder shall be made to the street fund of such city or town. Such city or own may designate the county engineer or, in the case of a city, its chief civil engineer, to inspect such street so used jointly with the representative of the state highway commission."

Sec. 4. This Act being deemed of immediate importance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and publication in The Belmond Independent, a newspaper published in Belmond, Iowa, and in The Donnellson Review, a newspaper published in Donnellson, Iowa.

ROWAN NEWS

MRS. ROY ROBERTS

MR. AND MRS. LYNN E. BAILEY

Pauline Draves, Lynn Bailey wed Saturday, July 15th at Williams

The St. Paul's Lutheran church in Williams was the scene of the ceremony Saturday evening, July 15th, in which Miss Pauline Draves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton K. Draves of Blairsburg, became the bride of Lynn E. Bailey, son of Mr and Mrs. Edwin Bailey of Rowan. Pastor Herbert Peterson officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 8:30 o'clock.

Baskets of white gladioli decorated the chancel. Organist, Sharon Riskedahl of Williams, played before the service. She accompanied Jasper Riskedahl, who sang "Before Thine Altar".

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. She had made her floor-length gown of white bridal satin with a scoop neckline and waist-length sleeves. The neckline and the front of the A-line skirt were appliqued with white roses. Her train fell from her shoulders and was decorated with the white rose applique to match the dress. Her waist-length veil was held by a white satin pillbox with the white rose applique. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and red roses on a white Bible.

The maid of honor was Thelma Draves of Blairsburg, the bride's sister. LaNell Bailey, sister of the groom, and Lorraine Draves of Blairsburg, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. The three wore identical floor-lenth gowns of hot pink chrystalette. The fitted A-line gowns with scoop neckline were worn with matching lace jackets with elbow-length sleeves. They wore matching hats of the chrystalette and net. They carried colonial bouquets of white carnations.

The groom was attended by Jerry Harthon of Clear Lake as best man. Dennis Bailey of Alexander, cousin of the groom, and Alvin Bailey of Rowan, brother of the groom, were the groomsmen.

The ushers were Dan Jury of Alden, cousin of the bride, Willie Cramer of Blairsburg, Ronnie Bailey cousin of the groom, and Merle Dean Bailey of Alexander, cousin of the groom. Mrs. Ardyce Bailey, the groom's aunt, sat at the guest book and Susan Keck of Greeley was in charge of the gifts.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the church dining room. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hansen of Rowan, the groom's grandparents, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Draves of Dows, the bride's god parents.

Mrs. Glen Haverstein of Alden was dining room hostess. The cake was cut and served by Wanda Draves, Blairsburg, and Marcella Halverson of Kanawha, cousins of the bride. Mrs. Arvid Hansen of Belmond, aunt of the groom, served coffee and Mrs. Merle Bailey of Alexander, aunt of the groom, served punch. The waitresses were Susan Gober of Lucus, Gayle Heichel of Dexter, Sandri Friedley of Edgewood, Mary Arthur of Edgewood and Mariane Hansen of Belmond, cousin of the groom.

About 150 guests attended from Blairsburg, Williams, Rowan, Belmond, Clarion, Alden, Ottosen, Alexander, Waverly, Hampton, Bristow, Cedar Falls, Latimer, Galt, Dexter, Dows, Edgewood, Kanawha, Thompson, Sheffield, Jewell, Grundy Center, Nevada, Greeley, Forest City, Aredale, Lakota, Lucas in Iowa, Jacksonville, Ill., and Dawson, Minn.

The bride was a 1963 graduate of Northeast Hamilton High school in Blairsburg, a 1965 graduate of Waldorf college in Forest City and a 1967 graduate of the State College of Iowa at Cedar Falls and will be teaching this fall.

Mr. Bailey was a 1961 graduate from Rowan High school. He attended Omaha Trade school and Mason City Junior college. He is now employed as a mechanic at Rowan.

OF THE WEEK!

This week we feature two Peaches of the Week. Susan Charlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Charlson of rural Forest City, and Linda Murra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Murra of Forest City. Susan represents her hometown as "Miss Forest City", and won her title in June at the Jaycee-sponsored "Miss Forest City" contest. Linda is the 1967 Forest City band queen, elected by her fellow members of the Forest City High School Band.

Linda represented Forest City at the North Iowa Band Festival in Mason City last month. She also was a homecoming attendant in Forest City last fall, and the Forest City Summit's "Calendar Girl" for December 1966. She is an officer of Luther League at Immanuel Lutheran church and a member of the church choir. She is also a member of the "Candy Stripers" who assist the residents of the Grohaven Nursing Home.

The Belmond Independent

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 48 NO. 45 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA— THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1967 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | 12 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

One of the most pleasant duties of an editor is inspection of incoming mail. This week we received three separate communications which gave us particular pleasure Each concerned subscriptions to the Independent, and each included brief notes we feel our readers will find interesting.

From Lylle Dunlap of Eugene, Ore., who several weeks ago visited Belmond after an absence of 61 years, we received this note along with a check for a year's subscription:

" . . . I have a bad habit when going on trips to want to hurry home and so I hurried away from Belmond much too soon. When I got to Denver I began to get homesick for Belmond. After reading the Independent you sent me I find I missed a lot. I might find myself back there again next year after reading your paper for a few months."

A change of address was purpose for a note from A1c Gary O'brecht. He writes " . . . I also would like to find out when my subscription runs out so I can renew. I enjoy receiving and reading the Independent very much." Gary's address is 8813 SE 33rd St., Midwest City, Okla. 73110.

Ann Trafford, wife of Belmond's ex-mayor "Bud" Trafford, writes: " . . . it seems we all look forward to each weekly paper, our means of keeping in contact with our many fine friends there. Our hearts are saddened by some of the news, but guess we must all accept the realities of life.

"I am referring to the tragic death of Tom Lerdal, and also Brian Jensen, and many more of the past — but life must march on for others.

"Thank you for reminding us, and keep the "hometown" paper coming." That we shall, Ann, and we look forward to hearing from you periodically.

Mrs. Dwayne Miller stopped in this week to tell us that she had received word that her husband and his brother, who are serving aboard the Aircraft carrier USS Forristal, were uninjured in the tragic explosion which took so many lives last week.

It appears that both the missing Mainstreeters will be back next week. Pat from vacation in Montana and Dick from Younkers Rehabilitation Center in Des Moines.

Duane will be most happy to have them back, but despite the long hours involved in "going it alone" it's been real fun.

I'd like to say "Thanks" to all who helped. The advertisers, readers and especially Miriam, Mildred, Jeanne and the great Independent staff.

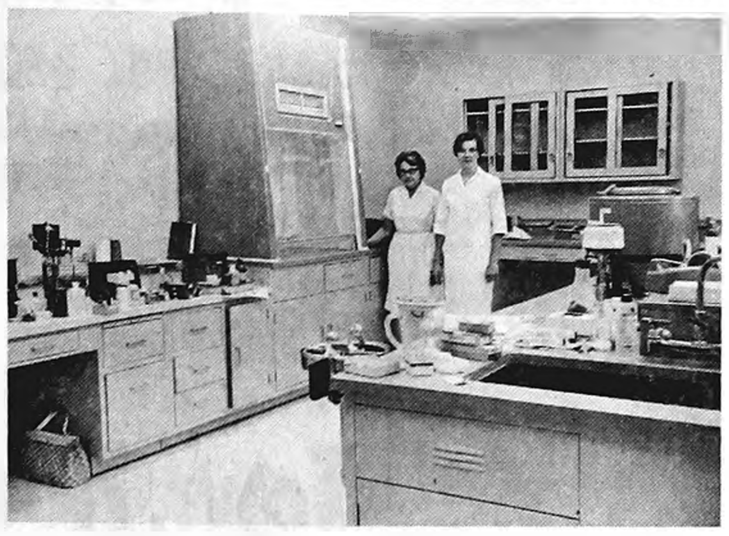
REGULAR OPERATOR Duane Meinders need have no fear that the tail-end Mainstreeters' son, Craig, will take over his job. Anyone who stood still near me last week found himself with a duty to perform. Craig hit the keys in fine fashion but not always in the proper sequence. A problem all us linotypers sometimes have.

Knoll takes part in USN exercise

USS HENRICO (APA-45), (FHT-NC) — Seaman Apprentice Paul A. Knoll, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Q. Knoll of Belmond, participated in an amphibious assault training exercise along the coast of southern Calif., while serving aboard the tank transport ship USS Henrico.

The exercise, code-named "Golden Slipper," was conducted under simulated Vietnam conditions. It sharpened the ability of Marine Corps reserve air and group units from all parts of the country to quickly join forces with regular Navy and Marine units in conducting an amphibious assault.

At the beginning of the four-day exercise, the Henrico helped to land the initial assault force of more than 700 Marines and their equipment.



THE BIG DAY finally arrived at the Lab in Belmond Community Hospital. Moving day found the lab personnel kind of "upset", but nevertheless happy to have their pictures taken in the new facilities even though they weren't quite "settled" as yet. After almost a year of working in a corridor, among plumbers, carpenters, electricians etc., the big day is here and we now find the Laboratory in as fine a situation as any could be. New equipment, new cabinets, new lighting and new SPACE all add to make the laboratory as complete and modern as possible.

Recognition given hospital employees

On Wednesday, Aug. 2nd, at a meeting of hospital employees, the following were recognized for 15 years of continuous service at the Belmond Community Hospital and presented with gold pins.

Margaret Dillon medical records librarian; Dora Ennen, x-ray and surgery aide; Velma Frohling, storekeeper and purchasing; Helen McNulty, chief laboratory technologist; Virginia Studebaker, nurse's aide.

These people have all been employees of the Hospital since it opened officially in June 1952. Due to the various departments being "torn-up" with construction and renovation this summer, recognition was postponed until this time.

'We 3' purchases Hampton grocery

Purchase of Grupp's Food Center in Hampton is announced this week by Ed Gabrielson, president of We 3 Markets, Inc. The Belmond-based concern took over operation of the market on Aug. 1 and efective on that date it became known as a We 3 Market.

This makes the fifth store owned and operated by the firm. In addition to its Belmond and Hampton operations, We 3 Markets are located in Goodell, Kanawha and Britt.

The Hampton grocery will be managed by Bob Ewers, a former Grupp employee. The meat department will be under direction of Dwight Beavers of Belmond who prior to his advancement to the Hampton We 3 held similar responsibility at the Goodell store.

Mr. Gabrielson says the Hampton outlet will continue to merchandise the same brands and quality items as its predecessor in that community.

Belmond Jaycees will host state IOYM banquet first part of March

Early next March will find Belmond the site of the state 1968 Outstanding Young Men awards banquet. This will be the first time that a statewide Jaycee function has been hosted by the local chapter. Members of the club are already making plans to welcome the honored men and their wives representing more than 200 Iowa clubs.

Belmond was awarded the function by the state board of directors at its summer meeting in Burlington last weekend. Three other clubs, Nevada, Monona and Harlan were also bidding for the honor. Selection was made by balloting of the delegates attending the meeting.

The local bid prevailed on the second ballot after Nevada and Harlan had withdrawn from competition at the conclusion of the first round of voting. Belmond received 69 of a needed 75 votes for a majority in the initial balloting and won over Monona 85-61 on the second roll call.

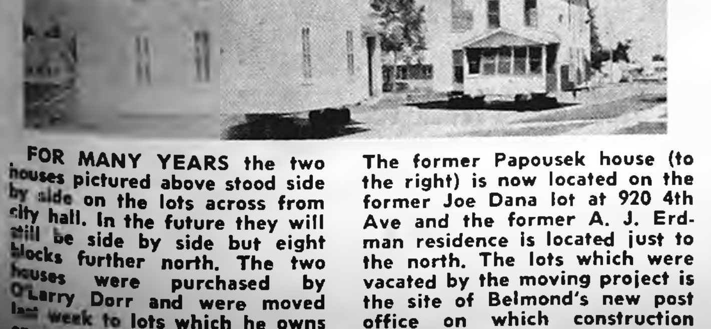
Larry Flanagan, local president, made the official presentation of the bid to the assembled delegates on Sunday after two days of intensive campaigning by the Belmond chapter. Representing the Belmond Jaycees at Burlington were:

Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Garvin and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gray.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Baker. Terrell is a state vice president and a member of the executive committee.

President Flanagan also announced this week that Belmond will host the meeting of Region II Jaycees on Sept. 1. Representatives from 21 clubs are expected.

Further plans for the IOYM banquet wil be announced in the near future according to Flanagan.



FOR MANY YEARS the two houses pictured above stood side by side on the lots across from city hall. In the future they will still be side by side but eight blocks further north. The two houses were purchased by O'Larry Dorr and were moved last week to lots which he owns on 4th avenue in the 900 block. The former Papousek house (to the right) is now located on the former Joe Dana lot at 920 4th Ave and the former A. J. Erdman residence is located just to the north. The lots which were vacated by the moving project is the site of Belmond's new post office on which construction hopefully will be begun this fall.

Livestock entries for the Wright County District Junior Fair came pouring in just ahead of the deadline last week to jump the final number higher than anticipated.

The final count on entries is 868 in all divisions according to Bill Sundell, county extension associate, just 35 short of the record year in 1965.

In 1966 the entries dropped nearly 100 from the previous year but this year gained over half of that amount back. 1966 was the first year the restriction on showing animals in the Wright County Fair, i.e., animals shown at other fairs prior to this fair cannot be shown.

Following is the breakdown of the entries this year with last year's total in parentheses: swine, 345 (306); baby beef (including market and purebred heifers), 219 (185); sheep, 108 (116); commercial beef, 87 (98); dairy, 45 (50); pig carcass, 41 (33); and beef carcass, 23 (18) for totals of 868 (903).

One of the fastest growing 4-H projects, Sundell said, is that of horses. He estimated there will be 35-40 entries at the fair this year. He said he will not know the total until fair time because those entries are made directly to the show rather than through his office as are the other livestock entries. Last year there were ten 4-H entries in the horse and pony show.

Sundaell said he has "everything full" in finding room for the livestock. The hog barns are full and the baby beef barns have overflowed into the dairy barn, filling half of it. The beef carcass entries have been placed in the old sheep barn. The sheep were moved into the former girls' 4-H building a few years ago after those exhibits were moved to the new block building.

The girls' 4-H exhibits will be entered on Saturday and will be open for public inspection on Sunday afternoon, Aug 13. This year the girls are entering baked goods. Their demonstrations will also concern baking and will start at 1:00 p.m. on Monday.

Judging of the swine will lead off the livestock at 9:00 a.m. Monday and will continue into the afternoon. Dairy judging will start at 1:00 p.m. Monday.

At 9:00 a. m. Tuesday the judging will start on both the baby beeves and the sheep. Wednesday at 10:00 the livestock sale will begin.

As always there will be a carnival for the young and the young at heart and the Merchants' Building will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

For the grandstand the horse and pony show will be held Sunday afternoon and evening. There is no afternoon program at the grandstand but Monday evening the tractor pull will be held starting at 7:30 p.m. Weigh-in for that event will be at 5:00 p. m.

Announcer for the tractor pull will be Don Warren, Des Moines disc jockey and announcer. Warren has the popular morning radio show on WHO radio.

Tuesday afternoon and evening the grandstand show will feature Bobby Burgess and Cissy King, dancing team from the Lawrence Welk show, Nip Nelson as performer and master of ceremonies, and other acts.

Wednesday evening will feature the Teen Nite A' Go Go dancers at the grandstand followed by a teen dance at the fair grounds.

ITz rEdIcLis DaE Saturday!

There'll be some shenanigans pulled on Main Street this Saturday as the normally serious minded businessmen and women let their hair down and entertain their customers.

It's the annual Ridiculous or Crazy Day that is also looked forward to by hundreds of youngsters. They have their part in the day as the C of C invites one and all to participate in the parade starting at 2:00 from the city park.

There will be cash prizes for the funniest costumes on humans, pets, or wheel toys as well as a merit award for each youngster who enters. It is suggested those participating begin lining up by 1:45 as this usually takes some time.

Heading the parade will be a Crazy Day band and the city Fire Trucks will all be out in their glory.

As told in another story in this issue the Hospital Auxiliary will participate in the festivities as they conduct the annual Hospital Appreciation Day. So come early next Saturday, there will be fun and bargains for everyone.

• • • • • •

BOBBY BURGESS AND Cissy King, dance team from the Lawrence Welk show, will be featured on the Tuesday program at the Wright County District Junior Fair. They will appear in both the afternoon and evening programs. Miss King has replaced Burgess' former partner who was recently married.

Auxiliary seeks new equipment—

Hospital Appreciation Day next Saturday, too

Bright-colored tags hanging on floor stock in a store are commonly associated in the public's mind with "bargains".

Mrs. Warren Thompson president of the Belmond Community Hospital Auxiliary, says they'll represent precisely the same thing this Saturday as they flutter from dress and shirt buttons; for they will indicate that the wearer looks on it as a "bargain" that this community possesses a hospital that is one of the finest located in a town of Belmond's size anywhere in the land.

These tags stand for a contribution (of $1.00 $2.00 or $5.00) to help along the good works of the Auxiliary in behalf of the hospital.

After consultation with Belmond Community Hospital Medical Staff, Laboratory Staff, and with the cooperation of the Memorial Fund Committee, it was decided that funds raised through Hospital Appreciation Day, August 12th be "earmarked" for an instrument for fast, accurate measurement of pH/Pco2 in blood, respiratory gases and other fluids.

This new apparatus would cost in the neighborhood of $2,000. It is planned that the Auxiliary could underwrite $1,000 and the remaining $1,000 coming from the Memorial Fund.

Chief Medical Technologist, Helen McNulty stated today "Since the Hospital was built fifteen years ago some of the instruments which enable the staff to give information concerning the patient to the physicians, have, at staggered times, been replaced with more efficient models.

"Some small pieces of 'new equipment' have been added. In fifteen years instrumentation has made tremendous advancements enabling laboratories to furnish added information concerning their patients.

"To remain efficient and serve their purpose at this time laboratories have had to add these new instruments to their standard equipment. The Belmond Community Hospital Laboratory, with its enlarged quarters is now in a position to move forward."

Dr. A. F. Benetti, in describing the function of the new machine said, "The Hospital requires a laboratory apparatus which analyzes the blood contents for chemicals including minerals and salts. These components of blood may be unbalanced by numerous diseases, and past operative conditions and surgical procedures.

"The present status of the hospital equipment that most nearly resembles the new apparatus is far out-moded and possesses inherent inaccuracies which the new apparatus will replace.

Specifically, the new apparatus will measure the carbon dioxide content and the acidity of blood with minute quantities of blood. The information gained by the laboratory process and the subsequent treatment may well be the determining factor in the outcome of a serious illness."

Raising funds for this worthy cause is an ambitious task and is the reason why the Auxiliary is conducting its annual Hospital Appreciation Day to coincide once again with the Main street merchants' Ridiculous Day promotion. Ridiculous Day draws good crowds — and a good crowd is important to the success of the Auxiliary's fund-raising event.

As in the past, there will be a lunch stand in operation on the street at the First State bank corner from 8:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. It will provide mothers with an opportunity to skip a meal or two, feed the family well, and help a good cause all at the same time.

Three sessions of the ever-popular "cake-walk" are scheduled, for 10:30 a.m., 3:00 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., when a dime may suffice to buy a delicious homemade cake.

Women who would be willing to donate a cake or pies for the lunch stand are urged to call Mrs. Thompson at 7691.

Membership Chairman Mrs. Pat Quigley notes that there will be a booth at which women who have not yet renewed their Auxiliary memberships may pay their dues for the year.

Today and tomorrow (Thursday and Friday) an advance sale of Appreciation Day tags will be held and Mrs. Thompson hopes solicitors will be greeted courteously and generously as they go from door to door. Any who might be missed at that time, and all Belmond shoppers from the wide territory that the hospital serves so well, will have their opportunity to decorate themselves with a tag on Saturday.

GROUND BREAKING for the new home of Belmond Motors, Inc. took place last Thursday morning. It was an especially happy occasion for owner Jack Granzow, since he has been awaiting this happy occasion for many months. He was so anxious to have the old cement slab removed to make room for new construction, that when the caterpillar operator jumped off his rig to run an errand Jack promptly jumped on. The Independent photographer just happened to be there. No damage was done and construction of the new steel and glass structure can begin soon.

Gene Kalkwarf killed in tragic accident Monday

This community was saddened Monday evening by the tragic death of Gene Alan Kalkwarf, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. DuWayne Kalkwarf. According to Dr. Dale A. Harding, Wright county medical examiner, young Kalkwarf's death was the result of cardiac arrest caused by electric shock.

The Kalkwarf family was camping on the north shore of Lake Cornelia and faulty wiring between the camper and the electrical outlet in the camp area apparently caused the trailer to be charged with current.

Young Kalkwarf had been swimming earlier but at the time of the tragic accident was not wearing swimming attire. He was, however, bare-foot and thus his body was grounded.

Mouth-to-mouth resucitation was promptly administered and a doctor quickly summoned but to no avail.

Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) at 2:00 p. m. in Bethany Reformed church. Rev. James Rozendal pastor of the church will officiate and Johnston Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements. Burial is to be at the Belmond cemetery.

Gene Alan Kalkwarf was born at Belmond on Oct. 8, 1951. He would have been a junior in Belmond Community High school this fall.

He is survived by his parents and two sisters, Sharon and Diane both at home. Also surviving are his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kalkwarf of Belmond and Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Ainslee of Dumont.

Co. budget hearing set for August 15

County tax asking for 1968 will increase only slightly according to the budget estimate published in last issue. Total tax askings are up a little over $36,000 but estimated taxes per $1,000 of assessed valuation is down nine cents for corporations and up seventy-two cents for rural land.

The 1968 figures are Corp. $7.-405, rural $14.740. The same figures for the current year were $7.492 and $14.018.

Largest jump in tax askings was in the state institutions fund where $95,000 will need to be raised in '68 as compared to $68,000 in '67. The increase of $27,000 is accounted for by the fact that the estimated unencumbered balance at the end of this year is only $5,000 while last year's estimate was $40,-000. Income from sources other than taxation is anticipated to be up during the coming year.

The County road fund tax asking is up $13,000 over last year. County Engineer Haydn Jones states that this increase is due to an approximate 4% boost in materials, supplies and labor costs.

Interested taxpayers may be heard for or against. the proposed budget at a hearing to be held at 9:00 a. m. on Tuesday, Aug. 15, at the courthouse in Clarion.

Larsen's nephews end 10-day visit

Harold Storm and Mr. and Mrs. Borge Larsen on Tuesday flew to Chicago for a short visit before returning to Denmark. They have for the past ten days been visiting the men's uncle, Henry Larsen.

This was the first visit to the states for Mr. Storm, but Borge and his wife have made several trips here in recent years. Larsen is connected with the National Aviation board in Denmark and Storm is a farmer there.

They arrived at the Mason City airport at 11:19 p.m. Sunday, July 30, having left Copenhagen at 12:30 p.m. the same day.

Henry and his nephews spent much time touring and visiting the Belmond area. Harold was particularly interested in the agriculture of this county. On his farm in Denmark he raises barley, rye, wheat, oats and sugar beets so the corn and beans of Wright county were new to him.

Harold said that average farm size was larger here than in his homeland but that mechanization was on a similar level.

Mr. Storm raises Landrace hogs and says that nearly all of Denmark's pork production is exported to England. The British find the meat produced by the Danes particularly to their liking. He felt the ration fed swine in his country — primarily barley and concentrates — was responsible.

Borge's wife Gudrun said that American supermarkets were similar to those in Denmark but that prices were lower here. Brand names were familiar, too.

Mr. Larsen remarked that the Danish tax structure was similar to ours with the exception that a 10% federal sales tax had recently been put into effect.

Tobacco and gasoline prices in Denmark are double according to Mr. Larsen.

Local River Park prospects bright

Interest in a proposed river Park in the area south of the Main street bridge has been of remarkable proportions this past week and it is rapidly becoming apparent that the project will become a reality.

Last Wednesday evening more than 100 persons turned out to clear weeds and debris from the river banks and more such work projects are scheduled for the next three Friday evenings.

Persons wishing to help should report at the bridge anytime after 6:00 p. m. with whatever tools they might have to aid in the work to be done. Particularly useful would be trucks, chain saws, tractors and, of course, shovels, scythes, baskets, etc.

A payloader or tractor-mounted loaders would also be put to good use according to those who are supervising the work projects.

Contributions toward drawing of a master-plan for the area and acquisition of the property had reached $775 by noon Tuesday and The Independent has agreed to act as a clearing-house for the fund.

Donations should be made to the "City of Belmond-Park Fund" and any such money will be specifically earmarked for the development of the river park.

Contributions to date are:

We 3 Markets, Inc.	$100
R. B. Thompson	100

10-5, 6-5 games last week—

National peewees, midgets win All-Star games

Nine National runs in the first inning were too much for the American Peewee All-Stars to overcome and they went down to defeat a week ago Monday.

The big first inning was highlighted by a bases-loaded homerun by Kim Gabrielson. He had led-off the frame and reached first on an error. A walk to Mark Havens was followed by a triple by Tony McLaughlin scoring the Nationals first two runs.

Eddie McClenahan doubled, scoring Havens, and he in turn scored on a single by Randy Banning. Successive walks issued to Gary Larkin and Larry Robbins and an error allowing Kenny Beeken on base set up the big blow by Gabrielson.

The Americans scored two runs in the second without getting a hit on two hit batsmen and four walks. They got two more in the third on a single by Gerald Thompson after two walks had put runners on. They got their fifth and final run in the fifth when Lee Laaveg singled after an error and a fielder's choice had put a man on second.

American all-Sars were:

Gerald Thompson and Doug Lowenberg, co-captains, Brian McVey, Wayne Waage, Dennis Kessler, Kevin Braner, Bill Walrod, Brett Lobdell, Bob Ginapp, Lee Laaveg, Dave Redder and Charles Classick.

Line score for the game was:

				R	H	E
National	900	10		10	6	3
American	022	01	0	5	2	4

On Tuesday evening the Midgets staged an all-star battle that was hotty contested all the way.

The American team started things off in the first with two runs on two hits, a walk and a fielder's choice. Joey McLaughlin tripled and scored on a grounder by Dana Obrecht. Obrecht scored the other run when Dave Hickman singled after Nick Classick had walked.

The Nationals came back with two runs in the bottom of the first on singles by Fred Erdman and Norm Olson and three walks.

The losers scored one more in the second on a single by Tom Burk a walk and a fielder's choice and two in the third when Nick Classick singled after two walked batters had advanced to second and third on a put-out.

The Nationals tied it up in the bottom of the fifth. Back to back singles by Nick Boller and Tom Korthas combined with two American errors and a stolen base by Boller did the job.

Neither team scored in the sixth and the American all-stars went down one, two, three in the top of the seventh and final inning. The winning run came on Charles Bell's lead-off triple and a passed ball which allowed him to score.

The National All-Stars line-up was:

For the All-Star Americans it was:

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD E. BEUKEMA

Miss Marilyn Joy Ruka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle H. Ruka, became the bride of Richard E. Beukema, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Beukema of Mitchellville, Sunday afternoon, July 23, at 2:00 o'clock at the EUB church. Rev. Donald Thompson performed the double-ring cermony.

The chancel was decorated with candelabra and two bouquets of white galdioli and fern leaves.

Jerry Green, the organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Gordon Hildebrand of Belmond as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilace, fashioned with a natural waistline and a sabrina neckline, having a wide border of lace appliques extending over the sleeves. The full, floor-length skirt had a panel down center front, edged with scalloped tiers of lace, extending to a brush train. Her star-shaped crown of re-embroidered lace petals and crystal-trim held a full bouffant, elbow-length veil of pure silk illusion. The handkerchief she carried had been carried by her mother and her grandmother at their weddings. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white gladioli on a white Bible.

Sheryl Schluter of Mason City was maid of honor. Mrs. Lynn Ruka of Boulder, Colo., sister-in-law of the bride, and Patti Beukema of Mitchellville, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. Their dresses were of aqua and white linen saki having scoop necklines, above elbow sleeves and a slight high rise at the waistlines. A daisy detail encircled the aqua bodice. The floor length, slim, white skirts featured aqua drapes extending from the back bodice. Their matching, forward headpieces of flowers and leaves held nosetip veils of pure silk illusion. Each carried a single long-stemmed cream colored rose.

Harry Beukema of Mitchellville served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Harold Gorball of Des Moines and Dale Beukema of Mitchellville, also a brother of the groom. The ushers were Lynn Ruka of Boulder, Colo., and Gary Ruka, both brothers of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres, except the groom, whose boutonniere was a yellow rose.

Wendy Friedow of Kanawha, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a dress similar to the bride's with a shoulder-length veil held by a crown of white leaves. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses. Jeff Hiatt of Mitchellville, cousin of the groom, carried the rings on a heart-shaped satin pillow. He wore a dark suit and a carnation boutonniere.

The mother of the bride wore a beige shift dress with beige and aqua accessories and the groom's mother wore a white dress with a blue print jacket and white accessories. Each wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 175 guests was held in the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Friedow of Kanawha, uncle and aunt of the bride serving as host and hostess. Mrs. Donald Johnson of Britt, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Dick Hiatt of Mitchellville, aunt of the groom, cut the wedding cake. Mrs. Robert Drury of Rowan, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Emery Kaisand of Kellogg, aunt of the groom, poured coffee. Mrs. Louis Smidt of Britt and Barbara Ahlstrom dipped punch. The waitresses were Cheryl Johnson of Britt, Jill Hiatt of Mitchellville and Jean Cline.

The gift pages were Lois Ann Abbas and Judy Friedow, both of Kanawha and cousin of the bride, and Mary Beukema of Newton, cousin of the groom. The gift openers were Norma Watne of Cedar Falls, Sheila Orvick of Mason City, Karen Needles of Des Moines, Sally Wagner of Maxwell and Sandy Zeiger of Belmond.

Special guests were Mrs. J. I. Drury of Kanawha and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ruka, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Parker of Baxter and Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Beukema of Newton, grandparents of the groom. Flowers worn by the women were cream colored roses and by the men were white carnations.

The bride graduated from Hamilton's college and was employed in the billing office of Mercy hospital at Mason City. The groom graduated from Mitchellville High school and is engaged in farming.

The discretion of a man deferreth his anger; and it is his glory to pass over a transgression. — Prov. 19:11

Future holds many changes in store for Belmond

A new river park? Municipally-owned parking lots? Arcades and canopies? City, commerical and individual beautification projects? Industrial expansion?

YES!

All of these things and more are in Belmond's future. Their implementation must surely be of utmost importance to all of us. Unquestionally there are problems to be solved and barriers to be cleared but it WILL be done.

There is a feeling of co-operation and progressive purpose in our community today which has seldom, if ever, been seen in the past. Our city government our Chamber of Commerce, our Jaycees . . . ALL of our cities organizations are experiencing a new burst of vitality.

All are sensing our need for constructive united action toward our common goal . . . the orderly, systematic and intelligent growth of OUR home town.

In the past week there have been many "first steps" taken toward accomplishment of this goal.

Nearly 100 individuals turned out to clean-up the river area and more such work sessions are in prospect. Financial support for the river park has been pledged by many individuals and many more will respond as the need becomes known.

Interested businessmen have been visiting in other communities where downtown beautification projects are underway or being planned.

Cedar Falls is only one of many such communities, but it is typical. The enthusiasm of the downtown business men of Cedar Falls is overwhelming. Their investigations have revealed that the original cost, to the city and the individual property owner, for the beautification project — based on projected increase in present and new businesses along with the jump in valuation — would very quickly be returned in full.

Each businessman, each property owner and the community as a whole WILL have an opportunity to see and to become an active participant in our own plan for making Belmond's business district the most modern, most attractive AND most productive in this area.

Individual citizens are doing their share. The remarkable pride which home-owners have evidenced in rebuilding, remodeling, painting and in general beautifying their properties, is typical of the "Belmond Attitude".

Last week Anderson, Clayton and company hosted the business, professional and civic leaders at a luncheon. The confidence expressed by top ACCO executives in Belmond's future was gratifying. Central Soya and Armour are equally convinced of our potential as evidenced by Central Soya's purchase of its local plant from General Mills and its recent opening of it Master-Mix feed facility and Armour's building of its new and modern lab and office complex.

Triggs Mfg. has grown and prospered here and just last week announced a new hydraulic gravity box to be added to the impressive list of farm machinery made in Belmond.

Several other industries are in prospect and more will want to become a part of this community.

The wheels ARE turning, the plans ARE being developed, the efforts ARE being made. Each of us owes a debt to those doing the groundwork. If YOU want to be a part — your help is needed. Volunteer to assist any of the groups concerned with our progress. you'll be welcomed.

All of us should greet the proposals offered with an open mind and an understanding attitude. Patience, co-operation and confidence in the future are characteristic of Belmond.

It's becoming more and more apparent — Belmond's on the move!

Wright County Junior Fair deserves your support

Sunday through Wednesday of next week will find hundreds of Wright County youngsters displaying their skills, and the results of them, at the Wright County Junior District fair.

While many "smaller" fairs have curtailed their programs in recent years, Wright county's activities in this line have grown in scope. Much credit for this happy state goes to an energetic and devoted fair board. They have conscientiously kept fairgrounds and facilities in top-notch shape and have shown foresight in adjusting the program to a changing pattern of agricultural development.

The real reason for our fairs success, however, lies not in its physical excellence, but in the fact that this county's 4-H and FFA programs have shown remarkable growth and vitality.

Entries in nearly every phase of 4-H activity are not only numerous but of consistently high quality. Both boys and girls in Wright county clubs have consistently won laurels not only on the local level but in state and national. FFA boys from this county have an equally impressive record.

Each and every leader of the youth groups deserves your personal thanks for the efforts they have put forth to bring about this healthy state of affairs. We congratulate them and wish them continued success.

The Wright County District Junior Fair is one of the best in the state. We urge you to give it your support by attending as often as you can.

DeGaulle preaches sedition

If any doubt has existed as to whether or not Charles DeGaulle is an enemy of the Anglo-American nations, his actions and spoken words during his recent visit to Canada should dispel such doubts.

Never before have we witnessed the head of nation going to another friendly nation and advocating a portion of its citizens to revolt against their government. Yet his statements to the crowds who heard his speak at Quebec and Montreal can scarcely be understood any other way.

DeGAULLE HAS BEEN DOING every thing in his power to make difficulties for both Great Britain and the United States. He has voted Britain's entrance in the Common Market, although to an outsider it would appear that British membership in that organization would greatly benefit France.

He has deliberately withdrawn gold from the United States, when best reports indicate that such withdrawals were unnecessary, but were made for the sole purpose of embarrassing the American government. He canceled all the American bases in France, costing the United States many millions of dollars to establish them elsewhere. He did this despite the fact that those bases were France's greatest protection again invasion, and were actually NATO bases protecting not only France but all of Western Europe.

DeGaulle has been the leading international critic of America in connection with the Viet Nam war. His opposition to America and our allies fighting that war, has without much question been an encouragement to the Hanoi leaders of North Viet Nam, and has helped prolong the hostilities.

He has been playing footsie with the Aussions for some time. When Kosygin was headed to New York to address the United Nations about settlement of the Mideast War, his first stop was in Paris to see DeGaulle. After his United Nations speech, his conference with President Johnson, and his visit with Fidel Castro in Havana, Kosygin again stopped over in Paris to confer with DeGaulle.

PERHAPS ONE OF THE LEAST understandable capers of the French president was his refusal to even say a good word for Israel, even though it has been France that has mainly supplied the Israelis with the arms and ammunition that defeated the Arab hosts in the Six-Day War. Israel was to a large degree dependent on French support in both war materials and diplomatic effort, but when the chips were down DeGaulle reneged on both counts. Could it be that he had an agreement with the Russian Communists to stand aside and let the Arabs win? His close contact in recent years with the Russian leaders makes the answer to that question debatable.

WE CANNOT BELIEVE THAT the French people share DeGaulle's dislike of the Angle-American world. We believe that the great majority of the French remember that it was the United States that saved their country from German aggression, not once but twice, in the horrors of world conflict.

It would seem that the French must come to the conclusion after DeGaulle's antics in Canada that their president is either not responsible for his words and actions, or is in fact so obsessed by his hatreds that his lunacy has been affected. — Davis County Republican

Post Office muddle

Congress seems to be doing the age-old thing in the muddle that is the postal department. Instead of finding out what is wrong congress proposed to raise rates on postage, and let the public pay the bill for inefficiency.

THE PROBLEM IN THE DEpartment is at the top — not with those who do the work in the individual postoffices. The rules and regulations are awful. They seem to be written so a division nabob can put any interpretation on them.

Congress should have a study commission to check into the situation and take the department out of presidential politics. It should be run on a businesslike basis. The suspicion is the rulers of the department are not of a calibre necessary for such a job — Algona Advance

American Ambassadors

During the summer months a great many Americans visit foreign countries. The result of this tourist activity is varied and affects both our diplomacy and our image abroad. Americans, for many reasons, have not made particularly praiseworthy ambassadors ot the countries which they have visited.

MANY OF THE FOREIGNERS who have discussed the U. S. influx to their countries feel that we exhibit an air of superiority when we are out visiting the "natives." Many have felt that we have not properly acquainted ourselves with their customs or do not make any attempt to understand the country we are visiting

WHEN VISITING A FOREIGN country, each of us has an opportunity to give the people there a better understanding of our people and how our citizens feel. While traveling, each of us should constantly remember this and try to act accordingly. — Lake Mills Graphic

By Ye Ed

What makes an office cat?

Since TJ is on vacation with Ye Ed perhaps this might be a good time for the full-time shop supt., part-time editor, ad man, printer's devil to expound on his view of why an "office cat" came into being.

When a good news man, which my partner Mr. Gallagher is, writes a news story he is compelled by training and conviction to stick to facts as he has gathered them or as have been presented to him.

Has to be 'done up'

When a feature writer comes up up with a really interesting sidelight on the news it must be "done up" in such fashion as to be interesting, humorous and of significance to a rather substantial portion of the paper's subscribers.

When an editor expounds on the world around him, its happenings and its people, his point of view must necessarily be tempered by those of his partners, his publisher or even his wife's bridge club.

So when and how does this good newsman, feature-writer, editor reveal his inner-most convictions or his personal prejudice or his desire to tell someone off without being too obvious about it?

When to write a column

When? Well just about once a week when you attempt to do all these newspaper jobs at once. Because every week something or someone or some event causes the inner being to cry out to be heard.

How? Obviously a column. A column of your own in which you may express your views without involving the publisher, your partner or your wife's bridge club. A column in which, as long as you keep it clean and free of libel, you may express yourself as you wish.

Why not a dog?

OK! write a column — but why a talking cat? Why not a dog or a horse or even a parakeet?

Easy! a cat is notoriously independent. It owes no loyalty, no allegiance and is subject to almost none of the conventional rules.

You don't have to license a cat nor tie him up in the summer months. A cat catches his own mice and requires little currying and no hay at all. A cat in a cage is too ridiculous to even contemplate.

So, take a cat and let him talk. Let him say the things others have said and answer as you please. Who can object to what you call a cat or how you make him eat his words.

. . . but get your point across

Or, let the cat express your view even if it is unpopular or even a little assinine. Then, bait him a little, to get your point across.

Now, you may wonder — is there really an office cat?

Yes, certainly. As certainly as there's a Peanuts, as surely as there are Schmoos in the Valley of the Schmoos. TJ is as real as Santa Claus.

He's as sure of himself as Lucy and as timid as Charlie Brown. He sometimes needs Linus's security blanket, but more often than not he's a vulture perched on a tree limb.

TJ will be back!

TJ is real, all right, and he'll be around again as soon as he gets through climbin' mountains and fishin' for trout.

We've missed TJ these two weeks; we'll be glad to have him back in the office.

One thing for sure — if we had to edit, sell ads and shop superintend as a regular thing we'd have two office cats. And so would you, like it or not.

W. C. Tyrrell and his daughters, Etta and Vinnie, left last week for a summer outing in the Dakotas. They will try ranch life awhile at Tyrrell's big cattle ranch on the Sisseton reservation, and from there they will drink in the natural beauties of the National Park in the Yellowstone country.

Rob Bloom of Garner had a bad streak of luck last Saturday. His barn on his farm was struck by lightning and burned, together with 50 tons of hay. His valuable trotting horse, Albert Aprague, was killed by the bolt and also a high priced colt. There were 22 head of horses in the barn at the time.

NINETY YEARS AGO—

An "Extra" was issued by The Herald last Saturday to announce the outcome of the railroad elections in Pleasant township and Belmond. The railroad tax was approved enthusiastically by votes of 51 to 0 and 47 to 1, respectively.

—1877—

A meeting was held in Brewsaugh's Hall Friday night and a protective company organized against tramps, with D. L. Cuppett as Capt., N. Malvin as 1st Lt., H. E. Diehl as 2nd Lt., and J. Brewsaugh, Orderly Sergeant.

—1877—

Mr. C. Jenison denies he drew a revolver on Gotz. He says he only had an old rusty pistol, and that he didn't draw that. Doc Donaldson says he did. Where the authorities fail to agree, we don't pretend to decide.

—1877—

A meeting of the citizens of Belmond and vicinity was held Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a company of militia and procuring arms from the state for same. Forty names are necessary, and 36 were subscribed at this meeting.

All about those long-eared critters—

"A mule is an animal with"—you just name it

(While Ye Ed is vacationing, this space is being filled as circumstances permit. We found this discourse on the mule, which appeared in The Belmond Herald of Sept. 7, 1877, both educational and entertaining. We believe our readers will likewise find it so.)

The mule is the only animal that Noah didn't take into the ark with him. I have looked over the freight list carefully, and could not see a mule way-billed for any place. So clear-headed a man as Noah did not dare to take one on board, as he knew he would kick a hole through her in less than a week.

I don't know a man on whose head you could pour quick silver on and run less risk of its spilling off than on Noah's. He was a dreadful level-headed man, and before the freshet was over, everybody on earth realized the fact.

The origin of the mule is enveloped in a good deal of mystery. Tradition informs us that when the flood had subsided and the ark had landed on mount Ararat, Noah was very much surprised in one of his first observations to find a good healthy mule standing on the top of the adjoining mountain. The same tradition informs us that the mule is the only animal that lived through the flood outside the ark.

Mule eats any thing

The mule can be considered in a good many ways, though the worst place from which to consider him is directly from behind, anywhere within a radus of 10 feet. I never consider a mule from that point unless I am looking out through the flue of a boiler.

The mule has one more leg than a milking stool, and he can stand on one and wave the other three around in as many different directions. He has only three senses, hearing, seeing and smelling. He has no more sense of taste than a stone jug. He just eats whatever is set before him, and asks no questions.

Mules are naturally deaf, but that supreme wisdom that teaches a little boy to wipe his nose on his sleeve has fitted the mule out with a pair of ears that counteracts deafness, so he can hear as readily as a person when you don't want him to.

Ear's used as snowshoes

These ears answer a double purpose: as funnels to pour sound into his head and also as fans to brush away the flies and keep his head cool. They are hung by hinges and flap backward and forward like a pair of wet trousers round a boy's legs.

In cold latitudes quite a tasty business is done in mule's ears. The ears are cut off and dried, and sold for snowshoes, and the stubs are then trimmed up and the mules sent South and sold for horses.

A mule never grows old or dies. Once brought into existence, he continues on forever. The original mule is now alive somewhere in the South.

The mule is a good worker, but he cannot be depended on. He is liable to strike, and when a mule strikes, human calculation fails to find out any rule by which to reckon when he will go to work again.

Pounding does no good

It is useless to pound him, for he will stand more beating than a sittingroom carpet. He has been known to stand 11 days in one spot, apparently thinking of something, and then start off again as if nothing had happened.

To fully appreciate the mule, one should listen to his voice. You never can really tell whether you like a mule or not till you have heard him sing. I attended a mule concert at Fort Snelling. The programme opened with a soprano solo, swung into a duet, pranced off into a trio, followed up with a quartette and ended with a full chorus of 150 mules.

I didn't hear the whole thing. When I came to, the regimental surgeon was standing over me, giving me powerful restoratives, and I heard him say that while I might possibly recover, I would never be a well man again.

Sure-footed beasts

I have been through the New York Stock exchange, spent part of a day in a boiler factory, and have even been on one or two Sunday school excursions; but I never knew what noise was until I heard a lot of army mules bray.

One of the dead certainties about a mule is that he is sure-footed, especially with his hind feet. He never misplaces them. If he advertises that his feet will be at a certain spot at a certain time, with a sample of mule shoes to which he would call your attention, you will always find them there at the appropriate time.

He is as reliable as the day of judgment, and he never cancels an engagement. Every man now living who drove a mule team during war now draws a pension.

I never owned a mule. I came near buying one once. He was a fine looking animal; his ears stood up like the side spires on an Episcopal Church. His tail was trimmed down so it looked like a tar brush leaning against him. Raphael's cherubs never looked more angelic than did that mule.

Kick brings "curtains"

The owner sat in the wagon, with his chin resting on his hand and his elbow resting on his knee. In his other hand he held a stick with a brad in the end of it. I examined the mule and asked the man a few questions, and out of mere form inquired if the mule was kind, or if he kicked.

"Kind? Kick?" said the man, and those were the last words he ever uttered. He reached out his stick over the front of the wagon and stuck the brad into that mule. It was awful to see a man snuffed out as quickly as he was. He went so suddenly, it almost took my breath away.

He didn't have time to leave a message for his family. That mule simply ducked his head, and then a pair of heels flew out behind; there was a crash, a flying of splinters, and that was all. The next moment that mule and I stood alone, my face covered with astonishment two feet deep and his covered with a part of an old bridle.

Nitro-glycerine perferred

The next day I read an account in the telegraphic news of a shower of flesh in Kentucky.

I have seen death in many forms, but I don't recollect of ever seeing a funeral gotten up with less pomp and display than on that occasion. If I had my choice to either work in a nitro-glycerine factory or take care of a mule, I should go for the factory. In case of an explosion, there would be more possibility of my friends finding some little mementos of me with which to assuage their grief.

I will hunt around, and if I find any other facts that belong to the mule I will write them down, and send them to you by express, C. O. D. — George A. Quimby, in The Boston Globe.

Guess who's wasting your money?

You may be surprised . . . but it's the girl at the photo copy machine. She's making an extra copy of an invoice . . . at eight to ten cents a copy plus her time. Now, copying machines are just fine. But this particular problem could have been solved for a fraction of a cent . . . with a 4-part invoice instead of the 3-part set she's always used. If she has to make 10-cent invoices very often . . . she's wasting your money.

Just one example of why it's important to review your printed forms from time to time.

We'll be happy to help you update them. Not just your invoices . . . but your purchase orders, sales orders, statements . . . all your office forms. Call us today.

TRADING AT HOME IS TO YOUR ADVANTAGE

There is no need to let a dressmaker sell you your wedding invitations and announcements. Your "home-town" newspaper is where you expect wedding pictures, detailed wedding write-ups, stories of showers and receptions to be used . . . and we are glad to print them. The out-of-towner gives you none of this. Think it over . . . if a wedding is in your plans for the near future, we'll be happy to work with you for exactly the correct style in printing, thermography or engraving.

The Belmond Independent

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 48 NO. 47 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA— THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, OFFICIAL CITY PAPER 12 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Belmond retail trade — and especially that derived by businesses along Highway 69 through town — that comes from traffic passing through here on the highway should benefit to the tune of many tens of thousands of dollars next year, thanks to the persistence of Senator High Clarke. The lead story in this issue relates how he, single-handedly, convinced the Iowa Highway Commission that Belmond should NOT be by-passed by a detour when the highway is being widened here next summer.

Hugh made the request during the past General Assembly session at Des Moines at the same time he made a futile effort to persuade the commission to forget the slant-routing of Interstate 35 in favor of some amended version of the original route paralleling Highway 69. He suspects that the concession on the highway-widening matter was a "sop" to assuage his disappointment over losing out on the larger issue.

Be that as it may, the decision to continue traffic through Belmond during the highway widening represented an important benefit to his hometown constituents and certainly constitutes a feather in Hugh's cap And since it will achieve an estimated $472,830 saving to users of Highway 69 as against only a $58,500 cost to the taxpayers in general, the decision seems hardly open to criticism. It was a noteworthy one-man accomplishment, and Belmond certainly owes thanks to Senator Clarke.

A meeting time that will find a majority of members without conflicts that prevent their attendance has been a will-o'-the-wisp that the Belmond Lions club has been unable to pin down. Noon luncheons were abandoned this spring in favor of evening dinners, but with no appreciable improvement in turn-out. In his vacation travels, Ye Ed ate at a Lions' meeting place in Lolo, Mont., which had a club emblem on the wall with the notation that meetings were the second and fourth Thursdays of each month — at 5:30 a. m.! We inquired how the attendance was and were told, "very good." Of course, the fact that the restaurant put out much the best "commercial" food we tasted during the entire trip might have been something of a factor.

Another milestone was reached Tuesday of last week by Mrs. Nellie Luick at Bel Chris Manor and the occasion of her 94th birthday was celebrated with a quiet birthday party in which members of the family participated. The Mainstreeters would like to add their greetings and good wishes to the others received by Mrs. Luick on that day.

Her daughter, Mrs. Edith Hill, served ice cream and cake for the pleasure of Mrs. Luick's Bel Chris friends and visitors to make it a "special" day.

Also present were the honoree's other two daughters, Mrs. Emma Watts of Clarion and Mrs. Ethel Tuttle of Clear Lake; and a grandson, Duren Watts of LuVerne, with his wife Roxie. Also visitors during the day were a granddaughter, Mrs. Don Waddington of Thornton, and two children; and Mrs. Bert Heykants. A full life, Nellie has lived!

Inaccurate translation of the scorebook by the sports editor (that was Duane) last week resulted in giving Kim Gabrielson credit for the grand-slam Homer which Duane Summers blasted in the big National all-stars' first inning reported last week. Very understandably young Summers felt hurt by our mistake. We apologize and hope this item will help somewhat to make amends. Good hitting — and congratulations go to one Duane from another.

Col. Hans Kirchner, who on Monday of this week was returning to his native Germany after a visit with Belmond friends and a two-week vacation trip to California, and the pleasure of renewing an old acquaintance while on the west coast. At Paradise, Calif., he saw for the first time in nearly 40 years a friend with whom he been associated as a barnstorming pilot in the late 'twenties.

Jack Harris, the friend, used to drum up business for Hans' sight-seeing flights. He is still "druming" — but now at the drums of a dance band which bears his name and plays at a night spot near Paradise. He pieces out a "retirement" by manufacturing auto polishes and cleaners in his garage.

Hans was enthusiastic over the noteworthy success of a downtown redevelopment program at Fresno, which has seen the central business district of that city turned into a beautiful mall — in which quiet music is wafted from amplifiers installed in old gaslight fixtures along the street. He expressed good wishes for successful implementation of Belmond's proposed "Main street plan."

What the life guard crew at Luick Memorial Swimming Pool CAN do is teach kids how to swim. What the swimming instructors CAN'T do is spell the names of their pupils. The list of pupils who earned advancements, as turned in to The Independent, was loaded with misspelled names (in a good many cases, addresses were incorrect, too). Without making a whole week's work out of it, we tried to correct the misspellings insofar as we could. A lot of the names STILL came out wrong, we feel sure. Our apologies to the victims. We did the best we could.

"THE WINNAH" in the first cake-walk conducted Saturday morning as a money-raising adjunct of the Belmond Community Hospital Auxiliary's annual Appreciation Day is shown receiving her toothsome prize from Susan Thompson, daughter or the auxiliary's president, Mrs. Warren Thompson. We regret that the young lady who "took the cake" got away before we could obtain her name.

"Hospital Day" grosses $1,014

Nearly $1,015 was grossed by the Belmond Community Hospital Auxiliary from its money-raising projects conducted Saturday in connection with annual Hospital Appreciation Day.

Mrs. Harold Shobe, the organization's treasurer, reports that $1,014.19 was realized from the fund-raising event She said that expenses had not yet been met, but that the gross was large enough to make the undertaking a decided success.

The auxiliary's food stand brought in $507.37, the proceeds being benefited importantly by the gift of several hundred "foot-long" hot dogs from We 3 Market. The grocery had inadvertantly advertised a 10-cent special on the oversized frankfurters for Saturday, but called it off and gave the hot dogs to the auxiliary to avoid "unfair competition."

Net proceeds from Appreciation Day will, like all other funds raised by the auxiliary, ultimately be spent on a project to benefit Belmond Community hospital.

Through traffic will continue—

No detour diversion on 69 during widening

Thanks to a personal appeal made to the Iowa State Highway commission by Senator Hugh Clarke, Belmond's Highway 69 businesses will not be suffering the total loss of through traffic trade that had been anticipated when widening of the highway through Belmond is undertaken next year.

This was made known to Mr. Clarke in a letter he received Wednesday of last week from R. H. Given, the commission's deputy chief engineer for development, who said that the commission has decided to continue Highway 69 traffic through Belmond during the estimated four-month construction period.

Prompting the commission's decision was a request from Senator Clarke that a study be made regarding the extra cost to road users for employing near-by primary roads as detours around Belmond during the road widening project. The local legislator had pointed out that, to the best of his knowledge, this factor has not in the past been given consideration in detour routings around a construction area.

Such a study was made by commission engineers and it showed that the cost of a temporary bypass adjoining the construction through Belmond would represent less than 12.5 per cent as much as the extra expense to road users forced to travel the proposed detours.

The commission's planning division discovered that an estimated 2,250 trips daily would be made longer by the detour — 330 per day from the Highway 3-69 junction to Clear Lake being 1.4 additional miles, 390 per day from the 3-69 junction to Mason City being 2.2 miles, and 1,530 from the 3-69 junction to the junction of U. S. 69-18 at Garner being 26.7 miles longer.

Cost of this extra mileage over a period of four months was estimated at $472,830 to the travelers forced to drive the additional miles in detouring around Belmond. As a preferable alternative, the commission decided to build a temporary access road along the west shoulder of Highway 69 adjoining the construction area, which will cost only an estimated $58,500.

Cost of the access road will be incorporated in bidding on the widening contract, said Mr. Given, which will increase the estimated project cost by about 15 per cent. He stated that the estimated cost of widening is figured at $389,600 (it was set at $512,000 in the highway comission's five-year road program released last December, and no explanation was supplied as to the presently reduced cost estimate).

With $58,500 added to the project's cost estimate, the new total figure will stand at $448,100 due to additional contract items and higher unit bid prices for the inconvenience of working under traffic conditions; but redesigning the project accordingly has been authorized by the Director of Highways Robert Coupal and Chief Engineer H. E. Gunnerson.

The decision to continue traffic on a temporary roadway along the west shoulder of Highway 69 through town was arrived at when it had been ascertained that alternate detour routes over city streets or near-by county roads would be impractical because neither the streets or roads are either adequate or structurally suitable for bearing such heavy traffic volumes.

However, it was determined that it will be possible to maintain two-way through traffic along the west shoulder of the highway "under possibly difficult circumstances involving stabilization and dust alleviation, one-way traffic at some critical areas, and pavement gaps where needed for circulation or fire protection," Mr Given advised.

The deputy chief engineer added that the change in plans should not adversely effect the intended letting schedule in 1968 or right-of-way acquisition along the highway in Belmond.

Senator Clarke expresses pleasure over the cooperative gesture of the highway commission. Also, he notes that amended plans should very largely eliminate the heavy business losses that many firms located on the highway had foreseen if their establishments were by-passed by through traffic on Highway 69 during a four-month period of the 1968 tourist season.

On local homes, businesses—

Tax figures hint $2 million tornado loss

This is the time of year that The Independent for a considerable period of time has carried an annual story on new assessed valuations on Wright county property — which permitted a fairly accurate estimate of the amount of new building done during the preceding year.

Last year's story, for example, reported an estimated $183,370 in new construction done in Belmond during 1965. This was appreciably under the average for the 10-year period of 1956-66, which was $261,785.

Assessor Vernon Lester this week provided The Independent with the assessment figures as of the first of the current year, for all of Wright county and for the various cities, towns and townships individually. But this time, it is virtually impossible to arrive at a "new construction" figure for Belmond — and, as a consequence, for the county as a whole — due to last October's tornado.

Belmond's real estate valuation is shown as deceased from $2,822,414 as of the end of 1965 to $2,554,187 as of the end of last year. Mr. Lester comments that the difference in taxable valuation would indicate close to a $900,000 real estate loss attributable to the tornado.

This, however, would by no means represent the total property loss in homes and businesses. Because the drop does not take into account new building done here during 1966 (apart from that made necessary by tornado damage), the property destruction figure would be increased by that amount.

For example, if $200,000 worth of new construction was done prior to the tornado and went onto the tax roll, the tornado damage figure should rightly be boosted to $1,100,000.

Still another factor is missing in arriving at a reasonably accurate property loss figure, Mr. Lester notes. All rebuilding that was started before the end of the year — and a considerable amount WAS started, and in some cases even completed, before the end of December — saw tax levied on the percentage of the job that had been finished by the year's end.

If the cellar and foundation of a home had been completed before January 1, for instance, the property was assessed at 25 per cent of its completed valuation. If construction was farther along, then a higher percentage was subject to assessment.

By April 1, it was estimated that $1,885,000 worth of building was completed or in various stages of completion here. If it could be fairly assumed that $885,000 of that figure was accounted for by construction completed or partly finished by the end of the year, then the approximate figure on damage done to homes and businesses by the tornado would then be raised to $1.1 million plus the additional $885,000 — or very close to $2,000,000.

Assessor Lester guesses that the two million dollar figure might be a reasonably valid one; and points out that it would not take into account any losses in personal property, but real estate only.

Due in part to the heavy real

KALKWARFS RETURN HOME AFTER WESTERN VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kalkwarf returned Friday from a two-week trip to the West coast. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hase, their son-in-law and daughter, at Arvada, Colo., and with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmidt at Littleton, Colo.

On to California, they visited Mrs. Kalkwarf's sisters, Bernice and Frances Tanner, at Santa Cruiz; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kalkwarf and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jenison at Mill Valley before returning home.

ARLO W. STOLTENBERG

SEE SON RECEIVE DEGREE

Mr. and Mrs. Arlo H. Stoltenberg, accompanied by Dianne Miller of Thompson, attended graduation exercises on Thursday at Northeast Missouri State Teachers college, Kirksville, Mo., at which their son, Arlo W. Stoltenberg, received his Master's degree in English. He also has 30 hours toward his Doctor's degree.

Masters degrees to Stoltenberg and D. Cleveland

Among 249 graduates receiving Master of Arts degrees from Northeast Missouri State Teachers college at Kirksville on Thursday of last week were Donald Cleveland, member of the Belmond school faculty, and Arlo Wayne Stoltenberg, son of the Arlo Stoltenbergs.

Mr. Cleveland, who has been junior high science teacher and an assistant coach, received his degree in secondary school guidance. This fall he will replace Jerald Torgerson as BHS guidance counselor.

Mr. Stoltenberg's degree was in English education. Holder of a B. A. degree from Central college, ← Pella, Arlo for the past three years has taught at Grundy Center and before that was on the Thompson school faculty for the same period of time.

August will be "a month to remember" for Arlo, for his graduation on the 10th was but one of three significant milestones. On Aug. 20 he is to be married; and on Aug. 23 he will start orientation at North Iowa Area Community college at Mason City in preparation for joining the NIAC faculty as instructor in freshman composition.

Rites held here for C. D. Luick

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning at St. Francis Catholic church for Clinton D. Luick, a Belmond native who died the preceding Wednesday at Broadlawns hospital in Des Moines just 12 days before reaching the age of 66.

Rev. R. A. Ormsby performed the rites, assisted by Rev. Joseph McDonnell of Des Moines. Pallbearers were Courtland and Michael Luick of Clarion, Richard Akers of Dows, Michael Beach of Ames, Clair Dorr and John Wilcox. Burial was in St. Francis cemetery.

Clinton David Luick was born here Aug. 21, 1901, son of Delbert and Mayme (Finn) Luick. He attended the local elementary school and Belmond High school. In his adult years, he became a master electrician and took correspondence courses through the LaSalle Institute.

From 1939 until 1957 he was employed as electrician at the U. S. Naval hospital at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and was there at the time of the Japanese attack. Returning to the States in the latter year, he lived for a time at Des Moines and then made his home in Belmond for approximately two years, 1961-63.

Having contracted tuberculosis, he was a patient at the state hospital at Oakdale for a time; and after the disease had been arrested, he returned to Des Moines to make his home. He was unable to work due to poor health caused by emphysema. His death was attributed to heart failure.

Mr. Luick had married, but was divorced from his wife. He is survived by a daughter Virginia Lyn of Auburn, Neb.; a grandson and granddaughter, also of Auburn; and a sister, Mrs. Cecelia (Glen) Oldham of Clarion.

In addition to his parents, Mr. Luick was preceded in death by a brother.

Marine Pvt. Pals now in Vietnam

VIETNAM (FHTNC) — Marine Private 1/c Eldon A. Pals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick D. L. Pals of Route 1, Belmond, is in Vietnam serving with the 4th Battalion, 11th Marine Regiment, a unit of the 1st Marine Division.

As a part of the Marine Corps air-ground team, his battalion provides infantry units of the division with indirect artillery support fire during engagements with the enemy.

The unit is also engaged in a civic action program designed to assist the Vietnamese people in completing self-help projects, such as the building of wells, culverts, small bridges and schools.

Equipment and materials for the projects are made available through the Marine Corps Reserve Civic Action Fund. Marines in Vietnam provide the know-how and guide the Vietnamese people in carrying out these projects.

Budget adopted by city council

No objectors appeared at the city budget hearing held at the city hall on Monday night of last week and the 1968 municipal budget requiring the raising of $132,993 in taxes was approved as proposed.

At the council meeting that followed the hearing, the new ordinance requiring the payment of a fee to obtain a building permit was amended to omit tax-exempt organizations from the fee requirement.

One such organization that could benefit from the amendment would be the Masonic lodge, which is planning to build on the former Veterans Memorial hall site. Should either the American Legion or VFW at some time decide to build a hall, the same exemption would apply.

A change in the construction of Waddington's store in the form of a stone facing to replace the front that was damaged in the tornado was given approval by the council.

Hadley top dairy showman—

Belmond horsemen, pigs do well at EG fair

Two Belmond area exhibitors earned top showmanship honors at the Wright County Junior District Fair at Eagle Grove this week. Who won the biggest plum of all, the championship in the baby beef competition, was not yet known by The Independent as the final pages were made up.

Kevin Hadley of Rowan, a BHS student, was named top showman among the dairy show exhibitors; and Diane Orvik of Kanawha was similarly honored among the young exhibitors in the sheep division.

John Morgan, EG student from Thor, won showman honors among the young men and women having entries in the swine show.

Belmond contestants enjoyed the best success ever in the horse and pony show at the fair, placing in seven different events. Outstanding was Mark Cullinaan, son of the Bob Cullinans, who was 1st in 4-H equitation, 2nd in 4-H showmanship at halter and 5th in the musical chairs competition. His sister and two brothers also came home with ribbons.

Denise Cullinan was 2nd in equitation, 4th in showmanship; Jim Cullinan was 2nd in the corn race; Bob Cullinan (Jr.) was 4th in the egg race and 3rd in showmanship. Larry Mennenga took 2nd in the adult pole-bending and Guy Peters 3rd in the adult musical chairs.

Highest achievement in the swine show accomplished by a Belmond entry was that of Bob Cullinan, who had the 3rd best Hampshire pig among approximately 90 pigs competing.

He had two pigs of that breed win blue ribbons. Other Hampshire blue ribbon market pigs were shown by: Dean Barkema (2), Stanley Boelman (2), Denise Cullinan (2), Jim Cullinan (2), Mark Cullinan (2) and Wayne Smith (2), all of Belmond.

Stanley Boelman, Gretchen Smith and Wayne Smith each had two blue ribbon pens-of-three in the market pig judging. Winning a blue on a pen each; Dale Arends, Dean Barkema, Vernon Christie, Bob, Denise and Mark Cullinan, Larry McAlpine, Curtis Pals, all of Belmond; and Mark Schreur of Kanawha.

Gretchen Smith had two blue ribbon Duroc market pigs and Curtis Pals one; Stanley Boelman had two blue ribbon Poland Chinas; and Mark Schreur's two hybrid market hogs were awarded blues.

David Stensland of Eagle Grove had individual market pig grand champion and reserve champion on a pair of Hampshires that were top two animals of that breed. Doyce Spangler, Eagle Grove, had the champion and reserve Poland China.

The two top placings among the Chester Whites went to Pat Williamson of Eagle Grove; Paul Davis, Eagle Grove, had the top Durocs; champion Spotted Poland China was shown by Doyce Spangler and reserve by Mark Thompson, both of Eagle Grove. Chuck Martin, Eagle Grove, had the top two Yorkshires.

Stensland had the grand championship pen of three pigs, which earlier had been chosen the best pen of heavyweights. John Morgan, Thor, had the reserve champion pen of three, which had been 2nd in the heavyweight class. Placing 1-2 with their lightweight pens were Chuck Martin and Lyle Steiner.

Belmond entrants did well in the lamb show. Randy Frohling won blue ribbons on two purebred ewe lambs, a purebred ram lamb, a market lamb and pen of three.

Irvin Meier, Douglas Mennenga, Eugene Pals and Larry McAlpine each showed two blue ribbon market lambs; Irvin Meier and Doug Mennenga each had a blue ribbon pen of three.

YOU'VE HEARD ABOUT the new paper dresses? Hannah Andrews, the Independent's office assistant, fabricated her own version of this popular style innovation for Ridiculous Day last Saturday to wear as she renewed subscriptions at special price for readers of this newspaper. Pretty snazzy looking outfit, huh?

2 Belmond girls win CFG honor

Two Belmond Camp Fire Girls at the final council fire held Friday before last at Camp Hantesa near Boone were made members of the Order of Woha as honorary campers over a period of at least three years. They were Susan Havens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Havens, and Rebecca Stoffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Stoffer.

To qualify for Woha membership, the girls had to have earned their Hantesa Honor for three years, to have earned the highest camp craft honor (Gypsy,) the highest honor in another craft and meet other requirements.

Something over 2,000 Camp Fire Girls have been admitted to the Order of Woha since it was organized at Camp Hantesa in 1925.

County's budget given approval

Tuesday morning of this week the Wright county board of supervisors approved the 1968 county budget as proposed when no objectors entered protests at the budget hearing.

The budget called for proposed expenditures of $1,548,444 as compared to $1,233,398 for the current year; and it will require $789,400 to be raised by taxation, which is $36,760 more than for 1967.

At earlier hearings, the proposed budgets of the county board of education and the county extension council were likewise approved as proposed when no objections to their acceptance were registered.

Walrod named to CGW post, Oelwein

Dale Walrod of Oelwein has been named Chief Special agent for the Chicago Great Western railroad. He replaces Byron L. Johnson of Des Moines, who has retired.

Walrod has been a special agent for the railroad since September of 1961 when he left his eight-year post as Wright county deputy sheriff and moved to Des Moines. He moved to Oelwein in 1962.

Concurrent with Mr. Walrod's appointment to the new post the headquarters for special agents was moved from Des Moines to Oelwein.

The United Church of Christ in Rowan was the setting for the candlelight wedding of Diana Elaine Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ryle Andrews of Belmond, and Wyatt Lee Hoover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoover of Rembrandt, at 7:00 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 6, with Rev. Gary Putnam of LaCrosse, Wis., officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with two vases of yellow and white daisies and they also filled the baskets on each side of the altar. Two large candelabra were placed on each side of the altar.

The nuptial music was played by Mrs. Wilma Aldrich, who also accompanied Jeanne Finn of Belmond as she sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel-length gown of Chantilly lace and imported crepe. The empire silhouette was fashioned with a Chantilly lace bodice, with rounded neckline and modified bell sleeves. It topped a sheath crepe skirt. Over the gown she wore a sleeveless coat of imported crepe falling in a chapel sweep. A satin pearl and crystal headpiece held the silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Diana Laughery of Eagle Grove, college roommate of the bride, attended her as the maid of honor. Penne Watters of Dubuque and Mrs. Frank Pechacek of Iowa City, sorority sisters of the bride, were her bridesmaids. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow and white daisies. Their identical floor-length gowns were of yellow brocade taffeta. Their veils were of light yellow net held in place by head bows of matching yellow brocade.

The groom's best man was Stan Vogler, his college roomate, and groomsmen were Ken and Richard Hoover, brothers of the groom. The men of the wedding party wore white jackets and black tuxedo pants. The groom wore a yellow rose boutonniere and his attendants wore yellow carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a white lace, over mint green, dress with green and white accessories. The groom's mother wore an aqua sheath of cotton sheen with white accessories. Each wore a yellow rose corsage.

The ushers were Leslie Andrews, brother of the bride, and John Golz. They lighted the candles just before the ceremony began.

Two honored guests were Mrs. Verna State and Mrs. Matilda Meylink, grandmothers of the bride.

A reception for over 175 guests followed the ceremony at the church. Mr and Mrs. R. E. Lee Aldrich Ill., cousins of the bride, served as dining room host and hostess. Jeri Carlson of Des Moines, sorority sister of the bride, presided at the guest book. Gift pages were Norine and Valerie Andrews, sisters of the bride. Beverly and Mark Halfwassen and Lynda Andrews, cousins of the bride, opened the gifts.

Mrs. Fred Olson of Garden Grove, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Charles Daniels, cousin of the bride, cut and served the four-tier wedding cake, decorated with yellow and white roses and topped by a miniature bride and groom under a white net trellis.

Mrs. Graham Teague of Adrian, Mich., sister of the groom, and Dolores Rooney of Los Angles, Calif., poured coffee while Linda Ketchum of Oelwein, sorority sister of the bride, dipped punch.

The serving table formed a "T" and was covered with two white lace tablecloths over yellow. On each side of the cake stood candelabra with three yellow candles. A ring of yellow and white daisies surrounded the cake and punch bowl.

Waitresses were Kathy Box, cousin of the bride, Elizabeth Boyd and Cheryl Milligan, friends of the bride, and Merry Bamford and Donna Robinson, sorority sisters of the bride. Each wore a yellow nylon apron adorned with a gold daisy pin.

For going away the bride had made a semi-fitted yellow crepe dress topped by a matching crepe jacket of empire design with a bow in front. Her jewelry was a pair of drop crystal earrings and crystal heart pendant. She wore a yellow and white rose corsage, a gift from the groom.

The bride and groom are graduates of the University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls and will teach this fall in the Sentral Community schools of Fenton. The bride is a graduate of Belmond Community High school.

WEDDING BELLS will ring next month for Mary Jane Brinton, whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Homer Brinton. She will marry Craige Douglas Daugard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmert Daugard of Crystal Lake, the ceremony to be held Sept. 8. Both Mary Jane and her fiance will be attending Waldorf college at Forest City this fall.

Belmond softball nine wins two tournaments

Belmond's busy softball team won two tournaments last week, finding it necessary to split up the top personnel on Thursday when the team was active on two fronts.

In the finals of the Meservey eight-team meet Thursday, Larry Kinseth and part of the "regulars" took the field against Clarion while other players were engaged in a 1st-round game in a 10-team tourney at Humboldt.

After the Fort Dodge Chesterfield's had been trimmed 4-0 at Humboldt, the contingent from there rushed to Meservey in time to be filtered into the line-up during the third and fourth innings.

Belmond held a 7-5 lead in the fifth inning and two Clarionites were on base when Larry Schimp relieved Kinseth on the mound. Clarion went ahead 8-7 in that frame, but Belmond rallied with a pair of runs in the sixth to win, 9 to 8.

On Tuesday night, Belmond had gained revenge for a 17-13 loss in 12 innings to Kanawha's No. 1 team by beating their conquerors for the Clarion tournament championship by a 7-3 count. On Wednesday, Kanawha's No. 2 team was shellacked 13 to 3 as Belmond gained the Meservey finals. Schimp pitched both of these games.

Continuing their winning ways at Humboldt, the Belmond crew trimmed the host Humboldt team 13-3 on Friday night and in Saturday's championship game whipped Plover, 6 to 3. Schimp was on the mound for these affairs, too.

This week the Belmond aggregation is entered in two more tourneys. Last night they were to meet the strong Sandy's team from Fort Dodge in the first round of a meet at Williams. Tonight (Thursday) they start action in a tournament at Kanawha.

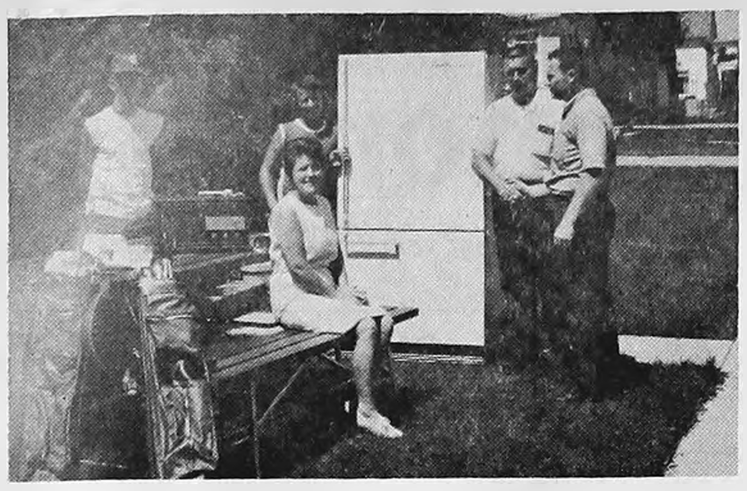
Mrs. William Evans of Garner and Mrs. Donald Evans and Neal of Wichita, Kan., called on Myrtle Gotland Friday afternoon. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Larson.



BOODLE, boodle and more boodle was accumlated by Harold Erdman for achievements as a salesman for McLaughlin Chevrolet during May and June. On a quota basis, his sales of three trucks, 36 new and 24 used cars during the period enabled him to win during Chevrolet's nationwide "Show Your Spirit" contest: a Frigidaire refrigerator (supplied by Lloyd's Hardware), two sets of golf clubs, twin beds, a picnic table, AM-FM radio, lady's 21-jewel wristwatch and three white shirts. "Sonny" attributed much of his success to the excellence of the McLaughlin dealership and the opportunities it provided him. Sons Fred and Phillip and Harold's wife Charline look on as the big winner receives congratulations from "boss" Steve McLaughlin.

—SPORTS—

When Belmond High school football candidates drew their first item of equipment Tuesday of this week preparatory to the start of pre-season practice next Monday, they took the first step toward meeting the biggest challenge ever faced by a crew of Bronco gridders.

In a letter addressed to the Blue-and-White hopefuls announcing the issue of shoes, Coach Chuck Stalker gave them a reminder — an unnecessary one, beyond all question — that they head into the 1967 season with a record string of 33 consecutive wins to defend.

This chain of victories has produced four straight North Iowa conference championships and is the longest that any high school in Iowa can currently claim. So, as the saying goes, "the pressure is on."

Coach Stalker urged his hopefuls to be getting in some calisthenics, weight work or isometrics plus some short sprints for wind improvement before the start of practice to speed up the return to top physical condition.

Players from the top three classes will get their shoes in advance. Freshmen will get their cleats on the first day of regular practice. Other equipment will be issued later, as pads will not be donned for the first time until a week from today.

Fees for participation come to $10 — $2.00 for shoe rental, $5.00 for insurance, $1.00 for towels and $2.00 for a personally fitted mouthpiece. The money is turned in when shoes are checked out. School insurance is not required if a boy has other accident insurance coverage.

All of the athletes were directed to get their physical examinations at Steele Memorial Clinic last Friday evening.

Two-a-day practices will be held from next Monday until the start of school on Aug. 30 and Coach Stalker has urged the gridders to arrange vacations and jobs so they will not interfere with regular attendance at all sessions.

To emphasize the importance of making the best possible preparation for the new season, the coach warned, "Remember, everyone will be aiming at us more this year than last."

He added, "I feel we can continue with a fine record. To win, we must work harder and remember all that can be asked is for us to try as hard as each of us can to keep the streak going."

The Broncos will meet their first test on Sept. 15, when they play host to their traditional Wright county rivals, the Clarion Cowboys.

Morning practices will be held daily at 9.00 o'clock and if the weather is not too hot, the afternoon session will be at 3:30. Should heat necessitate, the second workout will be delayed until 6:30 p. m.

Saddle club held 2nd annual ride

The Belmond Community Saddle club hosted it's 2nd Annual Trail Ride a week ago Sunday. Despite rainy weather in the morning, 42 riders and horses took part. Towns represented were Eagle Grove, Clarion, Rowan and Mason City as well as Belmond.

The group met at Tyrrell's Park at 9:30 a.m. and were served coffee and doughnuts before the ride. After the noon meal, the riders enjoyed a ride in Tyrrell's Grove and the Boy Scout camp grounds. Refreshments were served before the group left for home.

Eighteen members of the Belmond Trail Blazers attended. Committee for the ride included: Ryle Andrews of Rowan, Don Friesleben, Larry Mennenga, Dennis Pastour and Gary and Meredith Ersland.

The efficiency of our system has been proven many times by the outstanding records of college students matriculating from Belmond Community High School. The addition of the new high school building and community center seven years ago reflected keen interest in our youth and a generous attitude in contributing tax dollars and private funds to maintain our progress in the betterment of education for our local boys and girls.

Membership drive for Cyclone club now in progress

Iowa State University alumni and friends of the Cyclone Athletic Program held their annual stag at the Eagle Grove Country Club on Wednesday, Aug. 9, The Cyclone Club is a group of men who are interested in promoting a strong athletic program at Iowa State University. Ray Donels, of the Iowa State University Athletic Department, heads up the State Cyclone Club and was a guest at the Wright County stag.

In addition to Ray Donels, other coaches and trainers with the Cyclones attended to bring alumni up to date on prospects for the coming fall. Films of Cyclone games, and a run down on possible starting lineups were on the program.

The Wright County Cyclone Club has been a financial supporter, as well as a moral supporter. They have, for several years, purchased a beef and a hog at the Wright County District Junior Fair auction which was then donated to the Cyclone training table. This program promotes Wright County beef and pork, the Wright County Fair, and it provides nutritious food which athletes need to keep in top shape.

Wright County Cyclone Club members should be especially interested in promoting Cyclone teams this year, as two outstanding Belmond athletes, Neal Waddington and Craig Boller, will see action this fall. Jerry Boyington, Clarion football star, has also been invited to join the Cyclone freshman squad.

Membership in the Cyclone Club is open to all State University alumni and friends of Iowa State Universtiy who are interested in promoting good clean sports. The membership campaign is under way. Memberships may be paid to Dr. Oren Emerson, of Eagle Grove, president of the Cyclone Club, or Bob McKee, of Clarion, treasurer to the club. Bob Bernhardt, county extension director, will accept membership at the Extension Office in Clarion.

Heart Trouble Tops List

Much is being said today about heart disease. Present day literature on heart incoordinations tends to make the reader think of the heart as an organ functioning independently of all other organs of the body.

The heart, like all other organs and tissues, has a particular job to do to keep the body running smoothly and in perfect coordination or health.

The heart is able to beat fast or slow, pump more blood or less blood, or in other words, is able to meet the demands of the body when functioning normally. How does the heart know when to pump more blood? Does the heart have a brain? The obvious answer is no. The heart, like all other organs, is connected to the brain by an intricate nervous system. The brain is the coordinating center for all body function. The brain, in its coordinating work, utilizes nerve impulses or force which is sent over nerves via the spinal cord to the heart and all other organs.

As long as the necessary amount of nerve force gets to the heart, the heart is coordinated or functions normally. When a blockage to the normal amount of nerve force flow occurs, the heart becomes incoordinated and function is abnormal.

Your chiropractor with his specialized training and scientific equipment can locate and remove the interference to the normal amount of nerve force flow between brain and heart, thereby allowing that life force through to correct the incoordination of the heart.

estate damage here, the increase in Wright county real property valuation for 1966 was the smallest in a long time. The figure of $47,402,635 in assessed valuation was only $104,762 more than at the end of '65. The increase between 1964 and 1965 had been nearly $5 million, or $4,938,413, to be exact.

Also contributing to the much smaller jump in real assessed valuation was the fact that 1966 was a relatively poor "building year" in Wright county, generally. New construction in Clarion and Eagle Grove stayed fairly well up to par, coming to an estimated $304.68 at the county seat and $371,220 at Eagle Grove, producing $202,771 in actual increased assessed valuation together.

But in all the rest of the county towns and townships, assessed real estate valuation was up by only about $65,600 — indicating actual investment in new building of only about $107,500.

A third and very important factor entering into the small rise in assessed valuation of Wright real estate in the past year is that the rise from 1964 to '65 was extraordinarily great because of the state order that farm land in this county be assessed in the latter year at a 20 per cent higher figure "across the board" than in 1964.

Mr. Lester's figures show that personal property assessed valuation in the county went up from $9,468,630 to $10,043,723 despite a drop in Belmond from $876,763 to $854,358 and in Eagle Grove from $1,589,571 to $1,579,380. Clarion showed an increase from $1,346,819 to $1,380,687.

These figures have little application to what the actual tax yield will be, the assessor points out, because of the legislature allowing a $2,500 exemption on assessed valuation of personal property to each individual and business next year. What this is going to do to the amount of tax raised on personal property in Wright county, Mr. Lester at this point does not venture to guess.

Monies and credits, on which the tax levy is only one mill (for the state veterans' bonus fund) showed the most robust increase of any category of Wright county property. This figure was up by $728,451, to $14,627,636. Belmond accounted for for $258,000 of this increase (to $2,699,147) and Eagle Grove $310,000 (to $3,259,150), while Clarion's M&C increase was a modest $45,200 (to $3,828,327).

Assessor Lester points out that the "shaking up" that county taxes are receiving this year is nothing compared to the upheaval that will occur where 1968 taxes payable in 1969 are concerned.

Then, the legislatively-required 27 per cent of fair and true market value of real estate will be applied in arriving at the taxability of property. That will see farmland valuations zoom upward and real property valuations in most small towns greatly slashed — and, adds Mr. Lester, "who knows what all!"

Carl Green not running again for school post

Two of the three members of the Belmond Community School district board of education whose terms are expiring this year — Ryle Andrews of District 4 and Ruth (Mrs. Russell) Lonnevik of District 2 — have indicated that they will be candidates for re-election on Sept. 11.

Carl Green of Goodell, who has been on the board since July 1, 1954, following the Belmond-Goodell reorganization and has currently been representing District 1, has announced that he will not be a candidate for another term.

Mr. Andrews went on the board July 1, 1962, following the reorganization involving the former Rowan Independent district. Mrs. Lonnevik was appointed as a director from District 2 in February of last year to replace Fern (Mrs. Robert) Tomson and in September was elected to fill the balance of the latter's term.

Mrs. Tomson in last year's voting was elected to serve the balance of the term of Elsie (Mrs Arlo) Pitcher from District 5, having been appointed to that directorship in February after Mrs. Pitcher's departure from Belmond and subsequent to the Tomsons' move from District 2 to District 5.

Directors with continuing terms, in addition to Mrs. Tomson, are Ed Gabrielson, Luin Cox and Gerald McNulty.

Deadline for filing nominations is Friday, Sept. 1, at noon. Official nomination papers may be obtained from Pearl Ubben, board secretary, at the high school office. Ten or more signers' names are required on a petition of nomination.

He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the tradition of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects plus hygiene, first aid and sanitation, and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.

The stranger that dwellest with you shall be unto you as one born among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself. — Lev. 19:34

Riverside park project off to an excellent start

It was gratifying to see the quick and generous response to the fund being raised to make the proposed riverside park a reality. While there is still a lot of distance to cover before the money will be sufficient to pay for the necessary plans to implement the project and option several parcels of required property, so much momentum has already been created that it would appear highly certain that the job will be accomplished.

What an asset the new park promises to be can be easily envisioned by a look at what other communities fortunate enough to have a river at their doorstep have done with the opportunity. Two that come quickly to mind are Mankato, Minn., and Shell Rock. Both have lovely parks on a river bank that offer pleasant shade, cool surroundings and a variety of recreational facilities.

One advantage that Belmond's park could have over most riverside park sites is the additional provision of a commodious campground to accommodate trailers and campers. Anyone who has done much traveling in the past several years is well aware of the tremendous increase in family vacationing that utilizes these mobile homes-away-from-home. Serving such vacationers has grown into a big business.

People enjoying the nomad life for a week — or two, or three — during the spring, summer and fall pour thousands of dollars into communities where they can find attractive camping accommodations. So a town that provides such accommodations not only gains a reputation for being a friendly community but is well rewarded for its friendliness.

This come as a bonus over and above the availability of a recreation spot to provide pleasure for the townspeople themselves.

It's been a long time since Belmond has undertaken a project so ambitious as the riverside park represents. In fact, it is SO ambitious that the busy menfolk of Belmond probably would never have had the patience — or perhaps it would be more accurate to say "courage" — to undertake it. But the women, bless them, are not so easily cowed. And with their inspiration and determination, who would dare to hint that the job is too big for us to accomplish?

It is a sure sign of the continuing robustness of "the Belmond spirit" that the project is receiving such enthusiastic support.

One thing must be borne in mind, to ward off possible discouragement along the way. It IS an ambitious undertaking and one that will require years of endeavor to implement fully. When the over all plans have been drafted, it will become more apparent that the job will have to be done by stages. There's no magic wand can be waved that will make the park an actuality in a year's time — or even in two or three.

But the goal is well worth the sustained effort that will be required to reach it. We're getting off to a very good start. And that is the first essential.

Legion's statement on riots falls a step short

At its annual convention early this month, the Iowa Department of the American Legion adopted a "Statement of Law and Order" decrying the riots that have racked many metropolitan areas in the U. S. during the current summer and demanding that corrective measures be taken by state and federal officials.

The statement points out that, "For nearly half a century the American Legion has committed itself to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to the maintenance of law and order; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth."

It then comments, "Today we look back with horror and revulsion on a series of riots and burnings, of pillage and plunder by hoodlums, psychotics and criminals in cities large and small throughout this great and beautiful and bounteous land.

"The American Legion, Iowa Department, calls upon officials . . . to deal with this monstrous tragedy. We beseech a non-partisan approach to a solution of the underlying causes. We offer full support to the Presidential Commission appointed to investigate the origin of the recent disorders in our cities.

"We strongly urge the adoption of measures to prevent such awful disasters in the future. We urge speedy trial and punishment of criminals convicted of participation in such crimes. . . . Finally, we urge that stern and realistic measures be taken now, with every means in the power of local, state and federal governments, to abort future similar threats in their incipiency.

"We demand that (police, national guard and federal troop) units be permitted and directed to use their power as field commanders must do against a foreign enemy.

"Let the word go forth and now that the vicious tactics of the lawless will never again under whatever guise or for whatever cause be permitted to wreak havoc and inflict irreparable damage, suffering and despair upon American communities; that every practicable means of prevention can and will be used to that end. . . . "

We can fully understand the sentiment that prompted drafting of this "Statement of Law and Order." It is a widely prevailing one. But we cannot help but feel that it is a plea directed at alleviating a symptom and not one gauged at curing the ailment.

Would not the impact have been greater if the statement had fully recognized that the underlying cause of these disturbances is the injustice that was dealt a large minority of our citizens for nearly two centuries — and that continues to frustrate the American Negro?

Responsible Negroes hold no more brief for open rebellion and lawlessness than do their Caucasion neighbors. And, in fact, the Negroes of our metropolitan ghettos have suffered the most grievous consequences.

We agree most heartily with the Legion that every effort should be made to prevent such hostile outbreaks. But until our country pays penance for injustice too long inflicted and fully eliminates that injustice, the symptoms of the ailment will be with us.

What we sorely need, at this time, is patriotic organizations like the Legion to lead the way in insisting that the CAUSE of the riots be as vigorously attacked as the rioters, themselves.

Majestic west puts man's problems in perspective

Upon returning from his western vacation, your scribe had occasion to exchange some comments with Hans Kirchner (who recently sold his local farm to Luther Johnson) regarding the impact of western scenery on a puny human. While we were making the high spots in Montana and Wyoming, he had been likewise touring the west, including California's Sierra Nevadas and redwood forests.

It was Hans' reaction — as it was our own — that the agelessness of the rugged west, with its majestic mountains and the "big sky" of that open country, puts into a different perspective the frustrating problems and trials of the contemporary scene.

One derives an humbling sense of the inconsequentiality of man and his affairs. As one passes through visitor centers at our national parks and reads about our country's development in the terms of millions of years, the relative "seconds" of time in the world's history that man has been reaching the uneasy stage of development that he has at this moment attained take on a new meaning.

The "old west" by the measure of man extends back to a period hardly longer ago than the span of a single lifetime — a snap of a finger, by Mother Nature's clock. That lifetime has seen man "learn" much more than he's been able to assimilate and put to proper use as he's passed from the rude existence of pioneering times to the complex and sophisticated age of computers, space flight and the potential horror of nuclear warfare.

But the slow, methodical passing of the ages that produced the land that is today ours, marked by natural holocausts and upheavals of every description, suggests that man, too, will adapt to his environment and the society that it has created. The Lord's evolutionary plan demands adaption; and that fact should be clear enough to man to hurry him about the business of learning to live with his fellows.

How nature, itself, adapts is dramatically demonstrated near the west entrance to Yellowstone Park, where the earthquake of 1959 shook a mountainous area to its very foundations. Twenty-eight persons were killed, some of them lying forever buried beneath the tremendous rockslides that accompanied the quake. But in the grand scheme, the incident was no more than the quivering of a horse's hide to dislodge a fly.

A large new lake was created, the shoreline of waters impounded in a huge reservoir was drastically altered. The tops of dead trees extending above the lake's surface and new roads aligning the quake area are all that today suggest that the tragedy occurred. All is peaceful and serene.

A "fault" in the subterranean structure of the earth was the earthquake's cause. An adjustment had to be made to stabilize the earth at that point — and it WAS made.

Mankind has its "faults," aplenty; and when the pressures they create become too great, upheavals will certainly occur. What is corrupt and unstable will give way. What is strong will persist and shape the future.

That's the story that the west's mountain grandeur has to tell, we like to believe. Even while it relates torturous trials ahead, it hints that there's enough good stuff in man that he'll hammer out into a pretty presentable article in the long run.

THAT'S A FACT

By Ye Ed

A "beep, beep" outside the O'Hara residence on the Montana State Hospital grounds at Warm Springs (population 1,700 — of which 1,400-plus are inmates) heralded the arrival of TJ in his beat-up VW with attached U-Haul sittin' room. He'd apparently done some independent sight-seeing along the way, for his arrival followed that of the Gallaghers by nearly 24 hours.

Gulliver, the O'Haras' Golden Retriever with a touch of Malamute, growled throatily as TJ exited from the bug and the cat — after checking the fact that the dog was tethered to the front stoop — made his way to the rear door.

There, Ye Ed gave him entry, saying, "Greetings! You must have meandered. You'd have made it quicker if you'd been having to pay for motel accommodations, no doubt."

"VACATION DRIVERS!" TJ snorted. "I finally gave up trying to travel by day. After the first six hours on the road, I decided nine lives'd never get me here with all the damn-foolery that I saw going on.

"Montana drivers, especially! I thought I'd seen everything, by the time I got through South Dakota — but these Montanans have less regard for life an limb on the highway than any of 'em. Never been so glad to wind up a trip in my life!"

After a luxurious stretch to get some of the knots out, TJ proceeded to the living room. He gave the host O'Haras (the Gallaghers' son-in-law Red and daughter Nancy) a casual glance that dared them to take issue with accepting another guest and flopped on the carpet near Gata, the Gallagher cat.

TJ HAD NO SOONER SETTLED himself than his nose began to twitch and he glanced nervously around, muttering, "I smell smoke!"

"That's just Gata you smell," we told him.

He cocked an inquiring eyebrow at us and asked, "Don't tell me the family cat's taken up smoking pot since she got away from the home precincts? She smells like a perambulating bonfire. How come?"

We explained that when we made a rest stop for Pup, just outside of Billings, Gata had become frightened by the roar of passing traffic and taken refuge in the dead center of a road culvert about 40 feet from end to end — and refused to come out.

FIRST, WE'D SENT PUP through the pipe, hoping he'd herd the cat into the open. But he just hopped over her, and Gata stayed put. Then we'd borrowed a couple of culvert-sized dogs from a neighboring rancher, expecting that between them they'd be able to scare the cat out. But they refused to go into that dark hole.

"Just when it appeared Gata was destined to become a full-time Montana cat and we'd have to go on without her we got the bright idea of smoking her out. A nice smudge was produced at one end of the culvert by setting fire to a combination of ripe wheat and green alfalfa. After the smoke had been fanned into the culvert for about 30 seconds with a cardboard box, Gata emerged from the other end coughing and shedding copious tears."

"AND DAD WENT THE WRONG way on a one-way street," Steve contributed. As he rubbed a knot that started to rise on his head where a reproving knuckle had reminded him to shut up, Pup rose from the family group and headed for the kitchen in hope of finding something edible.

Three times he endeavored to get around the corner of the davenport, each time collapsing against it like iron filings drawn to a magnet. With a sigh, he gave up the effort remained propped against the sofa where the last collapse had left him.

TJ had watched the performance with intrigued interest, and when Pup threw in the sponge asked, "What's with him? Acts like he's got the blind staggers. What in the world do they feed dogs out here — and can cats get some, too?"

"PUP'S SOBER," WE ASSURED TJ. "Had him to the vet this afternoon, and discovered he's got an infection of the inner ear. Seems to have plumb ruined his sense of balance. Makes it real unhandy for him, 'cause he can't stand on three legs. And in case you never noticed, the male of the canine species looks on this as a real useful knack."

TJ looked at Pup, shifted his attention slowly to Gata, and commented, "Not the best of travelers, are they? Did the rest of the family make it through unscathed?"

"Very nicely, thank you," we assured him. "Quite a pleasant trip, all considered. Contributing more than somewhat to the pleasure was the new air oonditioning, which the missus had sworn she'd never take another vacation trip without. Makes a big difference when you're traveling the hot part of the year."

TJ GAVE A SHRUG AND SAID, "Of course, the VW doesn't have air conditioning — but would you care to talk about gas mileage?"

"Wouldn't be surprised but what you had us beat, there," we admitted. "Actually, the Blue Whimsy didn't do so bad on the gas — better than 16 per gallon most of the time. But executing one mountain pass, we did discover that climbing at low speed with the air contioner on has its drawbacks.

"The Whimsy made like Old Faithful, and if it hadn't been for a friendly Canadian who baled us out of trouble we might have been sitting there yet.' "

"Chalk up one for the bug," declared TJ with a grin. "Unlike some PEOPLE I know, the VW never gets so full of hot air that it boils over."

Iowa Holsteins weigh in at 3,000 pounds; swine are equipped with 6-inch porkchops, going for eight; poultry is upper crust, Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Sebastopol geese, black Jersey Giants; corn that long since has forgotten it was only a measly knee high by the Fourth of July.

You can get that oldtime feeling in the horseshoe pitching contest, the fiddlers and "Oh Susannah" — some young this year — the checker tournament on the wide, shady porch, with a Negro expert who shines shoes a frequent winner, the harness races which were part of Iowa's first fair in 1854.

You can admire the new, the permanent Iowa town and country all-gas home, a brick masterpiece for luxury living; the vast, revitalized Varied Industries Building where the latest gadgets for the affluent life are displayed (and you can be revitalized at the new cafe, with tables, yes), and the spectacularly welcoming Grand Concourse lined with flags, flowers and floodlights, free of most anything on wheels except prams and infant strollers.

"Children's Barnyard"

You can hang over the fence to smile at the very newest things on the grounds — the yellow puffs of baby chicks pecking out of their shells in the Children's Barnyard. In their small fair world will be other babies, goslings, guinea fowls, kittens, puppies, kids, lambs, calves, pony colts, all the young from Iowa farms.

The theme of this year's fair, the 109th, is "Our Pioneer Heritage." Thousands of exhibits and demonstrations make it a show-case miniature of a record 13½ billion dollar farm and industrial output, a nostalgic museum for the past that made it possible.

Carrying our visitors easily from one world to another are the authentic models of 1865 steam trains (complete with whistles and puffing). They go everywhere you want to go, including parking lots half the size of Polk County.

Rooster crowing contest

You can listen in on the rooster crowing contest, see the butter cow, watch honey bees use their own flyway in and out of Agricultural Hall, hear an Iowa farm girl tell an audience how she fixes frog legs for dinner or made a becoming wool suit, examine bread and cake made by 4-H boys of adventuresome mind, who also may have exhibited a prize Corriedale or winning heifer in the junior show, stand by while a young Iowa farmer of tomorrow judges livestock quickly and expertly.

Fifteen thousand head of livestock from all parts of the country will be entered in the glamorous national show here. Premiums total $86,838 out of all fair premiums of $231,323. Iowa Quality Meat Contests, where entries are judged on foot and dressed, is a meat improvement program for cattle, swine and sheep growers.

Iowa boys and girls through 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America (F. F. A.) — vocational agriculture show their beef and dairy cattle, sheep and swine, entries outweighing many times the small showman in the ring. The champion baby beef earns real money for his owner and tears in his behalf when inevitably sold at auction.

If you are traveling east or west or by the cuckoo's nest, drop in on this fair in the heart of the midlands. Well over a half million persons did in 1966, a record in paid attendance, and grossing more than a million dollars.

The Iowa State Fair has areas for tents, the fourth generation of some families is tenting this year on the old campground, trailers and campers, all high on a grassed, breezy — cool — hilltop. The trees were old when Sac, Fox and Sioux camped there. The grounds are completely modern, with a post office where you can mail post cards to the folks at home.

This area provides a magnificent view of Iowa's golden-domed capitol, the nightly splurge of fireworks in front of the grandstand and of the lights and movement of the fair.

When you can't take it another minute, choose a convenient bench near the new Celebrity stage on the Grand Concourse. Iowa tots will sing, dance, mime. One time or another 65 Iowa high school bands will play a concert or march by tooting, prize livestock will accept your applause, musical groups will make music, square dancers will dance.

You are certain to see more royalty than in all Europe. Presented will be the Iowa State Fair Queen and her court, Teen Queen, Sheep Empire Queen, Hereford, Angus, Shorthorn, Chester White, Spot (she's neat, the pigs are Spotted) and pork queens, Dairy Princess. There must be more, but this gives you a rough idea of the beauties on parade if you can stick around the Iowa fair for 10 days.

Teen Town for teens

Send the teen set over to Teen Town, the youth center capably managed by Des Moines high school students. Their ears will be suitably blasted by the Battle of the Bands (high school stalwarts) and teen combos playing for dancing. There's sure to be a hostess to say "Hi", show the strangers around, and point out the soft drinks, diet or not.

If you have misplaced a child or two, and didn't hear the announcement over the public address system, go to the public safety office.

Ernie Ford and that delightful singing group, The Young Americans, will be the top attraction at the grandstand shows. The television and radio star and company will be here the nights of Aug. 22-26; the afternoon of Aug. 25. The championship contest rodeo is scheduled to toss 'em around the afternoons of Aug. 21-22 and the night of Aug. 21.

Supervised playground

There's a supervised playground for children. Foreign born students attending Iowa colleges spend a day or two with us. State Day brings out Governor Harold E. Hughes and politicians. Somebody announces the blue ribbon farm family. It's fun, but we don't forget . . .

Sleek cattle, corn and wheat, beans and potatoes and pears indicate a lush, safe, secure, life. This year at the Iowa fair, in the middle of the United States, is a typical South Viet Nam village to suggest that we know that other world. Iowa men and women are in Viet Nam trying to save the fragile dwellings, the meager furnishings portrayed here, save them that far away people may grow their rice and attend their little fairs.

MR. AND MRS. DICK D. KAMM

NICKI GAYLE KILLIUS WED ON AUGUST 5 TO DICK D. KAMM

In a wedding ceremony at the Methodist church, Miss Nicki Gayle Killius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Killius, became the bride of Dick D. Kamm, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. (Dick) Kamm of Lawton, formerly of Belmond, Saturday, Aug. 5, at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Leo Andersen of St. John Lutheran church performed the ceremony.

Two baskets of Pikes Peak carnations and white gladioli decorated the chancel, along with two large brass candelabra. White satin bows marked the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of ribbed linen and Venice lace. It was styled with a demi-scoop, unadorned neckline, bracelet-length sleeves edged in lace, and with an A-line skirt falling from an empire waistline defined by lace. The chapel-length train was caught to the back waistline, detailed with lace and tiny bows. Imported silk illusion veiling fell from a crown of Swiss braid loops accented with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and ivy.

Rhonda Kamm of Lawton, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Barbara Killius, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore full-length, red peau de soie gowns, empire styled, with an inverted pleat falling from the bodice. Their pillbox crowns were designed by the bride. They carried cascade bouquets of Pikes Peak carnations with ivy.

Serving his brother as best man was Rick Kamm of Iowa City. Groomsman was Michael Cash of Clear Lake, college friend of the groom. The ushers were Scott Killius, brother of the bride, and Edwin Johnson of Kanawha. The men of the wedding party wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and Pikes Peak carnation boutonnieres, except the groom, whose boutonniere was a white carnation.

They will be at home in Mason City in apartment three at 321 third street northwest.

Both the bride and groom are 1963 graduates of Belmond Community High school. The bride graduated in 1967 from Iowa State university in Ames with a B. S. degree in applied art education. The groom attends North Iowa Area Community college in Mason City. This fall, the bride will be a member of the Rudd-Rockford-Marble Rock Community school's faculty.

Charley Keith wonders—

By Charles Keith

I never examined our family tree too closely, but as I write this on Aug. 7 I believe now that somewhere along the line there must have been some gypsy blood. Laura and I in the last little while have taken three tours by motor coach and an all-day sail down the Clyde river. Bus tours to holiday resorts and interesting places are available all summer, some are one-day and some are as much as eight days.

One-day tours cost about $2.80, eight-day tours cost about $80, which includes your lodging and all meals. One day we went as far north as Balmoral Castle, which is the summer home of the queen.

We visited the church where she worships and saw the plush pew where she sits with the Queen Mother on her right side and Philip on her left. Can't conceive that she will have a much better chance when she meets St. Peter than any of the rest of us will have.

Covered lots of Scotland

We have been to Oban and Invergarry and a lot of other places. Have seen more of Scotland than a lot of people who live here. If this country were laid out as flat as Iowa, it would extend a lot farther north and south and east, and west as well. The country is almost all rolling hills and they are divided into small fields by stone fences and numerous hedge rows. The pattern is beautiful, the green of one field matches the green of the others with a slight difference in the shading.

Cattle and sheep are numerous on the hillsides and sheep even graze on the side of busy roads, paying little heed to the traffic. Passed a castle one day — which I remember Cliff Growe saying were "a dime a dozen." It was the residence of the Duke of Argyle, and if you were interested you could visit it for 60 cents.

Bridge 1,878 years old

Wasn't a bit interested. Anybody can come and visit us any day for nothing and we will have coffee and small talk thrown in.

One of the really nice places which I can't seem to forget was a small town called Bridg-of-Earn; we were there for three days. The highway which runs through it is probably the main street and small shops are located here and there on side streets. There is a plaque which gives the history of the town and it says that the Romans passed there in 89 A.D., built a bridge over the river Dee, repaired it in 1280 and gave two more historical dates which I hope I have recorded on a picture.

When I pass the Bank of Scotland and see on the window "founded in 1695," and add to that the passing of the Romans, I can begin to realize why they call it "the old country".

Sailed down Clyde river

One day last week we took a sail down the Clyde. Passed the John Brown shipyards, where they are building the Q4, a luxury liner to replace the Queen Mary. Saw the Empress of Canada and a host of oil tankers which bring Britain's oil supply up the Clyde to be pumped off into tanks marked Esso and Shell.

This is holiday season in Britain and every summer resort we put into was crowded. Shipbuilding, which was once a thriving industry on the Clyde, is virtually at a standstill. The ships are mostly built in Japan with cheap labor.

Fun turning back clock

In about two hours we will be taking a night bus from Glasgow to London. Tomorrow we will meet Ruth Hannah at Doskin, go from there to Ostend, Belgium, to Germany and to Switzerland, and back home in about 10 days. Going to the Isle of Arran, when we get back, then to Glasgow and to Bathgate for a few days. Then, if they will let us in, we are coming home.

People have met me on the street and recalled the fun we used to have at school. One man even told me that we used to sleep together long ago. Anyway, it has been fun rolling back time 52 years, just being a wee boy again.

Not important?

It is when you consider that the time spent in handling business forms costs you many times more than the forms themselves. But business forms designed to fit your special needs can cut your clerical costs way down.

So before you fix the blame on "her" . . . why not give us a call? It may be your first step toward solving your paperwork problems.

There is no need to let a dressmaker sell you your wedding invitations and announcements. The out-of-towner gives you none of this. Think it over . . . if a wedding is in your plans for the near future, we'll be happy to work with you for exactly the correct style in printing, thermography or engraving.

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Our longtime friend-by-correspondence, Robert W. Pond of Portland, Ore., is mad at us. Quite a while ago, we wrongly reported his family background and Mr. Pond would like the record set straight. Since he's been a subscriber to The Independent for about 35 years, we would be callously ungrateful for his loyalty if we failed to do so.

The Portland Robert Pond is a nephew-in-law of the late Robert W. Rowen, who gave the money for the hospital's Rowen Room. Another — and different — Robert Pond was a step-son of Mr. Rowen, being an Illinois dentist and son of the hospital benefactor's second wife, Estelle Pond Rowen. Our subscriber was the son of Linnaeus C. and Lorena Richardson Pond.

Born at Belmond on Feb. 12, 1888, Robert's mother died of typhoid fever when he was only two months old and he was raised "by my grandfather, George Herbert Richardson," and his family. G. H. Richardson was a pioneer banker of this community. For the benefit of old-timers who knew these people, this is the straight of the matter.

Help! Attention of the possessors of kitten litters is solicited to ease a crisis in the Jim Houser household. A recent tragedy snuffed out the life of the Houser children's tortise shell kitten (a three-color job — white, black and red) and a replacement is grievously needed. If you have a kitten or young cat of this description that's available, Jim and Betty Clare would be supremely grateful to receive it. . . . The situation's serious!

Allen Suby, who's been finishing up requirements for his Master's degree this summer at Iowa State university, Ames, believes BHS alumni are a pretty dependable and responsive bunch. As basis for his Master's thesis, the high school shop instructor, made a study of the pursuits now engaging the attention of the male graduates of six BHS classes (1956 through 1961).

Inquiries were made of 181 men in the half dozen classes by means of a questionnaire and 159 — 88 per cent — took the trouble to make replies. All of the 1961 grads returned the questionnaire and only one from the Class of '60 failed to do so.

Other graduate students at ISU using the same method to gain information for theses were amazed at Al's success. None enjoyed equal success, the next highest per cent of response being a little over 70 per cent. Al's going to let us take a look at his thesis, when it's completed. He believes it should contain some facts of real interest to the Independent's readers.

Figure this one out. David Stensland of Thor entered the Hampshire market pig that won the Wright County Junior Fair grand championship in FFA competition at the Iowa State Fair — and the 198-lb. porker placed 4th. Then he entered it in the open class, and the barrow came through with the grand championship! Leaves one wondering if the top three place-winners in the Future Farmer competition weren't entered in the open judging — or if judges' opinions simply differ that much. . . . Or perhaps the top judges simply look for an E. G. Fair pig to cop the No. 1 prize (as so often happens).

Alan Madsen, who this fall will start his second year at the University of Illinois teaching English, has been invited to serve on the staff of a workshop to be held in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English. That's a nice honor; but what makes it even nicer is the fact that it's in November — at Honolulu, Hawaii.

Since Alan will draw per diem due to his part in the program, it will add up to a most economical winter vacation as there will — naturally — be time allowed for lolling on Waikiki Beach and similar pursuits.

After the four-day workshop to cue the teachers in on new problems and trends in their field, Alan will be a "conventioner" for the rest of his 10-day stay. He'd encouraged his wife to plan on accompanying him; but she decided she'd get more satisfaction from putting the money involved on the house payments. A remarkably sensible woman, sounds like.

DES MOINES (Special) — Four persons from Belmond were among 450 Drake university graduates who received degrees at August commencement exercises held Friday at the Drake fieldhouse.

Ronald W. Courson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Courson, received a Master of Arts degree in psychology. He has accepted a government position in psychological research and counseling at Denver, Colo.

Roger Henn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Henn, received a B. A. degree in psychology. His future plans are for the time being indefinite.

Mrs. Clair (Irene) Finn was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree in education as a social science major. She is resuming teaching in the Belmond Community School system after a year's leave of absence.

Mrs. A. H. (Lois) Kamm also received a B. S. degree as a social science major in the college of education and will again teach this fall at Lawton.

"ABOUT HERE," said Kirk Cunningham while pointing out in an atlas where he recently put in two years of Peace Corps duty. Sarawak is at the top of the island he indicates, which is located in the South China Sea.

When Kirk Cunningham, son of the Lloyd Cunninghams, wound up two years of service in Malaysia as a Peace Corps volunteer in June, he was presented with a ticket for air transportation home that represented a $605 expenditure and provided for not much meandering en route. Kirk decided (as did a fellow PC volunteer and St. Olaf college grad from Dennison, Minn., Dave Revier) that a travel opportunity of a lifetime was at hand and that there wasn't that much need for hurry in getting home.

He swapped the original plane ticket for one that would take him a number of places he'd like to go; which cost him an additional $135 and left him with a bit over $500 in cash. Kirk figured that if he could keep his daily expenses down to $10 for room, board, souvenirs, etc., he could spend 50 days in his trip back to the States. . . . That's what he and his traveling companion did.

His experiences could much better be committed to a book than contained in what must necessarily be a brief resume in a news story. So his report, as given to The Independent, is extremely condensed. But it was a grand and glorious trip, and perhaps enough highlights can be included to make that fact evident.

Kirk and Dave left Sarawak in the Malaysian Federation on June 23, stopping first at Singapore, which Kirk had visited twice before while a Peace Corpsman. There he bought clothes, as in two years abroad his wardrobe had reached decidedly low ebb.

From this cosmopolitan city he went on to Bangkok in Thailand, where he'd spent two weeks last fall. Since 25,000 Air Corpsmen are stationed there, he said he saw more American military men during this stop-over than anywhere else on his itinerary.

Spot on program of hospital parley to Miriam Gowdy

Mrs. R. H. Gowdy was to speak this (Thursday) morning before a meeting of hospital public relations directors and auxiliary representatives as a program feature of the annual convention of the American Hospital association being held in Chicago.

She left by air from Mason City for Chicago last Saturday to attend the convention, which is being conducted at the International Amphitheater through today after starting Monday of this week.

Mrs. Gowdy is representing the Iowa Hospital association as a staff assistant for the division of volunteer services.

Marc Ihm, Belmond Community hospital administrator, and his wife expected to spend at least two days at the convention. They have been vacationing in New England and intended to make a stop at Montreal to take in Expo '67 en route to Chicago.

1ST REUNION IN 41 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Smith of Williamsburg and Mr. and Mrs. Milford Hartz of Blairstown and their families met with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Muhlenbruch last Sunday at Pine Lake, Eldora, for a get-together. The women are step-sisters but hadn't seen each other in 41 years. A bigger reunion is planned for next year.

E. G. youth has best calf again

Paul Davis of Eagle Grove earned the unusual distinction of winning the Wright County Junior District Fair baby beef championship for the second year in a row when his 975-lb. Angus calf was awarded the grand championship last week. The 1,005-lb. Shorthorn of Mike Mechem, Clarion, was awarded the reserve championship after earlier being judged best of its breed.

Cindy Maier of Eagle Grove, who was judged best junior showman a year ago, this time won top honors for baby beef showmanship. She exhibited the reserve champion Angus.

BOHNING CLAN TO MEET

Annual reunion of the Bohning clan will be held this Sunday at the city park. Activities will start about noon. Pete Bohning is the chairman in charge of arrangements for this year's get-together.

Steering group to take charge—

Plans launched for "Tornado Day" Oct. 14th

Initial steps toward setting in motion plans for saying "thank you" to the host of friends who helped set Belmond on the path to recovery after last fall's tornado were taken Wednesday evening of last week at a meeting of organization representatives held at the city hall.

Since very shortly after the disaster of Oct. 14th, when people by the thousands expressed their sympathy for Belmond by contributing countless hours of labor, donating equipment and giving cash donations to help the community extricate itself from its ruins, it has been widely agreed that on the first anniversary of the calamity those many benefactors should be invited here to see what their assistance has helped to accomplish.

Last week's meeting was held to start formulation of definite plans. Discussion of the project was led by E. J. Elliott, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in the absence of any other guiding hand to direct the proceedings. To the end of creating a steering committee that would take responsibility for organizing plans for the event, Mr. Elliott named a pro tem committee from among the persons present to nominate a permanent planning committee. Robert Wilson agreed to served as chairman of the nominating group.

It was the consensus that a committee of seven would be of efficient size to draft the over-all plans for the Tornado Day event and assign responsibility for implementing those plans to sub-committees Mr. Wilson said on Monday that he had experienced good success in getting consent to serve from suggested members of the steering committee whom he'd been able to contact up to that time.

Another meeting of those who gathered last week, plus additional organization representatives and others interested in the project, will be held this Friday at 8:00 p. m. At that time, membership of the steering committee will be voted upon and further suggestions for the Tornado Day program will be discussed.

One thing unanimously agreed upon was that the "Thank You Day" should be kept entirely free of any commercial promotion whatever. It was thought that the tone of the occasion might be effectively set by holding a union religious service on the morning of Saturday, Oct. 14. This would serve both as a memorial to those who lost their lives and as a means of expressing gratitude for the innumerable favors rendered the community in its time of need.

This service, it was suggested, could be held in Luick Memorial Auditorium and that business places might appropriately close their doors during the time of the brief program so all could be free to attend.

In discussions of plans thus far, it has been generally agreed that provision should be made to serve some sort of free lunch to all out-of-towners who accept Belmond's invitation to return for an inspection of the community as it has recovered to date. Details of this proposal would be worked out by committee drafted for that particular purpose.

It is regarded a "must" that all homes and business establishments that have been wholly rebuilt since the tornado, plus those that had to undergo radical repairs, be identified by signs to show the reconstruction that has taken place.

MAJOR HANSON TO VIETNAM

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hanson left Wednesday of last week for Brush, Colo., to spend a few days with their son, Maj. Jerry Hanson, and family. Major Hanson leaves on Monday of next week for service in Vietnam.

Another suggestion was that a large bulletin board be erected at a central location on which could be posted drawings pertaining to the Main street arcades, possibly of the proposed riverside park, and other such material pertaining to community plans that are "in the works."

No formal program has been thought about, other than the memorial service, the day's purpose being mainly to invite people back to "look us over." To lend hospitality to the occasion, it was suggested that perhaps free coffee bars could be set up at several locations along Main street and possibly in the city park, where guests could chat and exchange experiences.

Mr. Wilson reported that the Belmond Community Theater is working on plans to present during Tornado Week a stage production tentatively called the "Tornado Follies." Stanley Norson, BHS vocal music director, and Mr. Wilson's wife Sonia have agreed to write the book for this presentation; and the theater group has volunteered to donate the proceeds from its two performances toward meeting the expenses of Tornado Day.

Further financial backing is promised by the Jaycees. It is reported by President Larry Flanagan that his organization still has about a thousand unsold copies of the tornado album, which could be offered for sale to interested guests returning to the site of their post-tornado labors. He says that money derived from this clean-up sale of albums would gladly be offered by the Jaycees to help underwrite the costs of the "Thank You Day."

One of the difficult assignments will be that of the finance committee, as there will be no way of telling in advance the number of persons who might accept the invitation to return to Belmond for a free meal, free coffee and a tour around our rejuvinated community.

Some thought has been given to the possibility of postponing the BHS Homecoming celebration from the preceding day, Friday the 13th, to have the Homecoming parade and football game with Garner as features of Tornado Day. Should this prove impractical, it was also considered that a performance of the "Tornado Follies" might be scheduled for Saturday night.

An effort will be made to obtain a complete breakdown of Red Cross Disaster Fund expenditures to be prominently displayed as a means of letting guests know "where the money went." Typical expenditures from tornado relief funds administered by various organizations would also have a place in this display.

It will be the job of the steering committee to comb through the ideas already proposed, and any additional that might be suggested, to arrive at the specific plans-for-the-day. It is being recommended to the steering committee that responsibility for implementing the various plans be assigned to individual churches and organizations as one way of assuring that the plans be satisfactorily carried through.

Wright again tops Iowa in Heart Fund support

Dr. Dale Harding of Eagle Grove, chairman of the Wright county chapter of the Iowa Heart association, has been notified that Wright county this year once again surpassed all others in the state in per capita giving to the annual Heart Fund drive. This was the third year in a row that Wright has achieved this distinction.

Dr. Harding and Mrs. Leo Woodley of Clarion, chairman of the county's Heart Fund campaign, express great pride in their fellow Wright countians — both those who responded so generously and those who gave of their time in conducting the drive.

Compared to 1966 when Wright county's Heart Fund total reached $6,439.64 for an average of 33 cents per man, woman and child residing in the county, the 1967 figure was $7,127.64 for a per capita average of 37 cents.

Not counted in the campaign proceeds was a $2,000 bequest to the Iowa Heart association — largest in the state last year; and $999.25 in heart memorials, also a top figure in Iowa for 1967. This brought the county's over-all giving to the Heart association this year to $10,126.89.

Mrs. Woodley regarded as particularly noteworthy the fact that Belmond, still very much in the throes of tornado-recovery when the Heart Fund campaign was launched in February, gave $1,346.90 compared to $1,112.35 for Clarion and $1,550.05 for Eagle Grove.

Beta Sigma Phi sorority supervised the drive in Belmond and Mrs. Leland Jenison was Pleasant township chairman.

More complete details on the 1967 Heart Fund success in Wright county will appear next week.

REPORTS FOR DUTIES

Beverly Buseman left Wednesday for Forest City. She will teach sixth grade in the school system there.

Planning meeting for CROP tonight

Friends and neighbors of rural Wright county residents will be taking time off from their busy chores the next two weeks to conduct the annual commodity canvass for CROP. Requested again this year will be contributions of soybeans or the equivalent cash amount.

Hubert Hiemstra, county chairman, will preside at the kick-off meeting tonight (Thursday) at the Clarion Methodist church at 8:00 o'clock. Wes Albin, state CROP director, will be present to explain the details of the canvass.

All workers, officers, area and township chairmen are urged to be present. Also, the public of Wright county is urged to be generous, as the small gifts of many may easily reach the goal of two carloads of soybeans from this county for needy persons many places in the world.

DR. RAY G. BROWN DIES; ONCE BELMOND RESIDENT

Funeral services for Dr. Roy G. Brown, 79, were held Saturday afternoon at the Congregational church in Onawa. He once practiced veterinary medicine here.

Dr. Brown died Thursday morning at the Onawa hospital. He was born June 15, 1888, at Jewell and came to Belmond in 1912, at which time he married Eva Packard.

Surviving besides his wife are three daughters, Mrs. Marcina Hilton of Bellview, Neb., Mrs. Maxine Davis of Sioux City and Mrs. June Rash of Hamburg; and two sons, Dr. Roy Brown, Jr. (M. D.), Bremerton, Wash., and Robert C. Brown of St Joseph, Mo.

Mrs. Fred Pals and Mrs. Leland Jenison attended the funeral services.

Belmond team 3rd in stock judging

Belmond High's FFA livestock judging team tied for third place in a field of 19 entries at the North Iowa Fair at Mason City on Wednesday of last week. Paced by Bob Cullinan, who was the 4th-highest individual judge with 244 points, the BHS Future Farmers garnered a total of 680 team points.

Hampton's FFA chapter won the championship with 825 points and Sheffield was second with 720. The Belmond total was matched by Charles City.

Keith Trager tallied 226 points for the BHS team, Jerry Boelman 210 and as alternate, Larry McAlpine made a 176 score. Belmond's entry in the individual judging, Vernon Christie, posted a 209 total.

Fund for riverside park reaches total of $1,340

After a lull last week in contributions to the fund for Belmond's proposed riverside park, a flurry of donations following the appearance of last Thursday's Independent sent the total received to date up to $1,340.

That meant $565 had been added to the earlier reported amount of $775. Contributions reported by Mrs. Merle oBnte and turned over to The Independent, which is acting as clearing house for park donations, were:

These funds will be used to finance the drafting of plans for establishment of the park, acquisition of land options and related expenses.

Some objection has been voiced over the proposed inclusion of a camping site as a park feature, considering that a commercial trailer camp is already operating on Highway 69.

It is pointed out by those who have been promoting the riverside park that this particular aspect of the plans is of longest range of any of the park's adjuncts.

Without question, it would be a number of years before a campground could be a reality, for it would involve acquistion of much more land that would likely be practical for a considerable period of time.

Further, it is pointed out that if the campground should come into being, it would have to have an overseer. It is not the intention of the park promoters that the park shall to any degree be a detriment to any local businesses, the planners assure, but that it should be an asset to Belmond business in general.

Emory Van Gerpen soon to Nigeria

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gerpen last Sunday evening attended evening services at the Presbyterian church at Sibley, whose pulpit their son, Rev. Emory Van Gerpen, has lately been filling.

Emory on Sunday evening was preaching his farewell sermon preparatory to departure with his family for a mission field in Northern Nigeria, Africa. The younger Van Gerpens have been on furlough in the U. S. for more than a year after return from missionary work in the Philippines.

Before going to Sibley, the elder Van Gerpens on Sunday had attended a Brunes family reunion held at Mankato, Minn.

NIC NELSON BACK HOME AFTER VISIT IN NORWAY

Nic A. Nelson has returned home from a two-month visit in Norway, arriving in Belmond last Thursday evening.

On Sunday, a welcome-home dinner was held at the Russell Lonnevik home with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Elling Ellingston, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nelson, Mrs. Tillie Benson and Mrs. Palma Hanson as guests.

Rev. and Mrs. Everett Nelson and family of Roland visited in the afternoon.

Getting Belmond "dolled up" in preparation for Tornado Day on Oct. 14 was a major matter of consideration at Monday night's council meeting.

Stanley Moe was awarded the job of replacing sidewalks at the city park that were demolished by the comings and goings of heavy equipment during the clean-up of Belmond following the tornado.

He had agreed to do the job for $1,120, which was the lowest figure of three proposed by as many contractors who were approached regarding the improvement.

The council was notified of completion of repairs on the river bridge on west Main street. Wright county picked up the $240 tab for welding and straightening steel members damaged by the tornado and replacing railings that were damaged beyond repair.

Bids have also been received by the county for giving the bridge a coat of green paint, the low figure being $2,203. Just how soon this job will be done is a subject of some uncertainty at the moment, as the supervisors feel the city should share 50 per cent of the cost and the council is reluctant to agree to this arrangement.

Wallace, Holland and engineering associates of Mason City were authorized by the council to proceed with a preliminary survey of the riverside park area and drafting of preliminary plans for its development. Estimated cost of this work was set at $1,380.

A representation of women interested in establishment of the new park suggested to the council that it might relieve members of the park committee of time-consuming responsibilities if a three-man, elective park commission were set up. This could be done only if approved by the voters as a special election issue. The council agreed to take the matter under study.

Down nearly 200 since '64—

See school enrollment drop again

When classes take up Wednesday of next week for the start of the 1967-68 school year, another drop in enrollment is expected that will bring close to 200 the decrease in number of students in Belmond Community District in a span of three years' time.

From a peak of 1,324 reached in 1964-65, the enrollment total dropped to 1,257 in '65-66, down to 1,184 last year, and is predicted at 1,135 for the school year just beginning.

Registration of new students is to take place today and tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, between 9:00 a. m. and noon and 1:00 to 4:00 p. m. New students entering the 8th or a lower grade will register at the junior high building and newcomers to BHS will register at the high school.

A workshop for all faculty members for the purpose of reviewing instructional plans and objectives will bring the teachers together to meet with the school administrators on Monday and Tuesday.

Orientation for the freshmen and such new upperclassmen as may be entering BHS for the first time will be on Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at Luick Memorial Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Student Council and the guidance department, the program will consist of presentations by the presidents of various student organizations telling of their activities. The newcomers will also have an opportunity to meet their teachers and tour the building

Principal Owen Bateson says that parents of kindergarten students will be receiving cards by mail to inform them if their youngster will be attending in the morning or afternoon.

Regular order of classes will be held on Wednesday, with school taking up at 8:40 a. m. and students being dismissed for the day at 3:05 p. m.

There will be six new teachers on the faculty. In high school they will be: Donald Aanrud, biology and general science; Danny Cain, 9th and 10 grade English; Carol (Mrs. George) Richards, home economics.

Junior high: Douglas Heath, science; Phillip Johnson, 8th and 9th grade mathematics; Marion Little, English and social studies. The two men will be replacing, respectively, Donald Cleveland, who succeeds Jerald Torgerson as guidance counselor; and Don Jones, transferred to high school as math instructor.

In the high school office, Rosetta Busick is taking the place of Rita Dorr as secretary. The latter is enrolling as a student at the University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls.

Hot lunch charges will be slightly higher this year, due to escalating food prices. In junior and senior high, the price per meal will go up from 30 to 35 cents and in grades one through six from 25 cents to 30 cents.

Book rental will remain the same as last year: kindergarten, $1.00; grades 1-3, $2.50; grades 4-6, $2.75; junior high, $3.00; and high school, $3.00. Ardeth Paule, school nurse, advises that information on school insurance available to the students will be sent to parents about a week after school starts.

Patrolman's hearing next Thursday to explore mystery of beef quarter

On Aug. 31 the state executive council is to consider the reinstatement of Highway Patrolman Merlin J. Hogan of Webster City whose "resignation" was accepted June 23 after he acquired a quarter of beef in a manner that has been a subject of considerable controversy.

It was on June 18 that a tractor-trailer bearing a load of beef from Spencer Pack to Chicago came a-cropper at the turn-off from Highway 69 south of Belmond onto Highway 3 toward Hampton. It tipped over but the trailer did not break open and the meat — or most of it — was transferred to another rig.

Called to the site were Patrolman Hogan and Deputy Sheriffs Bob Shaw Vernon Elston. That fact is established. The patrolman first denied to his superiors that a quarter of beef was placed in the trunk of his patrol car; later conceded that this was true and said that he'd bought the meat from the owners.

Subsequently, Patrolman Hogan declared — as reported by the Des Moines Register — that the meat was to be equally divided among himself and the two deputies. Shaw and Elston have flatly denied to Sheriff Bob Blecker that they had any part in taking of the meat or that they had agreed to accept any part of it. The sheriff says he believes implicitly that his aides are telling the truth.

Answers to a good many questions and clarification of a number of contradictory statements remain to be obtained at the executive council meeting next Thursday. Wright County Attorney DeWayne Knoshaug says that if questions are left unanswered by the hearing, he intends to submit the matter to the Wright county grand jury in September.

Stalker has 33 jr.-sr. candidates

Approximately 33 BHS football players, including nine returning lettermen, were buckling down to business this week under Coach Stalker and staff in preparation for the 1967 football season. These were the upper classmen. In addition about 40 sophomores and freshmen were on hand, with several in the sophomore bunch that pose something of a problem.

That problem was whether they would better serve in the varsity ranks or continue as mainstays of the freshmen aggregation. That was something that Stalker and his assistants — Ted Bosch, Gerry Kittel, Don Jones and Jack Marsden — will be deliberating as the squad begins to shape up for its Sept. 15th opener here with Clarion.

The bulk of the responsibility for keeping the Broncos' 15-game win streak intact will fall on the nine veterans. Don Mason will be stepping into the quarterback slot. Rick Hawley, with a little additional beef to help, but still somewhat undersized by accepted standards, will likely get the nod at fullback, and the other backfield returnees are Mike Rinehart and Jim Studebaker. Their main use was as secondary defenders a year ago, but they'll be moving into the ball-carrying ranks.

Both end positions appear in good shape with Terry Nelson and Joel Gabrielson again available. Greg Fuller, only two-letter winner on hand, will be back at his line-backing duties. He shared time between guard and center last season on offense, with Gary Gabriel one spelling him a fair share of the time at the pivot. Mark Gabrielson, a 2nd team all-NIC choice at guard, will be an important asset in the line.

Absence of experience at either of the tackle positions points up the fact there'll either have to be some shifting of assignments among the veterans or some of the returning reserves will have to come through like gang-busters. Those jobs are question marks that the coaches are concerned with finding satisfactorily staffed.

Only half a dozen seniors in addition to the lettermen were on the varsity squad last year: Gene Pals, who showed some late-season promise as a back; Vance Jensen, a light-weight halfback; Don Goeman, end; Mike Sheriff, tackle, and Les Andrews, guard. Plus Steve Courtney, occasional placekicker, who is settling for a manager's assignment this year, assisting Jim Boettner with squad chores.

Hawley is the only junior letterman, indicating that his classmates on the squad are going to have to show some important progress this fall if Belmond's position as North Iowa conference gridiron kingpin is to be satisfactorily defended.

A fair share of these boys were key performers on the Junior Bronco team of last season but have yet to establish themselves as of varsity calibre. Sophomore stalwarts of the underclassmen outfit a year ago were Tim Dirks, Lennie Johnson, Randy Turner and Jerry Stadlander. They're all boys of good size and may press for varsity assignments — particularly if some of the relatively untried juniors fail to deliver.

Misner on hand for 3rd season as Bulldog ace

DES MOINES (Special) — Bob Misner of Belmond, a halfback, is one of 33 Drake university football lettermen who has Coach Jack Wallace whistling at his work as he prepares for the Bulldog gridders' opening drill on Thursday of next week.

Although only a junior, Misner is one of only two candidates for offensive duty who have lettered twice. Bob's scintillating play last season — Drake's best ever: a 10-game route with an 8-2 mark — earned him a number of mentions in the Drake record book.

Fifty players have been invited by Wallace to start pre-season workouts at Camp Dodge, home of the Iowa National Guard. The Bulldog mentor is launching his third year as Drake coach and regards he's been fortunate to have had Misner on his squad throughout that span of time.

Another former North Iowa conference star on the squad is Dale Brown of Britt, who failed to letter at fullback last fall only because of injuries.

Area contenders win high places in tractor pull

Don Neftinger of Kanawha was second at 13,000 lbs. when he covered a distance of 187 ft. 1½ in.

Only tentative placings were announced, pending verification that some of the top winners were qualified by residence to compete. Entrants must be from Wright county or an adjoining township.

MR. AND MRS. FRED A. GRIFFEN

Nancy Christenson, Fred Griffen wed at Trinity church August 12

Baskets of white gladioli and lighted candles decorated the chancel of St. Olaf Lutheran church on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 12, for the 3:00 o'clock wedding of Nancy Lynn Christenson and Fred A. Griffen. Rev. Oscar Laaveg performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Lloyd H. Christenson of Kanawha and the groom's parents are Mr and Mrs Forrest F. Griffen of Baton Rouge, La.

The nuptial music was played by Mrs Ronald Courson, who also accompanied Melody Courson as she sang "Morgen" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. She had designed and made her floor-length, empire gown of white peau de soie with an overlay of Alencon lace on the bodice and elbow-length sleeves. Her detachable chapel train, also of white peau de soie, fell from the waist accented with an Alencon bow.

The bride's shoulder-length veil of white silk illusion was held by a crown of pearls. Her only jewelry was a drop pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of white Fuji mums with salal leaves.

Lynn Ellingston, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a satin pillow. He wore a white topcoat and dark trousers. His boutonniere was a white daisy.

Ushers were Leo Ellingston, uncle of the bride, and Dudley Thompson, cousin of the groom. The men of the wedding party wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres, except the groom's, boutonniere was a white rose.

The mother of the bride wore a three-piece, mint green silk-linen suit and the grooms' mother a three-piece suit of peach linen. Each wore beige accessories and a corsage of Tropicana roses.

Mrs Raymond Ellingston, aunt of the bride, greeted the guests as they arrived and presided at the guest book. Charlotta and Debra Ellingston, cousin of the bride, were gift pages.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Elling Ellingston, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, grandparents of the groom. Flowers worn by the women were white roses and white daisies. The men wore white carnation boutonnieres.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church dining room. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Christenson of Bricelyn, Minn., uncle and aunt of the bride, were host and hostess. Mrs. Leland Lieuwen of Burlington, aunt of the groom and Mrs. Jack Spitter, cousin of the bride, cut and served the white four-tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Elmer Michelson of Minneapolis and Mrs. Robert V. Nelson, both aunts of the bride, poured coffee. Mrs. Ray Ellingston served the punch.

Opening and displaying the gifts were Bonnie Campbell of Ainsworth and Judy Titterington of Muscatine, college friends of the bride, and Mrs. Danny Swearinger of Clear Lake, cousin of the bride. Waitresses were Mrs Ron Fjetland of Kanawha, cousin of the bride, Vickie Pals of Minneapolis and Janis Mennenga.

Also assisting with the serving were Mrs. Henry Hill, Mrs. Leland Dorr and Mrs. Arnold Nodland of Belmond and Mrs. Bill Mewes and Mrs. Melvin Olson of Kanawha.

Following a trip to Arkansas, the couple will be at home in San Antonio, Tex., after Aug. 19th. The groom is a member of the San Antonio symphony orchestra and the bride will be teaching second grade in Converse Elementary school.

A dinner for the wedding party was held by the groom's parents at the Olde Belmond Inn after the Friday evening rehearsal that preceded the wedding.

Denhardt-Hoppel nuptial vows spoken Aug. 5th at Jefferson

The Trinity Lutheran church at Jefferson was the scene of the wedding of Miss Nancy Sue Denhardt, daughter of Mr and Mrs Delmar Denhart of Jefferson, and Richard Dean Hoppel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hoppel. The double ring wedding vows were spoken at 2:00 p.m. on Aug. 5th with Rev Delbert E. Weiss officiating at the ceremony.

Mrs Joyce Kinsman of Jefferson played the organ and accompanied Mrs Lois McAtee of Jefferson as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a gown of Alencon lace and imported organza over faille. It was fashioned with a empire waistline and an A line skirt, having a front lace panel that pleated into a back bustle. The fan-shaped, chapel-length train was trimmed with wide lace edging and flowed from the low back neckline of the gown. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion veiling fell from a tiara of lace petals accented with drop pearl trim. She carried a bouquet of feathered carnations centered with yellow sweetheart roses.

Jane Denhardt of Jefferson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Janice Denhardt, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore floor-length gowns, sky blue in color, and carried colonial bouquets of carnations.

Roger Hoppel served his brother as best man and Larry Suntken was groomsman. Ushers were Bill Lacey, brother-in-law of the groom, and Neil Rabe, cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs Roger Hoppel, sister-in-law of the groom, poured coffee and Mrs. Bill Lacey, sister of the groom, dipped punch.

The bride graduated from AIB in Des Moines and the groom from Gale Institute in Minneapolis, Minn. The latter is employed by Continental Airlines at Chicago, Ill. The couple is at home at 1060 Wheeling road in Mt Prospect, Ill.

Janssen finishes recruit training

SAN DIEGO (FHTNC) — Marine Private Jimmy G. Janssen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene S. Janssen of Belmond, recently graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here. He and several Iowa friends had trained together under the "Buddy" enlistment program.

He is presently undergoing about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

Marine recruit training has been intensified to emphasize rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects and other fields serves to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.

switch to Total Electric Climate

Heaters have to be stored. Fans have to be dragged out . . . dusted off . . . repaired . . . replaced. And then all they do is move hot air around.

Is that what happens around your house when the weather takes a turn towards July? This year . . . really cool it! Don't switch one losing weather battle for another. Switch to Total Electric Climate.

With Total Electric Climate, there's just one switch to think about all year round. This one central control switch both heats and cools your home. Always to the perfect comfort temperature.

And the humidity level is always comfort perfect, too. Because Total Electric Climate puts moisture into the air when it's dry . . . soaks it up when it's damp.

So, why fight the battle of seasonal weather changes? Switch to Total Electric Climate. It takes any weather change in stride.

Even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister. — Mark 10:45

Advertising helped form economy; now whipping boy

It is rather ironical that an element so basic in the creation of this nation's robust economy as consumer advertising should find it so frequently necessary to defend itself. Long ago, the old canard that advertising adds materially to the cost of a widely advertised product should have been recognized as precisely just that. For actually, the mass production that it makes possible more than compensates for what cost it adds to the sale price of most articles.

Now comes a proposal from the Federal Trade Commission to the effect that restrictions on advertising should be devised to prevent it from creating irrational brand preferences and misleading consumers as to the actual differences between products.

In response to this allegation, Justice John Marshall Harlan observed, "It is very difficult to discover at what point advertising ceases to be an aspect of healthy competition. It is not the commission's function to decide which lawful elements of the product . . . should be considered useful and which should be considered the symptoms of industrial sickness. It is the consumer who must make the election through the exercise of his purchasing power."

While we must confess to having some reason for prejudice in the matter, we have the conviction that Justice Harlan's observation has definite merit. If one producer is more successful than his competition in selling his product via advertising, we can see little benefit to the public by penalizing him for that success.

The charge that this weakens competition by developing consumer loyalty for particular products and companies, as the FTC contends, we cannot regard as a valid one. There are sufficient legal safeguards against out-and-out misleading advertising to protect the public from flat misrepresentation.

Any impairment of the channels through which information is conveyed to the public should be subject to careful scrutiny. In this connection, we regard that the recently instituted tax on advertising as a "service" by the latest Iowa General Assembly was of questionable advisability.

It will, of necessity, be passed on to the advertiser by the media required to pay it — and the advertisers, in general, will inevitably pass the cost on to the public.

Since advertising serves as an important avenue for the dissemination of information that goes far beyond the limits of purely commercial promotion of consumer goods, the tax is a restrictive influence on the spread of public information. As such, it provides something of a precedent for control of such information by taxation, which would be completely contradictory to the principles defended by the "freedom of the press" concept.

It behooves the powers-that-be on both the federal and state levels to examine carefully the potential effects of such legislation as the FTC proposes and the Iowa legislature has enacted. Serious dangers lurk in any legal limitations to the unimpeded flow of legitimate information.

If asked to help on Tornado Day plans, say "Yes!"

Remember the miracles of helpfulness that were performed in our behalf just eight short months ago last week as we gazed still unbelievingly at our ruins, tornado-wracked and wondering, "Where do we go from here?"

By the thousands friends both known and unknown came in to lend us a hand, offered help of every description, dug into their pockets to help undo the damage, and fanned the spark of hope that kept us going during those first days and weeks of deepest discouragement.

Now, plans are underway for saying "thank you" to those wonderful people on the anniversary of the tornado disaster; and if ever Belmond needed to "measure up" to a challenge, it does now in preparing for The Big Day on Oct. 14th.

How many will respond to our invitation to come back and "see how we're doing" can only be conjectured. Certainly they'll be here by the hundreds. They may very well be here by the thousands.

We would say that Belmond is under heavy responsibility to make certain that it turns out to be a memorable occasion for all concerned.

Good leadership in planning the affair is assured by the type of individuals who have consented to accepted nomination to the steering committee. That's going to be the BIG job. But to make the Tornado Day observance a success will require willing performance of a host of lesser jobs. That is where a LOT of us are going to have to fit into the picture.

It will be necessary for the planners to receive ready cooperation as they hand out committee assignments. The time is all too brief during which to set up all the arrangements — just seven short weeks.

If you are one of the many who at some time asked, "How can we EVER show our gratitude to these wonderful people who did so much for us?" (and who among us didn't?), you may very well be requested to help in some small way to supply the answer.

If you do get a phone call asking, "Will you . . . ?" and the opportunity is given to contribute in some modest way to making our Tornado Day guests welcome, DO say yes! Won't you?

Let's give ourselves reason to be as proud of the hospitality extended to our visitors on Oct. 14th as we have a right to be proud of the remarkable recovery on which they so heartily launched us.

We always look forward to reading Congressman H. R. Gross's weekly dispatch from Washington, "On the Capitol Firing Line," eager to see who he's mad at this time. H. R. keeps himself pretty well stirred up; and we must confess that there is merit to a great many of his complaints. He has the old-fashioned idea that "wrong is wrong," no matter how highly placed and distinguished the offender of his sense of fitness may be.

In his news letter of last week, Congressman Gross was bringing his constituents up to date on the latest status of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, who doesn't seem to be one of H. R.'s favorite people. We were glad for the information, for we'd temporarily lost track of the Harlem diletante since his re-election to Congress last April following his dismissal from the ranks by his peers.

Comments the 3rd District Representative: "Early in January, the House of Representatives refused to seat Powell and this member took a leading part in that action. The society of bleeding hearts promptly denounced those who refused to seat him, insisting their action was too drastic.

Now, four months have passed since the reverend gentleman was reinstated by his constituents and Mr. Gross divulges that "Powell has refused even to present himself before the House to take the oath of office. Instead, he continues to disport himself on the island of Bimini — fishing and patronizing the End of the World Bar.

"Meanwhile, and strangely, U. S. Attorney General Clark has made no effort to haul Powell into court and prosecute him for defrauding the government. Equally strange, the bleeding hearts are now silent as to why Powell refuses to even try to claim the office to which he was elected on April 11. Why?"

We'll readily go along with Congressman Gross on this one. . . . Why?

From the Typewriters of Other Editors

THIS is how . . . "ithers see us"!

It is amusing to us, American-based as we are, to see New York shops and sidewalks through British eyes. We enjoy the opportunity given us to do this by two pages of a recent issue of The Observer Review (London).

First impression The Observer's Valerie Wade reported to her readers was that of the New York girls. "The gulf between the old world and the new (England being the new) is the length of the skirt," she wrote.

AMERICAN WOMEN, OUR overseas visitor found, tend to be cautious about skirt lengths even though miniskirts abound in American magazines. When Miss Wade wore what she called a "micromini" on the streets of New York, she was surprised to find people staring at her and murmuring "Twiggy."

This observation does not disturb us. Why should women of any country accept fashion edicts without question? But we do feel a prick when she says that American women wear the wrong shoes and too many bangles with the Mary Quant dresses they import.

AND WE ARE A BIT SURPRISED when she describes a popular American bakery item as "a muffin made in New York and served for breakfast . . . under the title English muffins." (We always thought they were so British.)

She is restrained in her comment on American society. One sight, however, she found "frightening, . . . an evidence of female domination." It was to see a woman in a men's wear department buying her husband a suit in his absence.

But Americans like to be studied and be made the object of frank and friendly comment. Come again, Miss Wade. — Christian Science Monitor

"Been getting any comments on the delights of taking family pets along on vacation?" asked TJ, the office cat, after noting a pile of newspapers occupying his chair and thereupon with a look of martyrdom curling up to his comfort on the carpet.

"Since you ask," we confessed, "we have had a few friends imply that taking a cat and dog along on a vacation trip strikes them as about on a par with inviting a mother-in-law along on a honeymoon.

"Nevertheless, it is NOT a unique undertaking. We're told that when the Jim Housers and Dwight Tyrrells went on a joint Minnesota excursion that Barrister Houser saw fit to take the boys' kitten and dog along."

"PART WAY," TJ INTERJECTED; to which we responded, "Yes. We understand that is true."

"A horrible tragedy," observed the cat, "that the Housers should have permitted the kitten to escape from an open window and come to an unfortunate end beneath the wheels of the Tyrrell auto, following.

"Had it been the dog . . . ," TJ left the sentence hanging, but it was clear that he would not have regarded the incident so painful, had a mere canine life been lost.

Trying to swerve the conversation to a pleasanter plane, we commented, "It was fortunate that the Housers subsequently had the opportunity to assuage the lads' grief by acquiring an unwanted puppy to replace the late lamented kitten."

"THE EXCHANGE SCALE," said TJ testily, "was hardly proper or adequate. It would take more than two pups to compensate for the loss of one cuddly kitten from a household. I only hope that Houser's judgment is sounder where legal affairs are concerned than that displayed in voluntarily acquiring a virtual epidemic of dogs.

"Dogs are so brash . . . so noisy . . . so — so unrefined. And from what I hear of Pup's vacation trip, so STUPID!"

"You refer, no doubt, to the chasm incident?" we suggested. Pup, the Gallagher pooch, while in Glacier National Park had exercised the dubious lack of foresight of bounding over a restraining wall at a look-out point in pursuit of a squirrel.

SUDDENLY REALIZING THAT beyond a brief slope of loose rock was a drop-off of a few thousand feet, he desperately churned gravel to avoid the prospect of becoming a flying dog doomed to a dead-stick landing if he didn't get back to his point of departure. About half a hundred spectators heaved a sigh of relief, joined in heartily by Pup, himself, when his retreat was blessed with success.

"Pup's not really stupid," we remarked defensively. "Impulsive, perhaps. And it might be said that the family cat earned something less than an A for intelligence when she holed out in that culvert near Billings and had to be smoked out."

Disregarding the reference to Gata's flightly performance, TJ plunged on. He's convinced that there's no such thing as an ignorant cat — or a smart dog. He demanded, "Just how intelligent would you regard a 40-pound dog who wants to tangle with a 600-pound bear?"

"Oh," we said, "so you heard about that, too?"

ALL THE WAY THROUGH Yellowstone, Pup set up the worst sort of racket everytime the car passed a bear — some of which could probably have destroyed him with a good sneeze. Each time a bruin appeared at the roadside, Pup snarled "Let me at him!" and only the fact that the air-conditioner permitted comfort behind closed windows saved him from becoming a wad of dogburger on eight or 10 occasions.

With a grin, we recalled the perplexed looks that passed over the faces of several of the bears that could clearly hear the insults being hurled at them by the black-and-white creature passing by in the blue car.

"YOU WOULDN'T FIND A CAT in a frenzy to take on a cougar," TJ declared. " . . . which would make about as much sense as Pup choosing a bear. Which suggests what Jim Houser is letting himself in for, turning his house into a kennel."

Having brought the conversation around to its starting point, TJ composed himself for a snooze. It was all right with us. You sure never get anywhere talking about dogs with him.

Anti-Chinese riots in Bangkok—

Rangoon, Burma, was next. Kirk had a visa for only 24 hours; but a bit of unseemly weather that kept the plane grounded stretched his stay to three days. Because travelers were restricted to their hotels after 5:00 p. m. due to the temporary imposement of martial law on the city, his sight-seeing was hampered. Rangoon was at the moment afflicted with an anti-Chinese demonstration, prompting the clamp-down.

Kirk notes that the Malaysian nations seem no more than moderately concerned over the possibility of a Communist take-over. But in Burma and a majority of other Asian countries in that geographical area there is a grim determination to keep out from under Red China's thumb.

On to Calcutta, India, for just an afternoon and night, Kirk found this large metropolis "less filthy" than he'd anticipated it would be; but with "many more beggars" than he'd expected. From Calcutta, the next hop was to Khatmundu, Nepal, nestled in a beautiful Himalayan valley.

Famed Mount Everest was in the fringe of surrounding mountains. Kirk was very taken by Khatmundu and spent a whole week sight-seeing. The lovely valley was terraced on all sides for farming and "it was altogether a pleasant spot," the Belmond traveler recalls.

From Nepal, it was back to India and two interesting days at Benares on the Ganges river. This is the Hindus' holy city and it is continually teeming with pilgrims bound for its temples and a douse in the holy river.

A happy hereafter is regarded better assured if one's mortal remains end up in the muddy Ganges. The well-to-do who can buy enough wood for a proper funeral pyre have their ashes deposited in the sacred waters. Less fortunate individuals who are mortally ill do the best they can in the way of a bonfire; which may succeed in only charring the corpse before it is assigned to its watery grave.

Impressed by Taj Mahal

Kirk is still enthralled on thinking back on his visit to Agra, home of the Taj Mahal. Built by a rajah as a memorial to his wife, who died in giving birth to her 14th child, this famed temple is beautiful beyond belief, Kirk declares. Surrounding it is an indescribably lovely botanical garden, which sets off the graceful, white marble edifice with added impressiveness.

At Delhi, Kirk had the unexpected pleasure of crossing paths with a BHS classmate, Kathy Norris, whose parents (the George Norrises) some time ago moved to Minnesota from the farm near Morse lake they operated when she was attending school. She'd been a Peace Corps volunteer in the Philippines and also on the way home.

Kirk spent four or five days in the Indian capital seeing its points of interest before moving on to Srinigar in Kashmir. He remembers this stop-over with pleasure as it was accompanied by the most comfortable, cool weather he'd enjoyed. There he lived in a private household with four servants eager to please the guests.

Pony ride proves bad idea

Kashmir, formerly a part of India, is a Moslem stronghold encircled by Hindu territory. It is in the Himalayas and Kirk and his companion took a ride by ponyback into the mountains. The sore muscles they suffered the following day left them wondering if that had been the thing to do.

It was then back to Delhi overnight and on the next day to Kabul, Afghanistan, which was windy, dry and dusty — and decidedly fly-ridden. Kirk's hotel room was only 40 cents a night, a price that he regarded as just about right for the conditions.

At Teheran, Iran, a German-operated hotel provided both inexpensive and comfortable living, plus a competent musical combo that seemed like a touch of home. Besides interesting sight-seeing opportunities, Teheran offered delicious Persian melons and a variety of other toothsome fruits that the travelers thoroughly enjoyed.

Saw "enough" temples

Kirk admits that at about this point he'd nearly had his fill of viewing temples and museums, such being the prime tourist attractions almost everywhere he went.

His visit to Istanbul, Turkey, was highlighted by simultaneous arrival at the airport of a plane bearing Pope Paul VI for a precedent-setting visit to that land.

His stay at Athens, Greece. prompts recollections not only of famed ruins, but . . . "those bikinis! Wow!" There seemed to be a contest among the beautiful girls of many nationalities on the beaches to see who could outstrip whom in the matter of undress.

At Athens, and again at Rome — and for the rest of the trip — Kirk found his status changing from that of just a traveler to that of an "American tourist." This brought with it a change in public attitude and acceptance, for the "American tourist" is more tolerated for the money he may spend than genuinely welcomed.

Liked Portuguese people

After viewing the famed attractions of Rome, "the eternal city," Kirk proceeded to Barcelona, Spain, where he witnessed his first bull fight and found it interesting — if rather gory. He also was impressed by a large cathedral that has been under construction for 200 years. It's still less than half completed, but the hope is that another century will see it finished!

Lisbon, Portugal, was found by Kirk to be an extraordinarily "clean, prim and proper" city and the Portuguese a mannerly and friendly people. He took in another bull fight here, discovering that the marked difference between it and the one in Spain lay in the fact that in Portugal the bulls are allowed to survive.

One day, Lisbon to M. C.

With his money running out, Kirk had to forego a number of European "ports of call" that his plane ticket would have permitted him to visit and a week ago Friday he departed from Lisbon by jet for New York. Before the day had passed, he'd arrived at Mason City after plane transfers at New York and Chicago.

Last weekend, Kirk was scouting for a room at Iowa City preparatory to entering the law school at the University of Iowa this fall. He's looking over his shoulder somewhat uncertainly to see if the draft board has an interest in him.

He's about got travel "out of his system" for the time being, and would just as soon buckle down to studying for a while.

TRADING AT HOME IS TO YOUR ADVANTAGE

There is no need to let a dressmaker sell you your wedding invitations and announcements. Your "home-town" newspaper is where you expect wedding pictures, detailed wedding write-ups, stories of showers and receptions to be used . . . and we are glad to print them. The out-of-towner gives you none of this. Think it over . . . if a wedding is in your plans for the near future, we'll be happy to work with you for exactly the correct style in printing, thermography or engraving.

The Belmond Independent

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 48 NO. 49 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1967 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER 12 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Members of the Tornado Day steering committee who bear responsibility for planning the event were put squarely on the spot by a story picked up by last Sunday's Des Moines Register from The Independent. Prominently displayed on the front page was a resume of last week's Independent story on the proposed "Thank You Day."

Since the front Mainstreeter is correspondent for the Register, he KNOWS the story was a simply a copy-desk re-write of the one that appeared on this page last week. We'd intended waiting a bit to see how plans were shaping up before launching statewide publicity.

With thousands of Register readers now advised of the Oct. 14th anniversary plans, we'd jolly well better get on the stick and see that they pan out to Belmond's credit. Maybe this challenge is all for the best. It should spur us all to lend a hand wherever asked. We're GOING to have company. That's sure! Let's be ready for it!

A pre-season write-up on Bronco football expectations which Ye Ed sent into the Mason City Globe-Gazette brought snorts of derision — so we're told—from some of the rival North Iowa conference coaches. Trying to estimate weights of some of the returning gridders in the absence of Coach Chuck Stalker, we referred to last season's programs to see what the boys were listed at a year ago. We added five or 10 pounds in most cases, to adjust for a year's growth. The Bronco-watchers suspicioned that some of the weights were STILL short of reality. Coach Stalker admits, with a grin, that mebbe that might have been the case. And that, in spite of the loss of some good-sized boys by graduation, BHS is not going to have a bunch of underfed flea-weights facing the opposition.

There can be little doubt as to whom Drake university's football coach, Jack Wallace, expects "the action" from when the Bulldogs get into the swing of things this fall. It's clearly suggested by the Drake schedule poster that gives Bulldog fans the word on when and where the D-men will be performing week by week when the season gets underway.

We understand that the "dope book" issued by the Drake athletic department to cue sports writers in on Bulldog gridiron records, statistics, etc. — AND the game programs — are similarly adorned, though we haven't seen copies. Bob's well started on rewriting numerous sections in that record book, already; and with two season's yet to go!

From 4414 Pleasure avenue, Sea Isle City, N. J. (sounds like a real pleasant place to be from, doesn't it?) comes a request for Independent subscription rates with the following explanation: "Gentlemen — I would like a two-year subscription to your paper. It's my wife's home town paper. We were married there in 1916."

Writer of the inquiry was Charles F. Dalrymple, who neglects to identify the flower of old Belmond he plucked as his bride those many years ago. We hope he will see this item and fill us in.

In a postscript, Mr. Dalrymple noted, "We have a customer at our store whose father is a salesman who visits Belmond weekly. His name is Bill Berry." Who Bill peddles his wares for, we don't know; or on whom he calls. It's always pleasing to the Mainstreeters to provide ex-Belmondites a link with their past via The Independent.

Believing there simply can't be anything "unlucky" about a good thing, the Wright county sheriff's office is preparing to set up its 13th annual Labor Day weekend rest stop at the Highway 3-69 picnic grounds eight miles south of Belmond. Well over 100,000 travelers have enjoyed the rest stop's hospitality since the first year it was conducted — 'way back in '55.

Sheriff Bob Blecker and his deputies like to think that there are a few more people alive today, due to the pause for refreshment that these thousands of motorists have taken. In truth, Wright county has been a remarkably accident-free haven over the fall holiday weekend these many years.

This time, the Wright County Bankers association is underwriting the cost of refreshments (the travelers customarily kick in freely, too). Helping man the rest stop will be Explorers, Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls. There will be free coffee, milk and doughnuts for all the weary wayfarers. And again — who knows? — some lives may actually be saved.

Library changes to regular hours

Belmond public library this week resumed its customary school-year schedule. There will no longer be morning hours, notes the librarian, Mrs. Richard Woodin. Instead, the library will be open Wednesday and Saturday until 9:00 p.m.

Mrs. Ruth Brandmeyer has left for Indianola to take up her duties as housemother for a sorority at Simpson college. No regular assistant librarian has been hired to take her place.

The library now has in use two pamphlet files that were purchased with memorial money given in the name of the late Betty (Mrs. L. C.) Long, who served a number of years as a library trustee. The files were custom-made for the library at the Fort Madison penitentiary.

FFA entries do well at big fair

While Belmond Future Farmers did not bring home any of the highest placings on livestock they exhibited at the Iowa State Fair last week, they nevertheless did very respectably in the opinion of Keith Carlson, their advisor.

Stanley Boelman showed two blue ribbon Poland China market pigs and had the 2nd place pen of three in the FFA division. In addition, he ranked among the top 10 FFA exhibitors on showmanship out of approximately 100.

Bob Cullinan had two blue ribbon individuals in the Hampshire class and the 7th place pen of three. His brother Jim also had two blue ribbon Hampshires and the 10th place pen of three competing in the 4-H, rather than FFA, show.

Larry McAlpine had two Yorkshires that were awarded red ribbons and Vernon Christie won red ribbons on two Poland Chinas.

Belmond High's FFA chapter as a group placed fifth among approximately 15 such groups exhibiting at Des Moines and received a red ribbon on herdmanship.

Jaycee-Ettes agree to take charge of Chest campaign again this fall

Belmond's Jaycee-Ettes voted Monday of this week to accede to a request from Community Chest executive committee that their organization again this year assume responsibility for directing the Belmond Community Chest campaign.

This will be the third year that the Jaycee-Ettes have taken charge of the drive. Last year's campaign was seriously hampered by intrusion of the tornado just after the drive was launched; and the Jaycee auxiliary members are anxious to demonstrate that they can conduct a successful campaign in the absence of such interference.

Members of the Chest's executive committee planned to meet tonight (Thursday) to set up a tentative budget, subject to approval of the Community Chest Council at a meeting on Thursday of next week.

Comprising the executive committee, formed earlier this year, are: Bruce Schroeder, president; Jack Steinberg, vice president; Luin Cox, treasurer; Mrs. Jerry Dorr, Mrs. Gary Garvin and Duane Anderson, directors; and Mrs. Haydn Jones, secretary.

Mr. Schroeder points out that 1967 will be an especially crucial year for the Belmond Community Chest. By using all of the Chest's reserves and generous assistance from the Lions club and Jaycees, appropriations pledged from last fall's campaign were met in full. But this left the Chest with virtually no surplus on hand.

"Consequently," notes Mr. Schroeder, "this year's fund-raising drive MUST reach its goal, or pro rata payments on budgeted appropriations will have to be made in 1968 for the first time in the Belmond Chest's history."

Andrews new head of Trail Blazers

Wednesday evening of last week the Belmond Community Trail Blazers met for a potluck supper and the annual election of officers.

Don Aldrich gave the latest report on the construction of the new arena on the Central Soya Men's club grounds.

A committee was set up to outline the events for a show scheduled for Oct. 1. The Sept. 10 show was discussed and Sid Severson outlined the events. Dave Lynch will be judge at the up-coming show.

A concession stand will be set up and run by the women of the saddle club. The show will start at 6:30 p. m.

Lunch was served after the meeting by the Terrell Bakers.

Tornado repairs at Central Soya finally completed

Monday of this week, just eight months and seven days after the Central Soya plant emerged from last Oct. 14th's tornado a good deal worse for the experience, repairmen moved out with their long job of undoing the damage ostensibly complete.

The contractor in charge arrived in Belmond just three days after the twister and had men busy on repairs by Oct. 21. During the entire intervening period, workmen have been occupied at the plant undoing tornado damage or undertaking jobs directly related to the storm.

Plant Manager Ray Wright informed The Independent on Monday that meetings have now been held with the carriers of insurance on the plant property and satisfactory arrangements on the loss settlement have been made.

Completion of repairs established that total damage to the plant ran in excess of a half-million dollars.

Mr. Wright added that since its recent activition, the Master Mix feed mill has been operating on a 12-hours-per-day, single-shift basis as dealers' inventories have been building up.

He anticipates there may be a temporary production lull that will make it unnecessary for the time being to consider going onto a double-shift but predicts that two shifts may be necessary later to meet growing feed demands.

A labor pool is maintained by Central Soya that permits shifting of personnel from one department to another as work requirements change. Two full-time additions to the pool are currently being sought, one to serve primarily as a new truck driver and the other as a laboratory assistant.

Ellis Elliott heads committee—

Group of nine to oversee Tornado Day plans

Plans for Tornado Day, the occasion being planned as a "thank you" to all who helped Belmond during the time of the tornado emergency last October, have been placed in the hands of a committee of nine headed by Ellis Elliott as chairman.

Others serving on the steering group are: Erv Redder, Ray Wright, Mrs. R. B. Thompson, Mrs. Fred (Phyllis) Pals, Luin Cox, Ed Gabrielson, Durwood LaRue and Rev. M. L. Jones. It will be this committee's responsibility to devise the general format of the appreciation event and assign to other committees specific tasks.

Mr. Elliott says the advice of the Iowa Highway Patrol was obtained as the number of people who might reasonably be expected to respond to the invitation to re-visit Belmond on the tornado anniversary. The patrol officials' prediction was anywhere from 5,000 to 10,000.

Tentative consideration is being given by the committee to changing the date of the event from Saturday, Oct. 14 — the actual anniversary date — to Sunday, Oct. 15. The members' reasoning is that many more persons might find it possible to come on Sunday than on Saturday.

This is a matter still under study. Also as yet indefinite is the nature of religious observance that should be held, particularly if the day is changed to Sunday. Mr. Elliott says that development of these particular plans will most likely be left to the Belmond Ministerial association.

A perplexing problem to the committee is what to plan in the way of providing refreshments for the expected host of visitors. It is suspected that any attempt to provide something in the form of a meal might badly miss in the matter of estimated crowd attendance — either by way of preparing for too few or too many.

As a possible alternative, it has been suggested that eight or 10 food and coffee bars be set up at various locations around town that would be prepared to offer something in the way of a light lunch. These, it is conjectured, could perhaps be better geared to the actual number on hand by making sandwiches and supplementing them with cookies and potato chips plus coffee for the adults and soft drinks of some sort for the youngsters.

It was recommended by the Highway Patrol that arrangements be made for parking of visitors' cars at the outskirts of town, with such shuttle-taxi service made available as might be needed to transport guests downtown and perhaps along the route of the greatest tornado damage so the amount of reconstruction could be seen.

Mr. Elliott says it is hoped that individual business concerns that suffered destruction or major damage can arrange to have an enlarged photo of their location in their window showing the firm's appearance following the tornado. This would make interesting viewing for visitors walking around the business district and emphasize how far Belmond has "come back."

A meeting of the steering committee is to be held at Redder Rexall Drug next Tuesday night, at which time an effort will be made to arrive at assignments that can be given to organizations and churches for detailed development.

One of the major problems, says Mr. Elliott, is going to be arrangement for financing of Tornado Day. While some organizations have offered major assistance in this respect and numerous business concerns have expressed a readiness to make modest donations, the steering committee suspects that many people aided by outside help after the tornado may want a part in playing host to those helpful people next month.

Remembering the "Buck for Belmond" barrels that brought in thousands of dollars on the highway, Mr. Elliott says it is possible that recepticles to receive voluntary, individual donations may be set up to provide all who want to, a chance to give a dollar or a few dollars toward "the occasion."

Van Gerpens take up African duties

Rev. and Mrs. Emory Van Gerpen with their five children — Ruth, 13, David, 12, Miriam 10, Seth, seven, and Rachel, five—left Tuesday of last week from Minneapolis, Minn., on the first lap of a journey to their mission field in Tsanyawa, North Nigeria, Africa. They will be stationed there for the next four years.

They were to have a day and a half wait in Glasgow, Scotland, before taking the final hop to North Nigeria. Original plans had called for them to land at Kano, but due to the bombing of the airport there, the plans had to be changed to land at Lagos.

The mission staff from Kano was to meet the Van Gerpens and take them the 800 miles north to Kano.

Mr. Van Gerpen will manage the mission at Tsanyawa and do evangelistic work. Mrs. Van Gerpen will work in the regular dispensary and in addition will be in charge of a leprosy clinic.

Tsanyawa is located 800 air miles north of the equator and on the south side of the Sahara Desert.

The mission is located on an all-season tar road running between two moslem cities, Kano and Katsina, near the north border of Nigeria.

Four of the five children will attend the school for mission children, Kent Academy, at Miango, which is about 300 miles from the mission station. The youngest child, Rachel, will remain with her parents.

Texas newcomer joins ACCO staff

He has moved here with his wife Billie and their three children — Monte, age 11; Todd, five; and Cindy, two. They are occupying the residence at 908 E. Main street just vacated by Mrs. Ruth Brandmeyer.

At Plainview, Mr. Martin was in office sales for Paymaster Feeds. Here, he will be dealer service manager for the entire ACCO Seeds division, which involves some 6,500 dealerships in 43 states.

A native of Seymour, Tex., the newcomer has been in the employ of Anderson, Clayton company for a little over four years. He obtained his college education at Texas Tech, Lubbock, Tex.

At Plainview, Mr. Martin was active in Little League baseball. He is a Mason; and he and his family will attend the Methodist church here.

He was in the U. S. Army for a two-year period during 1956-58 and spent 18 months of his service time in Germany.

NEBRASKA VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sprau and son of Fort Calhoun, Neb., visited in the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halfpap, on Friday afternoon.

Bob Cullinan's barrow 1st in carcass contest

Bob Cullinan, Jr., of Belmond, was the winner of the Wright County District Junior Fair pork carcass class competition. Thirty-seven pork carcass entries were judged alive, on-the-hoof, and then delivered to the George A. Hormel company at Fort Dodge for purchase on a grade and yield basis.

The animals were then carcass-judged with Bob Cullinan taking the honors in this portion of the contest. Cullinan's barrow carcass had the following data:

Live weight, 230 lbs.; carcass weight, 177 lbs.; grade, No. 1; length, 32.0 in.; average back-fat, 1.17 in.; ham weight, 38.2 lbs.; per cent ham, 1.61 per cent; loin-eye area, 5.24 sq. in.

Winners are required to meet the following certification carcass standards: 29 inch minimum length, four square inch minimum loin-eye, and 1.6 inch maximum average backfat.

Lonnevik named to FHA board

Appointment of Russell O. Lonnevik as a member of the Wright county Farmers Home Administration committee was announced this week by Robert W. Orcutt of Clarion, the agency's county supervisor serving Wright and Hamilton counties.

Mr. Lonnevik is a long-term resident of Wright county, where he has farmed for many years. He owns and rents approximately 320 acres and raises hogs, cattle and sheep. Mr. Lonnevik has been active as a church member and also as a member of the Wright County Extension Council.

Each member of the committee is appointed for a three-year period. Mr. Lonnevik succeeds Lynn C. Thompson of Clarion. Other members of the three-member committee are Dean R. Maxon of Clarion and John D. Frohling of Woolstock.

The committee determines the eligibility of individual applicants for all types of loans. It also reviews borrowers' progress and aids the county supervisor in adapting the agency's loan policies to conditions and problems faced by the farmers in the area.

VISIT HERE ENDED

Emery Wenzel of Morton, Ill., spent the past three weeks in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wenzel.

Single candidate seeks school post

By the Independent's press time this week, only one candidate had filed for the vacancy on the Belmond Community School district board of education left by the decision of Carl Green not to run for another term.

Lone candidate for the District 1 directorship was Merlin Hanson of Goodell. Nominated for additional terms, without opposition to date, are Ryle Andrews of Rowan from District 4 and Ruth (Mrs. Russell) Lonnevik from District 2.

Deadline for filing nomination papers is tomorrow (Friday) at noon. Nomination papers are obtainable from Mrs. Pearl Ubben, school board secretary.

The election will be held Monday, Sept. 11.

DANNY KELLEY

D. Kelley injured in Vietnam raid

Hospitalman 3/c Danny Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Kelley, was among American personnel who were casualties of the heavy mortar attack unleashed about 2:00 a. m. Sunday by Viet Cong on a military hospital on the Mekong Delta near the southern extremity of South Vietnam.

The young Navy man, a 1965 graduate of Belmond Community High school, reportedly suffered shrapnel wounds in the back and concussion to both ears. Information regarding his injuries was delivered personally to his parents about 3:30 p. m. Sunday by Cmdr. E. L. Crance, commanding officer of the Naval ROTC unit at Iowa State university, Ames.

Danny has been attached to the hospital since shipping to Vietnam in mid-May. Commander Crance told the Kelleys that the hospital is located close to Hoi An, which is near South Vietnam's largest city, Can Tho.

It had been months since the Viet Cong had made in the area south of Saigon any such concerted attack as was launched Sunday in the form of both mortar and small arms fire.

According to Monday's Associated Press story on the terror raids in the Can Tho vicinity, five Americans were wounded, 46 Vietnamese killed and 222 wounded.

Stevenson rites conducted here Monday afternoon

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Congregational church for Blanche Baker Stevenson, who died Wednesday of last week at a Los Angeles nursing home, where she had resided for the last few weeks of her life. She was a native of Belmond and had lived here until reaching young womanhood.

Rev. J. Samuel Shelby officiated over the services and Johnston Funeral Home was in charge. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers were Terrell Baker, Harold Baker, Duane Baker, Wayne Vestweber, Walter Hoffman and Barry Baker.

Born at Belmond on March 26, 1894, the deceased was a daughter of John D. and Ottila Baker. She attended rural schools near her home and went to Belmond High school. After her marriage to R. E. Stevenson, they lived in Belmond for a time and later in England, when her husband had employment there.

They returned to this country and made their home in California, where Mr. Stevenson died in 1952. For 15 years she cared for two elderly aunts in California, until ill health forced her to give up this responsibility. She then made her home with a brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Baker.

Four brothers and two sisters survive Mrs. Stevenson: Glen and Ralph Baker of Belmond, Mrs. William (Frances) Vestweber of Alexander, Max Baker of Kansas City, Mo., John Baker of Sun Valley, Calif., and Mrs. Walt (Mabel) Hoffman of Humboldt.

DALE NIELSEN DISCHARGED FROM ARMY, MEDICAL SP4

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Nielsen and Linda Richards arrived here this past weekend from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., to visit in the Art Nielsen home.

Dale received his discharge on Wednesday of last week from the U. S. army after two years' service, with a rating of SP4 in the medical division.

$50 sent by Lylle Dunlap—

Ex-Belmondite gives to park fund

Sponsors of the riverside park project, who plan to solicit support from certain ex-residents of Belmond known to harbor a warm spot in their hearts for "the old home town," can point most appropriately to a letter received by The Independent last weekend to justify the solicitation. Accompanying the communication was a check for $50 designated for the "Belmond park fund."

It came from Lylle Dunlap of Eugene, Ore., who last month revisited Belmond for the first time in many a year and was so delighted with his renewal of old acquaintances and revisiting of old scenes that he could hardly tear himself away.

To authenticate his Belmond nativity — which there was certainly no reason to doubt — he pasted to his letter a clipping from the Belmond Herald taking note of his arrival in here in 1892, to-wit:

"Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunlap, Sunday morning, May 15th, a fine boy baby of standard weight, and which 'looks just like pa' (pa practiced dentistry here at the time). This is the first boy in the family, and Doc naturally feels a little bit proud."

Wrote Mr. Dunlap:

"I have been reading about your new park down by the river. This sure brings back memories of my boyhood fishin' days. I used to spend a lot of time in that river in summer and on top of it in the winter.

"When I was there this summer I went out on the bridge and looked down on the river and it seemed so much smaller and sure needed cleaning out. Now I read that you are doing this and I would have liked to helped when I was there, as much as I hate the way they make those handles on the tools that are being used on the job.

"I didn't know they were going to do this work when I was there so don't think that was the reason I left town as soon as I did.

"It seems I can't think nothing but Belmond since I was there. I was the boy in the family and had three older sisters, so you see I had a HARD life. I would often get in trouble about something.

"I nearly got run out of town when I laughed about the girls going down to the mouth of the creek in Franklin Grove, who hung their clothes on a fence and went swimmin'. In the meantime, some horses came along and ate up most of their clothes and they had to send for Stapley's bus to haul them home.

"I'll bet those horses had a big meal, but nowadays there wouldn't of been enough duds for an appetizer!

"I hope I can go back to Belmond again and I'll go down to the park and set on the bank and try to catch that big fish that got away sixty years ago."

Mr. Dunlap concludes, "I'll be seeing you" — and from the enjoyment many Belmondites got out of his visit here in July, there are unquestionably a lot of folks who hope that Lylle means it.

Along with his park donation, another of $50 from an anonymous source and $10 from Hermia Shefveland have brought the fund total now up to $1,450.

MOST STORES CLOSING FOR LABOR DAY

A majority of Belmond's business places will be closed Monday in observance of Labor Day, according to Ellis Elliott, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The Independent plans to publish next week on the usual schedule, papers to be in the mail Wednesday afternoon. In order that the staff may in some degree enjoy a holiday, correspondents are asked to get news copy in by Saturday morning as completely as possible. Early availability of advertising copy will help, too.

Brazilian brings gifted toe—

New AFS student Broncos' "secret weapon"?

If the Belmond Bronco gridders should chance to win any games this fall by the margin of a field goal, accuracy on conversion points, or booming kickoffs sailing clear to the opponent's goal line, there may be some grumbling about Belmond's imported kicking specialist.

That "specialist" would be Paulo Canineu, the young man from Sorocaba, Brazil, who is attending BHS during the 1967-68 school year under an American Field Service scholarship.

He was picked up at the end of his air flight to Des Moines by his host family, the Loren Bamfords, on Wednesday of last week. The next afternoon he was working out with the Bronco gridiron squad — and making Coach Chuck Stalker's eyes sparkle with soccer-style placekicks propelled by the instep of his left foot.

Only 5 ft. 8 in. in height, Paulo gives a first impression of being slight in stature. But Monday, after three days of workouts had trimmed six pounds from his arrival weight, the 17-year-old youth still tipped the beam at a surprisingly robust 158 pounds.

An extremely sturdy set of legs developed from nine years of soccer playing account for the unexpected poundage. He was the youngest member of a league soccer team he was playing with at the time of his departure from Brazil, the other players being young men of 19 and 20.

While soccer is not played as an interscholastic sport in Brazil (basketball and volleyball are, and Paulo is an enthusiast of both), independent teams form numerous leagues that play weekly games on Sunday afternoons.

That Paulo has regularly played with "the bigger boys" suggests that he's not a bad hand (or should it be foot?) at soccer. He admits that a fellow-townsman who had signed a contract to play professional soccer in Canada tried to talk him into a career with the Canadian pro's — but Papa Canineu put his foot down, and that was that.

Anyway, Paulo aspires to be a doctor and has had no serious thoughts of endeavoring to make a professional career of his favorite sport. He has, though, developed an "educated toe" that could fit very nicely into Coach Stalker's plans for the upcoming football season.

After first starting to get the hang of soccer at the age of nine, Paulo has been playing with an organized team since he was 12 years old. He has lately been playing left corner, an offensive position, on the team of which he's a member.

Sorocaba is in the same Brazilian state and only about 200 miles away from Santos, which is the home base of "Pele," the most famous soccer player in the world. Paulo's eye gleams when he talks about this noted athlete, who draws $25,000 a game for "guest appearances" abroad.

Although he finds the American oval-shaped ball somewhat trickier than the round soccer ball, his slantwise swipes at the pigskin already send the ball through the uprights about three out of five times from 30 yards away. From 10 yards farther out he's been making about two out of five, an interested witness of the Bronco practice sessions reports. Paulo's confident he can improve.

His kickoffs with regularity follow lofty arcs that would carry to the goal line, or close to it, and take highly unpredictable bounces upon lighting.

Paulo's punting is something else. Unaccustomed to holding the ball in his hands when he kicks it, he hasn't yet gotten the hang of this maneuver.

It was his determined intention to give football a whirl at Belmond High, and no coaxing was necessary to get him into uniform. He's enjoyed the taste of it so far but realizes he has much to learn before there's any prospect of fitting into the picture other than as a kicking specialist.

Monday afternoon found him limping at the end of the drill session. Oddly enough, it was his right leg that was stiff and sore — not the left one that had been doing all the booting. It was nothing serious; just part of the "getting in shape process."

And when he gets in shape, his teammates firmly expect that Belmond opponents won't be long in developing a healthy respect for the Broncos' new "secret weapon."

AN UNEXPECTED FIND as Belmond High football drills got down to earnest last week was Paulo Canineu, American Field Service student from Brazil, who has been drafted as a prospective placekicker. He's shown here talking with Coach Chuck Stalker. American-style football is a decidedly different sport from the soccer football that Paulo is accustomed to playing. But he's anxious to make any contribution to the BHS teams that he can — and point-conversions, field goals and kickoffs may provide a way for him to contribute importantly.

Patrons of P.O. invited to add ZIP to mailings

Belmond residents will have an easy oportunity to put ZIP into their mail in late September, according to Postmaster Bill Walrod.

During the last half of next month, the post office will deliver to every householder a kit of eight postal cards which can be mailed back to the post office with addresses needing ZIP codes. Each completed card will be sent to the post office which services the "zipless" address and the proper code will be added before the form is returned to the sender.

No postage will be needed on these cards. Each of the eight postal cards in the kit will contain a message encouraging the general use of ZIP Code. There will be a ninth card providing instructions. All will be accordion-folded together and perforated for easy separation. Extra kits are available at the post office.

Last year approximately 3,000 addresses were ZIP-coded by the Belmond post office as part of a similar program using only one card with spaces for as many as 13 addresses, Postmaster Walrod said.

The unit cost of entering the code onto each card wil be less than the system used in 1966 because no look-up will be necessary. Every card in the final post office will need the same code, so an inexperienced clerk will be able simply to stamp it on the card and send the form on its return journey.

On an average day, between 175 and 250 million new pieces of mail enter the postal system, says Postmaster Walrod. It is not expected that more than 10 million of the ZIP-A-LIST cards will be in the system at any one time during the peak periods of mailing. Since they will be handled essentially as ordinary postal cards, there will be no burden on or dislocation of service.

"The ultimate result will be an improvement in service," Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has said of the project.

Last year approximately 17 per cent of the nation's householders returned 96 million addresses for coding.

Two bouquets of yellow carnations and white gladioli set in candelabra decorated the altar of the Reformed church at Alexander for the wedding Saturday afternoon, Aug. 12, at 3:00 o'clock of Diane Koenen and Michael Long. Rev. B. T. Vander Woude of Minneapolis, Minn., performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koenen of Alexander and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Long of Eagle Grove.

Mrs. Herman Boelman, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Robert H. Pals as she sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore gown of organza over taffeta with re-embroidered Alencon lace trim. The bodice featured a sabrina neckline with pearl trim, short lace sleeves and an empire waistline. Lace extended down the slim, floor-length skirt. The Watteau train, enhanced by lace appliques, fell to a full chapel-length. The bride's forward headpiece was a large organza bow, re-embroidered with lace, trimmed with pearl and aurora borealis crystals, and it held the bouffant elbow-length illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses circled in white mums and ivy with white streamers.

Janet Koenen of Mason City, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Debby Whitty of Woolstock was bridesmaid. Their empire-style gowns were of lemon crepe over taffeta with white lace fashioning the bodice and train. Their headdresses were matching tulle veils caught up in three small roses, decorated with pearls. They carried bouquets of yellow carnations with white ribbon and net.

Steven Long of Eagle Grove, brother of the groom, was best man and Steve Simkins of Vincent was groomsman. Ron Pyle and Steve Simkins, both of Eagle Grove, were ushers and candle-lighters. The men of the wedding party wore white jackets with tuxedo trousers and yellow carnation boutonnieres.

Joy Rietema of Kanawha was flower girl. She wore a short yellow dress with ribbon trim and carried a basket of yellow petals. Collin Brinkman of Springfeld, Ill., as ring-bearer, wore a white jacket with short dark pants and carried the rings on a white satin pillow trimmed with streamers and lily of the valley.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Rex Aldinger as host and hostess. The five-tiered cake, decorated with yellow bells, was cut by Mrs. Robert Brinkman of Springfield, Ill., and Mrs. Rex Able of Hedrick. Coffee pourers were Mrs. Irene Midland of Eagle Grove and Mrs. Fred W. Plagge of Latimer. Linda Johnson of West Salem, Wis., college friend of the bride, was in charge of the guest book and punch bowl.

The bride attended Luther college in Decorah, graduated from Augustana college in Sioux Falls, S. D., and will teach in Cedar Rapids. The groom received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Iowa and is a sophomore in the college of medicine at Iowa City. He is affiliated with Phi Beta Pi medical fraternity.

Hinman attended school Aug. 14-26

George Hinman, assistant vice president of the First State bank, returned home Saturday after attending the Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, that was held August 14-26. This was his 3rd year at the school, which requires two weeks' attendance each year for three years to earn the certificate of graduation. Between resident sessions, students are required to do extension work involving problems in all phases of banking.

Mr. Hinman was among 444 student bankers from 29 states who completed the course this year. Nearly 6,500 students have graduated from the Wisconsin school since the first class of 41 completed the course of study in 1947.

The banking school faculty of over 120 instructors includes bankers who are specialists in their respective fields, practicing attorneys, business executives, and members of university and college faculties. The instructors are among the most competent men in their professions. Many of them are nationally known authorities in their special lines and come from all parts of the United States.

Wright's farmers get $1.8 million in ASC payments

The Wright County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee has announced that Wright county farmers and landowners received $1,820,000 for taking part in the 1967 feed grain program. Final payments made earlier this month amounted to $985,000. Advance payments were made in March.

The committee told that 27,000 acres were diverted from feed grain production on the 1,264 farms in the county that complied with the program. Sixty-five per cent of all of the feed grain farms in the county participated in the 1967 program.

Announcement was made by the committee that grazing of diverted acres is permitted any time after Sept. 1, since harvesting methods and use of drying equipment has had the effect of advancing the normal corn harvests.

Moving the grazing date ahead by one month may prevent the need for fencing, if farmers wish to use livestock to clean up crop residue. However, the committee warns that a crop of hay or silage may not be removed from the diverted acres.

Producers receiving a seeding payment for establishing a cover crop on diverted acres may plow these acres at any time after Sept. 1. Producers not receiving a seeding payment may plow their diverted acres at any time, the committee added.

U. S. bond sales lag behind quota

With seven months of the year gone by, Wright county was among the 46 Iowa counties that by the end of July had failed to attain 50 per cent of their assigned U. S. Savings Bonds sales quotas. Iowa, as a whole, was well behind schedule with only 50 per cent of the state's quota achieved. Wright wasn't doing even that well, having met only 41 per cent of its '67 quota.

Kossuth, with 60 per cent, and Franklin with 59 were the only counties bordering on Wright to be on schedule through July in meeting their quotas. Kossuth had $31,759 in July sales for a seven-month total of $472,869; and Franklin's $25,069 July sales brought its total to $288,833.

Wright reported bond purchases of $35,523 in July to bring its sales through July to $341,160.

Webster, 46 per cent on $888,676; Cerro Gordo, 44 on $645,264; Humboldt, 43 on $276,016; Hardin, 42 on $407,220; Hamilton, 40 on $347,838; and Hancock, 37 on $260,594.

Atlantic Methodist church scene of Hiddleston-Hepburn nuptials

The First Methodist church of Atlantic was the scene of the wedding when Miss Roberta Hiddleston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester C. Hiddleston, became the bride of Frederick M. Hepburn of Mt. Ayr. The ceremony took place Saturday evening, Aug. 12, at 7:00 o'clock with Rev. R. A. McBlain reading the double-ring ceremony.

The two altar vases held gladioli and two candelabra, garlanded in ivy and holding seven white tapers each, decorated the chancel. The aisle pews were marked with white bows and greenery.

Mrs. Harold Phend, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Wayne Baur as she sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length, cage-style gown of embroidered lace. It featured a cowl neckline, a hemline of satin and the traditional long sleeves ending in a taper at the wrists. The aisle-wide train of fabric like the dress, bound in satin, was attached at the shoulders. The bride's pearl and crystal crown held a bouffant veil of French imported illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with shower ribbons tied in loveknots.

Mrs. Mary (Smith) Matthews of Maryville, Mo., high school friend of the bride, was matron of honor and Barbara Jean Smith of Denver, Colo., college roommate of the bride, was bridesmaid. Their avocado, floor-length gowns, princess-styled, featured scalloped cap sleeves and rounded necklines with bow at the back. They wore matching crown headpieces and carried nosegays of white daisies and yellow pompons.

Robert Hepburn of Lincoln, Neb., brother of the groom, was best man and Don Matthews of Maryville, Mo., college roomate of the groom, was groomsman. The ushers were Larry Saville of Maryville, Mo., and Jerry Arn of Council Bluffs. Candle-lighters were Robbie and Tommie Hepburn, nephews of the groom. The men of the wedding party wore tuxedoes and white carnation boutonnieres, except the groom, whose boutonniere was a rose centered carnation.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Atlantic Country club. Mrs. Elmer Voss of Atlantic served cake, Mrs. Paul Vedane of Atlantic poured coffee and the punch was served by Mrs. V. R. Beverly of Rosemead, Calif., and Mrs. Charles E. Peters of Kansas City, Mo., both aunts of the bride.

For going away, the bride wore a goldenrod yellow, double-knit dacron dress with black accessories and she carried a nosegay of white daisies and yellow pompons. After a trip to Wyoming, the couple will be at home at 425 New York avenue in Creston.

The bride is a 1962 graduate of Atlantic High school, a 1967 graduate of Northwest Missouri State college, Maryville, Mo., and was librarian for four months at North Kansas City, Mo., high school.

The groom graduated in 1958 from Atlantic High school and in 1963 from NMSC. Both will be teaching this fall in the high school at Diagonal.

Lynnette Tomson, Jonathan Hruska spoke vows here on Aug. 19th

Miss Lynnette Lee Tomson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tomson, was married Saturday afternoon, Aug. 19, at 3:30 o'clock to Jonathan James Hruska, son of Dr. Glenn J. Hruska, at Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Oscar Laaveg performed the double-ring ceremony.

There were two altar bouquets of white gladioli and white candles were in the altar holders and in the candelabra.

Jerry Green of Goodell, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Barbara Olson as she sang "More" and as the couple knelt at the altar she sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride wore a short fitted gown of white lace over plain white. Her short white veil was attached to a satin crown. Cultured pearl earrings completed her attire. She carried a cascade of white roses and miniature white carnations.

Linda Tomson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore an aqua crepe dress trimmed in white lace, with a matching headpiece. She carried a bouquet of large white mums, trailing miniature carnations.

Jeff Hruska, brother of the groom, was best man. Jeff Kessler and Gene Ketchum, the latter of Rowan, were ushers and candlelighters. The men wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Olde Belmond Inn with Mrs. William Trowbridge of Clarion, aunt of the groom, serving the punch. At 5:00 p.m. at buffet dinner was served to all the wedding party.

As the couple left on a trip through Minnesota, to Duluth and into Canada via the north shore drive along Lake Superior, the bride wore a two-piece, blue cotton suit with white ruffled blouse and white accessories.

Both the bride and groom are Belmond Community High school graduates, she in 1966 and he in 1964. Both are attending Iowa State university at Ames, where the bride is a sophomore and the groom is a senior. The will be at home in Ames.

Sue Ann Wilmarth, John M. Breeden married in ceremony at Iowa City

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilmarth announce the Aug. 5th marriage of their daughter, Sue Ann, to John Martin Breeden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Breeden of Dearborn Heights, Mich.

Dr. Jack Zerwas of the First Presbyterian church performed the double-ring ceremony at Iowa City and Edwin Pernhorwood, organist, played nuptial music.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a wedding gown fashioned of linen saki and Venice lace with a Sabrina neckline. Venice lace covered the bodice and extended over the above-the-elbow sleeves. The floor-length, modified A-line skirt was styled with a high-rise waistline with a bow detail over the attached train. The train was accented with Venice lace trim and flowed to a full chapel length.

Her bonnet-shaped headpiece of pearl-edged fabric flowers held a bouffant elbow-length silk illusion veil with flower accents. She wore an add-a-pearl necklace which had been given to her by her parents. She carried a bouquet of daisies and miniature pink roses.

Sandy Bolland of Williamsburg was maid of honor and Annette Sellergren of Stanton was bridesmaid. Their gowns were made by the bride of pink bonded crepe, were floor-length and had modified A-line skirts styled with high-rise waistlines and back panels. They carried bouquets of white daisies and matching pink ribbon. Headpieces for each were also of daisies and ribbon. Each wore short white, pearl-trimmed gloves.

Dallas Hogan of Iowa City served as best man and Jerry Nook of Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., was groomsman. Gerry Gunn of Rockford, Ill., a cousin of the bride, Paul Rawalt of Kirksville, Mo., and Dale Miner of Villa Park, Ill., were ushers.

The three-tiered cake, topped with a miniature bouquet, was cut and served by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Marvin Gunn of Rockford, Ill., and Mrs. R. B. Thompson, Mrs. Robert Misner served punch and Mrs. Rex Fetrow poured coffee.

Mrs. Paul Rawalt of Kirksville, Mo., presided at the guest book. Lee Wilmarth, brother of the bride, received the gifts and Mrs. Dale Miner of Villa Park, Ill., and Lou Harper of Iowa City unwrapped and displayed the gifts.

They are now at home at 635 South Dodge, Apt. 1, Iowa City. The bride will complete her senior year in the University of Iowa's School of Nursing. Mr. Breeden is an alumnus of the University of Iowa and is employed by Measurement Research.

Ex-Belmondites' son may not resume duties as Ford advisor in Nigeria

A son of former Belmondites, Parkard C. Wolle of Sioux City, was back in the States last week to attend the 50th wedding anniversary of his parents and habored doubts as to whether he will be permitted to return to a position he's held with the Ford Foundation in Nigeria for the past 20 months.

Many older residents will remember his parents, Mr. and Mrs. (nee Starr Packard) Carl J. Wolle from when they lived in Belmond before Mr. Packard launched a dairy business in Sioux City.

In 1964, the younger Wolle was a candidate for Congressman from the 6th District, but was defeated in the primary election by the ultimately successful candidate, Stanley Greigg.

In January of 1966, Mr. Wolle with his wife and youngest of four daughters went to Nigeria after the Ford Foundation hired him to serve as an administrative aide to Nigerian government. Shortly after his arrival, a military coup overthrew the civilian government and established an army-donimated regime.

A second coup in June of last year put a new military leader in power and led a short time afterward to an outbreak of tribal warfare which recently turned into outright civil war attempting to bring about secession of the rich eastern part of Nigeria.

Mr. Wolle told a Sioux City newspaper reporter that, despite the civil disturbances, he has gotten along well with the officials in power and with the people. He nevertheless is dubious whether he will be allowed to resume his duties.

He is nevertheless planning to return, pending instructions to the contrary, and has accepted a number of speaking engagements to be filled in England and four African countries en route back to Nigeria's western capital, Ibadan.

It was understood that he would be back on the job Sept. 8. None of his family is to accompany him this time.

Wright County Beef Producers who indicated at the 1967 banquet their intent of going on the tour will receive a registration card which is due back in to the extension office by next Tuesday.

The only cost will be $6.00 for transportation. Other beef association members who are interested in going on the tour should contact one of the beef directors or the extension office in Clarion.

Has best per capita mark—

Belmond paces Heart achievement

A quick analysis of the results of the 1967 Heart Fund drive in Wright county, which for the third year in a row produced the highest per capita rate of giving in the state, quickly establishes the fact that Belmond's support of the campaign was a very major factor in the achievement.

Whereas the county's average was 37 cents per person on the basis of Wright's population, Belmond gave at the rate of nearly 54 cents per person. This compared to 35 cents for Eagle Grove and 34 cents for Clarion. Only two other towns and none of the townships surpassed the county average. Woolstock's per capita average was 51 cents and Rowan's 38.

There was some discussion at the time the Heart Fund campaign was launched in February as to whether an actual solicitation should be conducted in Belmond, as only 3½ months had elapsed since the community had suffered heavy tornado damage.

But at the urging of some local people who believed Belmond would want to participate — in part to show its appreciation for help it had received in its time of emergency — a complete solicitation was held with Beta Sigma Phi sorority organizing the drive. Cochairmen for the campaign were Mrs. Glenn Melnts, Mrs. George Sharp, Mrs. Gail Thayer and Gen Monson.

Dr. Dale Harding of Eagle Grove, chairman of the Wright county Heart chapter, and Mrs. Leo Woodley, county campaign chairman, were effusive in their praise of the Belmond response. Mrs. Woodley noted that, in addition, Pleasant township led the rural areas in per capita giving with a 35-cent average although it had suffered about the most extensive tornado damage of any township in the twister's path.

With Belmond's extraordinary support, the county Heart Fund drive this year produced a total of $7,127.64, which was $688 more than the amount that gave it the No. 1 per capita average of 33 cents in 1966. A $2,000 bequest and $999.25 in Heart Memorials brought the year's total giving to the Heart Fund to $10,126.89. The bequest was the largest in Iowa during 1967 and the memorial fund total also was the largest in the state.

City and town campaign figures and the individuals or organizations who headed the drives were:

Eagle Grove $1,550.05, Business and Professional Women's club; Belmond $1,346.90, Beta Sigma Phi sorority; Clarion $1,112.35, Dr. James Snively and Mrs. Bernard Scheppler; Dows $277.30, no chairman; Woolstock $138, Mrs. O. H. Caquelin; Rowan $106, Mrs. Fred Buchanan; Goldfield, no contributions and no chairman.

Mrs. Leland Jenison headed up the successful drive in Pleasant township, which yielded $192. Other township totals and chairmen were:

Norway $176, Mrs. John Rietema of Kanawha; Liberty $159, Mrs. Clifford Bosworth, Goldfield; Iowa $179, Mrs. Melvin McAlpine, Rowan; Lake $146.50, Mrs. Delmar Duitscher, Clarion; Lincoln $139, Mrs. Kenneth Tillman, Clarion; Boone $143.75, Mrs. Marion Huntley, Goldfield; Belmond $147, Mrs. James McLaughlin; Grant $136.50, Mrs. Albert Dahlgren of Clarion and Mrs. Gail Thayer.

A day for labor to contemplate where it's going

Labor Day, an occasion dedicated to all working Americans but more especially to the organized labor movement that has made the American standard of living the highest in the world, never occurred with more reason for celebration than in 1967.

Constant gains have been made by labor, and the end is not yet in sight. That very fact is a matter of keen concern in some quarters; not because labor is begrudged full payment for its contribution to our economy, but because large segments of labor seemingly have lost sight of the fact that there conceivably could be any limit to their rewards.

Rewriting of contracts between the United Auto Workers union and the major car manufacturers is about to be undertaken. Reportedly, the starting demands of the UAW come to a $4-per-hour wage increase. The economy that labor has helped so importantly to create cannot endlessly withstand wage increases that have no relationship to increased productivity. Damaging inflation that will seriously harm ALL wage-earners can be the only result of an unbroken chain of annual raises unaccompanied by correspondingly increased productivity.

Dwight D. Eisenhower once praised labor with the statement: "American working men are principals in the three-member team of capital, management, labor. Never have they regarded themselves as a service class that could attain freedom only through destruction of the industrial economy."

There are very needful areas in which organized labor can exercise its responsibility. A top priority is the development of job opportunities for all through the regular channels of education, apprenticeship and other specialized training. This will help to maintain a sound economy in which the dollar can maintain a sound value.

How long Labor Day will continue to constitute a holiday happily celebrated to mark a year of genuine achievement for the laboring man rests with the degree of responsibility labor exercises along with its very considerable power. That is a fact that could well be soberly contemplated, this Labor Day of 1967.

That beef-quarter mystery badly needs clearing up

It is only right that character witnesses should support an individual for whom they have high respect if that person's integrity is subjected to doubt. But if he is charged with an offense, the question of his guilt should NOT be decided by the number of persons willing to attest that they cannot imagine him being guilty of the offense in question. And more particularly, if the defendant impugns the integrity of others whose reputations for uprightness are on a par with his own, then justice calls for a carefull evaluation of ALL the FACTS in the case — regardless of the reputations of any of the principals involved.

It was to be the responsibility of the state executive council today at Des Moines to meet just such a situation as described. In hearing the appeal of Merlin J. Hogan for reinstatement to the position of highway patrolman that he ostensibly had filled with competence for 19 years, the high state officials that comprise the council are under heavy obligation to study the evidence impartially and to be NOT swayed by volunteered testimony as to the past reputation for honesty possessed by Hogan.

Your writer has had occasional, brief association with the ex-patrolman in the process of covering accidents and has invariably been favorably impressed by his friendly cooperation. We have had much more extensive and more repeated contacts with Wright county deputy sheriffs Bob Shaw and Vernon Elston and have likewise found them cooperative AND beyond reproach in the honest conduct of their duties.

Hogan has submitted to the executive council a statement that the controversial quarter of beef that came into his possession following an accident to a meat thruck south of Belmond on June 18 was sold to him to be shared equally with the two deputies. Shaw and Elston are thereby accused by implication of sharing in any offense that might be attributed to Hogan — if an offense WAS committed.

Value of the beef quarter was, reportedly, $78. After first denying to his superiors any knowledge of the beef, Hogan later acknowledged that he had taken the meat away from the accident scene — and then attested that he had bought it for a sum of $30. The deputies declare that they neither entered into nor so much as discussed with Hogan any agreement as to division of the meat. Nevertheless, they find themselves in the role of accomplices by implication if an offense there was.

Several times, statements of other parties to the incident have been changed for reasons best known to them. It is up to the executive council to ascertain why. The council needs also to consider that the statements of Shaw and Elston have remained unswervingly consistent. There are suggestions of perjury possibly being involved in testimony that the council will be called upon to consider.

Because of the nature of the testimony, there is some good reason to assume that the only way to clarify the situation might be to ask the principals to submit voluntarily to lie-detector tests. Shaw and Elston have said they would not only be willing to do so but would regard it a privilege, in that the results could serve to confirm their innocence of any collusion in regard to the asquisition or disposal of the quarter of beef.

If the case is disposed of on the basis of Hogan's support by character witnesses — regardless of their number or their standing in the community — rather than by getting full explanations of the contradictory statements that have been made, it is inevitable that the hearing will be looked upon as a "whitewash" proceeding. And the integrity of the two deputies, who insist they have innocently been caught in the crossfire, will be left in a shadow.

With eight months of performance behind them, state officials who were elected for the first time last fall and took up their duties in January have had a reasonably fair chance to establish what kind of officers they are going to be. Since Iowans pretty largely buy "a pig in a poke" when they elect officials below the level of governor and lieutenant-governor, it's interesting to learn what the fates have given them in the way of top personnel at the statehouse.

An interesting contrast has been provided this year by the activities of two important officials — Attorney General Richard Turner of Avoca and Auditor Lloyd Smith of Forest City. Both have made the news more than any other members of the executive branch, barring, of course, Gov. Harold Hughes.

The manners in which they've achieved publicity, however, have been dissimilar. Attorney General Turner has made his headlines mainly by statements of a calculated nature. Auditor Smith has gained his by the efficient operation of his office, which has made "news" first and served only coincidentally to center attention on himself.

The contrast is sharp. Correctly or not, one is apt to gain the impression that from the moment he stepped into his office Mr. Turner harbored the ambition to make the attorney generalship a stepping stone to greater political prominence. On the other hand, Mr. Smith's activities have pointed to him as a highly conscientious officeholder with a determination that the responsibilities of his office be fulfilled to the highest degree.

Lloyd Smith has made a decidedly favorable impression on us. But we just don't know about Richard Turner and are inclined to wonder what his motives are. How many other voters who helped place these two men in office share our impressions, we have no idea. But we'd guess that Smith is a giant stride ahead of Turner, to date, in gaining the confidence of the public.

LABOR DAY

By Ye Ed

We caught TJ with his hind feet on our chair, his front ones on our desk, and his eyes busily scanning the contents of our desk top. Not ALL the contents, really. He was concentrating on the "Cotton Clipsheet" that is a publicity piece sent out by the National Cotton Council to promote the latest in cotton garments for the ladies.

TJ was, in fact, concentrating so hard on the style pictures that he did not detect our approach. We gave the chair a whirl that sent him flying and he landed unceremoniously in the wastebasket.

"Fun-NEE!" he snarled as he scrambled out of File 13. "That's what I admire; a rich sense of humor. . . You've got, maybe, secrets on your desk top that I'm not supposed to be in on?"

DISREGARDING THE SALLY, we asked, "You developing a sudden interest in women's fashions?"

"Not really," the cat replied. "But women's fashion photography I find peculiarly intriguing. That sheet you have on your desk is hardly typical. The models looks like they've been getting three square meals a day — maybe even a slice of apple pie and a glass of milk at bedtime. Not typical at all."

Taking a glance at the pictures he'd been viewing, we got his point. The "Cotton Clipsheet" goes in for wholesome, healthy-looking models in completely natural poses. Examining the postures more closely, we noted:

"There isn't a one in the bunch who stands like she was suffering from chronic heat rash — like these high-fashion dolls invariably do.

"WAS LOOKING AT SOME fashion photos in LIFE down at the barber's the other day. There wasn't a clotheshorse in the bunch but was in a stance that suggested some Mennen's baby talc was needed to make her feel human again."

TJ nodded, "That's what I mean. Legs spraddled in the ungodliest manners you ever saw. You'd think that after a day of posing, they'd need a half-hour chiropractic adjustment just to be able to sit down. Wonder what the idea is?"

We shrugged, "Haven't the slightest notion. But so far as we're concerned, we can never take much notice of the clothes for wondering how they ever got into such an abnormal position — and how they're ever going to manage to get out of it.

"BACK WHEN WE WERE A kid . . .", TJ grinned as he interrupted with, " 'WA-A-AY back, that it." Refusing to let our composure be ruffled, we recommenced "Back when we were a kid, a 'must' feature of birthday parties to keep the guest from demanding 'When's the ice cream?' was a game called statuary

"The 'sculptor,' so to speak, was a youngster who one-by-one took the others by the hand, whirled 'em around — the let 'em fly. The idea was to freeze into a 'pose' and the one judged to have wound up in the funniest got next turn at the whirling bit.

"Sometimes I get the feeling that most of these fashion models simply got caught playing statuary. It would explain, at least, how they get into some of those contortions."

"OR MAYBE," TJ SUGGESTED, "they simply go into a cataleptic fit from starvation. There's rarely a one of 'em looks like she wasn't at the tag end of a 30-day diet. Why is it beauty judges are impressed with 36-24-36 figures — while fashion designers try to sell their duds by draping them on a 27-19-27 beanpole?"

We agreed, "That's a question we've often asked ourself. Seems you have to be a candidate for rickets to be a model fashion model. . . . And the make-up! They lay on the eye goop until every one of 'em looks like she was peeping through a hole burned in a blanket."

"And zombie lipstick," the cat added, "Never could see this pastel lipstick that makes a model look like she'd just crawled out of a casket at midnight. Couldn't be PRACTICING werewolves, though, or they might get a little color on their lips."

OUR EYE WENT TO THE PICture of a curvesome, teen-age blonde in a miniskirt pinafore smiling up at us from the "Cotton Clipsheet." Almost made us wish we were young again.

TJ hopped up on our desk as the real thing marched in the front door to make a purchase, the better to eye the young vision in a yellow playsuit. With an approving nod, he observed, "It's a good thing girl-watching isn't done by high-fashion rules. Now there's some sense to looking like THAT kitten."

The young lady had just been given TJ's highest accolade, pulchritude-wise. You'd never catch him calling one of those Vogue-type clothes wracks a "kitten."

A meeting was held at Stacey's Hall last Friday evening for the purpose of organizing a Republican club. S. N. Hinman was named president; W. E. Bullard, secretary; and J. S. Pritchard, treasurer. The club will meet every Saturday evening until further notice to seek success for the Republican ticket, the backbone of every American industry.

40th-year reunion held by classmates of '27

An enthusiastic dozen members out of the 23 who were in the Belmond High school graduating class of 1927 met Sunday before last at Lynn's Lounge for a 40th-year reunion. They were joined by two others who had been class members along the way, but did not graduate with the group.

Also present were some members of various classmates' families; and all but one of the graduates who couldn't attend were present "in spirit" in the form of communications written especially for the occasion.

The get-together lasted from 10:00 a. m. until 4:00 p. m., with all enjoying dinner together at noon. Centerpieces for the tables and corsages for all the women were provided by Merle Hawley, whose thoughtfulness bespoke his own sincere regret at being unable to attend the reunion. He lives at Long Beach, Calif.

Those of the Class of '27 joining in the festivities were: Henry Weide, Butterfield, Minn.; Henry Robinson, Waterloo; Hazel Arends Benson, Grand Meadow, Minn.; Lucille Hauge Swenson, Des Moines; Joe Sprenzel, Richland; Ben Mennenga, Meservey; Don McNulty, Goodell; Evelyn Dettman Beavers, Ruth Jones, Lois Lillebo Hammond and Bernard Davenport.

Former classmates present, who did not complete their schooling here, were Angeline Tendall Buck of Clarion and Lucille Legge (Mrs. Henry) Mennenga, Belmond.

Also attending were Mr. Robinson's wife and daughter Mayann; Edna Arends Tucker of Hampton, sister of Mrs. Benson and a BHS alumna; Mrs. Weide, Mrs. Davenport and Mrs. McNulty.

Former teacher present

A very special guest was the lone faculty member of 40 years ago who was able to accept an invitation to the reunion, Mrs. Clarence (nee Mary Brown) Hildebrand.

A memorial candle was lighted for each of the three deceased members of the class: Lucille Skouge Craig, who made her home after marriage in Owatonna, Minn.; Clifford Johnson, who resided in Washington state at the time of his death; and Leo Ayers, who is known to have died but whose most recent address was unknown.

Classmates who were unable to attend the reunion but responded to the invitation with letters were: Edna Rust Lund, Des Moines; Bertha Eliason, Chicago; Alvin Hauge, Minneapolis; Mary Quinlan, Urbana, Ill.; Wendell Quinlan, New Jersey (complete address not known); Jessie Wallace Wilkans, Alexander; and Merle Hawley.

H. J. Williams writes

A welcome letter of greeting was also received from H. J. Williams of Davenport, who was school superintendent here when the Class of '27 graduated.

The only living classmate with whom contact was not successfully made regarding the reunion was Bertha Baker Halfpap of Mason City, for whom an adequately complete address could not be obtained.

At the close of the afternoon, one of the table centerpieces was presented to Mrs. Swenson for having most accurately fulfilled the future predicted for her in the Class Prophecy, "housewife." The other was given to Mrs. Beavers for having "boosted BHS" by graduating five children from her alma mater — plus having four grandchildren presently enrolled in the local schools.

Talk was tape-recorded

It was noted with interest by the classmates in the repeatedly changing group that comprised the Class of '27 in its progress through the grades there were two who were together from kindergarten through graduation. They were Don McNulty and Ruth Jones.

During the reunion program, the proceedings were tape-recorded — as was some of the "visiting" — so the talks and conversations may possibly be played back at a later reunion. A scrapbook was compiled, also, from "family reports" supplied by the class members.

Lois Hamond, who was one of the guiding spirits behind the 40th-year reunion, observes, "Looks may change, but it was apparent that the spirit never does; and there is still plenty of pep and rooting for good old BHS in this gang."

MR. AND MRS. DWIGHT MENNENGA

Judy Giese and Dwight Mennenga married at Sumner on August 12

Miss Judy Giese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reid Giese of Sumner, became the bride of Dwight L. Mennenga, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mennenga, Saturday afternoon, Aug. 12, at 2:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church at Sumner. Rev. Lynn King performed the double ring ceremony.

White gladioli decorated the altar and the pews were marked with white bows and huckleberry greenery.

Mrs. Pat O'Brien accompanied Mrs. Margaret Smothers as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Hawaiian Wedding Song."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of imported crepe and Chantilace, styled with empire lines, a scalloped neckline and long bridal point sleeves. The sheath skirt carried a Wateau train of lace and was bordered in crepe. A crown of Alencon lace, accented with seed pearls, held the two tiered veil of imported silk illusion, which fell to elbow-length. She carried a cascade arrangement of stephanotis.

Mike Armour was best man and the groomsmen were David Steenblock, cousin of the groom, and John Scott of Waterloo. The ushers were Larry Tjaden of Charles City, LeRoy Powell of West Liberty, Robert O'Connor of Sanborn and Bob Stadtlander. The men wore white dinner jackets and black dress pants.

The bride graduated in 1962 from North High school at West Union and from the University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls in 1966 with a B. A. degree. She was a member of Pi Omega Pi, national business education honorary society, of Phi Peta Lambda, business education fraternity, also of Torch and Tassel, Chimes and Purple Arrow, women's honorary societies. She will be employed as business education teacher at Dows.

The groom is a 1961 graduate of Belmond Community High school and a 1965 graduate of University of Iowa, Iowa City, with a B.A. degree. He was a member of the university marching band and the symphony band. He will be instrumental music instructor at Dows.

ALEXANDER BLUEBIRDS

The following demonstrations were given: "Thou Shalt Not Kill," by Donyce Myers and Jackie Westaby; "Tattle Tale Manners," by Darlynn Myers and Cathy Gunderson; "All Aboard for Vitamins," by Shirley Suntken. Charlene Suntken gave a demonstration on salads.

Lunch was served by Jacki and her mother.

A total of 55 articles were entered, plus special projects. After a sack lunch at noon, Mrs. Floyd Edgington, Jr., and Mrs. Melvin Koeningsborg of Sheffield judged the entries, and also listened to the demonstrations.

Lunch included samples of the various baked products that were brought.

Are You Singing The Migraine Blues?

"Migraine" (sick headache) has its origin in the nervous system and many suffer untold agony with this incoordination. Chiropractic research through the years has convinced chiropractic authorities that migraine headaches would not be possible without interference to the normal flow of life force through the spinal cord and nerves. Of the hundreds of cases of this type cared for by chiropractors, not one case has failed to show a definite pattern of interference to the normal life force flow when scientifically checked by chiropractors to determine if nerve interference exists.

It is logical that the individual suffering from the incoordination called migraine should seek out the cause of his condition and have it corrected.

Chiropractic care is the most reliable means of removing the cause of sick headache. This fact is attested to by thousands of testimonial letters written by grateful people who now enjoy complete freedom from the incoordination: migraine.

If you are suffering from this condition, seek out the cause and have it corrected. Ask a chiropractor to help you. The name of a competent chiropractor can usually be found in the classified section of your telephone directory.

VOYAGEUR BILL JOHNSON AND COMPANION

In the accompanying picture are William R. "Bill" Johnson of Belmond (right) and William G. Fisher of Minneapolis, chairman of the golden anniversary committee of the Lutheran Brotherhood Insurance Society, as they spent an August weekend in northern Minnesota.

Mr. Johnson won the trip by ranking 18th at the end of the first six months of this year among the Lutheran Brotherhood field force of some 1,000 men and women in sales achievement.

Base camp for the modern voyageurs was a resort on the shores of Crane lake in the Superior-Quatico Forest. The same American-Canadian boundary waters were used by early-day French voyageurs as a route for bringing furs out of the wilderness.

Bill Johnson and his fellow campers brought out no furs, but each took home his limit of fish — walleyed pike, northerns and rock bass. Each also became an unofficial "voyageur" upon receipt of a wollen stocking cap and sash, which were the trademarks of the early trappers. Bill was first "initiated" as a voyageur a year ago during a similar award outing.

Every impression is crisp and clean — as if it came off a printing press. Smallest details and finest lines are reproduced with consistent clarity and cleanliness.

VOL. 48 NO. 50 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, SEPT. 7, 1967 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER 12 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

A lengthy story in a recent Sunday issue of the Chicago Tribune told of an amazing surgical achievement attributed to Dr. Paul C. Bucy, who is a brother of Mrs. Ben Bailey and professor of surgery at Northwestern university. It told of a six-year-old youngster who was severely disturbed due to damage to one-half of her brain. Her parents, in 1956, took her to Dr. Bucy to see if there was any hope of aiding their child by an operation before they found it necessary to commit her to an institution.

Dr. Bucy six years earlier had met a South African physician who had, with success, entirely removed half of a child's brain for the purpose of improving a severe condition of mental disturbance. The Evanston neurosurgeon agreed to undertake a hemispherectomy, as the procedure is called, since the child referred to him had the same symptoms as the African youngster.

Four months after the operation, Dr. Bucy's little patient was able to enter 1st grade after a marked improvement had been shown in her behavior and social attitudes. Today, she is in high school and doing well scholastically. Since this first surgical effort, Dr. Bucy has performed several more hemispherectomies with gratifying results. Another patient is now attending junior college. Unbelievably, many of the 420 persons in the world who have undergone the operation live entirely normal lives with their half-brain!

Agnes Rikansrud phoned to inform us that Mrs. Charles F. Dalrymple of Sea Isle City, N. J., whose identity we inquired about last week in this column, was Alma Lien before her marriage. She and Mr. Dalrymple were wed here shortly after she graduated from BHS in 1916. Since Mrs. D. and Miss Rikansrud were not only classmates but of precisely the same age (their birthday being Feb. 3), they have maintained their friendship throughout the years by exchanging letters or cards several times annually. We thank Agnes for identifying the new Independent subscriber by Belmond background.

Also got a note from Edus Johnson at Marshalltown regarding the Dalrymple item. He expressed the belief that Charles Dalrymple worked for him for a while in 1915 when Edus had a cafe where the Belmond Cafe stood before the tornado did it in. Edus was happy to learn Charles' whereabouts and promptly got an airmail letter off to him, renewing old acquaintance.

It was called to our attention, kindly but sternly by Karl Rietz of Rowan Lumber and Grain company, that said business concern owned and managed by Karl and brother E. A. matched the baby beef purchases made at the Wright County Junior Fair auction at Eagle Grove by Farmers Grain and Feed. Rowan L & G not only bought nine calves (not seven, as a story stated last week), but a couple of hogs for good measure. We must plead guilty to publishing the misinformation, but cite as an an extenuating circumstance that whoever clerked the sale had a rather eccentric way of identifying purchasers and it was difficult from his listing to know who was whom. Anyway, let the record hereby state that Rowan Lumber and Grain, TOO, gave exceedingly solid support to the auction by buying up NINE baby beeves.

Betty Clare Houser stopped Ye Ed as he was walking by the Houser abode last week to express thanks for the help rendered in obtaining a new kitten for the Houser youngsters.

Since the pet they'd lost was a three-color (tortiseshell) kitten, Betty Clare hadn't been to optimistic about getting a replacement of the same description.

Our Main Street "yelp for help" did the trick, though, and among a number of proffered kittens the Housers were able to obtain practically the counterpart of the deceased kitty.

Local linksmen among winners in MC tourney

Clarmond Country club golfers didn't create much of a stir in the championship flight of the 17th annual Mason City Amateur tournament on the Mason City Country club links Monday, but they nevertheless came in for a fair share of the prizes in the lower flights.

Roger Kinseth picked off 1st place in the 5th flight with an 18-hole score of 75, which was the best posted by any player not declaring himself a championship flight contender.

In the 6th flight, Jim Waddington was runner-up with an 82; in the 7th, John Chapman combined a 47 and 38 ("best round of my life," he reported) for an 85 that took 2nd place.

McMURRAY BACK TO DUTY

Capt. Jerry McMurray will leave Sunday for Carswell A. F. B. Fort Worth, Tex., after spending a 20-day leave in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McMurray and with other relatives.

FROM EMBARRASS?

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hograbe and Becky of Dows, and houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Meimi and family of Embarrass, Minn., were callers Saturday at the home of Mrs. Ruth Coulson.

HEAPED WITH WARES, Belmond Department store the beginning of this week presented the above appearance as Proprietor Chet Hiddleston made final preparations for the establishment's three-day grand opening this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A full-page advertisement in this issue relates the variety of give-aways, special bargains and treats Chet has arranged to make the opening an event calculated to attract shoppers from many miles around. Mr. Hiddleston has been well pleased with the reception his store has been given, evidencing the very real need for a business of its type in the community.

Contest Monday in District 1—

Three candidates seek post on school board

There will be a three-way contest for the District No. 1 directorship when voters of Belmond Community School district go to the polls next Monday to cast ballots in the annual school election.

Vying to fill the vacancy on the school board left by the decision of Carl Green of Goodell not to seek re-election are Dick Barkema, Jr., Merlin Hanson and John Peterson. All three of the candidates farm in the Goodell vicinity and all have children in school.

There is no opposition for Ruth (Mrs. Russell) Lonnevik in District 2 or Ryle Andrews in District 4; nor for George Hinman, who is seeking re-election as treasurer. The three-year terms of the successful director candidates will start at once; the two-year term for treasurer starts next September.

Unlike the local school districts, in which voters cast ballots on all candidates regardless of area, in the county school election the Belmond district will not be involved as the only position to be filled is the directorship from the southwest area. In that area, Mrs. George Paine of Eagle Grove is running for re-election.

As a special proposition next Monday, Belmond district voters will be given an opportunity to cast votes on the levy of a three-quarter mill tax to raise funds for necessary construction and equipment required by North Iowa Area Community college at Mason City.

Through its North Iowa Area Development affiliation, the Belmond area is an official part of Area II under the state's junior college and vocational school setup.

Such a levy as proposed would raise on the current assessment approximately $300,000 each year for a period of five years. After the five years it must be renewed or no longer collected. On this basis the college would realize a little over $1,500,000 assuming a gradual increase in property evaluation.

A capital development program for an area community college or vocational school has, under the law, three sources of revenue — local, state, and federal. Local support can be obtained through the three-quarter mill levy for schoolhouse construction and by bonding. State participation is provided in the form of allocations by the State Board of Public Instruction from legislative appropriations earmarked for such purposes.

Finally, federal funding is realized through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In most cases the federal programs are established on a matching basis, requiring a certain degree of local effort. In addition to these three major sources of revenue the college may accept gifts.

It is the intention of the NIACC board of directors to combine the local effort with an appropriation from the state. These would then be further combined with federal matching funds enabling Phase 1 of a campus development plan to be undertaken.

Under present arrangements, NIACC owns no real estate but is paying rent to four private property land owners and the Mason City Community schools. This rent in the coming fiscal year will total $85,105. The directors note that the college has a definite need for its own facilities and hopes to begin the project very soon.

Citizens of the NIACC region and the state of Iowa will be erecting facilities for their own use. Of the record freshman class for 1967-68, 98 per cent come from the Iowa including about two dozen from the Belmond school district. In fact, 69.5 per cent of this class reside in the nine counties of NIACC.

Approval of the limited three-quarter mill levy will go far in launching a greatly needed building and equipment program, the directors declare. Voting Monday can be done from 12:00 noon until 7:00 p. m. Voters at Belmond will cast their ballots at the city hall, those at Rowan at the Rowan Legion hall, and those at Goodell at the community hall.

Bob Iehl, as new lessee of the Phillips 66 Service station on Highway 69, will hold the grand opening of that establishment under his management this Saturday.

He is going to give away 100 gallons of gasoline in five and 10-gallon lots among the prizes to be awarded on the basis of registration. In addition he will have gifts for the men, women and children visiting the station during his opening.

There will be coffee and doughnuts "on the house," too.

Before leasing the former Meints Service station from Jake Stoffer of Alexander last month, Mr. Iehl had been employed by Helland and Long Implements as a truck driver and machine man. Before that, he worked for the Tyrrell Farms.

Bob is a native of Dows, but before returning to Iowa to work for the Tyrrells he had been employed the previous 10 years at River Falls, Wis.

During his more than a dozen years of Belmond residence, he has made many good friends in this community — and he expresses the hope that they will all avail themselves of his hospitality this Saturday.

Construction now started on NBP facility on Co. U

In a phone call last Thursday to Larry Flanagan, secretary of the Belmond Industrial Development corporation, word was given that National By-Products, Inc., intended to start at once on construction of the collection station for which it bought land north of town last spring.

DeWayne Ehler of Des Moines, district manager for the firm, said Abild Construction company of Des Moines had been given the contract for the job. Land at the building site on County U (the Immanuel Reformed church road) between the Iowa river bridge and the Rock Island railroad crossing was leveled a number of weeks ago.

Amount of the basic contract, according to Mr. Ehler, came to $60,000. However, furnishings and equipment of the station — including two-way radio served by a 310-foot tower, and a truck scale — will put the final investment figure close to $80,000, said the district manager.

Completion date called for by the contract for the erection and outfitting of the steel-panel, Butler-type building is Dec. 15. Mr. Ehler stated that it is National By-Products' intention to be moved in and have the collection station in operation by Jan. 1.

To head food committee—

Gabrielson takes Tornado Day job

Members of the Tornado Day steering committee were to meet last night to make committee assignments that will pin down responsibility for the various phases of planning.

Ed Gabrielson, a member of the steering committee, has volunteered to head up the group given the task of preparing refreshments for the occasion. That, says Chairman Ellis Elliott, took care of one problem.

It is the consensus of the steering committee that Sunday, Oct. 15, would be preferable to the preceding Saturday as time of the "thank you" event and planning is being done accordingly.

Mr. Elliott understands, though, that the Belmond Ministerial association regards that Saturday would be the most appropriate day for a union religious service expressing gratitude for the many blessings received by the community following the tornado.

This would be the actual anniversary of the disaster; and the memorial and thanks service would be one adjunct of the general occasion that would be of limited interest to persons revisiting the tornado scene.

As tentatively proposed, this service would be held in Luick Memorial Auditorium and a request would be made that business places close for the half to three-quarters of an hour that the service would last.

There has been a growing indication, Mr. Elliott reports, that a generous response can be confidently expected when funds are asked to finance the Tornado Day activities.

He says that a $50 check has been received from Jim Cairns, voluntarily contributed for this purpose. Many other businessmen have expressed an eager willingness to make financial contributions to the project; and a number of homeowners who benefited by the kind helpfulness of out-of-town assistance on the heels of the tornado have also signified their eagerness to help.

Mr. Elliott anticipated that last night's committee meeting would find the job of financing Torndao Day placed in the hands of a specific group so that giving can be systematized and a budget estimate drawn as to the over-all cost of the "thank you" day's various plans.

Dog bites bring $20,000 claim

Richard M. Peters, Dows newspaper publisher, last Friday through his attorneys asked an extension of time to answer or plead to a petition for damages filed against him in district court at Clarion asking judgments in the amount of $20,635.

Plaintiffs in a suit filed Aug. 18 were Keith R. Mensing and his son Gary, in whose behalf the father has filed as next friend. Cause of the action was two alleged attacks on young Mensing by a dog owned by Peters.

The petition stated that on Aug. 19, 1965, the Mensings — then living in Des Moines — were in Dows and that the dog mauled the boy, "biting him on the face, causing great fright and shock."

After he'd been rescued by his family, the petition continued, Gary was attacked a second time by the dog and this time was bitten on the leg.

An amount of $20,000 was asked in behalf of the boy for the injuries, fright and shock caused him. The elder Mensing asked reimbursement of $35 for medical expenses and $600 for plastic surgery made necessary by the bite on the boy's face.

TWO AFS DONATIONS

Marc Ihm, treasurer of the Belmond chapter of the American Field Service, reports receipt of two additional contributions to the AFS scholarship fund. One of $25 was given by the Belmond Jaycees and another in the amount of $15 by Post 16 of the Explorer Scouts.

Cup of coffee sought too late by road worker

Bert Boyington, 47, county road employee from Clarion, gave a demonstration in reverse of "what it's all about" when he had an accident Monday evening right in the middle of the sheriff's office's Labor Day rest stop area.

He told investigating officers, who were readily at hand, that he was coming out to the rest stop to get a cup of coffee. The officers approved of his objective but found fault with his preparations and filed against him a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Approaching the rest stop area from the west, Boyington drove off of Highway 69 onto a gravel road, failed to negotiate that thoroughfare and made a 350-foot excursion through the south ditch.

Facial cuts suffered en route left Boyington with a bloodied shirt front as he finally pulled to a stop near the water pump in the rest area after cutting due north across the gravel road.

After a night in jail, the defendant appeared Tuesday morning before Justice of the Peace Ross Stanbery, who bound him over to the grand jury. Able to post a $500 bond, Boyington escaped return to the hoosegow. He never did get the cup of coffee.

LEINBACHS BACK HOME

Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Leinbach returned Monday from a 10-day vacation in Michigan. They visited their daughter, Mrs. John Drenckpohl, and family at Midland and went to Gaylord in northern Michigan, where their daughter Joan had worked at a resort during the summer and brought her home with them.

Despite big kindergarten—

School enrollment decreases again

An incoming class of 90 students registered in kindergarten was about the only bright spot in a story of dwindling enrollment told by figures released by Supt. Don Faris last weekend on student numbers at the start of the new school year.

Total enrollment was down 40 from 1966-67, and the 1,145 figure was 113 under that of two years ago.

Elementary enrollment was down by 26, just about the number of the attendance in one entire classroom. Registration for kindergarten through 6th grade at Belmond, Goodell and Rowan was 603 compared to last year's 629 and 78 under 1965-66's 681.

Junior high enrollment was up a dozen to 199, thanks to the Class of '73 moving into 7th grade. It's down a bit from its peak of 108 a few years back but still has 103 members; and the 8th grade class is another big one, at 96. The high school student body will number 343 — by coincidence, a drop of 26 exactly equalling the drop in the elementary enrollment.

Almost without exception, as class groups advance one grade this fall their student totals are found to be smaller than a year ago. Escaping the trend is last year's local kindergarten class of 59 that appears in 1st grade with an increase to 66.

But last year's Belmond 1st grade of 85 has provided only 76 for the 2nd grade; the 2nd grade of a year ago is down from 76 to 70 as it enters 3rd. Other classes showed less radical drops, but all but the kindergarten were several students short of the number carried last year.

By schools, the elementary class enrollments are as follows, with the 1966-67 number for the same grade shown in parentheses:

Kindergarten — (B) 68, (G) 12, (R) 12, total 90 (77); 1st grade — (B) 66, (G) 12, (R) 4, total 82 (99); 2nd grade — (B) 76, (G) 8, (R) 7, total 91 (95); 3rd grade — (B) 70, (G) 13, (R) 7, total 90 (82); 4th grade — (B) 62, (G) 9, (R) 8, total 79 (81); 5th grade — (B) 61, (G) 9, (R) 12, total 82 (80); 6th grade — (B) 55, (G) 10, (R) 13, total 78 (106).

Enrollment in the special education class taught by Josephine McCoun is 11 this year, compared to nine last.

When the Rowan and Belmond-Goodell districts were first merged in 1964-65, total enrollment was 1,324 as to this year's 1,145. In the three years, the high school enrollment has diminished from 405 to 343, junior high from 203 to 199, and elementary from 715 to 603.

While there has undoubtedly been some migration from the district that has reduced the number of families, especially in the rural area, the school authorities attribute the enrollment decrease in the lower grades more to a reduced birth rate than to the departure of families.

Hello, World

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cooper of Kanawha are the parents of a son born Aug. 31. He weighed 8 lbs. 10½ oz. and has been named Scott Douglas.

Thad Landon is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. LuVerne Josten of Garner for their new son born Sept. 1. He weighed in at 8 lbs. ½ oz.

A baby boy weighing 9 lbs. 5½ oz. was born Sept. 3 to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Stille of Goodell.

Therapist added to county staff

A newcomer to the special education staff in Wright county for the current school year is Elsa Diggins, wife of the Eagle Grove High school vocational agriculture instructor, R. V. Diggins. She is a speech and hearing therapist and will share with Mrs. Virginia Eilers of Renwick the responsibility for dealing with children handicapped by speech and hearing defects.

Mrs. Diggins obtained a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from the University of Iowa in 1941 She was married to a brother of her present husband, who died not long after the birth of their second child, a son now 18.

She was in teaching for a period of time before earning a Master's degree in speech and hearing therapy from the University of Iowa in 1955. She then was employed in her new field at Portland, Ore., until returning to Iowa a couple of years ago to wed her brother-in-law some time following the death of his wife.

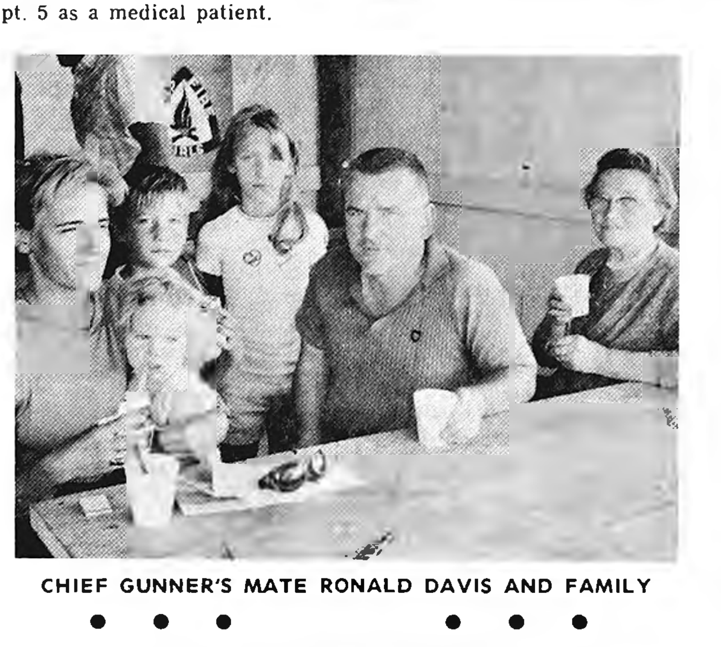
Tragedy struck her family a second time on Monday of last week when her only daughter, Cassandra Diggins, 23, of Portland, Ore., was fatalling injured in an auto accident in Oregon.



CHIEF GUNNER'S MATE RONALD DAVIS AND FAMILY

Among the wayfarers who enjoyed the hospitality of the Wright county sheriff's office rest stop over Labor Day weekend were Chief Gunner's Mate Ronald Davis and family.

Chief Davis's wife Anne, who speaks with an engaging Danish accent, told the Independent's reporter that they'd been putting off taking a coffee break; but when they saw the "Rest Stop" sign it seemed the proper place and time to pause in their journey and they were grateful to the officers for inducing them to take a few minutes' rest.

With Chief Davis and his wife were their three children — Berthina, age eight; Donald, six; and little one-year-old Margit. Also traveling with them was Mrs. Davis's mother, Mrs. Berthina Poulsen, a visitor from Denmark.

Most lately, Chief Davis has been stationed at Norfolk, Va., and attached to the carrier USS Intrepid. He'd just received new orders before the family took a trip to Vancouver Island, British Columbia, Canada, to witness the marriage of a grand niece of Mrs. Poulsen.

They were en route back east, to Cause, "13th" rest stop?—

Two auto accidents mar weekend

Last weekend's Labor Day holiday rest stop was the 13th that has been set up by the Wright county sheriff's office, which perhaps could account for the fact that two minor-injury accidents marred the weekend proceedings, if one were superstitious.

A number of past Labor Day weekends in recent years have found Wright county completely exempt from reportable accidents.

One accident, involving Bert Boyington of Clarion, is reported in a separate story elsewhere on this page. The other occurred at 7:50 a. m. 2½ miles north of Belmond on Highway 69.

Patrolman Ben Urban of Clarion, the investigating officer, says that Kenneth Zubie, 19, of Port Arthur, Ontario, Canada, was driving north behind a truck driven by Edward Peterson of Goodell.

Because there was no clear cut responsibility for the mishap, Patrolman Urban filed no charges.

Other Labor Day weekend travelers in the county had better luck; and an estimated 9,000 of them availed themselves of hospitality extended by the sheriff's office at the rest stop.

They came from 34 states, including Hawaii and Alaska, and from seven foreign lands: Italy, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Scotland, Australia and Canada.

Amongst them, the guests of the rest stop consumed 800 dozen doughnuts and 500 cookies (the supply of available doughnuts completely ran out), 500 gallons of coffee, 3,600 half-pints of milk, plus auxiliary supplies of sugar, cream.

ONE IMPROVEMENT that will help materially to give Belmond a "new look" when guests pay us a visit on the anniversary of last October's tornado will be replacement of the city park sidewalk. Laying of the new cement was being done last week by a crew employed by Stanley Moe, who held the contract on the job. In the photo at left, city employees were loading for delivery to the dump the broken remains of the sidewalk that was battered to pieces by heavy equipment using the park as a parking area after the storm. At right, Moe employees are shown spreading a sand underlay for the new cement. What with the fine new shelterhouse provided by the Lions club and Jaycees and new playground equipment purchased by Beta Sigma Phi sorority and the Jaycee-Ettes, plus many new trees donated for rehabilitation of the park, the popular recreation spot is well on its way to becoming "better than ever." In addition, there is the flag pole and flag given by the VFW and the Central Soya Men's club has well started the rejuvination and enlargement of the tennis courts with funds contributed by Central Soya. All in all, the park will present a drastically different appearance than it possessed when Belmond was desperately digging out from under its tornado ruins.

Park total over $1,500—

Former residents donate to fund

Total contributions to the river park development fund sailed over the $1,500 mark this week as there was a beginning response to a mail appeal to former Belmond residents to support the project.

Typical of the replies was that of S. L. Cashman, proprietor of the Waverly Ballroom at Beloit, Wis. Wishing good success to the drive and enclosing a check for $25 "as my small contribution," Mr. Cashman wrote:

"It has been nearly 50 years since I lived in the Goodell-Belmond area but I still make periodical visits there to look after my farm property. In addition, both my parents, two brothers and numerous relatives and friends are buried in St. Francis cemetery at Belmond, so I shall always be interested in the area."

Another check for $25 came from Archie Rierson, Oak Park, Ill.; $10 each from Josephine Gealow of Fort Dodge and Jean Parry of Cedar Rapids; $5 from Marie C. Stark, Clarion, and from Keith and Sarah Wiggins, Fort Wayne, Ind.; and $2 from Ella S. Mason, Mason City.

These donations brought the fund total to $1,532 and there seemed good reason to hope that more checks from ex-Belmondites would follow.

In some instances correct, present addresses did not prove obtainable for other persons to whom the committee wished to address fund appeals. If any reader of The Independent has the current address of the following, it would be appreciated if it be phoned to Mrs. Merle Bonte:

Mrs. Ed (Florine Ripley) Severance, last known to be living at Silverton, Ore.; Tilla Wold, Minneapolis, Minn.; and Mrs. Nellie Gill Shake, New Ulm Minn.

WISCONSIN VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Larson and family of LaCrosse, Wis., were weekend visitors in the Russell Lonnevik home.

2 BHS alumni enlist in Army

Two Belmond Community High school graduates of the Class of '66 have lately enlisted in the U. S. Army and are currently obtaining their basic training at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Douglas Greenwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Greenwood, has been promised specialized training at an Army automotive repair school on completion of his initial training.

Larry Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Turner, has been similarly promised training at an Army projector equidment repair school when he has finished basic.

Broncs to exchange bumps—

Bar of soap scrimmage admission

Belmond football fans will have an opportunity to see the 1967 Broncos in a dress rehearsal this Saturday night when Coach Chuck Stalker pits his first two outfits against each other in a full-scale scrimmage.

There will, of course, be no admission charge; but it is suggested that each spectator bring along a cake of soap to help equip the locker rooms with this necessity for the 1967-68 sports season.

Soap, Coach Stalker explains, always seems to be in minimum supply; and if the fans respond as he hopes they will, the athletes (both home and visiting) should be equipped for good, post-game latherings with enough left over for ample soaping after practice sessions.

On the No. 1 outfit when the boys go at it about 8:00 p. m. will be Don Havens at quarterback, Mike Klinefelter at halfback, Rick Hawley at fullback and either Jim Studebaker or Lee Barkema at wingback.

Lennie Johnson will direct the No. 2 team at quarterback, Gene Pals will be at fullback, Tim Dirks or Stan Korthas at halfback, and either Studebaker or Barkema at wingback.

Other players will undoubtedly see action as the coaches get a line on how the various candidates perform under fire. Fans will also have an opportunity to see the Broncos' kicking specialist, AFS student Paulo Canineu, demonstrate his skill.

Coach Stalker says performances in the scrimmage will very possibly have a bearing on who will draw starting assignments in the Belmond grid opener against Clarion as Faris Field the following Friday.

Wright farmers' level of living NIAD's highest

A recent report of the U. S. department of agriculture shows that NIAD counties have an average farm operator level-of-living index of 146, compared to 122 for all U.S. counties. One Kentucky county had an index of 46 while Imperial county in California had a level-of-living index for farm operators of 378.

Among NIAD counties, Wright had the highest index of 157 followed by Franklin with 153 and by Hancock and Mitchell with 148 each, Cerro Gordo and Floyd each had 145; Winnebago, 143, Worth 140 and Butler 138.

Sac and Cherokee were highest in Iowa with 158 each, while Monroe county in southern Iowa was lowest with an index of 107.

The farm operator level-of-living index is based on the average value of land and buildings per farm, sales per farm, and per cent of farms with telephones, home freezers and automobiles.

CAL has seven lettermen back

With a new coach and only seven lettermen returning, prospects are not especially bright for CAL Community High school's football fortunes to improve appreciably.

Nevertheless, Coach Everett Oliphant has a quartet of good-sized veterans to ballast the center of the line and three returning backs with experience to pace the effort toward improvement of a 2-5-1 mark last fall.

Following is the CAL schedule:

Sept. 22 — Boone Valley, away.
Sept. 29 — Sheffield-Chapin home.
Oct. 6 — Klemme, away.
Oct. 13 — Corwith-Wesley, home.
Oct. 20 — Kanawha, away.
Oct. 27 — Meservey-Thornton home.
Nov. 3 — Ventura, away.

Kanawha mentor has to develop new quarterback

Biggest chore of Coach Bob Erickson in preparing his Kanawha High gridders for defense of the North Star conference championship they won last year is to find a dependable quarterback.

Although he has only eight lettermen back from the outfit that chalked up a 6-1-1 record a year ago, the outlook is not too discouraging except at the important backfield position.

Promising another good defense is the return of two all-conference defensive choices from the '66 season, Steven Rietema at end and Paul Wiegand at linebacker.

Available for the backfield in addition to Wiegand are Norman Baker and Ron Liter.

Sept. 22 — Corwith-Wesley, away.
Sept. 29 — Boone Valley, home.
Oct. 6 — Sheffield-Chapin, away.
Oct. 13 — Klemme, home.
Oct. 18 — CAL, home.
Oct. 27 — Ventura, away.
Nov. 3 — Meservey-Thornton, away.

"I DON'T NEED A HEARING AID

Because my hearing is not that bad, but I wish I had something to make the sounds louder. Like my reading glasses that I can use only part-time."

A Florida firm has perfected a PERSONAL AMPLIFIER which may give all the help you need to hear without straining. This tiny device hides behind the ear. It is simple and easy to use and carried in pocket, people can have hearing help instantly.

Space age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid. For full details without obligation, write

MR. AND MRS. WILLARD C. LATHAM

Nuptial vows repeated at Laurel by Linda Laverty, Willard Latham

In a wedding ceremony at the Methodist church at Laurel, Miss Linda Kay Laverty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Laverty of Laurel, became the bride of Willard J. Latham, son of Mr and Mrs. Willard C. Latham, Saturday evening, Aug. 26, at 7:00 o'clock. Rev. Gary Gesaman officiated.

Lighted tapers in spiral candelabra decorated the chancel and white bows and greens marked the pews.

Given in mariage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported Irish linen and re-embroidered Venise lace, styled with a softly controlled silhouette skirt, an aisle wide train and a mantle coat. The bodice featured a band of lace and continental-length lace sleeves. The bouffant veil fell from a matching lace and linen toque. The bride carried a bouquet of white gardenias, accented with blue and green grapes and complimented by peacock feathers.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Barbara Stineman of Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. Mary Bowden of Omaha, Neb., Diane Devin of Des Moines and Deborah Laverty of Melbourne. They wore identical gowns of chartreuse crepe, styled with elbow-length sleeves and with formal-length cage skirts. They carried white gardenias and peacock feathers.

The groom's brother Robert of Iowa City was best man. Groomsmen were Donald Latham of Ames, Thomas Latham and A/1c James Latham, brothers of the groom, (the latter is serving in Siagon, South Vietnam, and was an honorary groomsman) and Alan Laverty, brother of the bride.

The ushers were Dennis Blankenship of Sheldon, Delwyn Bowden of Omaha, Neb., Larry Laverty of Laurel and Michael Henderson of Peoria, Ill.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 200 guests was held at the Thunderbird restaurant in Marshalltown. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Laverty and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin McMahon. Dining room hostess was Mrs. Maurice Korte and assistants were Mrs. Percy Johansen, Joseph Rodecap, Lloyd Johansen and Wilbur Latham.

After a wedding trip to Montreal and the New England states, the couple will be at home at Latimer.

The bride received her B. S. degree at Iowa State university, Ames, is a member of Gamma Phi Beta social sorority and the past two years has been employed by the Omaha public schools as head start teacher.

The groom also received his B. S. degree from ISU, affiliated with Alpha Gamma Rho social fraternity and until recently was employed by Monsanto of St. Louis, Mo., and now is associated with Latham Seed Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard C. Latham entertained the bridal party at a rehearsal dinner, the Friday evening before the wedding, at Stones restaurant in Marshalltown.

Teachers welcomed last week at dinner at Reformed church

The faculty and board of education of CAL community school, their spouses and the pastors and wives of the eight churches in the school district were entertained Wednesday evening of last week at a dinner at the Alexander Reformed church.

This is an annual event and is for the purpose of meeting the new teachers as well as renewing friendships with those returning.

The dinner was sponsored by Immanuel Church of Christ, Latimer, St. John's Lutheran church, Hampton, Nazareth Lutheran church, Coulter, and the Alexander Reformed church.

Most accidents happen within 25 miles of home

It's a fact. According to the National Safety Council, 4 out of 5 auto accidents happen within 25 miles of home. Happen during those local shopping trips, or while taking the children to school. Happen on the way to work . . . or the way home. So be smart. Always buckle your seat belt—every time you drive.

Remember, according to the National Safety Council, if everyone had seat belts and buckled them all the time, at least 5,000 lives could be saved each year and serious injuries reduced by one-third.

A talebearer revealeths secrets: but he that is of a faithful spirit concealeth the matter. — Prov. 11:13

Belmond not rightly owed that $1,000 wrist-slap

Belmond's bridge over the Iowa river on Main street could nicely use a coat of paint before bad weather arrives; and more particularly, it would be nice to have it appearing its best before Tornado Day next month, when we hope to be looking our best for "company."

Unhappily, the prospect doesn't seem very bright that the job will get done. Hard-pressed by abnormal expenses growing out of the tornado, the city appealed to the county road department to pick up the painting expense (the county did pay for repairs, amounting to some $240). On the outlay of about $2,000 for painting the bridge, the supervisors have refused to give their approval. A 50-50 split of the cost has been insisted upon by the board.

The supervisors have made no secret of the fact that the reason for their stand is that the Belmond city administration cast what influence it could in favor of an increase in towns' and cities' share of the state road use fund from 13 to 15 per cent during the 62nd Iowa General Assembly. The proposition never did pass (it would have brought a corresponding two per cent decrease in the rural share of the fund, from 40 to 38), but the supervisors are frankly indignant that Belmond favored it.

We believe that, in fairness, the county board should give some consideration to other factors involved.

For one thing, the supervisors are "county" supervisors and certainly owe equal consideration to their urban and rural constituents. The fact of the matter is, of Wright county's approximately 19,000 residents at least 12,000 dwell in the incorporated cities and towns. Regardless of the fact that one of the board's major concerns is maintenance and improvement of the county's secondary roads, there is no justification for marked favoritism to be shown the rural people.

For another thing, relatively little assistance was rendered to Belmond by county personnel during the time of the tornado emergency; excepting Sheriff Blecker and staff, of course. In fact, much more aid was rendered by individuals and organizations that certainly owed Belmond nothing on a basis of obligation than was received from the county, which might understandably have been eager to provide all the assistance possible to in-county neighbors experiencing a crisis.

Certain other expenditures that have been made by the county board in the course of conducting its business make clear that it would not be burdensome for the county to absorb the modest cost of painting that bridge. The financial situation of the city of Belmond is decidedly something different, for the time being.

That $1,000 extra for paying all the painting cost instead of just half of it is hardly worth the risk of hard feelings. On the other hand, Belmond would be sincerely grateful for the cooperative gesture if the county simply picked up the tab, rather than giving us a $1,000 slap on the wrist because of a difference of opinion.

It is to be hoped that the supervisors will, on deliberation, view the matter in this guise. Belmond's citizens face some fairly heavy expense, privately, in getting ready for the "party." If the supervisors would help this small bit with "the decorations" it would be most heartily appreciated.

Goodell, Rowan per-student costs really climbing

A pledge is a pledge, and we're certain that the Belmond Community School board has no intention of reneging on the one made to Goodell school patrons 13 years ago and Rowan patrons three years ago that their schools would be continued in operation as elementary units. On the other hand, it is not surprising that the school directors are beginning to fear they have a tiger by the tale, where their responsibility for efficient and economical operation of the school system is concerned.

While it was recognized by all concerned from the outset of the reorganizations with Rowan and Goodell that the maintenance of small classes in the schools of the two communities would be relatively expensive, the taxpayers willingly accepted the high per-pupil costs. The arrangement permitted continuation of the two schools as centers of community activity, which the patrons of the merging districts regarded highly desirable.

A new factor has entered the picture, however, which warrants the consideration of all persons living in Belmond Community School district. The year before Goodell's school merged with Belmond's, tax needs of the local independent district came to $101,000. Though Goodell enrollment was low, compared to Belmond's, the tax asking for the first year after the reorganization was $181,000.

Since then, school costs have been escalating at an unpredictably rapid rate. By 1961-62, the tax requirements were up to $361,000. The year before the Rowan and Belmond districts combined, the figure had risen to $552,700; and in 1964-65 when the reorganization went into affect, taxes in the amount of $585,500 were needed. Last year the taxpayers' cost was $616,000; and this year it will run $709,650.

As a general thing, less than a third of the enrollment in the elementary classes are attending school at Goodell and Rowan. This not only results in much higher per-pupil costs for education of the children at the outlying attendance centers, but it is not unusual when youngsters moving into much larger classes on entering junior high school find the transition very difficult to make.

Let it be repeated that the school board has made no move to encourage a change in the agreed upon attendance policy; the directors regard that the initiative for exploring a change in practice should necessarily come from the people at Goodell and Rowan.

Considering that only one grade school class at Goodell this year exceeds a dozen children, and the same is true at Rowan — and that half of the classes range from four to nine students in number — the problem of economically educating these youngsters is quickly understandable.

But the "gentleman's agreement" exists, and will be honored. If a more efficient policy is to be adopted in the years ahead, it will rest with our neighbors at Goodell and Rowan to make the first move.

NIAC improvements important to Belmond students

A special issue on which voters will be asked to cast ballots at next Monday's school election will be the proposition of a three-quarter mill levy for schoolhouse construction and equipment for North Iowa Area Community college at Mason City.

Although NIAC holds an option on a fine location to serve as site of the college at an early future date, it presently owns no real estate but pays rent to four private property land-owners and the Mason City Community schools.

President William F. Berner, who was BHS commencement speaker last spring, observes that approval of the three-quarter mill levy will go far toward launching a greatly needed building and equipment program.

What does that mean to US, here in our corner of the NIAD territory?

We most assuredly should bear in mind that of 47 BHS graduates with the Class of '67 who indicated intentions of going on to college, 24 chose NIAC. Never before has so large a number from a single BHS graduating class picked the same school.

It can be expected in years to come that literally hundreds of Belmond alumni will be getting their start in college at NIAC. Many others will be utilizing the opportunities NIAC soon will be offering for vocational training. And the adult education program that NIAC has instigated will be of increasing value to people of Belmond and vicinity.

Yes, it is indeed important that Belmond School district voters give their solid approval to this very modest tax assessment. We can do so SELFISHLY, if you wish to look at it that way, for the Belmond area stands to benefit very materially from the growth and development of North Iowa Area Community college.

Who should lead?

There's still hope. We refuse to give up on the idea of a retirement and/or nursing home facility on the Baptist Assembly Grounds.

Not long ago, we quoted a suggestion of Bill Dreier of Grinnell that the persons who stand to benefit most from such a home should take the lead in the planning and fund-raising. The suggestion has brought at least one very interested person to the front. And we have reason to believe that there are more.

OK, so you're not already 65 or ready to retire. Wouldn't it be prudent on your part to think ahead, particularly if you're at least approaching the 60's?

We agree with Bill Dreier. Nothing could be more fitting for the Assembly Grounds than a retirement home. And at this stage, some leadership and interest is needed from the persons who stand to benefit most from the project. Any more takers? — Iowa Falls Citizen

TJ, the office cat, ambled up as we were perusing the morning's news. We tapped a picture on the sheet in front of us and said, "How about this hippie in Michigan who insists on wearing his motorcycle helmet on his knee instead of his head? Says the law merely designates a cycle rider must wear a helmet, but doesn't say where."

"They oughta leave him be," replied TJ. "Probably has as many brains in his knee as in his head. And that's what the helmet's about."

We dipped in our shirt pocket for a cigaret, lit up, and blew a contemplative cloud of smoke over the typewriter. Watching the smoke disperse, the cat commented, "Like cigaret smokers."

"COME AGAIN?" WE ASKED. . . . "Like cigaret smokers," he repeated. "As much brains in their knees as between the ears. Name any other part of their anatomy, and you're still on solid ground.

"What you need is a smokin' grandma — or a kid friend with a blanket. Like Linus in the funny paper. It's obvious you're not going to knock the habit without a lot of help."

Guiltily watching our cigaret send up smoke signals from the ash tray's edge, we muttered, "We got no grandmothers left; and frankly, we doubt that Linus is going to make it without his blanket. Let's face it. We blanket-lovers are a weak lot."

WITH THAT, WE GAVE A RObust cough. Our daily existence is pretty well punctuated with robust coughs. TJ sent a measuring glance our direction and asked, "Emphysema — or just incipient cancer?"

"Get off our back," we growled. "Knowing your character, if cats smoked you'd probably be hacking right along with us. . . . We lost a cat, once, from her eating a poisoned mouse. So you see, cats' habits can be the death of 'em, too."

"I'll bet you one thing," TJ countered, "if she'd recovered from the experience, she'd have been pretty picky about eating contaminated mice from there on! Wouldn't have made a habit of it, just to see how many she could get down without going glassy-eyed stiff!"

WE DIDN'T CARE MUCH FOR the trend of the conversation, but couldn't seem to find any handy way to switch it. Finally we said, with vicarious pride, "A newspaper friend of ours kicked the habit a little while ago."

"So there you have it!" cried the cat. "Just find out how he did it, and follow his example. What one weak-willed typewriter jockey can do, certainly another can. Should be nothing to it."

Despite our embarrassment over TJ's determined pursuit of the topic, we had to grin as we answered, "Much though the missus would like to see us take up a nicotine-free existence, I doubt that she'd tolerate our friend's method of cure. He dozed off smoking in bed and set the mattress on fire."

WE PICKED UP A CLIPPING that told how Don Reid of the West Des Moines express had awakened from a dream that he was being roasted by cannibals over a slow fire and read therefrom to the cat.

"I gave Dorothy a tap on the shoulder," Don reported. . . . " 'Wake up, angel,' I cooed, 'the mattress is on fire.' . . . She said, 'In a minute,' and snuggled down for another 40 winks.

"After about three winks, however the message got through. She left the pillow like an astronaut leaving the launching pad. What's more, she broke her old record for both altitude and rate of climb. I urged her to come back from outer space — and to bring me a glass of water on the way.

"SHE SAID, 'YOU ARE NOT going to get water all over the bedroom floor!' We tried using a heavy, wet towel instead. Before long the towel began to smoulder. So did Dorothy."

As it turned out, when Don got up in the morning he took his cigarets and dropped them into the ash can. Swore he was quitting the habit. And did.

TJ eyed us sternly and said, "Drastic ills call for drastic cures!"

We shuddered at the thought and confessed "Until a better method of cure than setting fire to the mattress comes along, we'll probably STAY hooked."

Have held title monopoly—

Belmond, Britt NIC grid powers since '59

It doesn't take much guessing to arrive at the conclusion that North Iowa conference rivals would take a fiendish delight in seeing the Belmond Broncos' football fortunes take a turn for the worse. And if the Broncs shared their misfortune with Britt, that would be all right, too.

From Gridiron "have-nots" during the first 32 years of the NIC's existence — 1926-57 — the Broncos and Eagles have come on like gangbusters since Osage joined the league in 1959.

When Britt won the title in 1958, it was only the third outright crown for the Eagles — plus one shared with Lake Mills in 1951. In the same span of time, Belmond had copped championships only in 1933 and 1945.

But since the Green Devils joined the ranks and split the '59 title with the Britt and Belmond monopolists, no other NIC team has been able to edge into the winner's circle. And it can be easily imagined that the rest of the loop schools have had enough of it.

So complete has been the Britt-Belmond dominance that only Osage has managed to win more conference games than it's lost in the nine-year period of its NIC membership. The Imps have won 28, lost 26, tied two. Buffalo Center has broken even at 27-27, with a pair of ties.

Forest City is closest to the break-even mark among the remaining teams with a 25-28-3 record. Lake Mills is 19-36-1; Northwood 15-37-4; and Garner 15-39-2.

Britt	40	14	2
Osage	28	26	2
Buffalo Center	27	27	2
Forest City	25	28	3
Lake Mills	19	36	1
Northwood	15	37	4
Garner	15	39	2

Belmond's fourth consecutive undefeated season last fall pulled the Broncos up to within one of Britt's top mark of six NIC championships plus a share in two others. The Broncs have now won six outright and shared another. Forest City also can point to seven titles — all exclusive — but it was in 1957 that the Indians last grabbed the glory.

Matching Belmond's mark is that of Northwood, also six crowns plus a share in another, and that of Clear Lake. The Lions' six titles and a tie came in an 11-year period — 1926-36 — at the end of which they moved into the North Central loop. Northwood's only championship in the past 16 years came in 1954.

Lake Mills has topped the league in football three times and shared two other titles. Garner has won three and split a fourth. Osage hasn't hit pay dirt since figuring in the championship during its first NIC season, and Buffalo Center — with several near misses to its credit (the Bison were 6-1 just last year) is still looking for its first title.

Following is a complete resume of NIC football title-holders over the 42 years of the league's existence:

Two all-time records were set in the annual fund campaign of the Waldorf College Alumni during the past year, according to Mrs. Robert McKee of Clarion, alumni chairman for the Belmond-Clarion region. This was one of the 15 regions in which alumni made an every-member visit. National chairman for the drive was Mrs. Dorcas Dorow, of Osage.

Mrs. McKee reported that 24 per cent of all alumni made contributions to the fund between July 1, 1966 and June 30, 1967. The previous record was in 1964-65 when 23 per cent of the alumni participated. The Belmond-Clarion region topped the list of those 15 regions making special alumni visitations with 30.5 per cent participation.

"It seems especially significant to me," observed Mrs. McKee, "that the people in Belmond contributed so well at a time when they might have been totally resistant to askings of any kind."

A second record was set in the total number of alumni contributing, which this year reached 1,441, compared to 1,038 in 1964-1965, the previous record year.

Also significant is the giving at Waldorf compared to the national average of junior colleges. According to the American Alumni Council, the most recent figures show that only 16.2 per cent of the alumni contribute to their alma mater.

Total contributions for the year reached $29,884. This money is used to assist the college in its building program as well as to provide scholarships for deserving students and better salaries for a quality faculty.

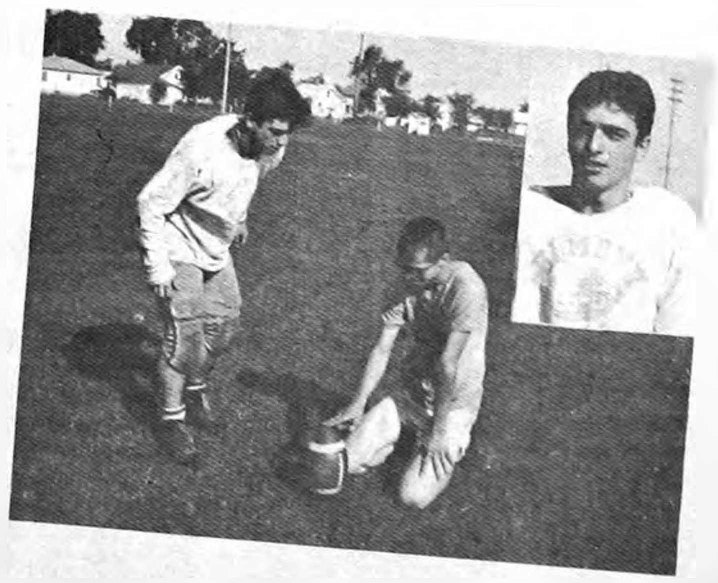
OF THE WEEK!



A pleasant surprise for Coach Chuck Stalker as his Belmond Community High school gridders began football practice for the '67 season was the presence of Paulo Canineu, American Field Service student from Sorocaba, Brazil. With nine years of soccer playing behind him, the 17-year-old youth has acquired a remarkable knack for propelling a ball in the direction he regards it should go.

In practice, he has split the uprights with 71 conversion kicks in a row; and he has also shown promise as a field goal kicker. For the latter operation, Sophomore Dick Thompson holds the ball. While Paulo is attending BHS during the 1967-68 school year, he is living with the Loren Bamford family.

Rapid Unloading
Maximum feed discharge is obtained by a large capacity auger supported at both ends on ball bearings. This auger is adjustable in height and will not wear the 10 gauge steel auger trough. The oversize design of the trough allows extra mixing and enables the auger to handle all types of coarse cut roughage. The large capacity makes possible filling of feed bunks in one pass.

No Feed Spillage
The back of the auger trough extends 6 inches beneath the bed to assure that no feed is spilled. The chute extends 17 inches and folds to 6 inches.

Convenient Controls
The adjustable speed control lever controls the ratchet pawl. It is within easy reach of the operator. Neutral or any one of three unloading speeds may be selected while the machine is in motion.

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 48 NO. 51 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, SEPT. 14, 1967 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — 12 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

This coming Sunday will see one of the most popular of local "social events" transpiring at the BHS student center — the annual chicken dinner of the Belmond Jaycees. Of course the Jaycees put on the meal to raise money for their activities; but the sociability and good food help attract huge turn-outs just as much as the good purpose. Prices will be $1.50 for adults and a dollar for kids under 12. If you SHOULD perfer to eat at home, take-out orders can be arranged by phoning between 1:00 and 6:00 p. m. Saturday any of the several numbers listed in the Jaycees' advertisement in this issue.

Anybody know how to mail — or express — a cat? Giny Courson would like some instruction. On account of her being "the Belmond Animal Rescue League." Something over a month ago a family traveling from California to New York stopped here to have their cat — who was driving the old man nuts — given a hypo. The hypo didn't take sufficiently, and the feline was left with Ginny in her unofficial "Rescue League" capacity.

About 10 days ago a phone call came from the cat-hating hubby (the family by then was in South Carolina!) saying his wife was insisting upon retrieving the cat. So please send.

In the meantime the cat had gotten lost; but it was subsequently taken in by Mrs. M. R. "Bob" Cox, recognizing it as a valued pet by the collar it was wearing. Now, Ginny has the cat back, but isn't to sure that she has the South Carolina address where she can put her hands on it. And if she runs THAT down . . . how do you ship a cat? She also wonders if someone else would like to be "the Belmond Animal Rescue League"?

Although he had high hopes for his three-day grand opening last Thursday through Saturday, Chet Hiddleston found the crowds at his spankin' new Belmond Department store even surpassing his optimistic expectations. While making a run-down of his Saturday receipts, Chet discovered he had checks in the till from 18 different towns! He hadn't made a similar survey of checks on Thursday and Friday; but if the opening drew shoppers from "just" 18 communities, Chet says he'd find that quite satisfactory.

Coach Chuck Stalker reports that Belmond football fans responded generously to the appeal for a bar of soap as admission at last Saturday night's scrimmage. Much interest was shown by the Broncos' backers and a crowd of somewhere between 400 to 500 occupied the stands or lined the field to watch the Blue and White teams go at it.

About 350 bars of soap were deposited in a large cardboard carton at the gate — and quite a few bars went uncollected because the recepticle was removed while spectators were still filing through the gate at a fairly regular rate.

The "Whites," mainly first-stringers, pinned a 23-0 defeat on their "Blue" adversaries. The scrimmage was costly, in one regard, as Center Keith Boller suffered a fracture of the left forearm in endeavoring to tackle Rick Hawley and will be lost for the season. Don Havens, No. 1 quarterback, was absent from the doin's because of a cold.

Several "school people" — in connection with last week's editorial regarding the high cost of providing instruction for small classes such as held at Goodell and Rowan — called to our attention that the teachers in those schools have, in most cases, two classes under their instruction. This, we knew to be true; and we certainly did not intend to imply that they were less than busy.

These teachers will readily admit that trying to teach two different classes at one time is much more difficult than teaching a single class of much larger size. So the problem doesn't stop with lack of efficiency (and economy).

One teacher at Rowan, though having two classes in her charge, has only 11 pupils altogether. One at Goodell has only 14 students, in two classes. In both cases, the total number of pupils falls far short of the "ideal" class of 25 or so, which a good teacher can handle very competently if all the youngsters are taking the same subjects. It's a problem calling for some serious thought.

While this column has been keeping up pretty well on the publicity that has been falling to Bobby Misner as the collegiate football season approaches, other ex-Broncos have been winning their share of the limelight as well. Take Paul Laaveg. When Iowa U's No. 1 center was knocked out for a month or two by complications evolving from an appendectomy, it was veteran end Paul Usinowicz that Coach Ray Nagel moved to the pivot spot, leaving "Peach" as the Hawkeyes' No. 1 tight end.

At Iowa State, the word is that Neal Waddington currently appears to be getting the inside track as the top pass-catching wingman.

Craig Boller is also slated for plenty of defensive action, though No. 2 at his spot presently. Over at North Iowa Area Community college, Dave Dirks has been tabbed by Coach Rich Koolbeck as his starting center. And Rich Stadtlander is back-up quarterback for the Trojans. Koolbeck says he'd very much like to use Stadtlander as a defensive linebacker, but is afraid to risk injury to him. Altogether, the ex-Broncs figure to create quite a collegiate stir this fall.

Funds for "big day" needed—

Time for Tornado Day contributions—NOW!

The time is NOW for grateful Belmond residents to loosen their pursestrings and start piling up the "Bucks for Belmond's Guests" that are going to be necessary to make Tornado Day on Oct. 15th the "big affair" that has been talked about for nearly a year.

Statewide publicity will be given to the "appreciation day" on which the thousands who helped this community after last October's tornado will be invited to re-visit Belmond to witness the recovery that's been achieved. More important, it is intended as an occasion on which the opportunity will be given to express direct thanks to these many friends for their unstinting assistance.

The steering committee has named Pat Gallagher as chairman with Jerry McLaughlin and Merle Been as the other members of the Tornado Day publicity committee. They regard it as keenly essential that Tornado Day be generously financed so the community can do itself proud in playing host to the many visitors that can be expected.

That means that donations must immediately start streaming into the Independent office and the First State bank. The Jaycees and local business concerns have promised very solid financial support of Tornado Day; but a sufficiency of funds is going to rest heavily on the hundreds of individuals who benefited directly or indirectly by the generosity and labor of those who came so promptly to Belmond's aid.

Unless otherwise requested, all contributions will be publicly noted in The Independent. To Paul Tegland goes the distinction of being the very first to make a private donation. Last week he tossed a $20 bill "into the kitty" as his personal expression of thanks to the helpful thousands who responded to Belmond's need.

"Donations of any amount will be most sincerely appreciated," says Ellis Elliott, chairman of the steering committee of nine that is developing the Tornado Day plans. "If the many, many persons who along the line have said, 'We must show our gratitude to these many, wonderful people,' all take this opportunity to have a part in the occasion, money should not be a problem.

"The important thing is," he adds, "that time is growing very short and it is vital that the steering committee know how the financial situation stands. So very prompt action in getting donations in to the bank or the newspaper office is urgently requested."

At this juncture, the Jaycees are laying tentative plans for a barbecue feed to accommodate not less than seven thousand guests. It is of course impossible to predict with any accuracy the number who will accept the invitation to "come back to Belmond;" but if the day is nice on Sunday, Oct. 15th, "the crowd could be tremendous," the steering committee foresees.

Other plans for Tornado Day are being developed, and details will be released as they take shape.

MRS. JIM CAIRNS' MOTHER SUCCUMBS AT DES MOINES

Mrs. Roy G. Smith, 78, mother of Mrs. Jim Cairns, died Tuesday of last week at Iowa Methodist hospital in Des Moines of a heart ailment. Funeral services were held Thursday at Grace Lutheran church in Des Moines, followed by burial in Highland Memory Gardens cemetery.

Mrs. Smith was born at Marshalltown, but lived most of her life in Des Moines. Besides her daughter here, she is survived by her husband, three sons and three other daughters.

Don Bunnell will head Red Cross

Belmond chapter of the American Red Cross, after completing by all odds the busiest year of its long existence — not even barring busy wartime years — last week elected new officers for 1967-68 and set up preliminary plans for the next 10 months.

Don Bunnell is replacing Mrs. Ellis Elliott as chairman of the board. Having completed a four-year term, Mrs. Elliott chose not to continue as a director but agreed to follow through on three tornado disaster cases on which she has been assisting until final action has been taken on them.

Ray Wright is the new vice chairman, Mrs. L. M. Helland will continue as secretary and Luin Cox as treasurer.

Mrs. Harold Shobe will serve as water safety chairman and supervise the annual swimming instruction course next summer. Mrs. Clarence Hildebrand will continue in the post of home service chairman, which she has filled for many years.

Ernest Doeringsfeld and Mrs. William Johnson were elected as new directors, and Mr. Doeringsfeld has agreed to serve as disaster chairman.

Carry-over members are Mrs. Don Friesleben of Pleasant township, who was elected to a new four-year team; Mrs. V. V. McLaughlin, Belmond township; and Donavon Baker, Norway township.

Besides the vacancy left by Mrs. Elliott's retirement, another existed due to the resignation of Keith Wiggins upon departure from Belmond last spring.

Fiscal year of the Red Cross actually runs from July 1 to June 30, so this year's chapter reorganization was a bit late. Not so late as that of a year ago, though when new officers were not chosen until Sept. 26 — and the new chairman, Mrs. Elliott, agreed to fulfill what duties might fall to the disaster chairman as well as those attaching to her own office.

Several years earlier, the board had ceased to appoint a disaster chairman due to the apparent unlikelihood of any necessity for such a chairman. Just three weeks later, on Oct. 14th, the very real need for a disaster chairman was demonstrated by the damaging tornado; and Mrs. Elliott found disaster activities monopolizing much of her time for many months afterward.

SERGEANT DELMAR QUANDT ASKS MAIL FROM FRIENDS

Sgt. 1/c Delmar Quandt has been under treatment since the middle of August at the Veterans hospital at Knoxville and will be there for another month, the doctors predict, before his release.

He would greatly appreciate mail from hometown friends, who may address cards and letters to him as follows: Sgt. 1/c Delmar Quandt, Bldg. 85, Ward B, Veterans Administration hospital, Knoxville, Ia. 50318.

Sergeant Quandt, who will be eligible for Army retirement as a 20-year veteran on Aug. 9 of next year, suffered a nervous breakdown in Vietnam last November and was returned to the States. He has been in an out of VA hospitals since that time.

16 aides get training for Homemaker program

A two-day training period was held in Clarion last Wednesday and Thursday during which 16 women from various communities were indoctrinated in duties they will be performing as aides under the Wright County Homemaker-Home Health Aide program. This will be a project of YOUR, Inc., financed with funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Margaret Bailey, director of the program, presented information as to the purpose and goals of the project. William Powell, Wright county welfare director, and Mrs. Hermie Knutson of the welfare office told how their department will be involved.

Mrs Geraldine Steele, Wright county home economist, reviewed services that will be provided and particularly those relating to children and elderly persons. She showed several films pertinent to her remarks and elaborated on the subjects of budgeting, economy buying, food preparation and planning of well-balanced meals.

Mrs. Miriam Vroman of Dows and Mrs. Alice Alleman of Eagle Grove, the county's public health nurses, outlined services that will be made available and demonstrated health areas included. They showed how properly to give bed care, give baths and other such aide responsibilities for observation of the aide trainees.

At the close of the two-day session, the trainees were given an opportunity to ask questions. It was the consensus of the participants that the instruction had been most informative and worthwhile.

Women who attended the training workshop included Mrs. Ruth Coulson, Mrs. Henrietta Wilkins and Mrs Edna Eccles from Belmond. Others were:

Clarion — Mrs. Lola Fisher, Mrs. Viola Schnell, Lucille Mechem, Mrs. Sarah Xanders, Mrs. Hazel Mayes, Mrs. Virginia Gaedke and Mrs. Harry Thul; Eagle Grove — Mrs. Jolene Kaufman, Mrs. Marjorie Lund; Goldfield — Mrs. Ethel Folkedahl, Mrs. Evelyn DeWitt; Dows — Mrs. Melvina Anderson; Woolstock — Mrs. John Chapman.

Out-of-town contributions bring park fund total up over $1,600

Money continues to stream in for the River Park Fund from former Belmond residents responding to a recent mail solicitation for contributions to the project. The idea of a well-planned, spacious park along the Iowa river very clearly has a strong appeal to ex-Belmondites and the assistance they are giving the project promises to be an important factor in making the park a reality.

Mailed contributions received in the past week have boosted the fund total over the $1,600 mark, and virtually each day continues to bring more checks.

Donations from ex-residents received by last weekend and not previously reported included the following.

$10 — Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Buckles and also from the Buckles' children of Waterloo; Alvin Simerson of Nevada; Mr. and Mrs. Harry J Bohning of Santa Monica, Calif.; and Margo (Gowdy) Brockmeyer of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; $5.00 — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jacobchick of Wahpeton, N. D.; Mrs. Ruth Thompson of Northfield, Minn.; Bruce Leinbach, Sioux City; and Anonymous, Redwood City, Calif.; $2.00 — Mrs. James D. Carroll, Montezuma; and Mrs. D. C. Vest, Goldfield.

A brief note from Mrs. Robert (Marcia Pierce) Buckles explained the inclusion of two $10 checks. One was from her and her husband; the other from "the Buckles children in memory of their Grandma Pierce." Their grandmother, Mrs. David (Ella Mae) Pierce, Sr., was among those who lost their lives in last October's tornado.

WHEN IT WAS NOTED by the photographer that standing too close to the ribbon-cutting gathering at Bob Iehl's Phillips 66 Service last Friday morning made the station sign read "LIPS 66," he backed away to get the above result. Although Bob leased the station last month, his grand opening was delayed until last Saturday. Joining in the ceremony were Bob's wife and — with particular delight — his daughter Debbie, "going on three", who seemed to regard it a party for her.

Nelsons take 1st in golf tourney

Bob and Emma Nelson were winners in the 4th annual husband-and-wife handicap tournament played Sunday at Clarmond Country club. They picked up a $12 cash prize and got their names on the trophy for posting a net 18-hole score of 73.

Twenty-two couples competed. It was the Nelsons' second consecutive win, the champions in the first two years being the Frank Middletons and Roger Kinseths.

Second place and $10 went to Leroy and Edna Green with a 74. Three duos tied at 75, the 3rd prize of $8.00 going to Duane and Mildred Anderson, 4th of $6.00 to Dick and Jean Mueller of Clarion, and 5th of $4.00 to Clarence and Marie Johnson.

Sixth prize of $2.00 went to Eldo and Gen Sadoris of Clarion with a 76. A similar prize for low number of putts was won by Preston and Gladys Turrell with 33, when the Greens were ineligible on a 31 total due to having won another prize.

RETURN FROM COLORADO

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hanson returned home Friday from Brush, Colo., where they had spent a couple of weeks in the home of their son, Major Jerry Hanson. Major Hanson left two weeks ago Monday for service in Vietnam.

Dan Kelley now at Great Lakes

Danny Kelley, Navy Hospitalman 3/c who was severely injured in a Viet Cong attack on a military hospital Aug. 27, was flown back to the States by military plane last weekend. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Kelley, were informed by the Red Cross that Danny arrived in Washington, D. C., on Friday and on Sunday was flown on to the Naval Hospital at Great Lakes Training Station in Illinois.

Not a great deal more detail has been learned by his parents in regard to their son's injuries. He suffered shrapnel wounds in his back, second and third degree burns, and concussion of a shell has at least temporarily cost him hearing in one ear and partial loss of hearing in the other.

BUSINESS NEIGHBORS of Chet Hiddleston gathered at the new Belmond Department store last Thursday morning for a ribbon-cutting that served to open the establishment "officially. Grand opening of the store was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and Chet was extremely pleased with the excellent crowds of shoppers the opening attracted on all three days.

Voters OK tax levy—

Barkema wins school board post

A contest for District 1 director, which was won by Dick Barkema, Jr., brought out a heavier than usual voter response Monday that saw 234 ballots marked in the Belmond Community School district election. The special proposal on an Area II school tax of three-fourths mill carried, 129 to 95.

Mr. Barkema failed to carry the district from which he was running, getting only 38 of the 97 votes cast at the Goodell community hall. Merlin Hanson received 40 of the votes, the remaining 19 going to John Peterson.

It was the Belmond vote — heavily comprised of ballots cast by school personnel — that made Mr. Barkema the District 1 winner. He received 72 votes here, to 11 for Mr. Hanson and 12 for Mr. Peterson. At Rowan, Mr. Barkema got 14 votes to three apiece for his opponents.

In the uncontested voting for directors from Districts 2 and 4, the board incumbents were re-elected with very nearly a total absence of write-ins.

In District 2, Mrs. Russell (Ruth) Lonnevik received 91 votes at Belmond, 67 at Goodell and 19 at Rowan for a total of 177; a single write-in was received by Lester Gabrielson.

Ryle Andrews was re-elected from District 4, receiving 90 votes at Belmond, 63 at Goodell and 33 at Rowan. One write-in vote was cast for Don Smith of Rowan.

George Hinman, seeking re-election as treasurer, received the largest vote total — 195 — with 97 at Belmond, 73 at Goodell and 25 at Rowan. William Butts of Goodell was given one write-in vote.

The three-quarter mill tax to be levied for five years for financing construction and equipment for North Iowa Area Community college was quite solidly voted down at Goodell but carried at Belmond and Rowan.

At Goodell, the vote was 52 against the levy and only 38 in favor. Ballots cast at Belmond were for the levy by a 69-29 and Rowan voters approved the proposition 22 to 14. The issue was voted down in Area II as a whole, 4,891 to 4,237.

Broncs vs. Clarion here Friday—

Cowboys hope to snap five-game loss string

There's no singing of the blues over at Clarion this fall as Coach Wayne Bergstrom prepares his Cowboy gridders for the '67 football campaign. The "hard times" when Wayne was unable to find enough varsity-calibre players to put on a good scrimmage are plainly past. Among the 11 seniors and 16 juniors on the squad are 11 returning lettermen; and several promising sophomores appear clearly slated for varsity duty.

There's a veteran for every position except quarterback, and a pair of competent juniors are battling for that post. Coach Bergstrom said last weekend he had no idea yet whether Chris Sheldon (160 lbs.) or John Flack (150) will be starting Friday night against Belmond as the Cowboys and Broncos launch their football campaigns at Faris Field at 8:00 o'clock.

This crew is enough to bring smiles to Coach Bergstrom's face — but there's more. He says Tom McCool, 180-lb. sophomore, has been showing up excellently at end and another pair of sophs, Don Martin (145) and Kenley Ashpole, have been showing talent as defensive halfbacks.

Two additional juniors have been performing in a pleasing manner, too — Dave Clark (160) as a fullback understudy and linebacker; and Mary Dow (165), defensive guard.

Belmond's largely veteran line will hold approximately a 10-lb. weight advantage over the Cowboys, but Clarion will have somewhat of an edge in weight and experience in the backfield.

After being tripped up by the Broncos for five years in a row, the Cowboys will be understandably eager to bring the string of defeats to a halt. In fact, Belmond has predominated the series over the past 13 years. Since chalking up their second win over the first 30 years of the rivalry in 1954, the Broncos have won eight games to Clarion's four and there was one tie.

In the preceding 29 years, Clarion humiliated the Broncos with a record of 26 victories against one defeat (a 6-0 squeaker in 1941), while Belmond was twice salvaging ties. This leaves the 42 games since varsity action between the two foes was launched in 1925 standing 30 for Clarion, nine for Belmond and three contests deadlocked.

Pin season off to rapid start

Bowling has gotten off to a rather furious start at Bowl-Mor Laness, particularly in the men's leagues, with "mid-season" form being shown by a number of the keglers.

Topping all the performances was a 290 game rolled last Thursday by Don Mathiason of Rowan, which helped him to post a 649 series as pace-setter in the second week of league competition. Dean Pals was close behind in series with a 641, aided by a 235 game. In the first week, 600's were rolled by: Don Busick, 627; Leland Koenen, 612; and Jack Lobdell, 602.

High men's games the first week included 246 by Lobdell, 234's by Carroll Morris and Lloyd Suntken, and 233 by Busick.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD COURSON, JR.

Donna Jones of Des Moines became Ronald Courson's bride on Aug. 26

Miss Donna Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laird Jones of Des Moines, became the bride of Ronald W. Courson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald W. Courson, Sr., Saturday afternoon, Aug. 26, at 2:00 o'clock at the Congregational church in Des Moines. Rev. Hoffman performed the double-ring ceremony.

Lighted Tapers in two candelabra and two floral baskets of pink and white carnations and roses decorated the chancel.

Mrs. Dale Ulfers, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Melody Courson, sister of the groom, as she sang "Tomorrow" and "Wedding Benediction," the latter composed by the groom's mother.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over bouquet taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline trimmed with sequins, also long tapered sleeves that came to deep bridal points over the wrists. The full skirt in "Old South" style had an insert of lace that flowed in lace tiers into a chapel train. The illusion veil fell from a capulet of petals of lace and flowers, pearl edged and with crystal points. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations and miniature pink roses with stephanotis.

Mrs. John Kunzman of Kansas City, Mo., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Meyers of Lakewood, Colo., cousin of the bride, Kristin McNeal, cousin of the groom, and Mrs. Dan Felson of Des Moines. They wore identical gowns of pink shantastic with fan-shaped hats with pearl capulets. They carried pink and white roses.

Robert Courson, brother of the bride, was best man. Groomsmen were DaDean Obrecht of Williamsburg, Capt. John Studebaker from Florida and Gene Brouilette of Iowa City. They wore white tuxedo coats and dark trousers and white carnation boutonnieres.

Denice and Duke Ball, niece and nephew of the bride, respectively, were flower girl and ringbearer. She wore a floor-length pink dress with a full skirt and a hat that matched those of the bridesmaids. He wore a black suit.

Following the ceremony, a reception for about 225 guests was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

After a honeymoon at a resort in Aspen, Colo., the couple is at home in Lakewood, Colo., where Mr. Courson is employed as a federal research psychologist in a Mental Halth and Manpower project conducted at near-by Colorado State university.

A graduate of Cornell college at Mount Vernon, Mr. Courson received a Master's degree in psychology from Drake university in August and his bride received a Bachelor's degree in psychology from Drake in June.

Prepared by Red Cross—

Ditty bags go to servicemen soon

Out in the humid and desolate jungle reaches of South Vietnam, two and a half dozen American servicemen before long will be finding their existence just a bit more tolerable, thanks to Belmond participation in a Red Cross project.

Thirty ditty bags of heavy, green denim are to be filled with a variety of conveniences — and essentials — to the life of a fighting man and sent for shipment with thousands of others provided by other Red Cross chapters. In the Belmond quota was an additional 15 unfilled bags, to be locally made but filled with articles from other sources.

Mrs. Ellis Elliott has been in charge of the project. She says that a number of local organizations, churches and individuals have contributed either items or the cash to buy them with so Belmond's share of the project could be carried through.

In the ditty bags will go: ballpoint pens, paperback books, plastic soap dishes, writing paper and self-sealing envelopes . . . small address books, plastic toothbrush cases, terrycloth washcloths and nail clippers . . . pocket games, gum, candy, wipe and shine kits to keep shoes presentable and protect them from jungle mildew.

If the contents sound a bit prosaic, Mrs. Elliott says, it should be kept in mind that every item is hard to obtain "over there" and that the fighting men look forward keenly to receiving such gifts from home.

In addition, the Red Cross chapter is —through the cooperation of women's groups of five local churches — preparing that number of layettes to be sent as Christmas gifts to South Vietnamese mothers. The churches participating are the United Church of Christ, the Methodist, Trinity Lutheran, St. John Lutheran and St. Francis Catholic church.

These layettes will not only provide warmth and comfort that would not other wise be the lot of the five lucky babies, but may literally give them a better than average chance of survival, the Red Cross declares.

As another Red Cross activity of the current season, the senior girls in BHS taking home economics are to receive instruction in home nursing during the first quarter of the new school year. This will be presented by Mrs. Carol Richards, the new homemaking instructor.

Families honor Marines on leave

Four Belmond-area Marines were honored at a picnic Wednesday evening of last week at the city park shelterhouse, being home on leave after completing basic training. They were Pvt. Jim Janssen and Pvt. Dennis Didio of Belmond, Pvt. Tim Wesenberg of Dows and Pvt. Bernie Blank of Kanawha.

The Gene Janssens, C. A. Didios, Rodney Wesenbergs and Raymond Blanks — parents of the boys — with their families, were present; also Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson of Rowan and Mr. and Mrs. Lyden Knight of Dows, whose sons Les and Paul respectively enlisted with the other four boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holmes of Rowan, whose son Douglas was likewise in the group of recruits, were unable to attend. Douglas got home on Saturday and Les Simpson and Paul Knight were expected to arrive home soon.

Private Didio reported Monday to Camp Pendleton, Calif., on Monday and on Wednesday, Privates Blank and Janssen reported to the same base. Private Wesenberg is to report Saturday at the Marine base at Quantico, Va.

Mrs. Joe Brooks, Mrs. Richard Brooks and Frances McNamara were guests at a coffee Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Earl Michelson at Goodell.

2 local Marines given two weeks' combat training

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. (FHTNC) — Two new Marine privates from Belmond, Dennis C. Didio, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Didio, and Jimmy G. Janssen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Janssen, recently completed two weeks of of training under simulated combat conditions in the fundamentals of day and night patroling, employment of infantry weapons, survival methods and assault tactics at this Marine Corps base.

This individual combat training is given every Marine after his graduation from recruit training. Taught by combat experienced non-commissioned officers of the infantry training regiment here, it prepares the young Leatherneck to become part of the Marine air-ground combat team.

While in the field he was taught how to use hand grenades, a compass and the principles of map reading and land navigation. He learned how to detect and disarm mines and booby traps and, while being exposed to live machine gun fire, he learned to advance safely from one point to another.

From this course, he is scheduled to go on to more advanced training before being assigned to his permanent unit.

> But the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace. — Ps. 37:11

Time for us to match our gratitude with actions

The big doin's of Oct. 15th are now shaping up and, hopefully, we will come up with an occasion that will do justice to the gratitude that our community owed the thousands of people who came so unstintingly to our aid after the tornado.

It must have been said as many times as there were victims of the disaster, "We MUST show our appreciation to these wonderful people . . . some time . . . some how!" And it was not long after the storm that the thought began to take form that the ideal gesture would be to invite our benefactors back to Belmond on the anniversary of the calamity, to show them how we had recovered — with their help

Now that time is getting very close at hand. Just one month from tomorrow we'll have the welcome mat out — with no way of guessing how many may accept our invitation to return to the scene of their labors or, in other cases, witness the small miracle of recovery that their generous donations of money helped to achieve.

The business people along Main street have in general made clear their willingness to give Tornado Day their generous financial backing It is taken for granted, though, that virtually everyone to benefited in any way by the aid rendered our community in its time of great need will want a part in this expression of gratitude.

Consequently, the machinery has been set up to accept volunteer contributions — and prompt receipt of such donations toward the Tornado Day expenses will be highly important so the finance committee can make its plans as best possible.

The channels exist for receiving the money at either the Independent or First State bank . and what happens NOW is up to each and every one of us.

One thing that might be emphasized at this time is that this is a "party" for our out-of-town friends. If coffee bars are set up, as has been discussed, it would be only common courtesy for us to mingle with the "company" over a cup of coffee to exchange greetings and answer questions. But preparing a free meal for "x" number of guests is going to be a tremendous job at best —and it should be borne in mind that the feed is for our guests, NOT for the home folks. Plan to eat AT HOME, on Oct. 15th

Belmond perhaps will never be put to a more severe test of its OWN generosity and appreciativeness than on Tornado Day. Its success will be an accurate measure of the gratitude we so freely expressed when we were down, but — thanks to our host of friends — were determinedly struggling back to our feet.

Confession: county help was more than we reckoned

Looking an angry Irishman in the eye is an upsetting experience. The one who visited Ye Ed's sanctum Thursday morning of last week appeared more than ready to "fight it out," until we explained to him that — devout coward that we are where physical abuse is concerned — he'd have to catch us first.

Ed Kennedy (he was the irate visitor) was accompanied by Haydn Jones, Wright county engineer, and both were bent on making your scribe eat a helping of words that had appeared in The Independent's editorial column of last week. As chairman of the county board of supervisors, Ed took considerable offense at certain general observations regarding who should foot the bill for painting our Main street bridge — and, more specifically, regarding the role played by county road employees immediately subsequent to the tornado of October last

Let us hasten to say that our two friends put up a mightly convincing argument for their contention that the road crew rendered aid to the Belmond community that hardly fit our ill-chosen phrase, "relatively little assistance."

We were not hardened by past condemnation of our opinions, judgments and declarations on frequent occasions, we'd probably have had the good grace to blush as Haydn quoted directly from the road employees' workbooks that:

Twenty-five road crewmen in those dire days that followed the ides of October put in a total of 2,520 hours (whew!) in Belmond's behalf, at $2.00 an hour, representing a county expenditure of $5,040; and that 2,191 hours of machine time was devoted to the work at hand, which at $5.00 per hour constituted an additional outlay of $11,250.

It was suggested by our visitors that $16,290 worth of man-and-machine output was "relatively" a heck of a big chunk of assistance — and did we agree? . . . We agreed.

We were told a number of other things for the good of our soul. Such as, why Wright countians in the majority should oppose any decrease in rural roads' portion of the road use tax for the sake of increasing towns' and cities' shares. Haydn explained that the secondary road fund would lose a good deal more than the Wright towns and cities would gain — which doesn't strike the supervisors as a very good business proposition.

Mr Jones also gave some emphasis to the fact that the county would be stretching legalities somewhat to so much as split the cost of the bridge painting with the city of Belmond, and that the board sincerely looks upon the offer as a generous gesture.

What prompted our protesting editorial, perhaps as much as anything (excluding that we weren't too well versed in our facts), was that at the time when the county roadmen and machines could have been used to maximum benefit — some few weeks after the big blow — that help was not forthcoming.

Haydn conceded that the personnel and equipment unquestionably could have been put to much better use AFTER the flood of assistance that poured into Belmond had dwindled to a trickle, and much clean-up still remained to be done. But he explained that much necessary seasonal roadwork demanded to be done at this later date, and that the men and machines were hardly expendable from their jobs at that time.

After the interview (Interview? We weren't asking questions; we were listening) we promised our visitors that we would make amends for jumping the track in last week's editorial.

It's just $27,000,000,000

Considering the demands upon them and the example set for them by their government, it is a wonder the American People save anything at all.

It is a remarkable fact, however, that in obedience to some ancient impulse, like the squirrel that stocks nuts, they continue to put aside something of their income in the several forms of economic security.

LAST YEAR, FOR EXAMPLE, according to the American Institute of Economic Research, these savers held 291 billion dollars in insurance and pension funds, 335 billion dollars in savings accounts and 217 billion dollars in bonds and other securities.

It is a still more remarkable fact — and one not so well known — that on these savings the American people took a considerable beating.

WITH EACH RISE IN THE cost of living (or decline in the value of the dollar), they took a cut in the value of their holdings, and when the year was over, they were 27 billion dollars poorer in the value of what they had set aside.

A third remarkable fact — indeed, the most remarkable of them all, is that this steady decline in worth occasions almost no comment whatever, almost as if it were more beneficial than cruel and deceptive — Charleston (W. V.) Daily Mail

Commission wrote it

There was an interesting sidelight revealed in a recent Register item about Iowa's new $102 million tax increase bill. It placed the credit or blame for the huge tax increase squarely on the shoulders of Gov. Hughes and his Democratic Tax Commission.

The Tax Commission asked the legislative leaders to give them information on the "legislative intent" of the bill. Both Robert Rigler, Senate minority leader, and Maurice Barringer, Republican House floor leader, declined to do so, saying that they had not seen the list of services to come under the new three per cent service tax until it was delivered to the legislature in final printed form. Adding that the Tax Commission had prepared the list of services included without knowledge of the Republican leaders.

PREVIOUS ATTEMPTS TO make this tax monstrosity appear to be a bi-partisan effort disappeared with that statement. It had been reported that the tax bill had been hastily written by the leaders of the two parties in secret sessions in the Governor's office. Now it appears that the bill was written even more secretly by the Hughes appoint Tax Commission.

No matter how you view the tax increase bill the blame or the credit lies directly on Gov. Hughes and his politically appointed Tax Commission. And it is going to cost Iowans $102 million of additional tax dollars. — Eagle Grove Eagle

By Ye Ed

We looked up from a letter we'd been reading, sent an accusing glance toward TJ as he snoozed peacefully beneath the table on which the exchange papers were piled, and muttered, "Cats can sure be a bunch of truble."

Apparently the office cat's slumber wasn't as deep as we'd calculated, Without raising an eyelid, he responded, "I'm sound asleep. Can't hear a word you say."

"This letter," we told him, "concerns your kinfolk. Suppose YOU do something about it?"

"JUNE BECKETT, WHO WORKS at the county extension office over in Clarion — she says 'the gabby one at the front desk' — is afflicted with cats," we explained. "In acquainting us with her problem, she says, 'I suppose I should address this to TJ; but then again he might not take kindly to the idea of farming out his kinfolk'."

"She'd read about the Jim Housers needing a calico cat; and it just happens that the Becketts have one of that description among their supply. She correctly guessed that by now the Housers had likely found a replacement."

When you talk about cats, it doesn't take long to get TJ's attention. By now, he was giving us undivided interest. He said, real businesslike, "I just might be able to help. You bake the cake; I'll see if I can't look after the frosting."

"WELL," WE CONTINUED, "there's this calico kitten. Born last May. Also a smokey-grey one; and another that's yellow — almost red. Since their grandma is a purebred Persian, they're long-haired and fuzzy. Their mama is white, a year and a half old, and also available.

"June says the whole kit and kaboodle, if we may coin a phrase, are 'very friendly, trained to the litter-box; and young as they are, they've proven they're good mousers'."

"Excellent references," TJ approved. "This grandma intrigues me. Any other data on her? . . . And what about grandpa?"

"Grandma," we elaborated, "is a purebred Persian — as stated; also golden-eyed and blue-skinned . . . What's this 'blue-skinned' bit?"

REPROVING US FOR OUR IGnorance, TJ replied rather sharply, "Even you should comprehend that. The old gal's so blue-blooded that it shows through. Strictly high class!"

We chuckled, "Not such an OLD gal, though. She seems to be part of the problem, too. Two weeks ago, she produced four kittens of her own, leading Mrs. Beckett to remark, 'As you can deduce, SOMETHING has gotta be done!' Male parentage, incidentally, seems to be a matter of some uncertainty."

"Don't look at me!" TJ exclaimed. "Never been to Clarion in my life."

"No innuendo intended," we assured him, "though the prompt protest suggests that, barring the geographical factor, the question of innocence might have been a bit moot.

"ANYWAY, JUNE SAYS SHE tried ads in the Clarion Reminder a couple of weeks and wound up with just as many cats as she started with. She suggested that maybe her need for assistance should be advertised in the North Iowa Peach."

"Well, now!" TJ complained, "I don't know about the Clarion Reminder; but to the best of my knowledge the Independent's Cat Placement Bureau has never failed yet. How do people get ahold of these kittens?"

Smiling agreement, we told him, "June's working hours leave the cat castle unstaffed until 5:00 p. m. But after that hour, folks can contact June by phoning Clarion 532-2425. Or if an interested cat-lover happens to be at the county seat, the Becketts live at 409 Fifth avenue NE."

"AND," TJ POINTED OUT, "IF a hopeful claimant misses out on the calico, the smokey-grey, or the yellow-almost-red, there's always grandma's litter. They'll be ripe for new homes before too long."

"Ri-i-i-ght!" we agreed. "Including the three and their mama, plus the new batch, we need homes for eight cuties. . . . Guess we oughta find out pretty quick-like if Independent advertising pays. . . . Let us know, huh, June?"

Broncs, Britt, L. M. feared, too—

Indians, Vikings tabbed top NIC contenders

"This could be the year" seems to be the consensus of North Iowa conference coaches, who have seen Belmond reel off an unbroken string of 29 football victories in loop play. Considering the habit of winning the Broncos have formed, there is a disinclination on the part of NIC rivals to count Belmond out of the 1967 title race, but there is a pleasantly growing doubt as to the defending champions' invincibility.

Forest City is prominently mentioned as a likely successor to the crown, as is Northwood, whose powerful frosh-soph team of a year ago went undefeated. There is also a lurking suspicion that Britt may be getting fed up with its also-ran status; and with Coach Chuck Nichol calling the turns, a healthy respect is maintained for the Lake Mills Bulldogs, despite graduation losses.

Coach Hal Kuch, in his first season at Forest City, notes that the Indians will not possess the wealth of experience that the senior-laden crew of a year ago had and the '67 outfit will not be so speedy. On the other hand, some good-sized juniors who've advanced from last fall's tough froshmore aggregation will provide better average weight.

Perhaps no single factor has been larger in prompting rival coaches' high respect for Forest City than the presence of veteran Danny Schmidt at the quarterback position. He's an outstanding athlete an adept field general, and can be counted on to inspire maximum performances from his team mates.

Other lettermen besides the 150-lb. Schmidt are: Monty Branstad (180), junior fullback; Jeff Adams (145), a halfback who last season study at quarterback.

Senior veterans in the line are: Mike Hall (150) and Gary Severson (160), ends; Tim Westerberg (170), tackle; and Jerry Charlson (150), guard. Missing is Jim Amelsberg, an NIC honorable mention at guard, who is passing up football. Among the juniors on Kuch's 29-man squad who he anticipates will be decidedly helpful are Frank Kamish and Tommy Frien, a pair of halfbacks.

Coach Chuck Stalker likes to think his Broncos will again be contenders, but he looks ahead with some nervousness to Belmond's league opener with Britt and cannot dismiss from his mind the severe scare dealt his proteges by Forest City last fall. Lake Mills and Northwood prompt genuine concern, too.

With only one player over 200 pounds, the Bronco line will not be so beefy as in recent years. Nevertheless, it will average about 183 counting the 11 top candidates. Letter veterans are: Terry Nelson (180) and Joel Gabrielson (175), ends; Glen Gabrielson (185), tackle; Greg Fuller (175) and Mack Gabrielson (185) guards.

Experienced non-lettermen include: Mike Sheriff (180) and Les Andrews (185), tackles. Keith Boller (190), a junior, is being used at center. A good sprinkling of prospects advanced from the frosh-soph ranks and a few seniors who saw little duty last season give Stalker fair quantity, even if the quality is untested.

Four backfield veterans

Backfield veterans are Rick Hawley (180), fullback; Jim Studebaker (163) and Mike Klinefelter (150), halfbacks; and Don Havens (150), quarterback. Gene Pals (170) saw some use a year ago and could be used at half or fullback. The rest of the backfield material is untried.

A "surprise" in the Broncos' bag could be Paulo Canineu, American Field Service student from Brazil, an adept soccer player who's shown skill as a place-kicker.

Coach Bob Perry may feel a bit flattered by the high regard in which his Vikings are held, considering that Northwood has only five lettermen back. But rivals are bearing in mind the talented crew of juniors he's inherited from the unbeaten froshmore crew of last fall an insist on tabbing the Vikings as contenders.

Ballasting the line will be three '66 starters: Ron Skellenger (200) and Dave Carlson (185), tackles; and Bruce Nelson (190), guard. In addition, Mark Fistler (150) played defensive guard and Steve Schultz (165) lettered as a back and did the punting.

Coach Russ King at Britt used heavily from junior and sophomore talent last fall and has back 10 quality performers, all hungry to see the Eagles a serious title contender once again. King touts as his outstanding candidates veterans John Camp (195), fullback; Chuck Heeren (135), Danny's underplayed only defensive cornerman; Jerry Steenlage (155), halfback; Tom May (155), end; and Larry Olsen (165), guard.

If the Eagle line-up looks a bit light in spots, NIC foes will not be deceived by the fact. They can remember too many times during Steve Everett's coaching era when Britt lightweights knocked the spots off of much heavier gridiron opponents.

There is excellent reason for regarding Coach Nichol's Bulldogs with serious respect, despite the loss of some key men from Lake Mills' fine outfit of last season. A bumper crop of 12 lettermen are back in the fold, including the makings of much the heaviest interior line in the loop.

Bulldogs have heft

Letterman Lowell Storby (157) can be tossed in at guard and that hefty half dozen still averages out at approximately 200 pounds. It wouldn't seem to matter that Ends Greg Mowers (151) and Vern Oakland (145) are a bit on the light side.

BELMOND CO-OP CREAMERY

Buffalo Center, Osage both have new coaches

Nichol also expects help from senior halfback Dave Holt; plus juniors John Sorenson, Larry Iverson and John Grunhovd in the backfield, Gary Helgeson, Alan Thompson and Dave Erickson in the line. Chuck named as "teams to beat," Belmond, Forest City, Northwood and Britt. It's a reasonable suspicion that he believes his Bulldogs CAN beat the most of them.

New Bison coach

Buffalo Center, "bridesmaid" to Belmond's champs last year with a 6-1 mark, have new coach Claude Post directing the Bison destinies with a group of 10 lettermen as a nucleus. Though most of the top stars of '66 are missing, the Bison could fill their traditional role of "spoilers" as Post's boys gain a bit more experience.

Except for Ike Garst (185), a senior guard, and LeRoy Hinz (195), a junior tackle, the returnees are relatively light. Other seniors are: Halbacks Dewayne Torkelson (165), Gary Rippentrop (135) and Lawrence Skilbred (150), and End John Holland (170).

Warren Dobry, another first-year coach in the NIC ranks, has nine lettermen back at Osage. The Green Devils will possess only moderate weight but should have good speed.

Dobry sees as his most promising reserves: Eric Budd (165) and Denny Kubicek (175), centers, and Tom Niess (160), fullback — all seniors; and Mark Chisholm (148), a junior, a wingback.

Coach Gary Kubik, at Garner, says the Cardinals' biggest problems will be to come up with an offensive line and a secondary defense. He has 10 lettermen on hand out of 12 who still had a year of eligibility left after last season.

One senior lineman moved from Garner and another was lost due to a knee injury. There was nervousness in the Cardinal camp when 215-lb. Bob Kern, just a sophomore, was late in reporting but he finally showed up. He's the heaviest man on the squad.

34 Card upperclassmen

With 15 seniors and 19 juniors on his grid roster, Coach Kubik has the numbers to fill open positions with candidates who will have to scrap for the chance to see action. Biggest order for the Cardinals is to get untracked from the losing streak that has seen them salvage only a tie against 20 defeats in the past three seasons.

"I DON'T NEED A HEARING AID

Because my hearing is not that bad, but I wish I had something to make the sounds louder. Like my reading glasses that I can use only part-time."

A Florida firm has perfected a PERSONAL AMPLIFIER which may give all the help you need to hear without straining. This tiny device hides behind the ear. It is simple and easy to use and carried in pocket, people can have hearing help instantly.

Space age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid. For full details without obligation, write

Your Health . . .

Are You Singing The Migraine Blues?

"Migraine" (sick headache) has its origin in the nervous system and many suffer untold agony with this incoordination. Chiropractic research through the years has convinced chiropractic authorities that migraine headaches would not be possible without interference to the normal flow of life force through the spinal cord and nerves. Of the hundreds of cases of this type cared for by chiropractors, not one case has failed to show a definite pattern of interference to the normal life force flow when scientifically checked by chiropractors to determine if nerve interference exists.

It is logical that the individual suffering from the incoordination called migraine should seek out the cause of his condition and have it corrected.

Chiropractic care is the most reliable means of removing the cause of sick headache. This fact is attested to by thousands of testimonial letters written by grateful people who now enjoy complete freedom from the incoordination: migraine.

If you are suffering from this condition, seek out the cause and have it corrected. Ask a chiropractor to help you. The name of a competent chiropractor can usually be found in the classified section of your telephone directory.

Hobo Day in Britt was another big success this year, and an estimated 10,000 persons turned out from coast to coast to take part in the big doin's.

For Hardrock, it was a comeback victory. He was King of the Hobos in 1965-1966 but relinquished his crown last year to the Pennsylvania Kid.

BUYING FEEDERS? SEE PRODUCERS!

THERE ARE MANY OTHER REASONS, TOO — HERE ARE A FEW MORE:

First and foremost, the cattle feeding business is getting more and more competitive, and margins are narrower. A better buying job is a must. Today, the odds are against the part-time buyer who keeps posted part of the time. Luck might be with him, yes, but to do an effective job CONSISTENTLY requires a full-time effort, a lot of "know-how," many good contacts developed through time and experience, and plenty of other things that only a professional can know fully.

IN ALL THESE RESPECTS, PRODUCERS AT SIOUX CITY, IOWA FALLS AND STATE CENTER, IOWA, QUALIFY RESOUNDINGLY — BUYING FEEDER CATTLE IS BIG BUSINESS WITH US

Specialized and experienced buyers keep posted on feeder developments every day the year around. These buyers start with a big advantage, because as a national organization, the flow of information from the range country to the corn belt and vice versa is made easy. Almost every day, PRODUCERS are offered hundreds or even thousands of feeder cattle from all western areas — and are offered them first. The result: A PRODUCERS buyer is an informed buyer; not just locally, but nationally.

AS VOLUME BUYERS, DOORS ARE OPENED TO PRODUCERS

that would be closed to the small feeder. Buying into the larger strings is just one such door. Another sure advantage in entrusting your order to a full-time professional is the matter of time. When the average small feeder takes time away from his chores to attend a sale or make a trip to the range country, he is inclined to buy even if prices are a little steep. A trip can also cost a lot more than the service charges if taken into account realistically. PRODUCERS buyers have no compulsion to buy unless the price is favorable. Since they are in the market all the time, they can bide their time or divert the order to a slower market.

FINALLY, YOU TAKE NO CHANCE WHEN YOU BUY CATTLE "SIGHT UNSEEN" THROUGH PRODUCERS

They guarantee to buy you the grade and weight of stockers, feeders or calves that you have ordered. When they arrive at your farm or unloading point, look them over carefully. If you think they are not as represented, you are under no obligation to keep them. You are asked only to contact a responsible PRODUCERS representative within 24 hours.

Why not decide now to buy your replacements the PRODUCERS way this season? It's something more and more successful feeders are doing year after year. We're available and want to help you, so let us know your needs by calling or writing us at either office listed below.

$$$$ DAY$

If stretching those dollars is a hobby of yours — and these days, it'd better be — then pay some close attention to the Dollar Days specials that are advertised in happy quantity in this issue. Some of the merchants are making their DD specials good on Thursday through Saturday; others, for the last two days of the week. Bargains? There are some real rip-snorters. It will reward you well to look 'em over.

Jeanne Bamford and Edna Green, who have kept the Belmond Loan Closet a going concern over the years, ask that it be made known that this helpful institution is "back in business" and now set up in the Cornell building just west of the library. They stand in some awe of the manner in which the closet has been resurrected since last year's tornado.

Some helpful individuals, never identified, recovered the closet items that were left in the demolished Veterans Memorial hall and got them to the school bus barn for temporary storage. Borrowers who had articles on loan at the time of the disaster kept them safe until a storage spot could be found.

Mrs. Bamford and Mrs. Green believe virtually everything was in due time recovered, except for a metal cabinet for medical items. They are deeply grateful for the assistance rendered when it appeared the loan closet was on the brink of extinction. As now reorganized and properly housed, it is ready to serve local households again with sick room needs.

Last year in a moment of desperation, the local Camp Fire powers-that-be implored the Mainstreeters to turn up some leaders for Camp Fire Girl and Bluebird groups. To their pleased amazement (and somewhat to our own), the appeal brought fruit and enough volunteers came forward to supply the need. Now, Mary (Mrs. Bob) Ausborn says the need exists again. She asks that any women willing to undertake leadership of a group for the coming year get in contact with her, . . . please!

For the past several weeks, anyone remaining stationary at the courthouse in Clarion for any great length of time has stood a distinct chance of getting a sign painted on him. By now, just about any spot in the building that can accommodate a sign of some sort has one.

The explanation: a gentleman serving time for "borrowing" possessions of a Belmond construction worker without permission has been doing jail time — and he's a professional sign-painter.

He has spent many hours at his craft "doing" the office doors and what not. There is now a movement among the courthouse personnel that Sheriff Blecker capture a plumbing and heating specialist. And that a six-month sentence could be beneficially applied.

William Powell hired as county welfare director

William Powell, lately of Allison, is Wright county's new director of social welfare. His appointment to the position was effective the first of this month. He had been employed by Butler county for five years — from July of 1962 to January of '65 as a caseworker, and from the latter date as welfare director.

He is a native of Waterloo, where he graduated from West High school in 1947. He attended what is presently the University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls for a year, then served for four years in the U. S. Air Force.

In 1953, Mr. Powell enrolled as a student at Grace college, Winona Lake, Ind., and received a B. A. degree in social science in 1956. He then attended Grace seminary in the same community and received a Bachelor of Divinity degree in 1960.

For a year, he served as pastor of a church in Johnstown, Pa., then obtained a position with the Iowa State Employment Service in July of 1961. He resigned in May of 1962 and was in construction work until taking the position with Butler county.

The new director is married and has three sons. The Powells are making their home in Clarion.

JOHN MURRAY VISITS HERE

1st Lt. and Mrs. John Murray arrived in Belmond Thursday of last week to visit with his grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Trafford, and friends. He is on a 30-day leave after returning from service in Vietnam. On Sunday, Lt. and Mrs. Murray will leave for Ft. Lewis, Wash., where he will be stationed.

DISCUSSING PLANS for the "Dinner with Ronald Reagan" which Iowa Republicans have planned for Oct. 25 at Des Moines are Dwight Tyrrell (left), Wright county finance chairman, and the state general chairman for the $100-per-plate event, T. Cooper Evans of Grundy Center. Their conversation took place Wednesday of last week at Des Moines, where party finances in general were talked over by finance chairmen from throughout Iowa.

GOP Buck Night slated next week

Wright county Republicans will be joining with the state GOP organization in conduct of a "Buck Night" fund-raising drive Thursday evening of next week.

In explaining the purpose of "Buck Night," Republican State Chairman Robert D. Ray of Des Moines has advised county central committees, "A nationwide survey done following the 1966 elections showed that 88 per cent of the people in this country have never been asked to contribute to either political party."

Dwight Tyrrell, Wright county GOP finance chairman, says that "Buck Night" will be employed as a means of correcting that situation in Belmond. House-to-house solicitation will be conducted to give a maximum number of persons the opportunity for "a dollar's worth of involvement in actual, working politics."

David Stanley here today

Two appearances in Wright county are to be made today (Thursday) by State Senator David M. Stanley of Muscatine in conjunction with his candidacy for the Republican U. S. Senatorial nomination in next year's primary. He will be at the Town House cafe here at 9:30 a. m. and at the Club cafe in Eagle Grove at 11:00 a. m.

The 39-year-old attorney served three terms in the Iowa house of representatives and is serving his second term in the senate. In his district in 1964, he overcame the Democratic landslide to achieve a 60 per cent majority of the vote and in '66 was returned to the senate by carrying every precinct in his two-county district and a 73.4 majority.

Anyone interested in doing so is cordially invited to greet Mr. Stanley personally during his stop at the Town House cafe, during which Mrs. Hugh Clarke will serve as hostess.

Trail Blazers dedicate newly constructed arena

Belmond Community Trail Blazers a week ago Friday night initiated their newly constructed arena on the grounds they have leased from Central Soya Men's club with an Open "Jackpot" Horse Show that drew contestants from 21 north central Iowa towns.

Assisting in a brief dedication ceremony were: Mayor Robert Misner, Erv Redder and Ellis Elliott, president and secretary of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce, respectively; Ray Wright, Central Soya plant manager; "Bud" Meyers, C-S Men's club president; and Ryle Andrews of Rowan, the Trail Blazers' president.

Honorary life memberships in the Trail Blazers were presented to Buryl Thorson of Kanawha and Ralph Baker in recognition of contributions made by them toward construction of the arena.

Visiting riders praised the arena as probably the finest for its exclusive purpose in this part of the state. Competition was sharp for the five place ribbons awarded in each event.

Top winners in the various events were: women's western pleasure, LaVohn Badker, Klemme; equitation (12 and under), Margot Sterrenberg, Thompson; barrels (12-15), David Huntley, Hampton; barrels (11 and under), Jerry Sharer, Jewell; senior barrels, Kayleen Malloy, Thompson.

Pop race (11 and under), Craig Poolman, Clarion; barrell pickup (12-15), Jim and Mark Cullinan; ground pickup, Larry Mennenga and Dennis Barkema; keyhole, Sid Severson; three-man relay, Sue Wilson, Kayleen Malloy, Bob Campidelli, the latter of Dakota City.

Local riders, in addition to the Cullinan brothers, Larry Mennenga and Dennis Barkema, who won one or more ribbons, included: Shirley Pals, Debra Cullinan, Gretchen Smith, Dennis Pastour, Renee Ketchum, Jim Avery, Bobby Hinckley, Terrell Baker, Gary Ersland, Larry Ersland, Bob Cullinan, Sr. and Jr.

TRAIL BLAZERS DO WELL

Shirley Pals and Debbie Cullinan topped a number of place-winning performances turned in by members of the Belmond Trail Blazers at the Iowa State Saddle Club Horse Show a week ago Sunday at Mason City. The former won 1st in senior barrels and the latter won the stake race. Other local ribbon-winners were Jim Cullinan (2), Larry Mennenga and Dennis Pastour. Mrs. Pals placed in a second event.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR PAUL LOTH, AGE 88

Funeral services for Paul Loth, 88, father of Louis Loth, were held a week ago Saturday at Emmanuel Lutheran church, Ventura.

Mr. Loth had been a patient at Ritter's Oakwood Manor, Clear Lake, for the past several months.

Survivors include three sons, Lawrence of Salisbury, Mo.; Martin of Abbotsford, Wis.; and Louis of Belmond; one daughter, Mrs. Vernon (Lillian) Van Lone of Reno, Nev.; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Tornado Day "kitty" creeps past $400 mark

Last weekend and the first of this week found donations for meeting the expenses of Tornado Day — now just over three weeks away — hardly more than trickling in; but those received were of very helpful size, reports Ellis Elliott, chairman of the Tornado Day steering committee. The total figure by Tuesday evening came to $418.

Along with the $20 earlier reported from Paul Tegland was one of $50 from Jim Cairns, who was a Main street businessman before the tornado demolished his paint and wallpaper store. Now engaged businesswise as a painting contractor only, Jim declared, "There's more where that came from if needed to make this event the sort of all-out expression of our appreciation that it simply MUST be."

Mr. and Mrs. Talferd Thompson were among the very first donors with a generous contribution of $25, prompted by sentiment similar to that of Mr. Cairns that a very real responsibility rests on the community's residents to assure that Tornado Day is a true reflection of Belmond's gratitude to all who rallied to its aid.

Lowell Hoke and the Fred Gordons also were in the bellwether class with prompt contributions of $20 apiece.

Ten dollar donations were turned in by the Gunnar Ahlstroms and the Pat Gallaghers, $5 each by the Sig Helgelands and Alvin Halfpaps, and there was an anonymous $2.00 contribution directly on the heels of last week's appeal for Tornado Day funds.

Mr. Elliott, who has been busying himself with solicitation from local businesses and industries, says, "This represents a slow start, but a very good one. It is important, in order to carry out the Tornado Day plans, that families planning to express their personal appreciation with a contribution do so quickly so the steering committee can know where it stands on finances."

As donations continued to come in during the current week, the following were added to the growing list:

Belmond postal employees $51, American Legion $25, Mrs. Lucy Klemme and Mrs. Perley Selgelid each $10, plus anonymous contributions of $15, $10 and $5.00.

Early business contributors include: Followwill Implement $50, Lloyd's Standard Service $30, McLaughlin Chevrolet $25, Lynn's Lounge $10, Hill Motel and Iehl's 66 Service each $5.00.

In addition to the financial drive, progress was being made in the development of other plans for Sunday, Oct. 15th.

Fire Chief "Bud" Packard announces that the fire department plans to serve coffee and doughnuts throughout the day in expression of the firemen's gratitude for the yeoman aid supplied Belmond by other fire companies and law enforcement personnel from other communities. All visitors will, of course, be invited to share in their hospitality.

Delta Nu chapter of Beta Sigma Phi has also announced the intention of having a coffee bar in operation on Tornado Day. Mr. Elliott says the steering committee is eager to hear of any other organizations or business-service establishments that plan to serve coffee to the Tornado Day guests.

Mark Mason ends duty in Vietnam

SP4 Mark Mason arrived back in the States last Thursday after a year of duty in Vietnam. During that time he was a food inspector for supplies provided by the Vietnamese to the Army.

He was met at the Minneapolis airport by his wife Carolyn and brought home.

Mark will have a 30-day leave before reporting at his next station, Fort Meade, Md., where he will be attached to the 1st Army Veterinary Service. He and his wife planned to go east this week to scout for housing; then will return to spend the balance of his leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Mason.

Carolyn taught in the Rockwell-Swaledale schools this past year, but resigned so she can be with her husband, now that he will be spending the remainder of his 19 months in uniform in this country.

SEE GRANDSON BAPTIZED

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kessler, and two sons and Lem Long on Sunday a week ago attended the baptism of their grandson, Marc Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Long of Cedar Falls held at the Nazarene Lutheran church in Cedar Falls.

Knoshaug issues own opinion re Hogan incident

Dewayne A. Knoshaug, Wright county attorney, makes the following statement regarding the Iowa Highway Patrolman Merlin Hogan incident as it pertains to Wright county.

"I personally attended all sessions of the Hogan hearing before the Iowa Executive Council, consisting of all or part of three different days, which recently concluded in Des Moines.

"I am of the opinion that no criminal charges should be filed against any person involved. I am of the further opinion that there was absolutely no participation in any wrongful act by Wright county Deputy Sheriffs Robert Shaw and Vernon Elston.

"Previous news articles stated that the quarter of beef was to be divided three ways, with Robert Shaw and Vernon Elston each to receive a third. Patrolman Hogan testified that it was his decision to divide the meat and that neither Shaw or Elson had asked him for a third of the meat."

"A grand jury investigation of this incident would be a needless duplication of the state hearing and expensive for Wright county."

SGT. ROGER DAVIDS

Army discharge to Roger Davids

Sgt. Roger A. Davids, only lately returned from duty in Vietnam, is completing seven years of service in the U. S. Army and will be honorably discharged from the service on Wednesday of next week.

He is presently stationed at Fort Hood, Tex., where he received his basic training upon enlisting in the Army in September of 1960.

His tour of duty included three years stationed in Germany, during which time he visited a number of other European countries.

Thompsen-Keleher end association

Announcement was made this week by A. P. "Dutch" Thompsen and George Keleher that as of Sept. 1 their partnership in the Thompsen and Keleher Clothing store was dissolved and that the business will resume its former name of Thompsen Clothing.

Mr. Keleher came to Belmond as manager of the clothing establishment in early 1953 and became a partner in the business in March of 1954. Mr. Thompsen had originally bought the business in 1945 from C. C. McGuire, the concern at that time having been operated as McGuire Clothing since 1892.

During the 75 years of its existence, it has borne only the three names and is now returning to the second of those three. Mr. Thompsen says the business will now be managed by Henry "Hank" Johnson, a long-time employee of the firm. He will be assisted by Ina Halfpap, who has been clerking in the store during the past year.

Mr. Keleher informs The Independent that his plans for the future are indefinite at this time.

Cubbing round-up scheduled Monday

Plans for Cub Scouting in Belmond during the new school year will be laid Monday night at a combination roll call and round-up to be held at the junior high school auditorium starting at 7:15 o'clock.

Cubmaster Roger Johnson asks all registered Cub Scouts and their parents to be present; also boys of age eight through 10 who are interested in becoming Cub Scouts, bringing their parents.

A change recently made in the Cub Scout program provides for boys, on becoming age 10, to rank as Webelos and attend night meetings under male leadership. At age 11, they are eligible to become Boy Scouts. The former Cub rank of Lion has been eliminated.

Bernard Miller and Merle Been have consented to serve as Webelos leaders this year. A third leader is still needed, since a large number of Cub Scouts are now of an age to become Webelos.

Cub pack meetings will be held on the final Monday of each month at the junior high auditorium, unless otherwise specified. Themes for the various months have been set as follows:

LEAVE FOR NEW STATION

Pvt. and Mrs. David Zacharias left Saturday for Ft. Belvoir, Va., where he will be stationed.

Poppy Day this Saturday

Tucked in amongst the variety of appeals that are being made in the community at the present time will be one this Saturday for a cause that Belmond has given its annual support in the way of coins and occasional dollar bills. It is Poppy Day of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Auxiliary, which provides these organizations with the wherewithal to carry on extensive good works in behalf of disabled veterans and the families of deceased veterans.

Commander Keith Chandler points out that, even though the price customarily paid for the memorial poppies is nominal, the total is important in expressing the community's gratitude for the sacrifices made by those servicemen who served on foreign soil. He hopes all will find the usual half dollar, quarter or dime to stick in the coin boxes.

Jack Steinberg, boys physical education director, reports that four boys who were in the 8th grade last year earned the citations, David Hickman, David Nelson, Paul Schaefer and Glen Hansen; and three who were in 5th grade, Brian McVey, Marshall Hanson and Duane Summers.

Tests administered in seven physical fitness areas are the basis of the awards, and a Presidential Award winner must rank in the 85th percentile of his or her age group.

Awards consist of a certificate provided under the presidential program plus an embroidered emblem, purchased by the school, which is suitable for wearing on a sweater.

Boys and girls from age 10 through 17 are eligible to compete for the awards.

Teachers' dinner slated Wednesday

Wednesday evening of next week members of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce and their wives will play host to members of the Belmond Community school faculty and their spouses at the Chamber's annual get-acquainted dinner. It will be served at the Methodist church basement, starting at 7:00 o'clock.

Rev. J. Samuel Shelby, pastor of the Congregational church (United Church of Christ), will be the speaker of the occasion.

Erv Redder, president of the Chamber, will extend the welcome in behalf of his organization. The response will be made by Shirley Malek, who is current president of the Belmond Teachers association.

Bob Shaw quits deputy position

Resignation of Deputy Sheriff Bob Shaw from the staff position he has held the past six years was accepted Monday by the Wright county board of supervisors.

In an accompanying action, the supervisors passed a resolution limiting the sheriff to two deputies. Since last year, Blecker has had an office deputy in addition to two field deputies.

Shaw's resignation was the second in the past year's time, Harrold Bygness having resigned as a deputy to become Goldfield's chief of police.

Since Shaw had had no vacation this year, the supervisors agreed to his continuing his duties through this week but with Oct. 7 to be the effective date of his resignation. Shaw has accepted a position as chief of police at Hampton.

KIWANIS CLUB FORMING

Members of the new Kiwanis club that is being formed in Belmond are currently selling tickets for the organization's Charter Night Banquet that will be held at the BHS student center on Monday, Oct. 9th. More regarding the club's formation will appear in an early issue.

Eighth-grade members of the Student Council, in addition to President Mike McFarlin, are Curtis Pals, Robert Cline and Bonnie Boyd, the latter filling the office of secretary-treasurer.

From among the 7th-grade representatives, Joel Groom of Rowan was chosen as vice president. The others from that grade on the council are Larry Elphic, Richard Tillman and Dana Obrecht.

Chest campaign delayed 3 weeks

Due to the current solicitation of contributions to meet the expenses of Tornado Day, the Jaycee-Ettes have decided to delay launching the 1967 Community Chest compaign until Oct. 22.

This decision was reached after an editorial in this issue urging support of the Chest had already been printed. It was initially intended that the campaign get underway next Tuesday.

Mrs. O'Larry Dorr and Mrs. Duane Anderson, co-chairmen of the Chest drive, explained that the Jaycee-Ettes were anxious that the two important causes — Tornado Day and the Chest — not conflict with each other in appealing to Belmond residents' generosity simultaneously.

Appreciation was expressed by Ellis Elliott, chairman of the Tornado Day steering committee, for the cooperative gesture of the Jaycee-Ettes, which he regards "should assure greater success to both endeavors."

Fullerton Lumber company this Friday is celebrating the completion of its all-new building with a housewarming party. Manager Wayne Bell declares that the establishment represents "the newest, most advanced building service store in Iowa."

It replaces facilities that were severely damaged in last October's tornado. Replacement was a rather long process, as Fullerton's was kept busily occupied during the rebuilding rush in Belmond supplying the needs of customers.

Throughout the day Friday, the American Legion Auxiliary will serve coffee and doughnuts. There will also be a number of prizes awarded to registering guests, including a power saw and electric hair dryer.

Mrs. Hiddleston's father, 66, dies

While on a buying trip to Minneapolis last weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Chet Hiddleston received word Sunday night that her father, A. H. Peters of Kansas City, Mo., was dying of lung cancer. Mrs. Hiddleston left promptly by plane and arrived at her father's bedside before he passed away Monday morning.

Funeral services for Mr. Peters, who was 66, were held Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Hiddleston joined his wife at Kansas City to attend the rites.

Mr. Peters had been a lifetime employee of Continental Can company. He had been forced to give up his work after submitting to lung surgery last spring. Besides his wife and Mrs. Hiddleston, he is survived by another daughter and two sons.

Luin Cox to head school directors

Luin Cox was elected by the Belmond Community School district board of education to serve as president during 1967-68, as the directors held their regular September meeting Monday night at the board room. He succeeds Ed Gabrielson as head of the board.

Dick Barkema, Jr., who was elected as District 1 representative on the board earlier this month, was officially seated as a board member.

Marker heads county Farm Bureau

Darwin Marker of Woolstock was elected as new president of the Wright County Farm Bureau at the annual meeting of that organizaiton held Monday evening at the Eagle Grove memorial building. He succeeds Willis Kuecker, also of Woolstock, who had served in the office the past two years.

Stanley Riemenschneider of Troy township was elected to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Marker's advancement from the vice presidency and Ray Steffy of Boone township took the place of James Stevenson, Goldfield, as secretary. Mr. Stevenson did not run for reelection. Cliff Hill of Eagle Grove was returned to the office of treasurer.

Mr. Kuecker was elected over Leo Woodley of Clarion as the county Bureau's voting delegate to the state convention.

Mrs. Verven Reichter of Goldfield was elected as women's chairman, Mrs. L. W. Sellers of Clarion retiring from that post. Mrs. Gary Lund of Clarion was elected vice chairman and Mrs. Wesley Boyington of Rowan as publicity chairman.

Directors approved for two-year terms on the board were: Kermit Johnson, Belmond township; Herman Hiemstra, Norway; Gaylord Thompson, Eagle Grove; Merle Sheets, Liberty; and Melvin McOllough, Wall Lake. The latter was the only one elected for the first time. There were no director candidates from Boone or Iowa townships.

Treasurer Cliff Hill reported the county Farm Bureau in good financial condition, assets totalling $17,395.24 including $2,501.22 in cash, $4,248.75 in stocks and bonds and $10,156.94 in time deposits.

Among resolutions submitted by Darwin Marker, chairman of the resolutions committee, and approved by the membership was one expressing great concern over the federal government's apparent "cheap food" poilcy. A high per cent of the Farm Bureau members were reported holding the belief that the federal government should do more to control inflation by reduced spending and increased efficiency.

Specially invited guests from the National Farmers Organization also heard read a resolution urging better working cooperation among farm organizations.

Regarding county government, a preference was expressed for merger of county offices instead of a merger into multi-county governmental units.

A report by Manager Howard Werner of the Wright-Franklin Farm Service showed sales of $1,391,011 during 1966, the highest in the cooperative's history, with patronage refunds coming to $59,247 — also a new high.

Would you believe 10-5?

George Kaduce, who is Belmond's current night cop, may have quite a bit to learn about football — but no one should bother giving him guessing lessons. He was winner of the score-guessing contest based on Friday night's Belmond-Clarion fracas with a score that sounded as if it were straight out of a World Series game. George's guess was a 10-to-5 victory for the Broncos. That came the closest to the 7-6 tally that lit the scoreboard at the game's end. Nobody picked Clarion to win. About the closest after Kaduce's guess was that of Dean Pals, 14-6. He thought somebody was going to nab another scoring pass.

In elections at BHS—

Boys take all class presidencies

Boys were the winners of all four class presidencies at Belmond Community High school as elections were conducted last week; but girls registered victories in the contests for other class offices and succeeded in gaining half of the 12 posts that were filled.

Steve Courson was chosen by the seniors to head their class in its graduation year. Vance Jenison was elected as vice president and Kathy Pals as secretary-treasurer.

The heavy responsibilities of serving as junior class president fell to John Reasoner, while Vicki Doekwell will be the vice president and Nancy Johnston the secretary-treasurer.

Ron Fuller, an athletic stand-out in junior high, was chosen by the freshmen as their president. The other offices are filled by Susan Pals as vice president and Fred Erdman as secretary-treasurer.

Home room representatives to serve on the BHS Student Council during the 1967-68 school year were also elected last week. Glenn Gabrielson is the council president, Mack Gabrielson is vice president and Deb Misner, secretary treasurer. Other carry-over members from last spring are Paul Bamford, Lennie Johnson and Preston Kessler.

Seniors elected to the Student Council were Robert Dorr, Julie Kinseth and Mike Sheriff; juniors — Shirley Butterbaugh, Mick Gabrielson, Greg Steenblock, Nancy Smith; sophomores — Richard Bonte, Jane Kinseth, Randy Turner; freshmen — Dale Arends, Jimmy Mason and Douglas Thompson.

Also recently elected were freshman-sophomore cheerleaders for the year. To serve at football and basketball games are Vicki Broshar, Patsy Pals, Jane Kinseth and Geraldine Didio; and football-wrestling, Barbara Killius and Cathy Lowenberg.

As an estimated 3,000 fans watched the proceedings at Faris Field Friday night, the Belmond Broncos kept their win string alive — but it definitely developed a heart murmur. When a pass interception by 5-ft. 5-in. Billy Broshar with 32 seconds left stifled a fifth Clarion scoring opportunity at Belmond's 20, the Broncos thankfully held on for a 7-6 victory.

Of those five Cowboy scoring chances, the only one to pay off was with four minutes left in the third quarter when Ken Bernardt climaxed a 72-yard drive with a burst from the one-yard line. The visitors had gotten to the Belmond 11 and again to the six in the second quarter, a last-play pass interception by Greg Fuller just before half time squelching the latter opportunity.

After their score-producing foray they got to the Broncos' 11 early in the fourth stanza but couldn't get the ball over. A pass interference penalty with about a minute of game time remaining had set the stage for Broshar's heroics in the waning moments.

Cowboys "won" statistics

If it sounds as if Clarion was pretty well dominating matters most of the fray, the assumption is correct. Nevertheless, the Broncos had their innings — and their defense got tough when it had to — so it cannot be chalked down simply as a fluke win for Coach Chuch Stalker's boys despite a statistical edge for Clarion.

Belmond's tally came the first time the Broncs got possession of the ball, after holding Clarion for downs after the opening kickoff. The Cowboys punted out-of-bounds on the Belmond 38 and it took just seven plays to notch the touchdown. The big gainer was a 43-yard advance on a pass from Don Havens to Terry Nelson. Mike Klinefelter accounted for 19 of the last 21 yards with an 11-yard sprint and then, after a two-yarder by Rick Hawley, an eight-yard burst into the end zone.

Paulo Canineu, Brazil's gift to the Blue-and-White grid squad via the American Field Service, accurately booted the extra point. That made all the difference; for after Bernhardt's TD, a quartet of Broncos spearheaded by Mac Gabrielson blocked the p. a. t. try of Tackle Loren Simpson by placekick.

Two Bronco chances fail

The second time Belmond got the ball came close to producing another marker. A Havens-to-Jim Studebaker pass advanced the pigskin to Clarion's 12, but a 15-yard penalty was called for clipping. Three plays later, from the 25, Studebaker lofted an aerial to Nelson as he was open on the goal line; but Terry tripped in going for the ball and it slipped through his hands.

Another scoring opportunity went down the drain at the start of the second quarter, after Hawley had intercepted a Clarion toss and had run the ball back to the Cowboys' 27. On the next play, Nelson again got behind the visitors' defense and into the end zone, but the Havens pass that found him there once more slipped through his fingers.

There was only one more Belmond threat of any consequence. After taking the second half kickoff Belmond got to the Clarion 30 on a 35-yard pass from Havens to Joel Gabrielson; but the Bronco offense sputtered at that point and Clarion claimed the ball on the 28 four downs later. It was from this position that Cowboys went down field to score.

Bob Bernhardt tough

Clarion had its only luck with passes during the entire night in the course of this drive. Quarterback Chris Sheldon connected with Capt. Ron Martin for one 19-yard gain and hit Halfback Jon Fletcher a bit later for 15. Fletcher and Bernhardt got most of the remaining yardage on runs, the latter accounting for the final 21 yards except for a one-yard offside penalty against Belmond at the two.

Bernhardt was Clarion's big offensive gun, gaining a net of 123 yards in 28 carries with a total advance of 134 in 24 tries and 11 lost on four others. It is noteworthy that when the Broncos were desperately defending their lead in the late stages of the game, Bernhardt picked up only 16 yards in his last nine carries for an average of less than two yards compared to his evening average of almost five.

Mike Klinefelter averaged six yards per whack on 13 carries when the Belmond defense gave him some running room. On three other tries he was nailed for a total loss of 10, to balance against 79 gained, when leaks developed in the Bronco line.

Rick Hawley injured

Rick Hawley, at fullback, suffered a first quarter injury that limited his usefulness, though he wasn't sidelined for good until after the second half was underway. Don Havens, getting his baptism of fire as regular quarterback, showed adeptness as a passer when he could avoid red-dogging Cowboy linebackers. But he was dumped for 39 yards when his line failed to give him necessary protection.

Norman Thomas and Dave McOllough — until the latter was hurt early in the fourth quarter — were standouts in the Clarion line and Bernardt played well as a secondary defender.

For Belmond, Mac Gabrielson and Greg Steenblock paced the defense when the second-half chips were down. Glenn Gabrielson, Fuller, Nelson and Dennis Knoll got some valuable work in, too, receiving help from various and sundry when the Cowboy offense simply HAD to be stopped.

Added polish needed

Belmond's pass defense performed quite capably, except for a couple of lapses. When Broshar got the key interception near the game's end, it was Studebaker who had first slapped the pigskin out of a would-be receiver's hands.

The game goes into the record book as win No. 34 in a row for the Broncos. There will have to be quite a bit of polishing done on the offense and greater consistency achieved by the defense if the victory skein is to survive the current season. Coach Stalker, while well aware of the rough spots, thought his boys showed some promising potential in the opener. With some "ironing out," they could get a lot tougher in the games to come.

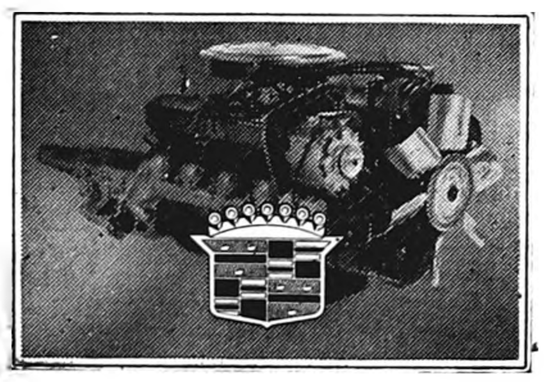
And the "inside story" for 1968 starts with the biggest, smoothest V-8 engine ever put into a production motor car.



Brilliant new styling • Dramatic new interiors • Totally new instrument panel • Concealed windshield wipers • Improved variable ratio power steering • New disc brakes available • Wide choice of eleven exciting new body styles.

Now, enter a new era of luxury car performance. Cadillac's new 472 V-8 has the greatest torque, or usable power, of any passenger car engine and the newest combination of engine components since Cadillac pioneered the V-8 fifty-three years ago. You will notice a brilliant improvement in passing performance that in no way compromises the reserve of strength for Cadillac's usual power conveniences.

You will also be impressed with its amazing quiet—so remarkable that only its responsiveness reminds you that a great new engine lies under the hood.

Cadillac for 1968 provides, in addition, its well-proved triple braking system with finned drums to deliver smooth, straight stopping power. Front disc brakes are available for those who prefer the further refinement of an advanced disc-and-drum combination, and this year they're standard on Eldorado. You may also choose a greatly improved air conditioning system that moves more air more quietly.

Whether your preference is for one of the more traditional models—or the classic beauty of the Eldorado—come in soon and discover new elegance and excitement in luxury motoring!

Charlie writes final letter—

Keiths conclude travels abroad

by Charles Keith

There is always a certain amount of anticipation about going to a strange place — so heading for the continental part of Europe was no exception. Visiting in Scotland seemed just like being home; but for the next 10 to 12 days, we were really going to be strangers in a strange land.

We took an overnight bus from Glasgow to London, then a commuter train to Dorkin, where we met Mrs. Hannah. From Dorken we drove to Dover, where we had reservations on the ferry to Ostend, Belgium. Most all motoring seemed to be made through the A. A. club in Britian and the green sheet which all motorists carry to show insurance coverage and proof of ownership turned out to be just as important as having a passport.

The White Cliffs of Dover are beautiful. They are a chalk formation which rises high above the sea, and this particular morning they glistened white in the sunshine. The channel crossing to Belgium takes about three hours and most of the people spend the time drinking tea or coffee and nibbling on sandwiches and fancy pastry.

Tax-free items popular

Liquor and perfume are available at tax-free prices and, from the amount sold, most people figured they couldn't afford to pass up a bargain whether they needed it or not.

Ostend turned out to be the first of the continental cities we visited and it was beautiful. People from southern England can vacation here just as cheap as they can at home, so English was spoken everywhere. The Belgian people have a great love for both the land and the sea, and close to the beach they have erected a beautiful monument with a ship's anchor on one side to honor those who sail and a man with arms folded looking toward the land to honor those who till the soil.

I asked the desk clerk at the hotel how the Germans met them when their country was occupied and he said that the German soldiers were well disciplined and did them no harm. The same feeling does not exist today in Holland.

Didn't care for France

We spend a day in Ostend strolling along the beach and enjoyed seeing people sell anything from flowers and fruit to fish from small stands along the sidewalk. We were headed for Stein-on-Rhein in Switzerland, near Lake Constance, so parts of our thousand-mile journey took us through Belgium, Luxembourg, France and Germany.

ROWAN NEWS

From what I saw of France, I woulld never care to go back. Public conveniences in smaller towns were terrible, shops were second rate and the indifference of people made you feel that you didn't care to be here now or ever return. The tourist trade upon which France depends is way down this year and for good reason; Mr. DeGaulle can't tell everybody where they ought to go and when.

Something good can be said about almost everything; and one thing about the French, they do grow good grapes which are sold from roadside stands and their wine isn't high priced nor hard to drink.

Swiss people "clever"

We spent some time in Basil, Switzerland, which we really enjoyed. The hotel accommodations were good and cleanliness was apparent everywhere. The Swiss people are very clever and their shops were full of nice clothes, watches and clocks, intriguing toys, nice household utensils and eating here was a delightful experience.

At Stein-on-Rhine, the river bank is dotted with small outdoor eating places all done in brilliant colors. The Rhine, like Old Man River, just keeps on rolling along and it would certainly have been fun to have had enough time for a boat ride on it.

When the Swiss celebrate, they celebrate! On a Saturday night they blocked off the town square, soaped the pavement, sold coupons for Swiss sausages, bread and beer and everybody danced to lively Swiss music and songs.

Hitler's autobahns useful

It would take reams of paper to write about everything we saw. The one good thing the man with mustache did for Germany, he built autobahns all over the country so that traveling is fast and easy.

The Black Forest in southwest Germany is beautiful. We were in Stuttgart, Wiesbaden, Cologne, and Anshen which was completely leveled during the last war and today is a beautiful city. On the way home through Belgium, we passed through Dunkerque, which was the scene of the British withdrawal in 1940.

Crossed this time from Calais to Dover, 21 miles, skirted London and up through the English lake district to Scotland. There was still something to look forward to, a short visit with relatives then back down to London and Southhampton.

Five wonderful days on the ship and flying home.

The going and coming has been a great privilege. Staying here and there long enough to become acquainted with other people's ways of life only strengthens in one the belief that you'd better not leave home without being sure you have a return ticket in your pocket back to a good country and a good life.

Broncos oppose Eagles on Britt field Friday

—SPORTS—

When the Belmond Broncos this Friday night launch defense of their North Iowa conference football championship at Britt, it will be the 45th meeting between the Broncs and the Eagles. It has been a series that has seen one or another of the rivals hold an advantage for rather sustained periods of time.

After Britt and Belmond exchanged 7-0 victories to start the rivalry in 1922 and '23, the Eagles gave the Broncos their worst shellacking ever in 1924 — 72 to 0. Belmond lost again, 12-0, in 1925; then went 11 years without a loss to Britt. The only interruption was a scoreless tie in '31.

Oddly enough, two of those 10 wins were by the narrowest possible margin, the Broncos edging the Eagles 2-0 on safeties in 1930 and '36. In the 17-year span from '37 to '53, Belmond managed only five victories and a tie. The Broncs took three in a row, 1954-56; then Britt entered the Steve Everett coaching era and from '57 through '62 the only Belmond win was a 20-12 thriller here in '59.

As the record now stands, Belmond has come out on top 24 times, Britt 18 — plus the two ties. Coach Chuck Stalker looks covetously at the 25th victory the Broncos will be going after tomorrow, for he regards the Eagles as capable of giving his Blue-and-White proteges the sternest kind of a test.

Russ King, in his second year of coaching at Britt, used generously of junior and sophomore talent a year ago and has 10 lettermen back. Among them is 195-lb. John Camp, who gives promise of being the NIC's top fullback of the '67 campaign.

That Britt's line will have to give away a sizeable weight margin to the Broncos will not be regarded as too important by Belmond fans who can recall that such weight differential has meant little in past meetings with the Eagles.

Belmond will be going after its 30th consecutive NIC victory. And this win is a "must" if the Broncos are to sustain their hopes of a fifth straight conference crown.

Sixty-eight young sprouts who are hopeful of carving gridiron careers for themselves in the next four or five years are now reportting for drills under Coach Jack Steinberg and his two assistants, Phil Johnson and Doug Heath. Forty-three of the total are 7th-graders. John Wilson, an 8th-grader, is serving as squad manager.

Junior high games will have a 4:00 p. m. starting time. Four opponents have been scheduled, as follows:

Oct. 4 — Clarion, here
Oct. 11 — Garner, there
Oct. 18 — Forest City, there.

'68s Top Secrets are here
1968 Chevrolets

The 1968 Chevrolets are the very essence of modern design. Every line, every curve is in close harmony. It's a smooth, uncluttered look with roof lines compatible with body lines, grilles and bumpers that blend gracefully into long, rounded fenders. Clean, flowing, beautiful in their simplicity, these '68 Chevrolets are rich and advanced in styling beyond any you've ever seen.

A MORE SILENT RIDE
And for 1968, we've gone to every length to give you more peace and quiet inside. The most sophisticated computers have been used to strategically place body mounts and successfully isolate noise and vibration. Shock absorbers have been improved. The wheel stance on many models is wider for greater smoothness. Exhaust systems have been redesigned to make them whisper-quiet. Even the clocks tick more softly. A sound car is a silent car. The '68 Chevrolets are the most silent, highest quality cars we've ever built.

BETTER PERFORMANCE
There are new engines, a bigger standard Six and V8. There's a new 250-hp V8 you can order that runs on regular fuel. Many new engine components increase dependability and keep your new Chevrolet running stronger. There's a new rear axle ratio you can add for greater economy. On most engines equipped with automatic transmissions, there's a special heater for the carburetor which gives you more efficient performance in cold weather. And with every engine, you get the new GM exhaust emission control.

UNIQUE ASTRO VENTILATION
There's a whole new idea in ventilation, called Astro Ventilation, for Camaro, Corvette and the elegant Caprice Coupe. It's also available on many other models. By opening two new vent-ports on the instrument panel, you bring in outside air that can be directed where you want it. This way, you can leave your windows rolled up and add still more to your peace and quiet.

PROVED SAFETY FEATURES

MUCH MORE THAT'S NEW
There are new roof lines, some formal and graceful, others sporty and quick. There are new instrument panels, richly designed and all controls within easy reach. There are new interiors, new vinyls, new fabrics, new colors. There are models with Hide-A-Way windshield wipers and headlights that disappear behind grilles. There are new side marker lamps, new recessed taillights. There's even a new ignition alarm buzzer that reminds you not to walk away and leave your keys in the car.

These are the newest, the most different, the most dramatically changed Chevrolets ever. And they're at your Chevrolet dealer's now. You'll thoroughly enjoy slipping behind the wheel, experiencing the smooth new handling and library-quiet ride and, more than anything, seeing and feeling the even greater quality built into every new Chevrolet for 1968.

CHEVROLET

There's more quality and value built into Chevrolets than ever before, making every new 1968 model an even better buy!

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT LEE FINK

Gloria Winwood, Robert Fink wed at Methodist church on Sept. 2nd

Miss Gloria Marie Winwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Winwood, and Robert Lee Fink, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fink of Hampton, were married Saturday, Sept. 2, at 7:30 p. m. in the Methodist church. Rev. Louis Aitken read the double-ring ceremony.

Lighted tapers in candelabra and baskets of white gladioli decorated the chancel and the pews were marked with white satin bows.

Juliann Braun, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Sharolyn Schomburg of Latimer as she sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned of organza over taffeta and Chantilly lace. The high bodice had a bow detail, scoop neckline and long lilypoint sleeves. Pearl embroidered lace appliques were sprinkled throughout the entire dress. The slim, floor-length skirt extended into a full-length chapel train. The bride's forward headpiece of lace flowers and petals, accented with pearl and crystal trim, held a bouffant, elbow-length veil of pure silk illusion. She carried a cascade of yellow roses with ivy and white satin streamers.

Diana Myers was maid of honor and Marianne Meyer was bridesmaid. Their gowns were fashioned of yellow crepe accented with yellow velvet at the empire waists. They carried cascades of yellow and white carnations.

Dean Fink of Cedar Falls, cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsman was David Winwood, brother of the bride. The ushers were Dennis Porter of Geneva, Mark Honeck and Jerry Younge, of Hampton. Mark and Dennis also served as candle-lighters.

The mother of the bride wore a pink brocade sheath with matching coat, pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a two-piece, avocado green knit dress with black accessories and a corsage of tropicana roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlors, which were decorated in yellow and white. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill served as host and hostess and Mrs. Hill also was in charge of the guest book. The four-tiered cake, which had four round cakes as its base, was decorated with yellow roses and white doves and was topped with three satin bells trimmed with pearls. Mrs. Martin Fink of Hampton, aunt of the groom, cut the cake and Mrs. Max Ridenour of Des Moines, cousin of the bride, served it.

Mrs. William Rozewink of Manchester, aunt of the bride, poured coffee and Mrs. Donald Fink of Hampton dipped punch. Waitresses were Patsy Card of Belmond and Debby Pals. Barbara Menning and Judy Harris of Hampton displayed the gifts.

For going away, the bride wore a brown acetate knit sheath with bittersweet and white trim, brown accessories and a yellow rose corsage. After a wedding trip to Minnestoa, the couple is at home on a farm near Hampton.

The bride is a graduate of CAL Community High school and attended Iowa State university at Ames. The groom graduated from Hampton Community High school and is engaged in farming.

Got to fill that Chest all the way up, this time

Belmond is about to be asked to cast a reflection of itself. The mirror will be held up to us starting Sept. 26th and wel'll be given three weeks to create a pleasing image of ourselves.

Yes, Tuesday of next week will see Belmond launching its 12th Community Chest campaign. And a severe test of our civic pride it promises to be. It is a good gamble that not another Community Chest in the state in existence as long as ours can point to a record of never ONCE having failed to meet its obligations IN FULL.

This proud record was kept unblemished last year only because the Lions club, the Jaycees and Jaycee-Ettes made up a very sizeable deficit that resulted when the Oct. 14th tornado interrupted the Chest campaign just a week after it was started. When an attempt was made to resume the drive some weeks later, the momentum had been lost — and many households found themselves in something of a financial quandary due to the disaster.

All of the money that had accumulated in the Chest's reserve contingency fund was needed to meet 1967 appropriations. This year, we start from scratch — and we must come up with $6,075. THERE is a real challenge.

To get things into a proper perspective, perhaps we should look at what Belmond regularly gives to the various independent drives during a years time. (And we MUST be realistic and recognize that the Chest would be doomed to invariable failure if it tried to raise at ONE TIME the amount our citizens willingly give in periodical, independent campaigns.)

We give to the American Heart Association and American Cancer Society MORE THAN HALF of what is requested by the 11 organizations and activities that share in the Chest proceeds. Toss in the Christmas Seals and Easter Seals, and the total response to these four independent appeals would probably approach 75 to 80 per cent of what the Chest requires. If these appeals were NOT made independently, the Chest would probably have to set its budget at more than $11,000 — just to raise funds for these agencies equalling the total amount WE HAVE CHOSEN TO GIVE, as a regular thing.

This year, Chest contributions MUST be realistically generous or a dark, ugly blemish is certain to mar that record of 100 per cent payment of pledged appropriations that the Belmond Community Chest has achieved.

If you have customarily given as much as $10 to the Heart, Cancer, Christmas and Easter Seal drives, altogether, an equal amount obviously is not going to suffice if the Chest quota is to be reached. Belmond has good right to preen its feathers over the loyal support it has rendered these worthy causes. But the Chest — with such local activities as the Red Cross (remember the summer swimming program, not to mention that disaster relief we received) Boys Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, boys and girls summer recreation programs among the recipients — is strictly OUR OWN HOMETOWN organization. As such, we certainly owe it loyalty.

Think about this, when the Chest volunteer calls at your home or business place for your Chest donation. The Chest campaign simply HAS TO BE a success this year. Won't you do YOUR part to help cast a community image of which we can be truly proud?

Fighters want better M-16 "lube," but denied it

One of the serious charges that has been leveled at the Army and Marine corps relative to the highly controversial M-16 rifle is that these services provided personnel with the wrong lubricant for the weapon and the wrong lubricating instructions.

Familiarity with that fact is perhaps what delayed our hand last week as we were about to deposit in the wastebasket a packet of material we'd received in the mail from a Michigan manufacturer of a patented lubricant. We rarely give a second look to what appears to be promotional publicity of a commercial nature. But there was something different about this batch, and we found ourself digging into it.

What we found was an intriguing story of a battle between the producer of what appears to be a unique, dry, dust-free lubricant and a military bureaucracy that is determined to be "right" even if it costs the lives of fighting men in Vietnam.

First, a bit of background. What would make the M-16 a highly superior weapon — IF it were dependable — is extremely fine tolerances in its manufacture that give it a high rate of firing speed and a versatility that rests on its use as both an automatic and semi-automatic firing piece. But these same fine tolerances have caused it to jam with frequency due to dirt, rust and corrosion that the Vietnam terrain and climatic conditions make particularly troublesome problems.

L. G. "Buck" Myers, president of Dri-Slide, Inc., in 1965 sent 7,000 cans of his molybdenum disulphide lubricant to the troops in Vietnam as a Christmas gift. The "dope" is liquid when applied, but soon becomes a slick, dry surface that won't wash off. Recipients of the gift cans were delighted to find that it eliminated jamming like no other lubricant they'd ever used.

Soldiers, Marines and "Green Berets" who were so fortunate as to receive small supplies of Dri-Slide have since made direct requests to the company for more — between 250,000 and 300,000 more cans; and sporting goods houses and the like have supplied thousands more.

A typical letter from a U. S. Calvalryman who got his hands on a can stated: "I recently obtained a small can of your lubricant and applied it to my personal weapon with excellent results. It far surpasses any product I have yet used in this capacity. As both a lubricant and a preservative, Dri-Slide is truly wonderful."

Another GI, who said troops have sometimes been using a popular hair oil in preference to the M-16 lubricants regularly issued by the services, was similarly enthusiastic and pleaded for a new supply of Dri-Slide.

By January of 1966, 16 Congressmen had received desperate appeals from servicemen constituents asking why a lubricant that could very well save their lives was not being made available to them.

While the Army, plagued by complaints about the oil being issued for M-16 use finally shifted to another — which firing tests proved little if any better — some hope was raised in the hearts of Vietnam Marines when the corps ordered 100,000 cans of Dri-Slide for general issuance. But last month the Marine corps announced it had decided to withdraw the lubricant from its supply system. The only explanation was that the corps did not want to stock two lubricants.

Why the armed forces are so adamant in their refusal to use a product that the men in the field swear by so completely appears to be just another typically bureaucratic mystery.

A certain Robert MacDonald of Baltimore, a globe-trotting gun exporter who has sold thousands of the commercial version of the M-16 to other nations, had this to say at a Congressional hearing on the matter:

"It's a shame the way they (the U. S. forces) are teaching men how to lubricate the M-16. The way they do, the damn thing fires better bone dry."

Despite information readily at hand that GI's have found the disregarded lubricant invaluable to them as fighting men, the "top brass" refuses to provide it for them.

In a letter addressed to the publishers and editors he has appealed to, "Buck" Myers says:

"Our little 'vendetta' with Army Materiel Command has now gone on for a year and a half. They have spent over $250,000 in various laboratories and proving grounds in an attempt to prove that thousands of GI's in Vietnam are not capable of evaluating the problem.

"With recent recommendations for a grease (that has not been tested in Vietnam on the M-16) and a complete reverse of recommended maintenance for the M-16 there could be problems of a serious nature."

So the GI's will continue to use conventional lubricants so little esteemed that some have regarded hair oil a preferable substitute. If we had a son in Vietnam, we'd be keenly interested in seeing the matter assiduously pursued through Congressional investigation. It can mean "no tomorrow" if you have a jammed M-16 in a rice paddy.

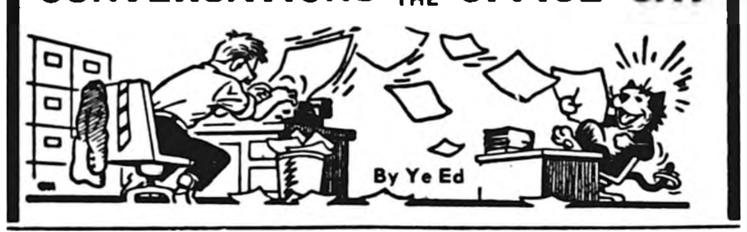
CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT



TJ was mumbling to himself in a monotone as he struggled through a news story in the "Newspaper That Depends on All Iowa" (dumb cat never has learned to read worth a lick). As silence finally settled on his corner and he looked up from the sheet, he wagged his head and said, "A guy really has to play his cards wrong to get into jail these days, doesn't he?"

"Oh, a few of 'em still manage," we responded, "but it ain't easy, like it used to be. An officer just about has to catch the culprit red-handed at his mischief. Because if a lawyer gets to the fellow — and the courts say that's gotta be, or it's no ball game — he's bound to keep mum."

"And if he keeps mum, like the bird in this story, there's hardly a way in the world to pin the job on him," TJ added. "Even if some oddball SHOULD go ahead an confess, there's still the chance he'll get off the hook if reporting newspapers don't watch their p's and q's on what they write about the case before it gets to court."

"YEP," WE AGREED, "TIMES have sure changed — say, since Lizzie Borden's day."

"What about Lizzie Borden?" asked the cat.

"Never heard of the famous New England murderess who got aggravated with her Pa and Ma? There was a verse inspired by the crime, that went . . .

"Lizzie Borden took an ave
And gave her mother 40 whacks;
When she saw what she had done,
She gave her father 41."

TJ CHUCKLED — THAT BEING a type of humor he could fully appreciate — and said, "Of course, a newspaper couldn't indulge in such outspoken comment today, or the case would immediately go up the flue."

We nodded, "That's the truth. In fact a certain Tennessee newspaperman has suggested that, today a scandal sheet would have to restrain itself to some such report as this . . .

"The Bordens, Emily and Max,
Were found dead Tuesday, slain by axe.

Police say 80 blows were sledged.
Their daughter did it — it s alleged."

"CUTE!" CHORTLED THE CAT. "But isn't that still a bit strong? Alleged is alleged, and all that — but it still points the finger at Lizzie. Which might very well compromise the case."

"This Tennessee typewriter jockey is still ahead of you," we told him. "He predicts that under rules governing pre-trial publicity drafted by the American Bar association, even the amended verse would be sledding on thin ice.

"While the ABA's Canons of Ethics don't actually have legal weight, in 26 scared (or easily influenced) states, the ABA canons are as binding as law on lawyers in the state — and in 18 others are binding on judges, too.

"ALL OF WHICH HAS LED OUR versifier to predict that tomorrow, the story might have to be tempered to something like this . . .

"A terrible thing has come to pass
At the Borden home, Fall River, Mass.;
Involved are father, mother, chile —
For further details, attend the trial."

TJ snorted. . . . "That's NEWS reporting?" he demanded. "If the trend continues THAT direction, about all the crime news you'll be able to read in the newspapers is stop sign and speeding violations. And maybe not even that."

"ONLY TOO TRUE," WE ASsented. "If we ever have a president in the White House with no marriageable daughters — and peace is declared — it'll hardly be worth while to put out a paper at all.

Said she did it just for jokes.
Since no lawyer OK'ed her plea,
Of course, they've now set Lizzie free."

The cat observed us with some surprise as he commented, "Wouldn't say Ogden Nash has anything to fear — and the meter's not so hot; but it's better than I'd've expected of you."

"Bo," on leave, tells about it—

Millers on Forrestal when disaster struck

When escaping plane fuel led to the holocaust aboard the USS Forrestal in Tonkin Gulf off Vietnam on July 29, two brothers from Belmond were right in the middle of the disaster. A3/c "Bo" Miller, who last week was home on a five-day leave and his brother A3/c Ernie Miller were crew members aboard the giant carrier, which had arrived in Vietnam waters just four days earlier.

Ernie was attached to the galley clean-up crew and a number of his galleymates lost their lives, because the compartment housing the galley was right next to the hatch that was obliterated by bombs in the early stages of the calamity. Ernie had happened to be off duty and was absent from the compartment when the destruction occurred.

"Bo" was "in the rack" catching a snooze, three hatches away from the one that was destroyed. Both reported immediately on deck to help fight fire and remove bombs. Neither knew how his brother had fared until they ran across each other below deck some two hours after the excitement.

1,000-pounder exploded

A thousand-pound bomb that was awaiting loading onto a plane was dislodged from its storage spot and tumbled into the hatch that adjoined the galley, creating a chain reaction that led to numerous other explosions and widespread fire from plane fuel. It was 10:56 a. m. and the ship had just gotten started at launching planes for the day's attack runs.

"Bo" and a shipmate hauled to the carrier's side a couple of 500-lb. bombs rolling loose on the deck and dumped them overboard. "Bo" then helped man a fire hose that was being used to soak down a stack of bombs to keep them from exploding from the extreme heat of the fire.

By the time matters were gotten under control, 134 men had lost their lives and a large number had been injured. It was one of the Navy's heaviest personnel losses ever, due to non-hostile action.

Home in Philippines

Bombs of 250 and 500 pounds were still exploding on the deck when the Miller brothers went above to help. Things had happened so fast after the initial mishap touched off the disaster that several bombs had exploded before General Quarters could even be sounded.

"Bo" didn't learn until after it was all over how narrowly Ernie had escaped death. And since many casualties occurred while the crew was removing bombs from the deck and fighting the inferno of flames, the brothers were deeply grateful to discover that the other had gotten through it all OK.

Early the next morning, the Forrestal headed for the Philippines to unload repairable planes; then reversed course and returned to the States via the Indian ocean, around Africa's Cape of Good Hope and on to Mayport, Fla., to unload personnel getting leaves.

Ernie stayed in Florida

Ernie chose to spend his five-day leave at Daytona Beach, Fla. "Bo" grabbed a plane to come home so he could spend his time with his mother, Mrs. Ernest Miller, and his wife (the former Marcia Whipple), who has been living with her mother-in-law during her husband's absence.

"Bo" got home Tuesday of last week and on Sunday left from Mason City on his return flight to the Naval Air Station at Sanford, Fla., where both he and Ernie will be based until joining the crew of the USS Kittyhawk at San Diego, Calif., on Nov. 2.

It will be back to the Tonkin Gulf for the brothers, then, for a tour of duty that will extend to next March. The disabled Forrestal is undergoing repairs at Norfolk, Va., and will require an estimated six to nine months to be put back into commission. As matters presently stand, the Millers are slated to rejoin the Forrestal in June — possibly for still another return to Vietnam.

Want to get schooling

"Bo" says the duty in Tonkin Gulf was strictly non-hazardous, from the ship crew's standpoint. The carriers have never yet been subjected to air attack and they are stationed so far from shore that they are wholly safe from shore batteries. But while the Forrestal is undergoing repairs, it is to be equipped with rocket-launchers to supplement the guns that have been the ship's means of defense in the past — just in case.

Both the Miller brothers have put in for training at the Navy's Aviation Metalsmith and Hydraulics school at Memphis, Tenn., but are not optimistic about getting orders there before some time the latter half of next year, at the earliest.

They went on active duty with the Navy on Oct. 24 of last year, leaving Belmond just four days after the tornado here. Both have found Navy life to their liking.

● Kanawha News

The Kanawha Christian Reformed church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Pamela Van Laere, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Van Laere of Dougherty, and Robert L. Abbas, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Abbas. The double-ring wedding vows were spoken Friday evening, Sept. 1, at 7:00 o'clock with Rev. Anthony Louwerse of the Cedar Falls Christian Reformed church officiating.

Mrs. Donald Katuin was the organist and also accompanied Mrs. Robert Eekhoff as she sang the "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Tom Abbas was her sister-in-law's matron of honor, wearing yellow organza banded in peau de soie with matching headband and slippers. Mary Yeager, college roommate of the bride, wore an identical yellow gown and served as bridesmaid. The bouquets were of yellow-centered daisies and white mums.

Tom Abbas, twin brother of the groom, was best man. His older brother, David Abbas, served as groomsman, Ushers were Roger Christians and Kenneth Ruter.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the Fellowship Hall. Dr. Marvin Hoogland, local pastor, offered prayer at the bride's table. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Trenary, uncle and aunt of the groom, served as host and hostess. Mrs. Louie Smidt, Britt, was head of the serving committee, with Mrs. Gerald Swyter and Mrs. Allen Ter Hark supplying the tea table. The wedding cake was cut by aunt of the groom, Mrs. T. J. Thompson of Ames, and Mrs. Clarence Abbas.

Another aunt, Mrs. Chris Abbas, and the bride's sister, Mrs. John Jordan, poured coffee. Punch was served by Barb Steger and Don Sabin UNI college friends. Mrs. Jim Trenary and Mrs. Leo Abbas opened and displayed the gifts.

In late afternoon of the wedding day following the rehearsal, a family dinner was served in the Fireside Room with Mrs. Albert Cooper as chairman. Members of the bridal party were also guests.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD SUNTKEN

Ann Reasoner and Richard Suntken repeated vows here on Sept. 2nd

The wedding of Ann Reasoner and Richard Suntken was performed at the Trinity Lutheran church Saturday evening, Sept. 2, at 8:00 o'clock. Pastor Osca Laaveg officiated over the double-ring ceremony. Chancel decorations were baskets of bronze mums and lighted tapers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reasoner and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Suntken.

Mrs. Donald Bunnell, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Barbara Olson as she sang "Oh Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride wore a gown of crystal peau de soie and chantilly lace, designed with an empire bodice, bateau neckline, short semi-bell sleeves, A-line floor-length skirt and chapel-length watteau train edged with scalloped lace. The waistline, sleeves and hem were bordered with lace. A petal and lace daisy disc held her pouf silk illusion veil. A cascade of tangerine Fuji mums with tropicana roses comprised her bouquet.

Following the ceremony, Barbara Burt presided at the guest book at a reception held in the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Boller as host and hostess. The four-tiered wedding cake, topped with bronze pompons and miniature tropicana roses, the tiers and base decorated with pompons and greens, was cut and served by Mrs. Kenneth Boller and Mrs. Elizabeth Waddington.

Waitresses were Barbara Pals, Jean McLaughlin, Donna Hauge, Pam Meints, Margaret Prince and Judy Walrod. Gift pages were Keith Boller, Glen Gabrielson and Mac Gabrielson. Debra Boller, Pamela Reasoner, Mrs. Bill Jenison and Georgia Keleher unwrapped the gifts.

NORTH IOWA Peach OF THE WEEK!

Forest City's "Peaches of the Week" are international travelers. They are Philip Holtan and Hanne Kristensen. Miss Kristensen of Denmark, is a member of Forest City high school's senior class. She is studying in Forest City this year under the sponsorship of the Forest City American Field Service chapter. She is from Korinth, Fyn, Denmark. Her counterpart, Philip Holtan, was a participant in the summer program of AFS, known as Americans Abroad. This summer the Forest City senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Holtan of rural Forest City, traveled to to Lima, Peru, where he lived from July until September. He became a member of a family in Lima and attended a boys school during his stay there. The goal of both of these students is to help Americans become more familiar with people of foreign countries and help people of foreign lands to become more familiar with Americans and America.

Your Girl Friday may be trying her best . . . but she can't be efficient with outmoded business forms.

It is when you consider that the time spent in handling business forms costs you many times more than the forms themselves. But business forms designed to fit your special needs can cut your clerical costs way down.

So before you fix the blame on "her" . . . why not give us a call? It may be your first step toward solving your paperwork problems.

Time To Spare

By GERALD ANDREWS - Retirement Adviser

Travel at Your Leisure

Seems as if everybody and his wife are on the road these days — or at least, on a train, plane or ship — headed for some place or other. Whenever I ask my friends where they'll be in January or June, chances are the answer adds up to — "Any place but here."

Used to be that slogan belonged to roustabouts and soldiers of fortune, and, of course, the idle rich. Not any more. The wanderlust is tempting Americans of every age and background. Those of us at the retirement phase of life are responding as quickly as anybody else.

Every year more of us are on the move at home and abroad. There's a good way to prove that, if you haven't done it already. Begin traveling yourself. Then look around, and count the number of travelers in our age group.

Notice I said above "January or June." That phrase explains a lot. During the hectic younger years, it's generally the summer or nothing for tourists. That's when vacations come, so that's what you have to plan for.

Travel Anytime

But when you leave the job, you have more time to play with. It's as feasible to travel out of season as in season. That's what's happened to me and my wife. With office hours and growing children things of the past, we're able to take off when it suits us.

Obviously we don't have unlimited money. Still, travel has become so cheap, it's possible for almost anyone to travel, given a little forethought. We've been able to take one trip a year since I retired.

We've been on tours through the United States and Europe, rushing breathlessly from one sight to another as directed by our guides. We've traveled by ourselves, at our own pace, pausing where and when we liked. And we've found both methods to our taste.

So many factors are now involved in travel, from timetables to national currencies, that we've gathered a small library of literature on the subject. One of the best guides we've found is "Creative Travel," obtainable for 25 cents from Harvest Years, 104 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y. 10016.

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Accompanying a check for $5.00 received last week from M. B. "Danny" Dannewitz of La Junta, Colo., was a note relating that son Mike is enrolled at North Central Iowa Community college (Eagle Grove) this year; and that the family's youngest, Mark, is playing halfback on La Junta's junior high football team.

Which seems about as things should be. Though we might suggest to Danny that NIAC college at Mason City is "home base" for the majority of Belmond junior college enrollees.

We've harbored a suspicion that Danny and wife Irene would find it most agreeable to return to their old stamping grounds. Danny substantiates the guess, writing, "We talk of Belmond real often and are interested in moving back if I can find a suitable connection there." So who'll come forward with a suitable connection?

This is "happy birthday" week for The Independent. At least, it finds us starting Volume 49 — despite the fact that The Independent's No. 1 issue date was mid-November, not late September. So . . . we're just one year away from reaching our golden anniversary, under the Independent masthead. However, by direct descent we can claim to go back to May of 1873 via the Belmond Herald — and a year earlier than that via the grandpa of our "family tree," the Belmond Mirror. So five more years will find us celebrating our centennial.

Some odd things happen on the gridiron — and the gents in the striped shirts contribute their full share The sizeable crowd of Belmond fans who watch Bobby Misner perform for Drake against Louisville a couple of weeks ago saw an example. From the five-yard line, a Louisville back burst into the end zone — fumbling the ball after penetrating nearly two yards into the pay dirt. Once into the end zone, a touchdown's a touchdown, even if the ball's fumbled.

Athough from our seat at midfield we were able to see clearly that the ball had been carried very safely into pay territory, the headlinesman was apparently in doubt and the referee ordered the play run over again from its original starting point to give all a better look. (Louisville finally got it.)

In the Buffalo Center-Thompson game the same weekend, another corker occurred. The Bison had the ball on Thompson's one-footline, when the BC full-back smashed it over. Thompson's coach rushed onto the field to protest that the score came on a FIFTH down — which it did. He was right; but before the ball went over to the Cubs, a six-inch penalty on the coach (representing 15 yards) was "marched" off. Proving a ref can never be as wrong as a coach, to the ref's notion.

Received a note of dismay from Rosie Hein, daughter of (former councilman) Bob Hein of Dawson, Minn., expressing the wish that Tornado Day might be held on Oct. 14th — the exact anniversary — rather than Sunday, the 15th. She thought it might be more convenient for out-of-town people to come on Saturday than Sunday. Since it was the consensus of the committee that the contrary would be true, Sunday the 15th, it is. But we DO hope that the Heins and many, many other of our ex-Belmondite friends WILL find it possible to spend the day with us. If any can come early, on Saturday, so much the better.

George Roskamp brought in for our perusal a letter that had turned up at his home which Mrs. Roskamp had received from a Latimer friend 31 years ago last March. Those still being depression days, the Roskamps found quite amusing some of the references to the extravagant expenses of that time.

The writer of the letter had just had a gold crown replaced at Hampton — first by a dentist a bit in his cups, who'd put in on backward (for $1.50, of which he got 50 cent down and was doomed to whistle for the rest). Then a second dentist redid the job right for $2.00, which the lady regarded as "costing plenty!"

Reference was also made to the purchase of a "lovely silk bedspread" for $3.98 as a wedding present. Young Folks of the present, George is convinced, have small conception of the value of money that was learned by those of us who lived through the depression. Durned stuff isn't worth much now.

Quite some time ago we received from Mrs. Louis Steinlicht (nee Dorothy Busick) of Dayton, Ore., a note to the effect that her parents — Mr and Mrs. Orick Busick — would be celebrating their Golden Wedding anniversary on Oct. 1. Dorothy and her sister Charlotte (Mrs. Norman Bell) will be holding an open house honoring the event.

Having lived here for some time, the Busicks have many Belmond friends who no doubt would like to remember them — even if a message mailed today might be a day or two late (air mail might make it).

Wrote Mrs. Steinlicht, "A congratulatory card from any of our parents' friends would be deeply appreciated and treasured by them, we are sure." The address of the honorees: Mr. and Mrs. Orick Busick, Rt. 1 — Box 70, Dayton, Ore. 97114. Mr. Busick was a trucker for Christie and Larsen for a good many years before moving west.

AWARDED AIB DIPLOMA

Karen Loth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Loth, was among 330 students of the American Institute of Business at Des Moines awarded diplomas last Sunday.

SO MUCH OF THIS and so much of that are carefully apportioned via automation by this operating panel board that is the "heart" of Central Soya's Master Mix feed mill. Explaining how the panel is used to assure accurate formulation of the wide variety of Master Mix feeds is Superintendent Curt Beauchamp.

Mill dedication Saturday at C-S

D. W. McMillen, Jr., president of Central Soya, will come from Fort Wayne, Ind., to participate Saturday in dedication of the company's reconstructed feed manufacturing plant. He will speak during a program for Central Soya guests to be held between 1:00 and 2:00 p. m. in one of three large tents being put up to accommodate the day's activities.

Guests for the occasion will be Mayor Robert Misner and the city councilmen and their wives, members of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce and their wives, and Master Mix Feed dealers from northern Iowa and southern Minnesota with such personal guests as they may bring.

Between 10:00 a. m. and noon, the invited guests will register and be given an opportunity to tour the Central Soya facilities. At noon, a barbecued chicken lunch will be served.

The feed mill, whose reactivation prompts the occasion, was built originally by General Mills in 1954 It was closed down in 1962 and was put back into operation by Central Soya on July 21 of this year.

In getting ready for guests—

Placards will tell story to Belmond visitors

Belmond will be liberally placarded for the benefit of persons visiting here on Tornado Day, Oct. 15th, to see how the community has progressed since it was prostrated by the tornado that occurred a year and a day earlier.

Ellis Elliott, chairman of the event's steering committee, with the help of Ted Zook, city building inspector, has thoroughly surveyed the rebuilding and repair done in the past 11 months and found that some 300 sites of destruction or major damage will need to be marked to recall Belmond's "day after" appearance.

With a few extra ordered in each case, Mr. Elliott has requested the printing of 175 signs designating "Restored" structures, 75 indicating "New" buildings and 65 noting sites where "Destroyed" structures have been removed and not replaced.

These signs will be errected at the appropriate locations on the morning of Tornado Day, so that guests touring the tornado-stricken area in Belmond can achieve the best possible picture of the reconstruction that has taken place.

Other Tornado Day plans are making steady progress, Mr. Elliott reports. Assurance was given last week that the script for the stage presentation of the Belmond Community Theatre has been completed and rehearsals started. Under the title, "You've Gotta Have Heart," the entertainment — subtitled "The Reconstruction Revue" — will be presented on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 10-11.

Though not a program feature of Tornado Day proper, the revue will play an important role in the appreciation event by virtue of the fact that proceeds will go toward financing Tornado Day.

Admission to the two 8:00 p. m. offerings of the musical production at Luick Memorial Auditorium will be a dollar for adults and 50 cents for students. The proceeds are particularly earmarked by the Community Theatre for use in defraying the expense of feeding Belmonds' guests on Tornado Day, which the Jaycees have agreed to do by putting on a barbecue.

A 15-member cast of singers from the community will combine their talents in a presentation of original skits, dancing, gags and musical productions in the traditional vaudeville manner.

Stanley Norson and Mrs. Bob Wilson, who are playing key roles in preparation of "You've Gotta Have Heart," say that as the name implies, "the stage production will center on the ups and downs of moving our community forward, especially the unique problems and opportunities that have faced Belmond."

Another project that is being hurried to completion in advance of Tornado Day is a model of the south side of Main street's 200 block, from the IEL&P office to Harold's Clothing, showing how the proposed arcade along two and three-quarters blocks of the business district will appear. It is being made by Allen Suby, shop instructor at the high school, with the assistance of several of his pupils.

It incorporates enlargements of actual photographs of the various business places that now line the block so as to give a "life-like" representation of the entire block with the arcade in place. The model is to be displayed in the window of the Iowa Electric office on Tornado Day, so visitors may take a peep into the community's projected future.

Filing deadline Oct. 10th—

Mayor Misner will not run again

Tuesday, Oct 10, is the deadline for filing nominations for city offices to be filled in the biennial municipal election on Nov. 7 — and between now and then it will be necessary for a mayorality candidate to be obtained, One, or more, as the will of the electors dictates.

Dr. R. E. Misner informed The Independent last weekend that he has definitely made up his mind that he will not be a candidate for re-election as mayor. He was elected to the council in 1957 and in July of 1961 was appointed as mayor upon the resignation of L. T. Trafford.

Mayor Misner has since served three complete terms. Last year's tornado placed on his shoulders what were unquestionably the heaviest responsibilities ever borne by a Belmond mayor.

All of the council members have indicated a willingness to continue in office, although Bob Churchouse to a degree qualified his response. He has served from Ward III since 1958, being first appointed to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Glenn Thompson. He expressed the conviction that this ward could offer a number of men well fit to serve on the council and that he would willingly give way if one of them should wish to file for candidacy.

Glen Crapser, who was elected councilman from Ward II the same year that Dr. Misner went on the council, said he would govern his decision on running for re-election on whether the other councilmen were going to do so.

This would appear to make him a candidate. Russell Porter, who has been Ward I councilman since 1963, indicates he will run again as there are presently plans under consideration that he is anxious to see carried through.

The two councilmen-at-large, Gene Griffin and Frank Pollitt, have each served for less than a year after being appointed to fill vacancies Mr. Pollitt was named early this year to replace Dr. A. M. Nelson, after the latter resigned; and Mr. Griffin was named last spring to replace Keith Wiggins after a promotion by Central Soya required Mr. Wiggins to move away from Belmond.

It is accepted by the incumbent councilmen that one of their number logically should agree to be candidate for mayor, in order that someone with experience in city government fill the office. To date, however, they have not held a discussion of the matter. Mr. Porter has had some amount of experience in fulfilling the mayor's duties, having served as mayor pro tem under Mayor Misner.

1st State bank gives $200—

Tornado Day Fund up to $2,000

Contributions toward the financing of Tornado Day expenses were flowing in at a steadier gait this past week, bringing the total up well over the $2,000 mark. A large bulk of the latest donations were from business establishments and organizations, but there was a fair scattering of private contributions, reports Ellis Elliott, chairman of the Tornado Day steering committee

Topping them all in generosity was a handsome gift of $200 from the First State bank, Mr. Elliott said; and $100 was donated by Spahn and Rose Lumber company.

He asks that it be emphasized that donations are being sought strictly a gesture of appreciation from firms and individuals who wish to show appreciation for aid rendered the community and themselves by sympathizers from far and wide at the time of the tornado.

No direct solicitation is being made, other than among the business establishments; and individuals are not expected to give unless they were direct victims of the disaster — or unless they wish to do so, for reasons of their own.

Mr. Elliott stresses, "This is strictly a gesture of appreciation to those who came to our assistance. We hope to say 'thank you' to them all and at the same time give them an opportunity to see how their helpfulness has enabled Belmond to come back from the calamity of last October."

$20 — Lloyd's Hardware, Printing Service company, Town House cafe, A. W. Loats; $15 — Jack Williams, Gordon Kessler; $10 — Lloyd's Body Shop, Dr. Paul Rietz, Mason Montgomery Ward agency, Russell Tideback, Lucy Klemme, Leland Dorr Dr. A. M. Nelson, Rebekah lodge.

$5.00 — Bob Churchouse, Alvin Halfpap, S. M. Helgeland, Ben Heginger, L. H. Larson (Thornton). In addition, another $42 in anonymous donations were reported by the First State bank.

Contributions turned in the first two days of this week, which brought the fund total up to $2,153, included:

$10 — Dr. G. H. Hruska, William Johnson Insurance, Genevieve Suntken, Leland Jenison; $5.00 — Howell Laundromat, Mennenga Service, Millie's Fashions, By-Lo Market, Heard Barbershop, Coast to Coast, Lowell's Shoes.

Administered TB tests in schools

The Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association, in cooperation with the state association and the Iowa State Department of Health, sponsored tuberculin tests in all the schools of Wright county last week.

Tests began Monday and were given to all 1st, 5th, 9th and 12th grade students in both public and parochial schools. All school personnel were also tested. The Belmond school tests were administered Tuesday.

The Mantoux test, which is given at this time, is a simple skin test which shows whether the child has ever been exposed to tuberculosis. Follow-up work includes chest x-rays for suspected cases.

District meeting of teachers here

Belmond Community School district has been chosen as site of one of nine district conferences on professional negotiations being held this fall under sponsorship of the Iowa State Educational association.

Teachers, administrators and school board members from counties in the North Central district will meet at Luick Memorial Auditorium next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Purpose of the meetings is to better acquaint Iowa educators and school board members with the trend developing in the U. S. toward legislation governing negotiating right for teachers.

On Wednesday of last week, a delegation representing the Belmond Teachers association attended a meeting for leaders of local teachers' associations held at Clear Lake.

This was to the same general purpose at the district meetings. In the Belmond group were: Shirley Malek, president of the Belmond association; Jeannette Hall, vice president; Bill Mittelstadt, secretary-treasurer; Audrey Tiss, Dale Goddard and Helen Soper, chairmen of standing committees.

Goodellian guilty on OMVI charge

Herman Watermiller of Goodell was arrested here a week ago Sunday by Highway Patrolman Bill James on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, fifth offense. He appeared the same day before Justice of the Peace Guy Peters, was bound over to district court and his bond set at $1,-000.

Besides OMVI, Watermiller was charged with operating a motor vehicle while his license was under suspension. He was on parole to Sheriff Bob Blecker after having been sentenced in January of 1965 to two years in the state penitentiary at Fort Madison on an earlier OMVI count.

Appearing before Judge Paul Hellwege in district court at Clarion last Thursday, Watermiller pleaded guilty to the charges and his parole was revoked. He will now have to serve up to two years at the penitentiary

Practice tonight for joint choir

Practices for members of the joint choir that will sing during the union memorial and thanksgiving service at Luick Memorial Auditorium on Saturday, Oct. 14th, will be held during the next three Thursday nights — starting this evening.

Stan Norson, high school vocal director, says the rehearsals will be held at the auditorium starting at 9:00 o'clock so there will be no conflict with regular choir rehearsals and other church activities on those evenings.

Singers from nine local churches will blend their voices in the joint choir — each providing what number they wish. Singers not affiliated with a choir will be most welcome to join the group, Mr. Norson says, and need only show up for the rehearsals with no further invitation.

During the union service starting at 8:30 a. m. on Saturday, Oct. 14, and lasting for 40 minutes the joint choir will sing two numbers. Mr. Norson will direct the group, which by present plan will be seated on the stage during the service. He anticipates there may be well over 100, and possibly as many as 175, voices in the choir.

R. McMurray party to $75,000 suit

Richard McMurray, proprietor of Rich's Tap, is co-defendant in a suit filed last weekend in Wright county district court in which a judgment of $75,000 is asked. The action was prompted by an accident on Oct. 8, 1965 in which Walter E. Mason, BHS senior at the time, was fatally injured here when struck by a car as he was riding a light motorcycle.

Plaintiff is Opal G. Peterson, mother of the deceased, as administrator of her son's estate. The second defendant is Gerald O. Baldwin, who was driver of the car that dealt death to the Goodell youth.

The petition charges that negligence on the part of Baldwin was responsible for young Mason's death and that intoxication was a decisive factor in that negligence.

It is further contended by the plaintiff that Baldwin's state of intoxication was caused by alcoholic beverages served him by the second defendant at Rich's Tap.

Making up the figure of $75,000 are medical and funeral expenses incurred by the fatal accident and years of lost earning power resulting from Walter Mason's death.

Baldwin was found guilty in district court on a charge of manslaughter as an outgrowth of the accident. He was sentenced to a term of up to eight years in the state penitentiary and fined $1,000. He paid the fine, and then was placed on parole.

DAVID STANLEY, candidate for the Republican U. S. Senatorial nomination, was caught Friday morning in front of the Town House cafe in concentrated conversation with a General Assembly cohort, Senator Hugh Clarke. The shutter's click found the young, Muscatine lawmaker in mid-sentence to make a rather unflattering picture. Those who had gathered to hear the visitor's remarks found him a personable, pleasant and markedly intelligent gentleman. He spoke later at Eagle Grove.

Stanley urges keeping troops "put" in Europe

State Senator David M. Stanley told two Wright county audiences Thursday morning that a reduction of armed forces by the U. S. could endanger European peace and stability.

Mr. Stanley, Republican candidate for U. S. Senator, spoke at two coffees, one at the Town House cafe in Belmond sponsored by Mrs. Hugh Clarke, and the other at the Club cafe in Eagle Grove sponsored by Mrs. Ike Schroeder.

Senator Stanley said his recent conferences with several governmental leaders in Europe convinced him that most European nations no longer fear a Russian invasion.

"However," Senator Stanley cautioned, "if the U. S. reduces its present troop strength, Russia could be tempted to take liberties in Berlin or the Middle East which might lead to war."

If the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces are cut, there should be a reciprocal reduction in Soviet forces in Eastern Europe, Mr. Stanley declared.

Relations between the East and West are improving, he believes, as the Eastern nations slowly rid themselves of Russian control. But Europeans working for better East-West relations warned him that a major withdrawal of U. S. troops in Europe would stifle their efforts by creating more tension and less stability.

Senator Stanley said that our government should make it understood that any further withdrawal of forces must be coupled with an equal withdrawal of forces on the East side of the iron curtain.

"The recent cut in U. S. troops stationed in Europe is an example being followed by many of our allies." Senator Stanley said. "We must stop this chain reaction."

Consent from the trustees of the Iowa Grand Lodge of Masons was given last week to King Solomon lodge of Belmond to proceed with building of a new lodge hall that will cost approximately $20,000. News of the trustees' action was brought home by Worshipful Master Ray Wright, who attended a four-day Grand Lodge session at Davenport.

Mr. Wright says that it is the hope of the local lodge that construction can be started next week on the site of the former Veterans Memorial building, which was purchased for the purpose by the Masons. The lodge members would like to see a fair start made on the building by the time of Tornado Day, Oct. 15, so visiting Masons can see the project underway.

More than $12,000 toward the cost of the new hall was contributed by some 400 Masonic lodges after the previous lodge rooms were destroyed in the tornado. Local members are supplementing the donated funds with more than $7,000 pledged by themselves.

Zittler-Mills Construction company of Webster City drafted, at no cost to the lodge, blueprints for the one-story, cement block building of 42x65-foot dimension. It will utilize that portion of the 42x97-foot basement that served the memorial hall.

Mr. Wright says that local contractors will be employed to put up the building and take care of the mechanical installations. Dick Whitten of Rowan is chairman of the building committee.

The high school principal of CAL Community school, Allen Edwards, would like to remind adults of CAL Community who did not graduate from high school that they may earn a High School Equivalency Certificate by passing G. E. D. tests that are offered by North Iowa Area Community college.

The High School Equivalency Certificate will entitle the graduate to the same rights as graduates. Job opportunities, promotion in present employment, the right to enter college, and a sense of self-achievement may be accomplished by passing the tests, says Mr. Edwards.

About three-fourths of the adults who have attempted this test in the NIAD area have passed it. The cost for taking the tests is $7.00. The total testing time is 10 hours. The tests may be taken in five two-hour sessions or any other arrangement that is convenient.

The certificate that is awarded is based upon knowledge demonstrated in the G. E. D. (General Educational Development) test. This certificate is awarded by the State Department of Public Instruction, unaccompanied by any ceremony.

If anyone in the CAL Community would like more information concerning the G. E. D. tests, please contact Jim Bollum, counselor, or Allen Edwards, principal, at CAL Community High school. Applicants may also write to the Director of Adult Education, North Iowa Area Community college, Mason City, Iowa 50401.

Fall Horse Show here next Sunday

Belmond Community Trail Blazers will hold their Fall Horse Show at 1:00 p. m. this Sunday at the organization's new arena on the grounds of Central Soya Men's club just south of town on Highway 69.

Having attracted riders from 21 communities for their September dedication show, when the new arena got its baptism, the Trail Blazers are expecting both a large entry list and a good crowd to witness the proceedings.

There will be 19 events, with trophies to be awarded in all but two that are limited to riders age 12 and under. The winners of those events will be awarded ribbons, as will lower place-winners in the remainder of the card.

Twenty trophies will be awarded in all, as three of the contests will be pair events. Judging the competition will be Bob Johannes of Ames, regarded as one of central Iowa's most competent horse show officials.

Admission to the show will be 50 cents for adults and a quarter for children in grades one through eight; but a maximum charge of $2.00 has been set for any car entering the grounds.

Should bad weather interfere with the show Sunday, it will be postponed one week and held on Sunday, Oct. 8.

"I DON'T NEED A HEARING AID

Because my hearing is not that bad, but I wish I had something to make the sounds louder. Like my reading glasses that I can use only part-time."

A Florida firm has perfected a PERSONAL AMPLIFIER Which may give all the help you need to hear without straining. This tiny device hides behind the ear. It is simple and easy to use and carried in pocket, people can have hearing help instantly.

Space age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid. For full details without obligation, write

Belmond figures in watershed plan

Twenty-five people attended a recent meeting of landowners and operators along the West Branch of the Iowa River Watershed held at Garner. They represented all areas of the watershed from Belmond to Crystal Lake. Also present and assisting with the meeting were the Hancock County Soil Conservation District commissioners and Soil Conservation Service personnel.

Laurence Radloff, chairman of the Hancock District, opened the meeting. Gary Johnson, SCS, showed color slides of some of the problems within the watershed. He then read excerpts from several reports which all pointed to one item of importance.

In order to get drainage for the low areas up through Hancock county, adequate depth needs to extend into Wright county for an outlet. These reports were dated 1908, 1939, 1949 and 1962.

Roger Moe, SCS civil engineer, read from a report of a private engineering firm which was filed with the Hancock board of supervisors this spring. It stated that because of the cost of improving the south main ditch of Drainage Districts Nos. 1 and 2, assistance should be obtained from the federal government through Public Law 566. This is the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act.

After a field examination of the watershed last June, L. J. Larson, head of the River Basin and Watershed Planning Party of the SCS, made the following statements in his report:

"It is recommended that the local people be encouraged to re-submit an application to the State Soil Conservation committee for PL-566 assistance".

Stan Collins, SCS civil engineer who has the federal responsibility for Deer Creek Watershed in Worth county, told the group about the progress of that watershed. It is about 40,000 acres in size.

The problem there is that in order to get a drainage outlet it will be necessary to dig through four feet of rock. This watershed was started in 1960 and received approval for construction this past year. Total cost is estimated at about two million dollars. The federal government will be paying about 70 per cent of the cost.

Collins stated, "This isn't a giveaway program because the government expects to get this back because of increased income by the local people. The local people, through their drainage districts, will be getting a FHA loan for their share of the cost. The project is expected to return about $7 for every dollar of cost."

The people from Belmond expressed the need for flood control and recreational development. With this in mind, it was brought out that watershed development should extend down to Belmond.

It is up to the local people to make application for federal assistance, Mr. Radloff noted, adding, "When plans are made for the watershed, they must meet the approval of the local people."

Jacob DeWaard, district commissioner, reported on the progress of water shed projects nationwide; 2,653 applications have been made. Because of manpower and funds, only about half of these have been authorized for planning. Therefore, he emphasized, priority is given to the application which shows the most local interest, need, and progress.

It is planned to have several meetings throughout the Iowa west branch watershed to discuss the common problems of an area. The workings of PL-566 and how it can help solve those problems will be discussed, also.

Park fund just keeps on climbing; new donations up total to $1,857

A generous gift of $50 from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rosene of St. Paul, a $25 donation from Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hanson, plus $25 more dollars from anonymous local sources and $76 from former Belmond residents by last weekend had brought the River Park Fund up to $1,857. Additional gifts had increased the amount by press time.

Of this amount, $1,380 will go to meet the cost of a detailed study of the proposed park area and general planning of features by Wallace, Holland, Kastler and Schmitz, Mason City engineering firm. That work will soon be in progress.

Other funds, as previously announced, will be needed for acquiring and optioning property that will be required for the park. Contributions to the River Park Fund will continue to be gratefully received, as the heaviest financial ead of the park project will pertain to land-buying and development.

Added contributions last week were received from Ruth (Ramsay) Teel of San Mateo, Calif., $20; Carole (Thompsen) Kinports, St. Minn., $5.00; and Phil Covington of Creston, $25; Wilma Trumbell of Ellensburg, Wash., $10; Mike Becker of Fonda and M. B. Dannewitz of LaJunta, Colo., each $5.00; and Louis Kramer of Iowa Falls, $2.00.

Also, $10 from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kellermann of Bellevue, O., and $5.00 from Wayne Bohning of Zion, Ill.

In addition, LeRoy Jenison has contributed $25 that was received in memorial gifts honoring his late wife, Grace V. Jenison. Two tables for the city park were bought with similar funds.

Mr. Covington wished the project good luck, and added he is "certainly proud to claim Belmond as my home town."

Ex-Belmondite's frau vetoes plan to subscribe to paper two years

From Charles F. Dalrymple of Sea Isle City, N. J. — whose name has been popping in and out of the "Main Street" column the past several weeks — the Mainstreeters received a letter this week that we feel we should share with our readers.

Wrote Mr. Dalrymple from his abode at 4114 Pleasure avenue . . . To the Gentlemen of the Press:

Dear Sirs — I must say I am sorry for being late with the mail. But was expecting a statement of facts and figures from you (he'd originally inquired the cost of a two-year subscription to The Independent), and then my wife exposed my ignorance by coming up with the subscription price she had located in our last edition.

So here is 5 bucks. I was going for 10, but my little Belmond Blossom (Alma Lein, before becoming Mrs. D.) says, "No. Only one at a time. Who knows, in two years at our age, we may want to subscribe for an asbestos paper."

I do not wish to bore you with a long letter, but I do wish to thank you for your comments in the paper. We both got got a good laugh and you can imagine the thrill we received at making the front page.

We have always loved people who have a nice sense of humor, so again we thank you as it resulted in our receiving a few nice letters (Edus Johnson at Marshalltown was one who renewed old acquainttance with the Dalrymples).

But so many of our old buddies are gone. And the pretty little brunette I plucked from Belmond's bush is now a handsome platinum blonde of 69 and reaching for 70.

Again we thank you. We feel at home in Belmond again.

Very respectfully
C. F. Dalrymple

. . . Evidently to tacitly confess to one of the afflictions of the passing years, Charles stapled to his letter the following clipping: "There are three signs to look for that tell you when you're getting older. The first sign is that you forget things . . . and I don't remember what the other two are!"

Harlan Pals, Rosemary Butenhoff repeated nuptial vows at Ventura

The Evangelical United Brethern church at Ventura was the scene of the wedding Friday evening, Sept. 1, at 8.30 o'clock when Miss Rosemary Butenhoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Butenhoff of Ventura, became the bride of Harlan Pals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Pals. Rev. C. G. Sparks of Ventura, assisted by Rev. Warren Duit of Sheffield, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Decorating the chancel were two baskets of glads and lighted tapers in candelabra with attached greens and white ribbon. Candles were also on the altar and in the windows.

Mrs. Rita Wempen of Clear Lake, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer". She was accompanied by Mrs. Ronald Anderson, organist, and Mrs. Dick Hyde, pianist, both of Ventura. tura.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilace fashioned with a Batteau neckline, long lilypoint sleeves and a slight highrise waistline. The floor-length, slim skirt was styled with a Watteau, chapel-length train, which was sequin trimmed. The bride's bonnet-type headpiece had an organza bow, lace petals and pearl trim and held the bouffant, elbow-length veil of pure silk illusion. She carried a crescent bouquet of white roses with greens.

The maid of honor was Ronda Butenhoff of Thornton, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Jean Butenhoff of Ames, sister-in-law of the bride, and Janelle held nose-tip veils. They carried Lutz of Clear Lake. They wore grass green dresses having empire waistlines and floor-length slim skirts. Their forward headpieces of hair-braid loops trimmed with sequins

Dick Nordman of Ames was best man. Groomsmen were the groom's brother Keith and Darrell Avery. Dick Butenhoff, Delbert Pals, Donnie Pals and John Van Sickel served as ushers and candle-lighters. The men wore black tuxedoes and white carnation boutonnieres, except the groom, whose boutonniere was a white rosebud.

The bride chose a navy knit dress with yellow accessories for the honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls. The couple is now at home at 715 Washington, in Waterloo.

The bride graduated from Ventura High school and is now a student at Young School of Beauty at Waterloo. The groom is a graduate of Meservey-Thornton High school and is now a senior at University of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls, and is employed at Rath Packing company in Waterloo.

Belmond's froshmore gridders on Monday night gained a measure of revenge for the embarrassment dealt the Bronco varsity the preceding Friday night at Britt by downing the Eaglet froshmores at Faris Field, 55 to 0.

It was 28-0 at the first quarter's end as Lennie Johnson rambled 55 yards to score on a sweep and passed to Joey McLaughlin for a 65-yard TD effort; Jerry Stadtlander captured a Britt fumble in the end zone for a third tally and Tim Dirks swept off tackle for 60 yards. Johnson also ran for a couple of the extra points and passed to Ron Ginapp for another as Dirks cracked the line for the fourth p. a. t.

In the second quarter, Johnson passed to Tom Shirer for a 45-yard scoring play and Bill Studebaker posted a marker on a one-yard quarterback sneak. McLaughlin took a Johnson pass for one conversion and Kent Korthas ran for the other to make the halftime score 42-0.

Johnson broke loose behind fine blocking for a 45-yard sweep to score in the third period, Dave Nelson going off tackle for the extra point. In the final quarter Johnson passed five yards to Ginapp for the concluding marker, a pass for point failing.

Britt passes set up one, late scoring chance for the Eaglets but it was fumbled away. Coach Jerry Kintzi used all 42 squad members who were in uniform.

A week ago Monday, the BHS freshmen traveled to Thornton and were dealt a 6-0 defeat by the Meservey-Thornton froshmores despite keeping possession of the ball a large share of the game.

Saturday morning here, the freshmen didn't fare that well. They were trounced by Hampton's unusually heavy prep eleven 33 to 0.

Next Monday night, the froshmores will travel to Buffalo Center for a clash with the Bison Calves.

Miss Mary Jane Brinton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Homer Brinton, became the bride of Craige D. Daugard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmeritt Daugard of Britt, Friday evening, Sept. 8, at 7:30 o'clock at Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Oscar Laaveg performing the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Donald Bunnell was organist and accompanied Mrs. Allen Arends of Albert Lea, Minn., a cousin of the bride, as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father and mother, wore an empire styled, floor-length gown of peau de soie. The skirt was covered with white scalloped Chantilly lace. The lace jacket had tight-fitting sleeves and there were scallopes at the wrist, neck and waist. The dress was designed and made by the bride's sister, Donna Brinton. The bride's only jewelry was a string of pearls and matching earrings, a gift of the groom. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white mums.

Kathy Mason was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Donna Brinton and Mrs. Lance Burtness, the latter of Fertile, both sisters of the bride, and Debbie Daugard of Britt, sister of the groom. They wore A-line, sleeveless, moss green dresses with matching bow headpieces. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white mums.

The best man was Gary Anderson of Britt. Groomsmen were Mark Jensen of Crystal Lake, Dave Johnson of Kanawha and Mark Daugard of Britt, brother of the groom. Serving as candlelighters and ushers were Lance Burtness, brother-in-law of the bride, Mark Brinton, brother of the bride, and Junior Daugard, brother of the groom. The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedoes.

Flower girls were Lisa Brinton, sister of the bride, and Ellen Burtness of Fertile, niece of the bride. They wore matching empire-style, yellow crepe dresses with yellow lace bodices and sleeves. They carried white baskets of yellow mums. Greg Medland of Humboldt, cousin of the groom, as ringbearer, wore a black tuxedo and carried the rings on a lace covered pillow.

Special guests were Mrs. Mabelle Brinton of Ellsworth, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wilson of Humboldt and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Daugard of Britt, grandparents of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a receptoin was held in the church parlors with Mrs. Idres Hill of Stanhope, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Howard Michaelsen of Standhope, cousin of the bride, as dining room hostesses. Carrie Charlson presided over the guest book.

The bride's personal attendant was Paulette Milligan.

The serving table was laid with satin with a net drape overlay. There were candles on each end of the table and a four-tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Stanley Moe, was the centerpiece. The cake was served by Mrs. Gerhard Fardal and Mrs. Gene Brinton, aunts of the bride, coffee was poured by Mrs. Russell Voga, also an aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Grover Daugard of Britt, aunt of the groom, and Hazel Janssen dipped punch. Gift pages were Deborah Brinton, Nancy and Paul Daugard. Barbara Packard, Sandra Daugard, Jill Stoffer and Mrs. LuVerne Wessels arranged the gifts. Mrs. Shanley Moe was in charge of the reception.

The bride is a graduate of Belmond Community High school and the groom of Crystal Lake High school. Both are attending Waldorf college at Forest City.

NOW AT HOME in Mason City are Mr. and Mrs. Arlo W. Stoltenberg, who were married Aug. 20 at the Methodist church in Thompson. Mrs. Stoltenberg is the former Dianne Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Miller of Thompson. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo H. Stoltenberg. The new bride will graduate in January from the University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls with a B. A. degree in English. Mr. Stoltenberg is an instructor in English at North Iowa Area Community college, Mason City. They are living at Reyburn Court, Highway 65.

COMING EVENTS

THURSDAY, OCT. 5—

WSCS will meet at 1:30 p. m. at the Methodist church.

4-H clubs will observe their national "week"

During the week of Sept. 30 to Oct. 7, two and a quarter million young Americans, 10 to 19 years of age, will again pledge their head, heart, hands and health to serve their club, their community and their country as members of 4-H clubs. They reside in every county in every state. They are equally divided between farm and non-farm residents. The cooperative extension service supervises and conducts the club work, including the training of 372,000 adults and 142,000 junior volunteer leaders.

This youth program also extends to Puerto Rico and to 75 other countries throughout the world who have adopted similar programs.

National 4-H Week gives an opportunity to salute this outstanding informal educational program for its contribution to America — today and tomorrow. In the "new 4-H", the everyday learning experiences or "projects" now offer members more of the reasons "why" for the procedures in project, as well as knowing "how" to do in project work.

More career information is given which helps the young man or woman explore career possibilities in which they may be interested.

Today's 4-H'ers can choose from a hundred experiences. For example, they can select from such varied projects as animal science, food and nutrition, clothing, community beautification, entomology, leadership.

Or 4-H'ers can learn money management, home improvement, personality development, horsemanship, health, safety and community service, and many others.

Clubs in the Belmond area include: Pleasant Peppy Pals, boasting 12 members, and with Mrs. Elmer Waltzing and Mrs. Loren Kalkwarf as leaders; Pleansant Pioneers, 44 members, Bud Boelman and Ben Suntken the leaders.

Iowa U-Go-I-Go, 18 members, with Mrs. Jack Freese and Mrs. John Smith leaders; Iowa Hawkeyes, 32 members, Robert Drury, Sr., and Cecil Hill, leaders. Norway Ramblers, 26 members, Lismore Maland and Garrett Schreur, leaders.

McKee takes over savings bond job

Robert D. McKee, president of the Wright County State bank at Clarion, has been appointed volunteer chairman of the United States saving bonds program for Wright county, replacing E. F. Bisbey. The appointment was made by Jay E. Tone, Jr., Des Moines, volunteer state chairman for savings bonds activities.

Mr. McKee is a graduate of Iowa State university and the Wisconsin School of Banking. He is a past president of the Clarion Development association and the Clarion Community Chest and is currently a member of the county board of education.

"We are very pleased to have Mr. McKee accept this assignment," Tone said. "His banking and organizational experience will prove invaluable to him in his duties as savings bonds chairman. Our sincerest thanks go to Mr. Bisbey for over four years of volunteer service."

Mr. McKee reports availability of a 16-mm color film entitled "The Land We Love" for showing, free of charge, by any organization in Wright county.

The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable: but the mouth of the wicked speaketh frowardness. — Prov. 10:32

NAM wants to rush patent issuance; but why?

It is probably ungentlemanly of us to turn on a benefactor — but every now and then we find among the cartoons and suggested editorials provided to us by the Industrial Press Service one that makes us elevate an eyebrow to "full mast."

The IPS is a service offered free to "America's hometown press" by the National Association of Manufacturers. Understandably, a major purpose is to further the aims and interests of the NAM.

It is rather infrequent we find our own ideas channelled so closely with those of the manufacturers' group that we use a cartoon as offered. Much more often, we "adapt" a cartoon to a purpose completely foreign to its original intent and use it to complement an editorial of strictly local pertinence.

In the September issue of the IPS appeared the accompanying cartoon along with an editorial urging prompt passage of the "Patent Reform Act of 1967." It notes, "A major feature of the bill is the proposed establishment of a first-to-file procedure. Under present law, when two or more inventors separately apply for a patent on the same invention, the question of which has priority often leads to long and costly court proceedings. The new system would give priority to the first person filing an application for a patent, a system that is used by other industrial nations."

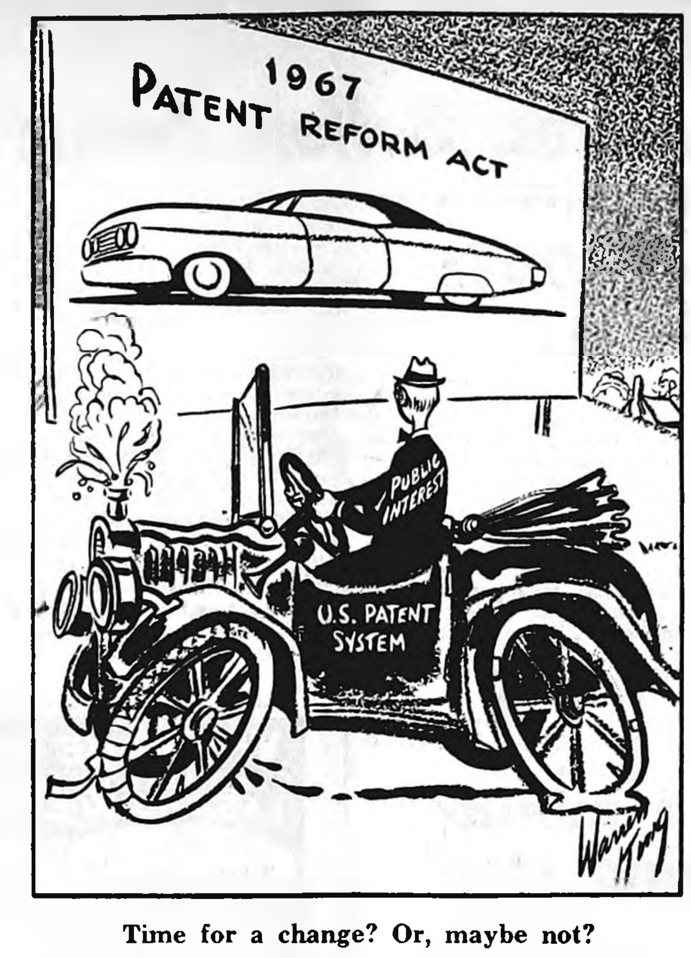
Our first reaction is, if an inventor has spent a great deal of time in developing and perfecting a patentable device and can offer satisfactory proof of having originated the idea, WHY should he lose the privileges of patent to someone else over a technicality in time of filing?

Adds the NAM, "The proposed legislation would also eliminate the present one-year grace period during which a person can produce his invention and at the same time retain the right to file a patent application. Instead, a preliminary application would be used, thus providing a technique for testing the invention in the market place."

To which our reaction once again is, what's the rush? We cannot buy the manufacturers' contention that it is so important to "speed public disclosure of scientific information, and bring the American system into closer harmony with those of other nations."

It's been our impression that the American practice of protecting the fruits of invention has been a strong incentive to the exercise of initiative and imagination. On the other hand, if we interpret the purposes of the proposed legislation correctly, it would appear to leave the way open for an unworldly genius to be denied rewards rightly coming to him by an individual — or a corporation? — more wise in the sharp practices of the business world.

Until having better reason to believe otherwise, we fear we would remain suspicious that the "Patent Reform Act of 1967" may have some additional motives than simply providing "reasonable measures to expedite and enhance the patent system, making it more effective in serving the public interest," as is the NAM's contention.



Time for a change? Or, maybe not?

David Stanley would make fine U. S. Senator

A decidedly favorable impression was made by David Stanley upon the couple of dozen Republicans who gathered at the Town House cafe Thursday morning to make his acquaintance during a local campaign stop. Here is a young man with the dedication and intelligence to make Iowa a truly outstanding U. S. Senator — and also, we suspect, with the determination to attain his objective.

What the plans of Bourke Hickenlooper may be in regard to seeking re-election have not been stated. But he has had a long and illustrious career; if he ran for re-election successfully, he would be 78 years old by the end of his term; and if the lone deterrent to his retirement after next year should be the presence of a competent, prospective successor from the GOP ranks, we would say that he could in good conscience retire and make way for young Mr. Stanley.

The 39-year-old Muscatine lawyer is in the process of conducting a campaign that for thoroughness, organization and pure and simple hard work has never been matched in the history of the state. He has surrounded himself with aides who have proved themselves adept, practical politicians in the best sense of the word. And in view of the uniquely early start he has made in seeking the Republican Senatorial nomination, it seems inevitable that by primary election time he will have met in person more voters than any other candidate for a statewide office EVER has in pursuit of an Iowa nomination.

This, in itself; should be most helpful to him — for he is a personable fellow, pleasant, well-groomed and of serious mein, but entirely approachable. He is frank spoken, gives a deliberate and respectful answer to questions put to him, and is ready to explain his stand on any issue.

In nine years as a state legislator, six as a representative and three as a senator (serving a current term) he has established himself as a distinctly outstanding lawmaker and a leader whose opinions have won high respect from his associates in the Iowa General Assembly.

There is every reason to believe that if his campaign for the senatorial nomination is successful, he will be a tough adversary for ANY Democratic opponent to beat — and that includes Harold Hughes, should the incumbent governor see fit to run for the U. S. Senate.

Projecting even further, if Dave Stanley should obtain the seat in Congress to which he aspires, it seems highly probable that he might become one of the outstanding statesmen in Washington. He is a man of that calibre.

You'll be hearing a great deal about Mr. Stanley in the nearly 12 months between now and next September's primary. There are already many leading Republicans who believe that he has the makings of a national leader and that Iowa is extremely fortunate to have such a man to place in office. On the strength of his record, and on the basis of brief, initial acquaintanceship, we're readily inclined to share this sentiment.

Clipped Comment

From the Typewriters of Other Editors

Calls tax law "colossal mess"

The state tax commission has labored, and brought forth a mouse instead of the elephant the legislature passed in putting a sales tax on new contruction.

The tax commission ruled that what Commissioner Potter meant in writing the section was really on repair construction instead of on all construction. This despite the fact Mr. Potter repeatedly stated his intent was to tax all construction.

Then the tax commission decided that the only advertising to be taxed was by those in Iowa, not those outside of Iowa. The commission said an advertiser who placed advertising in national magazines not published in Iowa would be expected to pay direct to the state of Iowa a tax on the portion of that advertising according to the circulaion in Iowa.

ANYWAY THAT'S WHAT THE news reports say the tax commission decided, but there were some doubts even about the wording of that ruling.

It can be imagined the enthusiasm Maytag, John Deere, Massey-Ferguson, Firestone, Alcoa and similar manufacturing interests in Iowa will have in rushing to pay the state on the tremendous volume of advertising done in national publications, on radio and television.

The commission chickened on collecting tax from concerns outside of Iowa who advertise in Iowa publications such as Wallaces Farmer by saying it was up to the publisher to collect it.

NEXT THE LAW GOES TO THE attorney-general's office for consideration on its constitutionality. There is a real question the legislature delegated too much authority to the tax commission.

This is readily apparent when the commission decided new construction isn't to be taxed even though the law itself as passed definitely included new construction. The commission thus took on an authority to change the law by making a rule.

The attorney general can either rule it constitutional or unconstitutional in an opinion. The opinion, no matter which way it goes, is certain to be appealed by affected people.

THIRD, THE RULES AS ADOPTED by the commission are subject to a review by a legislative interim committee on rules. While the committee can not write a rule it can disapprove of a rule thus forcing the tax commission to rewrite the rule.

The entire tax matter is a mess. It is now revealed it was actually written in 12 hours by Commissioner Potter, a Richard Metcalf, and some unidentified "state officials." It also appears the legislators didn't have much idea what was in it until after they had been badgered into passing it in 50 hours including sleeping time.

Talk about a credibility gap — it's getting bigger and bigger as facts about its writing and sponsorship come out in the open piece by piece.

It takes effect in a couple of weeks — but who knows what is in it, what is taxed and what isn't? —Algona Advance

Music to invest by

A television station in Oklahoma City has been granted permission to broadcast background music along with its visual transmission of stock ticker tape, and a wide range of musical selection should be offered by an active securities market. A sharp rise in an offering migh appropriately be accompanied by "We're in the Money," a sharp drop by "Moanin' Low."

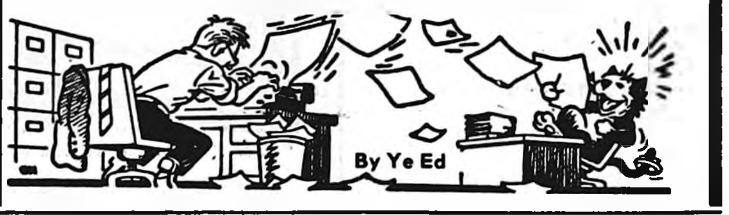
For a highly speculative market there is ample choice among, "Anything Goes," "All or Nothing at All," and "Fools Rush In," or perhaps a combination of all three. A slowly falling security could be backgrounded with "Stop, You're Breaking My Hear."

FOR THE UNHAPPY WIPED-out the sound effects could be either sympathetic, "Among My Souvenirs," or hard-boiled, "Where Was Moses When the Lights Went Out?", or consolatory, "Don't Let It bother You."

News of a juicy split-up of shares would be a good occasion for playing "The Best Things in Life are Free" — a merger that has sent prices soaring, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds . . . "

And for the investor whose margin has been eroded, and who can expect to be hearing from his broker any minute, the only possible choice would be "Somewhere a Voice is Calling." — St. Louis Post-Dispatch

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT



By Ye Ed

"I notice the powers-that-be in Congress — or perhaps I should say, the would-be powers — are again pushing for holidays all to fall on a Monday," commented TJ, the office cat, as we deposited our carcass in front of the typewriter and rolled a sheet of paper into position. The prospects of getting some work done appeared dim, until the feline had had his say, so we gave him our attention.

"Weekly newspapers would probably be in favor," we told him. "Mid-week holidays sometimes play hob with advertising lineage and mailing schedules. Anyway, there's nothing sacred about quite a few of the holiday dates — or even accurate.

"Like, f'rinstance, George Washington was actually born on February 11, not the 22nd. And the Declaration of Independence was signed on July 5th, not the 4th. Even December 25th as the date for celebrating Christ's birth was a very arbitrary matter, the actual date being unknown. And as for Thanksgiving — there's nothing in the book saying you have to be thankful on a Thursday."

"ANY ARGUMENT," TJ ASKED, "about New Year's Day falling on January 1st? Don't see how they can kick THAT around. On the other hand, I don't suppose it would do any harm to let Memorial Day float around a little. In general, it'd look like maybe there's be more logic to squaring holidays off on Monday than a lot of other things done in Congress."

"Even the calendar, itself," we observed, "has come in for considerable overhaul in its day. It had gotten in pretty sorry shape when Julius Caesar decided to do something about it, 'way back in 45 B. C. Before then, a year was assumed to cover exactly 365 days.

"Since a year is actually five hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds longer than that, it gradually came about that winter was starting with gardens still in bloom and fall was commencing about the time crops were being cultivated."

TJ SUGGESTED WITH A GRIN, "And Julius regarded it a little ridiculous to be getting out the Roman equivalent of long-Johns in July, just because the calendar said it was time?"

"Something like that," we agreed. "Anyway, he introduced the Julian calendar, which got the months and the sun back into jibe by providing that an extra day be tossed into every fourth year. Thus Leap Year was born — and the Sadie Hawkins concept of courtship came about in due time."

"But if my arithmetic is right," TJ prptested, "he should have added only about 23 hours, 14 minutes. Pile up a few centuries, and you'd have trouble again, wouldn't you?"

"SMART CAT!" WE APPROVED. "Every 128 years the world gained a day. And while this was nothing to bother Julius Caesar, by the time Gregory was Pope in 1583 the calendar was 10 days off the beat. Things weren't the mess they'd been back when Caesar took matters in hand, but the lag bothered Gregory, nevertheless.

"So . . . ?" queried the cat. "How'd Gregory get around THAT one? Just take an eraser to the calendar?"

"Fact of the matter is," we replied, "he did just about that. He just up and abolished 10 days and in October of 1583 the time jumped from October 4th to the 15th. Like presto! And to keep things from getting muddled up all over again, the Pope ruled that Leap Year should NOT occur in years ending in 00 EXCEPT when a centennial year is divisable by 400 — like'll be the case in the year 2000.

"THIS GOT THINGS ON A pretty even keel, although the Gregorian calendar stille fails by 26 seconds a year to coincide with sun time. So in only 3,323 years — from the time Gregory took matters in hand — the calendar will be off ANOTHER full day.

"Consequently, scientists advise skipping an EXTRA day in centenary years divisable by 4,000. That would get the cumulative error down to one day every 20,000 years and really seems, all in all, sufficient unto the need thereof."

TJ nodded solemnly, saying, "This, obviously, is an issue with which the world must come to grips before the year 4000 rolls around. Any progress being made?"

"If people don't get smarter in the next couple of thousand years than they have in the 2,000-plus since Julius Caesar broached the Leap Year matter, there may be nobody around to be concerned," we answered, turning to our labors.

* Omitting blocked punt

Belmond's Broncos kept their undefeated streak going Friday night at Britt but saw their chain of victories halted as Coach Russ King's fired-up Eagles gave the Broncos very nearly more than they could handle before a last-gasp rally by Belmond salvaged a 14-14 tie.

In the first half, Belmond uncertainty progressed steadily after an early scoring opportunity went down the drain; while the rampaging Eagles proceeded to take the play almost entirely away from the stumbling Broncos. The end result was to be clearly read in the halftime statistics: Britt had eight 1st downs to Belmond's three; and the Eagles piled up 145 yards to only 70 for the Blue-and-White team.

Paulo Canineu — who clinched his place in the hearts of Bronco fans with a clutch conversion that brought the tie score — kicked off to Britt at the game's start and Carl DeWaard returned to the 24. A third-down fumble, though recovered by Britt, forced a kick and the punt was blocked. Mack Gabrielson recovered on the Eagle's 16.

Early opportunity lost

Two tries at the line by Klinefelter netted eight yards — then with 3rd-and-two on the eight-yard line a pass was tried and produced a four-yard loss when Don Havens was unable to get it away. With hopes for a TD dashed, Canineu was called in for a field goal try which hit the east upright and bounced harmlessly to the turf.

What the impact of a Belmond touchdown in the first four minutes of play might have been on the game will never be known. But there's no question about what effect the turn of events had on the delighted Eagles. From their own 20, they marched downfield for the first score on a series of 17 downs.

John Camp goes over

Along the line, they were helped by a 15-yard penalty when a Bronco grabbed the ball-carrier's face mask, by a couple of passes that netted 18 yards jointly, and by an 11-yard jaunt on the part of John Camp. A five-yard penalty for illegal procedure was declined by Belmond at the seven when the count was second and goal to go. Gary Passmore hit for six on the next play and then Camp dived over from the one. Bill Rasmuson's kick for point was good and Britt led 7-0 with 1:59 left in the first quarter.

After the ensuing kickoff, Belmond picked up an easy 1st down on three running plays, then went to the air and Havens' first pass was hauled down by Pete Dallman and returned to Britt's 37. Britt immediately racked up 33 yards on five plays to make it 2nd-and-five on Belmond's 30. Here the Broncos held for downs, gaining the ball on their 26.

Britt drive barely misses

Another pass was tried on the first play — and once again young Dallman was on the receiving end, sprinting all the way back to Belmond's 20. Quarterback Roger Haxton punched for five and on the same play a personal foul call on a Bronco added eight more to make it 1st-and-goal on the seven. DeWaard made four of it, then was held without gain on two more tries. Camp took charge at the three; but his plunge was declared by the officials to have ended four inches short of the double-stripe.

Belmond failed to get out of the hole, and on fourth down Jim Studebaker punted from the five to the 47 — a Bronco illegal procedure penalty being declined. A pass, Camp to Tom Love, brought a 1st-and 10 on the 29; but Gene Pals then dumped Camp for a nine-yard loss and Glen Gabrielson immediately backed him up another seven. After a pass failed, Camp launched a punt that Mike Klinefelter thought would reach the end zone and let sail past him. It was stopped by an Eagle pursuer six inches from the goal.

Belmond picked up a couple of 1st downs before the halftime gun, but the intermission found the Broncos with an embarrassing 7-0 deficit to talk about. Coach Chuck Stalker must have gotten in some effective oratory during the rest period, because it took just a minute and 23 seconds for the Broncos to square the court after play resumed.

Stan Korthas returned the Britt kickoff to Belmond's 37. Hawley picked up eight yards and Klinefelter two for a 1st down; then Lee Barkema — who's a long way from being a speedster — burst through the left side of the Britt line, got some excellent downfield blocking, and finally outlegged a final defender to go 53 yards for the equilizing tally. Paulo's educated toe made the score 7-7.

Britt stopped on 10

Britt was unable to get a march started after the ensuing kickoff and on 4th down a punt was sent sailing 50 yards to the Belmond 15. Hawley picked up 11 yards in two carries; then a signal went awry and Britt glued onto a Bronco fumble on the 27, John Dale recovering the pigskin. Britt went to the 11 on three plays, with the aid of an offside penalty against Belmond; but the Broncos then toughened up and took over on the 10.

After gaining two 1st downs, Belmond was forced to punt. Britt stormed back to the Belmond 36 but proceeded to lose three yards in as many downs and punted to

Bison clobbered Forest City—

Next for Broncos, Buffalo Center

Coach Claude Post at Buffalo Center has no doubt discovered by now that no great problem is involved in getting the Bison whipped up to an enthusiastic pitch in prospect of meeting the Belmond Broncos on the gridiron. They'll have at it tomorrow night on Faris Field at 8:00 o'clock.

Although the Broncs can point to 20 victories and a tie in the 30-game series with Buffalo Center, the Bison have given Belmond a lot more trouble than those nine defeats might suggest. And even during Belmond's unbroken skein of wins, Buffalo Center has probably thrown as many scares into the Blue-and-White gridders as any foe on their schedule.

Even when Bronco teams were at the peak of their power during this streak, they several times found themselves viewing embarrasing deficits that were wiped out by playing the best football of which they were capable.

Coach Post has 10 lettermen back from the Bison aggregation that suffered its only defeat of the '66 season at Belmond's hands. One of his finest performers was not a letter-winner last year as a freshman — Pat Costigan of the athletically famous Costigan clan.

With Costigan at one end and veteran Jon Holland at the other, plus Dewayne Torkelson at wingback, Quarterback Randy Berhow has a set of pass-receivers that helps make effective a running attack paced by a speedy, little scatback, Gary Rippentrop.

Except for Ike Garst (185 lbs.) at guard and LeRoy Hinz (195) at tackle, the Bison line is a bit on the light side; but this has frequently been the case in the past, when Buffalo Center has nonetheless given its Belmond adversaries all they wanted in the way of competition.

Home field advantage will be the Broncos' Friday night; but they will do well to recollect happenings on the same gridiron a half dozen years ago when the Bison took on a highly favored Belmond aggregation. The end of the evening found the Broncos with an impressive edge in first down, 13 to six, with other statistics corresponding.

But the scoreboard read: Buffalo Center 19, Belmond 7.

Belmond has 5 minutes to get over tying score

the Bronco nine. A clipping penalty put it back on the 4½ — and the Broncos were once again in a hole. Three plays netted 51 yards, a 32-yarder by Klinefelter being the big gainer, and it looked as if the Blue-and-White brigade was on its way.

Bad center pass costly

On the next play, Camp injured a trick knee and had to leave the game. Instead of being disheartened, the Eagles seemed to gain new resolve and a Belmond punt was forced from Britt's 44. The center pass was a bad one and went sailing over Studebaker's head, Britt getting possession at midfield.

This break appeared to take all the zing out of the Broncs, and Jerry Steenlage went all the way to Belmond's 17 in just two carries. From there, five plays sufficed to get Britt on the scoreboard again, DeWaard going over from the one. Rasmuson's kick was declared good by the referee and Belmond once again trailed, 14-7, with only five minutes and 28 second left on the clock.

Klinefelter returned the kickoff to Belmond's 35 — and all the chips were down. Havens proved very definitely that he's "coming" as a quarterback in the drive that followed. On a 4th-down play he rolled out for four crucial yards to make it 1st-and-10 on Belmond's 48. He tossed a strike to Joel Gabrielson that gave the Broncos a 1st down on Britt's 30.

Hawley and Klinefelter divided honors in making it 1st-and-10 on the 17; then, trapped on a pass attempt, Havens scrambled for four yards and went out of bounds to stop the clock with exactly two minutes left. It looked very much like the end of the road for the Broncos when the next two downs netted only five yards, which were wiped out by a penalty for too much time in the huddle.

The clock showed 1:05 when Havens began scouting for a receiver in the end zone, sped out of the grasp of a would-be tackler, and lofted on accurate toss to Terry Nelson in touchdownland. Paul briskly booted the conversion kick between the uprights and the tally was 14-14 with 59 seconds remaining.

A short kickoff went only to Britt's 40; but the Broncos held for downs and were in possession of the ball when the gun sounded — with their defeatless record marred but still unbroken.

Bronco defense inconsistent

Belmond's defense looked so good at times, it was hard to believe that it could be so ineffectual at others. Greg Fuller, the Gabrielson brothers — Mack and Glen — Greg Steenblock and Dennis Knoll all had a share in the heroics when they were going on. An amazing asset to the Bronco defense was little Bill Broshar, who played like a man's man in contributing several highly important tackles. Gene Pals accounted for several vital stops, too.

For Britt, 155-lb. Gary Passmore as linebacker was a continual fly in the Broncos' soup. Ron Swaney (155), Wayne Johnson (175), Larry Olsen (165) and Tom May (155) showed that heft isn't all-essential, while Phil Sweers (245) on several occasions demonstrated that beef can be useful.

It was, in a sense, a "moral victory" for both teams. Certainly great credit belonged to the Eagles for coming so close to an upset. At the same time, you couldn't take it away from the Broncos that they battled back successfully with their backs to the wall.

Corn Yields and Profits Hinge on Timely Spring Operations

Successful corn growers have found that high corn yields and profits are dependent on how well they planned all their spring operations during the fall and winter. Why is this planning so important?

If one checks the rainfall records during April, he will find an average of only eight days sufficiently dry to allow spring plowing. Yet, research and farmer experience have shown that corn yields are generally highest when planted in late April or early May. Corn yields generally decrease 1.5 to 2.0 bushels per acre each day planting is delayed after May 10. This delay means a loss of corn profit.

A list of each operation needed before planting corn and the days required to complete the job will show that farmers are usually rushed for enough good days in the spring. How do you save these important spring days for final seedbed preparation and early planting for highest yields?

Begin now by planning your complete corn production program for next year. Set your yield goal. Have your soil analyzed to determine the amount and kinds of fertilizer needed to produce that yield.

The fertilizer recommendation will include broadcast application and starter fertilizer to be applied. Save the available spring days for planting. Apply the broadcast fertilizer as soon as your present crop is removed and plow the land this fall. In this way, fall-applied fertilizers are safely stored in the soil and at a depth where corn roots will have adequate nutrition for sturdy growth.

Fall applied fertilizers and fall plowing are the first important steps to save valuable spring days for planting corn which will produce maximum yields and profits.

Drop by your local CFS plant today. Ask the plant manager about the complete CFS PLAN-AND-PROFIT CORN PROGRAM. It is an easy step-by-step way to grow more corn. It's based on a simple premise: Keep your soil fertility high, control all the controllable factors that effect the quality and quantity of your corn crops, and you'll raise better corn and more of it. The major step is: FERTILIZE THIS FALL.

Time To Spare

By GERALD ANDREWS - Retirement Adviser

The Cost of Mobility —

If you've decided to have a fling at life on the open road, with your faithful spouse beside you, that gleam in your eye probably means that there's a mobile home in your future. That's fine by me. I've got quite a few friends among the nomads of the highway. And I know how much they like the life.

So I'm not going to try to talk you out of it. I'd just like to say that since you'll be spending money whatever you do, wherever you go, it's smart to figure out how much before you have to reach for your wallet. Bear in mind that the states have different laws — about license plates, to mention an obvious example.

Mobile home owners I've talked to, agree it's better to pay at one fell swoop, if you have the wherewithal. Buying on time always pushes costs upward, what with the interest added to the principal. Don't forget that you don't escape from some of the bills you're accustomed to — insurance, taxes, utilities.

Varying Costs —

And there will be extraordinary costs you've never had to meet before. Park space can run from below forty dollars a month to more than one hundred, in case you happen to have country club tastes.

Maintenance, on the other hand, is a pleasure compared to a house — no painting, reshingling, or water in the basement. If you're half way adept at repairs, you can keep maintenance a strictly do-it-yourself proposition.

The moving pattern seems to be changing in the direction of fixed abodes. The mobile home owner now prefers to leave the old one behind, buy a new one at the next camp, and start all over again. This, needless to say, can be costly or profitable, depending on how good a horse trader you are.

It isn't hard to find some one anxious to make a deal as long as you stick to the popular, well-appointed camps. Mobility is America's middle name. We've been on the go ever since the colonials first plunged into the forest and kept moving west. We may be a bit fonder of the comforts these days, but we're still on the go — as you'll find when you become the proud possessor of a mobile home.

AGAINST HARVESTING FIRES

CARRY AN EXTINGUISHER

Harvest time holds the greatest danger of fire in the fields. Guard against personal injury and property damage by carrying a fire extinguisher on your equipment.

As a service to members, we have dry chemical fire extinguishers in sizes suitable for harvesting machinery—2½ to 5-lb. for tractors and 5 to 10-lb. for self-propelled equipment. These extinguishers are especially effective against gasoline and electrical fires.
